The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry has made him her Dream Prince.

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meets Miles and Terry at Monte Carlo, and recognizes in the supposed Million Dollar Doll, Terry Desmond whom he had met back in New York. In love with the girl, himself, he is relieved to learn that Miles' conduct toward Terry has been most chivalrous.

Mrs. Harkness, Miles' old servant, takes care of Terry on board the yacht.

Miss Caroline Sheridan, meeting the couple at Monte Carlo, endeavors to dissuade Miles from his disgraceful project. She writes to Betty of Terry's beauty and charm.

Miles, dining in Algiers with Terry, whom he does not recognize as the little girl he befriended so long ago, see Paul de Salvano with a group of strangers.

On the way to Bousaada, Miles realizes that he loves "Juliet Divine."

Miles asks the girl if she is capable of love.

CHAPTER LXIII

Terry drew in her breath with a little gasp. "I—think so," she answered almost in a whisper. Her hands were on the rail, grasping it tightly. Sheridan laid his hand over the one nearest him, and pressed it.

"Girl" he said, "I don't know what you've done to me. But it's something very big. It's limitless. I'm not sure it doesn't mean the best thing that ever came into my life. Is it possible that I've done anything like that to you?"

She knew that he was looking at her, but she could not lift her head. "Yes. Yes, you have," she murmured.

He turned abruptly, took her by the shoulders, and made her face him. "Do you mean—you love me?" he said.

"Very, very much."

He could scarcely hear the words; but he felt that he could have read them if he had been deaf. The girl's slim shoulders pulsed and throbbed in his grasp; and it seemed as if the desert spirits had wrapped them together in a blue, star-embroidered veil, scented with wild thyme.

The sun had gone. Night had come; and it was theirs.

"My darling, darling girl," Sheridan whispered, close to the bent head. "I didn't know there was such a force as this love of mine for you. It's immense—above everything, greater than anything. You've got to belong to me. Oh—don't misunderstand, for God's sake

"When I'm free—when my wife has divorced me—I'm going to marry you—if you love me enough for that. Then you and I can live in a desert if we like. All the world can be ours, except the silly world of society and cities, where people gossip and backbite. Do you love me enough for that?"

"I love you enough for anything" Terry answered, in a soft, clear voice. "Anything—if it wouldn't hurt you. But I love you too much to hurt you. Tell me—" she pushed him off with both hands on his breast, when he would have held her close, "tell me, is there something about—about the special kind of girl you think I am, that would hurt you if—we—if I were with you always?"

The question was the last that Miles would have expected from Juliet Divine. He was taken aback by it for an instant, but only for an instant.

"Things like—what you mean, don't hurt a man in any way that matters to him, if he loves a woman as I love you," he said. "You'd be making as much of a sacrifice as I would, if we married, because—for happiness and peace of mind—we'd have to live out of the whirl that's been your life up to now.

"But if you can forget the past and not regret it, I swear to you that it shall be blotted out for me. The present will be ours, and the future. The one question is: are you sure of yourself?"

"Oh, a thousand times, about loving you" the girl said. "But—but there are things about myself I'd have to tell you, if—if—you really wanted to marry me, some day. I'd give anything to tell them now, but I'm afraid it would be wrong and disloyal to someone else. I wish I could tell It seems as if I must I—"

"Don't" Sheridan cut her short. "Don't speak of it. I don't want to hear anything at all. I've known you for two months. Juliet—two months that seem now to have meant more to me than as many years. And I'm convinced—not by reason, but by what I feel about you—that your real self—your soul—whatever one chooses to call it—has triumphed over—everything. I've got the real you And you've got all there is of me. That's enough. Nothing else is going to count. Will you forgive me for my brutishness on the yacht?"

"As if there was anything to forgive" Terry cried. "But I do want to tell you. I'll write a letter, to find out if I can. It may be weeks before I get an answer, but—"

"Weeks are for nothing, except to be happy in, and blot out whatever mars our peace—this vast, beautiful peace of the desert," Miles said. "We shall be engaged people, Juliet, with Harky to chaperone us.

"God I'd give my right hand now if I hadn't used you as—as a kind of decoy on this trip. I can't bear to think how your name will be dragged into print, and how—you'll be misjudged. But what's done is done.

"As things are, I don't see that there's anything I can do to dam the cataract. Besides, if I hadn't brought you on board for the one purpose, I should never have met you at all; Juliet, I shouldn't have lived"

"I don't care what people say about me, if you don't care," Terry comforted him. "Even the nuns—you know, they believe it's horribly wrong for people to marry if they've been divorced. They think it's no marriage at all. Of course I know nothing about such things. But I have thoughts.

"My thoughts tell me that marriage can't be real marriage without love. If you didn't love Mrs. Sh—if you didn't love your wife, or she you, then that wasn't marriage, and—ours will be. I'd be sorry to have the dear nuns think me wicked; but still—they don't matter, no one matters, beside you."

Miles laughed. "I should hope not" he said.

The blue veil that had wrapped them away from spying eyes, was dark purple now. They were safe in it. "Safe" was a beautiful word

Sheridan crushed the girl in his arms, and kissed her for the first time, a long, long kiss, sweet as the honey of Hymettus, and pure as a boy's prayer.

QUIZ CORNER

CANADA AS A MOTOR COUNTRY.

Q—To what extent is Canada a motor country?

A—Canada's car registration has doubled in four years, being over half a million now, giving it third place in per capita ownership of automobile, or one to every 1001 people.

STANDARD TIME IN CANADA.

Q—What is Standard Time in Canada?

A—Standard time is used throughout Canada during the year, summer time having been adapted by only a few cities.

Standard time is divided into the following five divisions—each an hour earlier than that to its eastward—according to degrees of longitude; Atlantic 60 degrees-70degrees Eastern 75-90 degrees; Central, 90-105 degrees; Mountain 105-120 degrees; Pacific, 120 degrees and westward.

When it is noon at Halifax it is 11 a.m. at Toronto, 10 a.m. at Winnipeg, 9 a.m., at Vancouver.

When it is noon at London, England, it is 7 a.m. at Montreal.

CANADA'S NAVIGABLE RIVERS AND LAKES

Q. —What is the extent of Canada's navigable rivers and lakes?

A.—Canada has over 3000 miles of navigable rivers and lakes, the chief being the St. Lawrence River and the four Great Lakes of Ontario, Erie, Huron and Superior.

CANADA'S SEA-FISHING AREAS

Q.—What is the extent of Canada's Sea-Fishing Areas?

A.—Two of the four great sea fishing areas of the world border on Canada. In addition, the lakes and river of the Dominion constitute approximately half the fresh water of the globe, while the great inland sea of Hudson Bay, still practically untouched, may be regarded as a reserve. Their actual extent alone suffices to render these various fishing areas remarkable.

The Atlantic coast line, from Labrador to the boundary between the United States and Canada, measures over 5,000 miles, —not including the lesser bays and indentations. The Pacific shore-line is over 7,000 miles long. The fresh water lakes of the interior constitute an area of 220,000 square makes Canada's share of the Great Lakes alone covering 34,000 square miles.

Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes:—

"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."

YOUNG DAUGHTER MADE WELL

Mother Tells How Her Daughter Suffered and Was Made Well by Lia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vancouver, B. C.—"My daughter is a young girl, who has been having severe pains and weak and dizzy feelings for some time and had lost her appetite. Through an older daughter who had heard of a woman who was using it for the same trouble, we were told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My daughter has been taking it for several months and is quite all right now. It has done all that is represented to do and we have told a number of friends about it. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, for I myself take it for the weak, tired, worn-out feeling that sometimes comes to us all. I find it builds me up and I strongly recommend it to women who are suffering as I and my daughter have."—Mrs. McDONALD, 2947 26th Ave. East Vancouver, B. C.

POTATOES

If possible to store potatoes for winter use the housekeeper will find it very much worth her while. It always pays to buy foods or commodities of any sort in as large quantities as possible and potatoes, apples, cabbage, turnips, carrots, winter beets, winter squash and pumpkins can be stored to advantage.

A family of two can use five bushels of potatoes during the winter months. This means two persons with average appetites, eating normally. A larger family will, of course, store vegetables in proportion to the size of the family and their needs.

Baked potatoes are an excellent food. All the valuable mineral salts are preserved in the baking. In the fall when potatoes are perfectly ripe and freshly dug there is no better way of serving them than baked in their "jackets."

A small stiff brush is most convenient to use for scrubbing potatoes. If the skins are carefully washed and scrubbed they are the best part of the potato to many persons.

Choose smooth medium-sized potatoes, scrub until perfectly clean. Put in a hot oven and bake an hour. If the skins are preferred tender and soft to crisp, rub potatoes with butter when putting in the oven. Serve baked potatoes immediately in an uncovered vegetable dish.

Children and invalids may eat baked potato when other kinds are taboo.

Twice-baked potatoes are a bit "different" and very good to serve with a light meat course.

With a roast, potatoes roasted with the meat are served.

Mashed potatoes are served with steaks or roasts or meats cooked in such a way that gravies are made.

Twice-Baked Potatoes.

Four smooth medium-sized potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons hot milk, grated cheese, paprika,

Wash and scrub potatoes. Bake an hour in a moderately hot oven. Remove from oven and cut a slice from one end of each potato. Scoop out inside and mash in a hot bowl. Add butter, salt, pepper and milk and beat with a slotted spoon until light. The amount of milk varies somewhat with the age and variety of the potato. Fill potato shells with mixture, sprinkle with grated cheese and a dash of paprika and put in a hot oven to melt and brown the cheese. Serve immediately.

Potatoes Roasted With Meat.

Wash and pare potatoes. If very large cut in half. Drop in boiling water and boil, uncovered, 15 minutes. Drain and plunge in cold water. Drain. Put in roaster with meat, sprinkle with salt and pepper and roast 30 to 40 minutes. Baste with drippings in roaster. The potatoes should brown while roasting, but if all the time is needed for the meat brown the potatoes under the flame of a gas stove after they are tender and well basted.

When paring potatoes take as thin a paring as possible. The most of the mineral salts lie close under the skin and these are lost if a thick paring is taken.

Mashed Potatoes.

Four medium-sized potatoes, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, milk.

The secret of perfect mashed potatoes does not lie in the extravagant use of butter or cream but in the cooking and mashing of the potato.

Wash potatoes and pare thinly. Cut in uniform size. Drop in boiling water and cook uncovered until potatoes are tender when pierced with a fork. If the outside of the potato breaks and cooks away before potatoes are tender in the center add cold water. This drives the heat to the center of th potato and stops cooking on the outside.

When tender drain and shake before an open door or window for a minute. Mash THOROUGHLY, keeping hot by the side of the fire. Mash and beat in butter, salt and pepper. When perfectly smooth beat in milk. If a wire beater is used beat vigorously over the fire for one or two minutes. Serve at once. If the potatoes are mashed with a wooden masher or put through a ricer beat in butter, milk and seasoning with a slotted spoon.

Some potatoes absorb more milk than others and as potatoes become older they take up more milk.

"New," unripe potatoes will not mash satisfactorily.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

TOBACCO

Users of the weed claim that tobacco is a great help in mental work where the effort is sustained and a stimulant needed. On the contrary, six great educational institutions in our country, by carefully grouping tobacco statistics, have proved that such as not the fact.

If a boy or man is in normal health there is nothing of more vital importance to his physical well-being and mental balance than the full supply of oxygen to the lungs. Deep breathing will provide the system with more power and disease resistant qualities than any other separate bodily process.

In a smoker of medium habits, the loss of oxygen power or lung capacity is reduced 10 per cent. There is no doubt that the poisonous effect of nicotin, in the medium or heavy smokers, produces arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries).

Nicotin in tobacco is known to excite and stimulate the adrenal glands to excessive secretion. This excess affects the blood vessels. It constricts them in heavy smokers to a marked degree, affecting arterial and heart action. This means shortening of life.

If its sedative effects are a solace to men and women, all well and good. But the little solace and pleasure it affords does not stop the user's deterioration in mental and physical health. The pleasure is costly.

It might be a good thing to put the use of tobacco on an exact dosage limit and apply it therapeutically.

LOCAL WAR VETERANS' CAMPAIGN

Within the last few days there has appeared in the Examiner a letter from Major N. H. Sutton, President of the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association; also a news item from Ottawa to the effect that, due to lack of funds the General Secretary, Mr. G. C. MacNeil, had been forced to resign.

These items are of more than passing interest to returned soldiers, and their dependents, also to a majority of the citizens of the County and City of Peterboro.

The situation as regards the financial exhaustion of the Dominion Command, will be rectified shortly. Assistance is being forwarded, or promised, from all parts of the Dominion. The publication of the fact that all funds available had been expended, due to the late Pension Inquiry, instituted and carried out by them, but not aid for by them, only adds a greater burden to the physically fit returned soldiers in their self-imposed task of seeing to it that justice is obtained for the physically unfit comrade and the wives and dependents of deceased comrades.

The local situation is in no way coupled with that of the Dominion Command unless it be that we have not paid as large a share towards expenses as we should considering the importance of this district.

Cast our thoughts back some nine years ago. At that time we had recruited the first contingent and long long before that corps left our shores a large number of men were over from Canada and into the fight. These men were British and French Reservists, who had settled in Canada making it their permanent home. Without warning they were called to the colors and responded the day that war was declared to a man.

It is needless to recall the recruiting of the subsequent troops. The several corps were raised, partly trained and despatched to the front as soon as possible. No body of troops ever left our city or district without the promise of those remaining that their dear ones would be looked after. The average citizen on every occasion that he has had the opportunity has given of his substance and his sympathy. A majority of the employers have fairly well looked after the employment of the physically fit returned men, and have been patient with him until he has partially recovered from his trip to "Hell" and back. The people have elected representatives to Parliament and have instructed them to provide decently for those who have suffered dihability from the war. Unfortunately those appointed by Parliament to represent the common people in this work have adopted the principle that they are in the position of watch dogs of the treasury instead of the means of passing out to those entitled the "blessings of life and hope" provided by a grateful people.

These facts were fully established during the recent investigation and an appeal board with soldiers as advisers, has been appointed to deal with these unfortunate cases.

Peterboro County raised some 4,000 troops during the late war, and their losses for deaths and wounds was as high as any part of the Empire. Those killed or severely wounded have to a great extent been fairly well looked after, thanks to the organization of the Great War Veterans' Association. There has been a large number of claims adjusted through the local offices. Indeed this has amountd to the very large sum of $350,000. The members have maintained at their own expense a permanent secretary who worked for all returned men, soldiers' widows or dependents, irrespective of whether they were members of the organization or not. Possibly a few non-members have not had such service; if so, it was due to reasons that the Association were not responsible for.

The good people of Peterboro have given to the returned men in various ways some $20,000. This was expended in a Community Home or Hall, containing offices, recreation rooms and assembly hall. The membership through their dues and earnings have completed the necessary amount to pay for the hall and fixtures and to-day there is a property (including furniture and fixtures) worth $50,000 clear of all debt..

"The real property of each branch or command shall, through its trustees, be liable only for t he debts and engagements of such branch or command. Neither the Dominion Command nor any Provincial Command shall have any rights in the assets of any local branch, etc."

In adition the members have expended in gifts or loans over $8,000 in assistance to less fortunate comrades or their families. They have, and are, paying back to the city treasury taxes of over $200 per year. There has been financed a football team that for years have won cups and championships. A brass band was also organized and handed over intact to the military authorities. During the fuel shortage last year the association purchased and distributed a large quantity of wood, those financially able paying for the same at cost. A public cenotaph has been erected and maintained. This, with the 1886 Memorial in Central Park and also the graves in both cemeteries are decorated on two Sundays in each year. Annual church parades are held in the several churches. Armistice day has been appropriately celebrated by the holding of a Memorial Service, followed by a more joyful service for those living. Successful sales of "Poppies" have been held for the benefit of French orphans, and later for hte Soldiers' Aid Fund. The rooms have been given free to the Babies Clinic for several years.

All the above activities and numberless others have been financed without a call on public funds. When we went to the council in 1919 for a grant towards the building fund we promised them verbally that we would not appeal to the citizens for further funds. This promise has been carried out even to abandoning the annual tag day which was a source of annual revenue of about $1200. One very successful source of revenue has been lost due to the fact that the late Attorney General strictly enforced the law as to holding draws. For years we made some $1,000 on a draw for a car. This was held to be a crime, and we had to discontinue it.

The purpose of this letter is not an appeal to the citizens of the county or city for funds. We ask of you, everyone, sympathy and your influence to assist those in need of possibly a friendly boost, a good word, a job, patience to their faults, and a great big brotherly interest in all our undertakings at the rooms. Be one with us—it will do us both good.

To our comrades in the C.E.F., B.E.F., or any allied unit, to all ex-soldiers or those eligible for membership we ask you to see the secretary or any of the canvassers and sign on again for duration. There is not one of us who knows how soon our time may come. The fees with rents and other possible earnings will enable us to carry on until we have provided for all those in distress from any cause.

A number of the older officers, who have more or less efficiently carried on for the last five years, have dropped out of office, and there is room for any worker who has the will. Even with all the kicking, the complaints, the failures and mistakes the work has been interesting, and one feels a certain satisfaction, though possibly there is very little thanks.

Signs and Omens

"When the wind moans it is extremely bad luck to burn trash near the house."

Chief George Gimblett, referring to the practice so prevalent in the city of burning leaves and rubbish in the street and in back yards, said he cannot understand the objection people have to informing him of their intentions. "It is not a matter of begging permission to burn the rubbish," he said, "but of notifying the Fire Department. We know when conditions are particularly dangerous and the householder should be glad of a warning at the proper time. No one is refused the right to burn leaves or rubbish provided he does no endanger the property of others."

During fire prevention week, before setting the match to that pile of rubbish, call 24 and tell the Fire Chief your bon-fire is ready for the match.

Welsh Male Glee Singers

(By Jeannette).

"Five hundred people" was the report of the official ticket-taker at Murray Street Baptist Church last evening, recording attendance at the concert given by the Rhondda Welsh Male Glee Singers, who, during two and one-half hours of vocal music, entertained and delighted an attentive audience.

Everything that has been said of the art of these talented singers was borne out by the quality of last evening's programme, when a varied repertoire was presented in a manner that revealed the group of twelve singers as artists, whose magnificent music was rewarded by repeated applause and attentive consideration.

The choruses, directed by Prof. Tom Morgan, were beautiful, and revealed a depth of restrained, harmonized tone, a precision of attack and delicacy of shading that combined with outstanding interpretative ability and careful diction to make the concerted music a joy. Every chorus received an enthusiastic encore, from the stirring strains of the opening "Harlech" to the final "Land of My Fathers," sung in Welsh. While capable of swelling chords that pulsed and vibrated in echoing bursts of deep tone, the choruses were at their best in soft work, sung a capella. "In the Sweet Bye and Bye" was a good example of their pianissimo methods, with the "Image of the Rose," a lovely hushed interlude. A listener from a distance had requested "In Absence," another number in minor key, and "The Little Church" had ringing cadences like a silver bell. "Italian Salad" was a humorous hodge podge of musical terms, a robust affair sung in staccato style with force and vigor.

In the solo work, Samuel Lazarus, tenor, stood pre-eminent among a group of fine vocalists. His were plaintive songs, Tosti's "My Dreams" and "Macushla." Like the sudden rush of clear spring water were tones of his crystal-fine voice, with a bird-like ease in singing that captivated attention, and real artistry in his poignant, high-pitched finales. Vociferous applause greeted this sweet singer.

David Rees, bass-baritone, sang the old favorite, "The Floral Dance" in a manner that has never been surpassed here. His first number was "The Raft," eminently suited to the timbre of his powerful, resounding voice.

Stephen Jenkins, tenor, a peculiar vibrant quality in his strong, sweet tones, sang "Pilot," and, as an encore, "Life."

W. Tudor Williams, another tenor singers, had a voice like a 'cello, golden bright in its undertones, that made his rendition of "All Joy Be Thine" and "I Hear You Calling Me," lovely cameos of sound.

Walter Evans, baritone, created a splendid impression with the strength and force of his strong and flexible voice, heard in a difficult and tricky descriptive solo "Desert," sung with convincing dramatic power, and the encore, "Little Mother o' Mine."

"Wanderer" was the solo number of David Howells, basso, with organ richness and depth in his powerful rendition.

Quartette numbers included "The Little Shamrock" and "A Catastrophe," and duetts were "The Battle Eve," sung by Messrs. Rees and Jenkins, the popular "Tenor and Baritone," by Messrs. Lazarus and Evans, "The Moon hath raised her lamp above," and a Welsh number, "Mae Cymru'n Barod."

The Glee Singers were fortunate in their accompanist. His work at the piano during the various solos and choruses was outstanding, and added much to the beauty and finish of a programme that, for artistic execution and quality of tone, left absolutely nothing to be desired. With every member of the group a finished artist and possessor of outstanding vocal ability, the concert given last evening could not fail to live up to the highest expectations of the sponsors of the Welsh Glee Singers.

The accompanist, Prof. Emlyn Jones, A.R.C.M., gave two organ numbers in a manner that proved him a master of the instrument, which responded with waves of rippling sweetness to his firm, light touch and sure pedal-work. The overture to "William Tell" was received with bursts of applause that brought the delicate measures of the Berceuse from "Jocelyn" as a lovely encore.

The piano used last evening was loaned by the Heintzman Company for the occasion.

FINAL ADDRESS BY DR. M'CUAIG

Man's Affections Must Be Morally Centred or Love Becomes a Devastating Fire.

The last of the series of lectures on marriage standards by J. Aspinall McQuaig, the New York eugenist, was given last night in George St. Methodist church.

The essential qualities of love were discussed by Dr. McCuaig in this final address, the trend of his talk being that mans affections must be morally centered or human love is apt to become a devasting fire. The condition of love was defined by him as "an amiable attachment to an object, of such marked character, that for the time being, and to the measure of its impulse and opportunity, one lives in that object." It was pointed out that such attachment is usually developed by associations that draw upon sympathy, and that when once such amiable attachments begins to develop, it is rapidly made strong by idealization.

Such attachments may be transitory, said the lecturer, and the great issue at stake in marriage was declared to be, "how can one make sure that such attachment will last."

Amiability Alone Not Enough

"It is obvious," said Dr. McCuaig, "that for marriage, an amiability, superficially based, is not enough—there must be certain fundamentals of attachment if love is to endure."

The foundation essentials for a long life of marred happiness were stated to be the matters always involved in any true, abiding, lifelong friendship between man and man or woman and woman, namely: Physical affinity, temperamental aptitude, and spiritual response.

Dr. McCuaig, in voicing precautions to young people present, said that a young woman had a right to expect a spiritual and mental standard in a man. When he is predominatingly animal, it will not make for a happy marriage. He will eat every sweet thing out of her life, said the speaker, and leave it devastated. He spoke of the mental and spiritual qualities of a man who is a lover of music, of books and of nature; to whom a flower is not simply a flower or a sunset a sunset, all of which lifts him above the animal.

In the afternoon, in his closing lecture to women, the lecturer talked on "The Care of a Girl." He made a plea for proper physical development of the girl for the greater functions of the woman's life—wifehood and motherhood. He declared that "our women are not physically prepared to keep pace with the men in the great adventure of marriage and home building." In discussing modern amusements in the course of his lecture, Dr. McCuaig said:

The dangers of the modern dance stand in a combination of circumstances, viz., that "there is always in the contact of man and woman discernible and indiscernable a sexual disturbance. The trend of the modern dance in contact position and motion is to unduly accentuate that disturbance."

Refers to "Jackson-Whites."

An interesting description was given by the speaker of a strange people known as the "Jackson-Whites" who inhabit a small range of mountains within forty miles of New York city. Well up in the recesses of the Ramapo mountains, he said, dwells a race to which is attached more romance, more mystery, and a more weird unwritten story than any gathered from darkest Africa.

"There is the black-skinned negress with her smart white baby; there the lithe young Indian plays with his clumsy, wooly-headed brother; there against the olive cheek woman rests the kinky white head of her pink-skinned Albino, while his black and yellow brothers play near by. There in one face is to be found the impress of three continents, the intonation of three races, in one form a trinity of blights and blemishes."

The origin of this strange race was given, Dr. McCuaig telling that when freedom was proclaimed for the slaves, some blacks, called "Jacksons," were joined in the mountains by all manner of outlaws, whites and Indians. The intermarriage of those people has brought about the strange race mixture.

EXPLAIN THE COUNTRY TO DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

MONTREAL, Oct. 11. — The Right Hon. David Lloyd-George has expressed a wash that during his journey over the Canadian Pacific from Toronto to Winnipeg he may have an opportunty of meeting en route a few men well informed as to Canada's industrial and agricultural matters.

With that object in view it has been, arranged to have a party of representative gentlemen board Lloyd George's train at Cartier and Chapleau. These gentlemen will be particularly conversant with conditions in the Country through which the train passes. Mr. J. J. Scully general manager of Canadian Pacific Eastern Line will travel with the special train from Toronto.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL DISCOVERY BY BANTING

Transcends in Importance to World His Diabetes Cure.

HAMILTON, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. Banting, discoverer of insulin will within the next few weeks, announce another dicovery of even greater importance than diabetes cure, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Heatlh for Ontario, announced last night, at a dinner of medical men here.

Hon. Dr. Godfrey said that he was not at liberty to divulge any further information at the present time. He had conferred confidentially with Dr. Banting. "Dr. Banting is a real genius," said the Speaker. "He has now something better than insulin to offer the world. It is a marvellous thing. Dr. Banting has about completed work on his new discovery and an announcement will be made very soon."

The dinner was atteded by over 20 medical men and their wives. Dr. Nicholson presided and Hon. Dr. Leeming Carr introduced the speaer.

Court Case Follows Automobile Accident.

MONTREAL, October 11 (Canadian Press). — The charge of involuntary homicide against J. H. Eisenhart, 29, of Horshead, N.Y., was dismissed in the Valleyfield Police Court yesterday afternoon after a preliminary enquete had been held.

The charge was the outcome of an accident on the road between Valleyfield and St. Stanislaus, in which Horace Vincent, aged 8, of St. Stanislaus, was instantly killed when struck by a speeding automobile.

The driver of this car did not stop after the fatality, and Eisenhart, who was found in his overturned automobile four miles from the scene of the tragedy, was arrested on suspicion.

LOT OF PRESIDENT IS AMELLIORATED

Burdens Shouldered By Predecessors Are Now Diverted From White House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (Associated Press).—Modern presidents may have a large amount of routine work devolving upon them, but there are some details, attended to regularly by their early predecessors, that are hardly considered important enough nowadays to refer to the White House.

Among these, according to Charles Kohen, Washington philatelist and document collector, was the trifling detail of signing ships' clearance papers. Among a number of ancient documents Mr. Kohen recently picked up were two such clearances for small vessels, one signed "G. Washington," the other bearing the large, scrawly signature of John Adams.

The paper signed by Washington in September 1794 attested to the fact that the 82-ton schooner "Eliza" of New York was owned by citizens of the new nation and was duly allowed to set sail for the West Indies with a cargo of flour, hoops, onions, staves, shingles and scantlings. The form was made out in English, French and Dutch.

The most interesting section of these clearance papers was an attest at the bottom of the sheet praying that "Most Serene, Serene, Most Puisant, Puisant, High, Illustrious, Noble, Honorable, Venerable Wise and Prudent, Lords, who shall see these presents or hear them read" to recognize the American registry.

Mr. Kohen has also a number of envelopes showing the difference in postal rates and speed of service since the early days of the post office. One contained a letter signed by James Madison as secretary of state, in 1804, to James Sheafe of Portsmouth, N.H., and bore a stamp showing the fee for the trip to have been ten cents. An other carried a letter from the recent Amundsen polar expedition, addressed to President Harding, which was sent by airplane mail to Nome, Alaska, and thence across the continent to Washington for 12 cents, including registration fee.

Another interesting document in this collection is one relating to the history of the famous Lord Fairfax, who was granted large estates in Virginia by the King of England during early colonial history. Lord Thomas prayed the sheriff of London County, which adjoined his estates, to take into custody Ann Seward who was charged with trespassing upon the Fairfax estate in 1763. According to the yellowed, torn manuscript, the said Ann had wrought damages estimated at 550 pounds, for which the said Lord Thomas required payment.

"Conversation Circulation"

IN the days when Conversation Circulation" statements were the basis on which the advertiser bought space, the advertising solicitor who put up his story in the most pleasing manner generally got the business.

In case the advertiser questioned the figures he might possibly go to the newspaper office and look over the circulation records with his own auditors. But neither he nor his auditors knew the intricacies of newspaper circulation records or the possibilities for juggling figures.

Circulation differences and arguments caused bitter battles between many newspapers. Ingenious schemes were used by unscrupulous publishers to put up the appearance of a larger circulation than they had. The prevalence of these practices brought out the necessity for a reputable agency to audit and report on circulation matters.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations was started eight years ago by a nucleus of the leading advertisers, agents, newspaper, magazine, farm papers, and trade paper publishers. Today it has a membership of 1800. The purpose of the bureau is to make fair and impartial audits of circulation records and it is now accepted as the Standard Authority among space buyers throughout the United States and Canada.

Every Publisher-Member of the Bureau is required to make semi-annual statements setting forth the actual net paid circulation. Once a year the Bureau sends an auditor to the office of each publisher to check and if necessary correct his circulations statements.

Study the A.B.C. reports of the publications you are considering and it will not be necessary to argue about competitive circulation.

The Examiner is a member of the A.B.C. and would be pleased to submit a copy of the latest circulation report

BRITISH SKIPPER, CHIEF OF WHISKEY TRADERS, SPEAKS

The Ace of Whisky Traders has come home to England on a holiday.

Let me present him, a counterpart in characteristics though not in appearance of Captain Owen Kettle. He is Captain Leonard St. John Clare, skipper in the British mercantile, marine, and lately commodore of a whisky fleet which sails from Nassau, in one of the Bahama islands, the paradise port of quick-made millionaires, writes a Daily Express Special Correspondent.

He is the man who has made Prohibitionists almost burst blood-vessels with indignation. He has sold more Scotch whisky in New York than any other individual in the past year.

Smuggling?—Never.

Captain Clare is a slight, wiry-framed, clean-shaven, middle-aged man, who knows all the odd corners of the world and the adventures they offer you.

He is calm and cool until accidentally you mention smuggling; then he bristles

"I am not a smuggler," he declares, "I am a legitimate trader. I sell goods in Maidstone market-place, only my market-place is the high seas.

"I have made twelve trips from Nassau with whisky during the past year, and I have never been nearer than eighteen mile to the American coast, and, what is more, I have never seen a preventive man!"

Prohibiton provided a philosopher's stone for Nassau and its inhabitants.

"Men who two years ago were down-and-out store clerks," said Captain Clare, "now own yachts, country mansions, and motor cars.

"There seems no limit to the money to be made by bootlegging. One man I worked with bought a ship with borrowed money, and in eighteen days made a profit of £12,000 and paid for his ship.

"A half-caste who began with a small fishing hooker now has a mansion, a yacht, a Rolls-Royce, and a schoooner for whisky-running. Another man cleared £10,000 in an eight days' out-and-back whisky run.

"Everybody in Nassau is in the whisky business, even the priests and police bandsmen.

"One of the vessels I commanded and took out laden with spirits was formerly the yacht of Mr. Henry Ford, who makes cars and is an ardent Prohibitionist. He was anxious to know how the yacht was used.

Forewarned.

"Whisky costs £5 a case in Nassau. We sell it for £7 to £8 a case on the high seas. The American consumer pays £2 a bottle.

"Nearly 2,000,000 cases of whisky were run into New York alone during the last twelve months. Yet one preventive vessel, if it was alive and wanted to do so, could stop the whole business.

"When the capture of a shore-running boat is to be made, it is always known in advance. I have had men come aboard me and say, "Well, captain, I have to be caught today, so I only want a small quantity of stuff over the side."

"A runner, when he is caught, debits his fine against his profits. His boat is put up for sale by the authorities and he buys it in cheaply under another name, because no one else bids against him. It is a great country!

"Whisky runners come aboard me and sample my cargo, and bid for it as though I were a floating spirit store.

"No preventive man dare touch me, for I fly the British flag, and keep miles outside the coastal area limit."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

WHO LAUGHS LAST LAUGHS BEST

"Giddap!" came Farmer Brown's voice across the fence again.

All day long Farmer Brown had been out plowing.

"Gee! Haw! Giddap!" the Twins could hear him saying every now and then to his horses. "Gee! Haw! Giddap!"

"What are they doing?" asked Nancy.

"They are plowing the field to put in wheat,' answered Mister Dodger "It grows some this fall, then it stays green under the snow all winter, and when spring comes it finishes growing. That's what they call winter wheat."

"Giddap!" came Farmer Brown's voice across the fence again, and from where they stood, the children could see Charlie and Bob, the two nice big farm horses, doing their best to please their master and earn the bucket of oats they knew was waiting for them.

Suddenly there was another sound. It went chug, chug, chug; snippity, snippity, snip, chug! Rattle, rattle, rattle, chug!

"What's that?" asked Nick. Really the Twins must have thought that Mister Dodger was the dictionary from the number of questions they asked him.

But, as usual, he knew the answer, for he said quickly. "That's a tractor! Farmer Smith, on the next farm, does not use horses for his farm work any more. He does all his plowing and cutting and binding by an automobile machine called a tractor. Come on. Do you want to see it?"

Of course, the Twins were eager to, so all three went over to a fence corner, where they could watch both fields.

And whether it was because they had on magic shoes or because they had a fairyman for company, I cannot say, but they soon discovered that the tractor was talking. Every "chug" was a word, and it was calling things to Charlie and Bob, the nice big brown farm horses. "Goodness alive! How slow you are!" it said. "Why you started two hours before I did and I've really done twice as much as you have! There! I've been the whole way around the field again! Why I'll be through and home again before you're half way."

It went on boasting and blowing like that but Charlie and Bob just trudged ahead without so much as a word. They were there to work, not to quarrel, and they tried hard to please.

"Never mind," said Mister Dodger. "Pride goeth before a fall. Wait and see."

That evening when Charlie and Bob were munching their oats, the Twins heard Farmer Smith call over to Farmer Brown, "Hey, neighbor, my tractor broke down before I had my wheat field finished and it can't be fixed for a week. Will you please lend me your team tomorrow?"

"Sure!" said Farmer Brown obligingly. "Mine's all finished."

The Twins never could be sure, but Mister Dodger said it was a fact that Bob winked solemnly at Charlie and Charlie winked back just as solemnly at Bob.

COST OF EATING A LITTLE LOWER

Average Weekly Cost For Family of Five $10.46.

OTTAWA, Oct. 10. Canadian Press —The retail prices of foods averaged slightly lower at the beginning of September than for a month earlier. A seasonal decline in potatoes was noted, while there was an increase in the price of dairy produce. The average cost per week of a list of 29 staple foods for an average family of five in some 60 Canadian cities was $10.46 at the beginning of August, and $10.28 for September, 1922. Declines were shown in sugar, beef and coffee, as well as potatoes. Eggs, butter and cheese were substantially higher, while there were smaller increases in pork, lard, tea and bread.

Including the cost of fuel and rent with that of foods, the family budget averaged $20.97 at the beginning of Sept., compared with $21.003 a month earlier, and $20.90 for September of 1922. Fuel showed little change from the level in August but was somewhat lower than a year ago and rent was practically unchanged.

MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT RESULTED IN DEATH

POWASSAN, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—Serious motor accident occurred about six miles north of here on the main trunk road to North Bay ,about 5.30 p.m. yesterday, in which L. H Marchard, Toronto, was instantly killed. The driver, S. Legree, of Sudbury, escaped with slight injuries.

"Y" WORKERS IN HAVANA EXTEND FRIENDLY AID

HAVANA, Oct. 11.—(Associated Press).—The Merchant Marine Y. M. C. A. is here primarily to deal with American sailors, make their days better and help them when they are in need, but from time to time the organization finds opportunity to leave its regular field and do good in broader pastures. Ernest Bratzel, the Secretary, and his wife always welcome such chances.

Recently Mr. Bratzel inaugurated in the Vivac, the great jail of Havana, Protestant religious services in English for the benefit of the 40 or 50 delinquent Americans and Englishmen behind the bars of the ancient building. Not long ago two young boys came to Havana from Maryland, put up at an expensive hotel, and began looking for jobs. Their small savings melted away in a few days, and while the American consul was seeking a chance for them to work their way home on a ship, Mr. and Mrs. Bratzel were keeping the lads out of mischief and in food. Another undertaking was the return home of an American drug addict whose papers showed he had held an army commission during the World War, and on the same ship with this man went a negro woman stranded in Havana, whose son in New Orleans had been located by the Secretary of the "M. M. Y."

LAND FOR THE VETERANS.

LAS CRUCES, N. Mex., Oct. 10. —(United Press.) — Six hundred acres of public land in Socorro County were thrown open to entry of ex-service men by the land office here to-day. The tracts remaining untaken on Jan. 8 will be thrown open to public entry on that date. The land is suitable for grazing.

GASOLINE FROM GAS!

Natural Cooking Fuel Affords Billion Gallons For Auto Power Annually by New Process

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Gasoline, more gasoline—and still more! Gas from the oil fields. Gas from shale. And gas from just plain, natural cooking gas!

Do you wonder there's a surplus of this auto fuel here, and that the price can be lowered so much?

Of course, most gasoline comes direct from the oil fields. And the shale deposits out west are being held for the time when the oil fields give out.

But did you know that for the last score of years gasoline has been derived from the natural gas drawn out of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and other gas fields?

Big Business.

Facts and figures revealed by the United States Geological Survey here show the gasoline production of the country has been increased lately at the rate of a billion gallons a year, by this means alone! Which makes the natural gas field quite an important factor in the supply of the automotive fuel.

It was not until comparatively recently that gasoline has been extracted in sufficient quantities from natural gas, although the first gasoline of this kind was produced in 1904. The big jump in the production of this gasoline came with the invention of what is called the absorption, or sucking, process.

Before this new method was used, gasoline was obtained from natural gas by the compression or squeezing process. If the natural gas had at least one gallon of gasoline to its 1,000 cubic feet it could be treated profitably by the older process. Now, by absorption, the amount of gasoline in the natural gas may be down even to a pint in every 1,000 cubic feet, and the extraction would be profitable.

The New Way.

G. N. Saybolt of Hastings, W. Va., is the man who perfected this absorption process. An oil, which has the faculty of absorbing gasoline from natural gas, is sprayed downward through a tall pipe or tower while the natural gas is forced up. The natural gas coming out at the top is practically without gasoline, while the oil at the bottom has absorbed it. Then by a simple process of distillation, the gasoline is derived from the oil, and the oil goes through the same operation again.

A good sized plant, say survey officials, can treat 80,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas this way, and obtain at least 8,000 gallons of gasoline a day.

And when the natural gas, bereft of the gasoline, is used by the householder, it is maintained, it gives just as good light and just as much heat as it would with the gasoline in it. In fact, absorption of the gasoline makes the cooking gas so much cheaper, because it was the gasoline that destroyed the rubber in the pipe lines, caused gas leakages and raised the operating costs.

Long Terms For Moros Who Avenge Elopement.

MANILA, Oct. 10.—(Associated Press).—Hadaiya is a Moro girl. Customs and religious rituals in Moroland did not permit her the enjoyment of a happy romantic life as would have been ordinarily her's as a birthright. She was in love with Lahaman, a young Moro from another tribe, and vowed to marry.

True to her promise Hadaiya, in the summer of 1922, fled from the paternal home to her lover and was married. The ire of her parents and fellow tribesmen was aroused and enmity grew between her tribe and that of her husband. But the marriage had already taken place, and the best that could be done was to demand a rich dowry from the family and tribe of Lahaman. Demand was made for that dowry, else Hadaiya should return to her home and abandon her husband. But the dowry was not forthcoming.

So Hadaiya's tribesmen took the law into their hands and assaulted Lahaman's relatives and friends. The attack resulted in the killing of Datu Tantong, and the Moros, Salip Ali and Sirang, for which crime the assailants, Sasiin, Buto, Ahang, Dayong and Mamang, were prosecuted and convicted of homicide. The supreme court recently confirmed the lower court's decision.

Sasiin is to serve three successive terms of imprisonment of 12 years and one day each, Buto two successive terms of 12 years and one day each, and Ahang, Dayong and Mamang one term of 12 years and one day, besides severally and jointly paying indemnity to the families of their victims.

BRITISH AIRFLEET HOLDS EMPIRE'S LINE

By LYLE C. WILSON.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(United Press).—Englishmen proudly declare that the sun never sets on the British Empire.

They might with equal justice claim that Empire-wide peace is as rare as Empire-wide darkness.

British troops and officials have been the victims of a war of assassinations and assaults in Palestine, where the bulk of the population is Arabian. The Arabs are bitter against British attempts, under a League of Nations mandate, to found a "New Jerusalem" on the ite of the old.

For the present the political situation is described as "unsettled."

Wahabi tribesmen constantly threaten a renewal of hostilities. "Active operations are not being carried out now." The British soldiers are waiting for the natives to start something.

An Exciting Game.

Scarcely a day passes but that some lurking band of natives attempts to pot British outposts.

The natives are potted in their turn and when the irritating exchange has attained respectable proportions, with a well-nourished grievance on both sides, a miniature war takes place forthwith.

There is no need for a formal declaration of war.

The English Foreign Office gets lumped reports of these little misunderstandings. If the officer in command makes his report weekly, then he puts his entire week's wars in one report and sends it along.

English soldiers have been doing this sort of work ever since the first English flag strayed from the home soil to find a resting place in foreign territory.

Kipling's famous "Mulvaney" and his kind have been succeeded in Mespot and India by trim young subalterns, who joyfully bomb desert and mountain village alike.

The aircraft they pilot have struck terror in the hearts of natives who would dash themselves into machine-gun fire without a qualm.

LINES AND COLOR FOR FALL OUTFITS

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 11.—Before you buy your fall and winter outfits, give a thought to your individual lines and color, urges Mary Brooks Picken, director of the Woman's Institute of Domestic Arts and Sciences, here.

"If you are sallow," she advises, "avoid brown, purple, yellow or red. Select dark blue whenever possible.

"If you are a fair blonde, you can wear practically every color except yellow, orange, tan or drab grey. If you are a sallow blonde, restrict yourself to soft tones of blue, flesh, pale rose and blue green.

"The titian blonde may wear all soft colors with the exception of red or orange.

"The in-between type, with light hair, blue, brown or grey eyes and fair complexion is best in blue first, then in subdued colors in all tones, while the pale brunette with dark hair and fair skin will be best in black, ivory, blue, all tones of grey and practically all dark tones.

"The florid brunette wears black exceptionally well, but will do well to include red, purple, bright blues and light greens from her wardrobe"

Proper Necklines.

And even more important than color is line, Miss Picken insists. Necklines are of the greatest importance and should be governed by shape of the face as well as by the general figure," she says. "If one has a round, full face a round neckline would emphasize this, but a V-neck would counteract the roundness and give an effect of length.

"The woman with long and pointed features will be best in a round or U-shaped neck. However, if the features are decidedly long and pointed, it is best not to use the very round neckline as the contrast will be too marked.

Must Be Suitable.

"Waistlines should not be conspicuous and should be arranged so as not to divide the figure definitely. Skirt lengths should be considered from the standpoint of attractiveness. Side draperies help the large figure to have a modish skirt length without awkwardness.

"The woman who is tall and thin should be generous in her yardage and let grace in line enhance her slimness. The short, round miss should stick to simple tailored things as much as possible and self-trimmed lace or georgette dresses in preference to ruffled or elaborately decorated ones."

If a woman took more time to figure out her type, it would take her less time to do her shopping, and she would have fewer failures to her credit each season, Miss Pickens concludes.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads simply dissolve and disappear by this one simple, safe and sure method. Get two s of peroxine powder from any store—sprinkle it on a hot, wet rub the face briskly — every head will be gone.

WILL MAKE CHICAGO DRY IN THIRTY DAYS

Mayor Deposes Two More Police Captains—Says 6,000 Saloons Must Close.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Two Police Captains were removed for failure to assist Mayor Dever in his warfare on saloons and liquor runners and four others are slated to go.

The shake-up in the police force, already the largest in years, promises to become an earthquake unless the officers and men prosecute the liquor dealers in earnest. That this fact has permeated the force was evidenced today by unuspal activity in conducting raids on 114 places, which netted 305 prisoners.

Along with the upset in the Police Department, which now includes the resignations, forced or voluntary of ten Captains and several patrolmen, the Mayor made it clear that he did not intend to stop until he had closed every one of the 6,000 "soft drink parlors' in the city, which are saloons operating under a false front

He declares that he will make Chicago a dry city inside of thirty days if he has to dismiss every Captain and Lieutenant in the Police Department.

Four of the Captains already discharged or about to be, are veterans in the service and some of them have good records. They are bitter and charge their misfortune to politics and the activitiy of the prohibition reformers. Their bitterness has led them to expose other police officials equally guilty, with the result that the Mayor is in possession of much evidence against men whom he suspected but on whom he could not fix the guilt.

Fued situation review

SYSTEMATIC DISHWASHING.

Before starting the dishwashing job, scrape and stack your dishes and wash in the regular order.

The SOCIETY WOMAN contrives it

Her skin smooth - supple - young years longer than other women's

"A woman's complexion should be very nearly perfect. It must be smooth, supple and transparently fresh and it must never betray fatigue or the effects of weather." ¶ This, if it were written, would be the society woman's code. ¶ As proof of it, there is scarcely a woman of prominent social position whose age you can guess by lines or any dullness of skin. ¶ That does not mean she does not motor or take part in whatever sports are in season. She is a zealous sportswoman by day and appears in the evening with delicate skin unmarred.

HER FACE SHOWS NEITHER AGE NOR FATIGUE WHAT IS HER SECRET

How do they accomplish it—Two essentials of skin loveliness

THERE are two fundamental needs of the skin that the society woman knows cannot be neglected without disaster—regular cleansing in the particular way that cannot possibly tighten or coarsen the skin—and careful protection and freshening for all day-time and evening appearances.

Long before even the society woman considered sports seriously, Pond's knew these two essentials, and to meet them, perfected two entirely different creams, which used together form the modern care for woman's skin.

Pond's Cold Cream of a special lightness and fineness, not only cleanses but restores the skin's essential suppleness—Pond's Vanishing Cream, not only gives unfailing protection, but in addition beautifies the skin instantly, making it marvelously fresh and smooth.

With this method your complexion need never be roughened or reddened by exposure, nor lined or coarsened through neglect. Begin today to use Pond's Two Creams regularly to give your skin that well-cared-for look and smooth loveliness that distinguish the women who must be beautiful in spite of their active social life.

Buy both creams today, in jars or tubes at 50 cents each, at drug or departmental srores. The Pond's Extract Company

MADE IN CANADA

Try this method—yourself

Do this tonight. With the finger tips, or a bit of moistened cotton, apply Pond's Cold Cream freely. Its fine oil is able to penetrate every pore. Let it stay on a minute—now wipe it off with a soft cloth. The black that comes off shows you how carefully this cream cleanses. Do this twice. Your skin looks fresh and is beautifully supple again.

Then in the morning, smooth on Pond's Vanishing Cream very evenly—just enough for your face to absorb. How velvety your face feels. The powder is even and smooth over this flawless base. Nothing can coarsen its fine texture.

EVERY SKIN NEEDS THESE TWO CREAMS. POND'S TWO CREAMS USED BY THE WOMEN WHO TAX THEIR SKIN MOST AND KEEP THEIR FACES LOVELIEST

C.G.E. Defeat Welland in the First Game -- Giants Win 5-4

FROST PITCHED C.G.E. TO VICTORY IN FIRST GAME WITH WELLAND

Held the Western Ontario Contenders to Two Hits and Deserved a Shutout —Pitchers' Battle.

PLAYED IN DRIZZLE.

The C. G. E. crew got away to a flying start in theire final dash for the O.B.A.A. intermediate championship at Riverside Park yesterday when they walloped the Empire Cotton Company's team of Welland in the first game of the finals by 3 to 1 after a hard fought battle, made notable by the fine work of the two pitchers.

"Bun" Frost, turning in his finest game of the year, stopped Welland completely, allowing only two hits, one of them very scratchy and earning a shut-out, being robbed of that distinction because his team mates bunched their errors in one inning to give the visitors their only counter. Frost had perfect control, not issuing a pass and Welland did not get a safety until one man was out in the eighth. He used his hook to great advantage and the western representatives could not move a wheel.

Garner Was Good.

Welland sent their pitching ace, Geo. Garner after the first game, and although the Canal town right hander was very wild, walking six and hitting three, he showed the C.G.E. more stuff than any intermediate pitcher they have looked at this year. He mixed his offerings judiciously, alternating a sharp breaking curve with a fast ball that fairly smoked, the winners' hitting efforts were confined to five safeties, several of them scratchy, while eleven were retired by the strike-out route. His effectiveness in the pinches is shown by the fact that C.G.E. had twelve men left on the runways.

A drizzling rain fell throughout most of the game, making the ball slippery, and that fact accounts for the majority of the wild throws that figure in the error column. It was, in spite of the conditions, an interesting game at all stages, with the work of the pitchers standing out as the main feature.

Welland had fewer errors than the winners, but at that looked inferior to the C.G.E., Garner's effectiveness alone keeping them in the hunt. Offensively thy seemed weak and Frost's curve had them entirely subdued.

The return game in Welland on Saturday should be a real battle. The westerners are counting on Garner to turn the tables in that engagement, but the C.G.E. are confident that they can nick him for a second defeat and wind up the series.

First Innings.

Welland—Ellsworth flied to Hall on the first ball pitched. McKay popped to Dugan. J. Garner rolled to Frost, the side being retired on five balls. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Barrie fanned. McCarney walked. Dugan walked. Rose struck out, the runners advancing on a passed ball. Ross walked, filling the bases. McPherson fanned as McCarney tried to steal home. No runs, hits or errors.

Second Innings.

Welland — G. Garner popped to Rose. Upper flied to McCarney. Jones was safe on Frost's fumble. Hatter rolled to Frost. No runs or hits, one error.

Peterborough—Jackson struck out. Hall singled past second, the first hit of the game. Frost fanned. Hall died stealing. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Innings.

Welland—Degraw rolled to Frost. Rose tossed out Dennis. Ellsworth fouled to Jackson. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough— Barrie was called out on strikes. McCarney fanned. Dugan walked. Rose singled off Garner's glove. Ross doubled to left, scoring Dugan. Ellsworth nearly captured the Texas Leaguer. McPherson was hit. Jackson flied to left. One run, two hits, no errors.

Fourth Innings.

Welland—McKay fanned. J. Garner fanned. Jackson tossed out G. Garner. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough—Hall walked. Frost fanned. Barrie flied to Hatter. Hall stole second and third. McCarney walked. Hall was out trying to score on a short passed ball. No runs, hits or errors.

Fifth Innings.

Welland—Upper rolled to Barrie. Jones reached second on Rose's high throw to first. Hatter fouled to Ross. Degraw fanned. No runs, or hits, one error.

Peterborough—Dugan walked for the third time in succession. Rose fanned. Ross was hit. McPherson flied to Hatter. Jackson fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Sixth Innings.

Welland—Dennis reached second on Rose's low throw. Ellsworth was safe on Rose's fumble. McKay fouled to Ross. Ellsworth went to second after the catch and when Ross threw down, Dennis tore for the plate, scoring when Ross dropped the ball in tagging the runner. Rose tossed out J. Garner. G. Garner rolled to Jackson. One run, no hits, three errors.

Peterborough — Hall popped to Jones. Frost rolled to McKay, Barrie doubled to right. McCarney hit to Hatter and was safe when Jones lost the throw, Barrie scoring. McCarney stole second. Dugan lined into G. Garners' hands. One run, one hit, one error.

Seventh Innings.

Peterborough—Rose was hit. Ross rolled to G. Garner. Garner knocked down McPherson's rap and tossed him out. Jackson fanned.

Eighth Innings.

Welland—Degraw hit one down the first base line and reached second, but was out for not touching first. Dennis singled to right, the first hit off Frost. Ellsworth rolled to Frost. Jackson tossed out McKay.

Peterborough— G. Carner tossed out Hall. Frost tripled to right centre. Barrie hit to Degraw, who dropped the ball, Frost scoring. McCarney rolled to McKay. Dugan flied to J. Garner. One run, one hit, one error.

Ninth Innings.

Welland — J. Garner fanned. G. Garner scratched a hit on a ball that bounced away from Jackson. Upper hit to Rose, forcing Garner at second, but taking second on Barrie's low throw to first. Frost tossed out Jones. No runs, one hit, one error.

Tells Firpo He Must Toughen Up His Tummy

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—What the estimable Senor Firpo would do in a return bout with Jack Dempsey, the Dictator of Cauliflowerville, is a matter of speculation.

Firpo's virtues are well known. He can hit with all the muscular force of an infuriated Missouri mule, and he is as game as the citizen who ate the first oyster.

Firpo's deficiencies are also no secret. He is no ring general, is unskilled in the finer points of box-

In order to win from the American heavyweight champion in a return bout it will be necessary for Firpo to correct as many of these faults as possible. He is an old bird, as ring performers go, and it is not likely that he can make himself over and still be an effective battler.

"What he should do," says Jimmy De Forest, the noted trainer, "is to adopt a training routine that will strengthen his legs and his stomach muscles. nd, of the two, his stomach needs more attention. Dempsey hurt him most with body punches and in a return bout would again concentrate on what he now knows to be the Senor's weakes spot."

BALTIMORE LOSE TO KANSAS CITY

The American Association Winners Clouted Three Oriole Pitchers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., October 10. —Kansas City, champions of the American Association, came from behind and defeated Baltimore 9 to 4, in the first game of the Inter-League series heer to-day. In spite of wildness at times, Ferdie Schupp scattered Baltimore's hits, and pitched air tight ball in the pinches, collecting nine strikeouts. Baltimore used three pitchers, none of whom was effective.

In the third inning, Agden, who replaced Parnham, was knocked down by a liner from Becker's bat. He recovered the ball and forced a man at second, but the injury slowed him up. Thomas, who replaced Ogden, after the latter had given away to a pinch hitter in the eighth, was nicke dfor four runs in Kansas City's half of the inning. The attendance was about 13,000.

SMALL SCORE IN STUDENT RUGBY

Collegiate Held T.C.S. of Port Hope to One Point Margin.

Collegiate lost the game played with Trinity College School at the Oval yesterday afternoon by the score of 9 to 8. The game was the second of a home and home series arranged as work-outs. Although the P.C.I. squad dropped both games —the first by a score of 12 to 5 — they are not down-hearted. On the contrary they are looking forward to a win over Lindsay here, a week from Saturday, when the series begins.

The Students team showed a big improvement over their work in the game on Saturday, in Poft Hope. The line held better and the catching of punts by the back field was much better.

The T. C. S. team are on the whole heavier than the squad of the local school and the advantage in weight was what turned the scale. The rain and humid weather made the playing of Rugby not a pleasant pastime.

T.C.S. obtained six points in the first period, Hyland, their hard working half back accounting for the points.

The first point obtained was one on a rouge and a touchdown by the speedy half made it six.

The P. C. I. had the best of the play in the second period although they only obtained one point on a rouge kicked by Young.

In the third period the P.C.I. squad worked the ball up to within a few feet of the T.C.S. line. They were stopped, but on the last down Young went over himself for the touch. He converted nicely, making the score 7 to 6 for the P.C.I. Hyland came back strong making the score 8 to 7 for his team via two rouges.

In the last period each team added a point to the score making the final 9 to 8 for the squad from Trinity.

Hard tackling and line plunging featured the game, and as a result both teams had a number of casualties, although none were seriously hurt. The game developed some fine open field running on both sides Howie Young and "Buster" Johnston each tore off a long run for the local squad, while Herbie Hyland, Trinity's fast half, made long gains.

The line-ups were:

T. C. S.—
Scrim., Perry, Unwin and White.
Inside wings—Jeffery and Phipps.
Midle wings, Slater and Lyon.
Outside wings A. L. Smith and McMullen.
Quarter, Burns.
Half backs, Bibby, Russel and Hyland.
Flying wing, Scott.
Subs, Roy, Anderson, Seagram and Fraser.

P. C. I. —
Scrim., McColl, Copping and Henry
Inside wings, Craw and Ebbs.
Midle wings, Neal and Rye.
Outside wings, Outram and Chue.
Quarterback, Young.
Half backs, Bookhout, Stevens, and Cole.
Flying wing, Johnston.
Subs., Yelland, Pogue, Thompson and Martin.

CUBS WIN FIRST FROM WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, October 10. — The National League drew first blood in the Chicago city series to-day when the Cubs defeated the White Sox 8 to 4. Charley Robertson, the Sox starting pitcher, paved the way to the Cub victory, with a bad throw to the plate in the fourth, which allowed two Cub runs. Lyons replaced Robertson but was hit hard. Alexander pitched and Stat and Adams led the hitting for the Cubs. Ed. Collins hit a home run with Hooper on rst in the fifth inning. The game was witnessed by 24,0038 fans. Score:

The Full Infield Strength Of The Giants

ANCIENT CASEY STENGEL'S HOMER IN NINTH THRILLING CLIMAX TO DRAMATIC VICTORY OF GIANTS

First Game of the World's Series Replete With Spectacular Features — Tactics of McGraw Took Quick Advantage of Opening When Yankees Hesitated.

BUSH GROOVED IT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—Swinging his bat in that fabled setting of the diamond—the ninth inning, with the score tide, two out and the count "two and three." — Casey Stengel blasted his way into baseball's Hall of Fame to-day with a home run drive that gave the New York Giants a spectacular victory over the Yankees 5 to 4, in the opening clash of the 1923 World's Series.

That mighty and heroic blow by Stengel, who ccme back after being relegated to baseball's scrap heap not long ago, ended a gripping, pulse-throbbing drama, a thrilling battle in which the wits, decisive punch and brilliant defense of the Giants triumphed over the courage, brawn and fighting spirit of the Yankees.

Crashed to the extreme right-center field stretches of the vast Yankee Stadium that herculean smash broke the heart of Joe Bush, fork-ball star, who had held the Giants in check after seeing his team-mate, Waite Hoyt, battered from the mound, and who otherwise, might have stood out to-night as the hero of a Yankee triumph instead of but a courageous figure in defeat. It was a heart-breaking ending to Bush's gallant stand yet he spelled his own downfall by his tactical error in "grooving" the ball for Stengel's dramatic feat.

Record 55,000 Crowd

A vast throng of 55,000 that shattered all records for worlds series attendance and gate receipts witnessed the opening of the third successive struggle between New York's rival clubs for premier honors of the diamond.

The attendance eclipsed by more than 13,000, the highest previous mark, while the gate receipts of practically $182,000, surpassed the old record by more than $50,000.

The Giants though victorious, came out of the initial fray with but a slight margin in their favor. In the rejuvenated Yankees, led by the dynamic personality of Babe Ruth, they faced stiffer and more resourceful opposition than at any time in the three seasons of strife between these rivals for title honors. The closeness of the struggle to-day fulfilled the predictions of those who anticipated a bitterly waged contest, a duel that may go the limit seven games before either team is returned victorious.

A McGraw Triumph

But in the end to-day, it was the story of previous defeats the Giants have administered to the Yanks, the triumph of a machine guided by the "master mind' of John Joseph McGraw over brilliant individual resistance. As a team the Yankees to-day played better than at any time since their brief days of ascendancy in the 1921 series but at the critical moments, they were out-thought, outgeneralled and outplayed.

Waite Hoyt, youthful twirling star of the Yankees and hero of the 1921 series, opposed John Watson, whose selection by McGraw came as a last minute surprise in the opening mound duel but neither lasted long. Watson, the veteran, was unsteady from the start and after being bombarded or four hits and three runs in the first two innings, was withdrawn when an array of Giant reserves was rushed into the attack in the third inning. He was relieved by "Rosy" Ryan, a younger star, who stayed the limit and received credit for the victory, though he was saved on many occasions only by the spectacular character of his defense.

Bush Replaced Hoyt

Hoyt, after an impressive start in the first two innings was shelled into retirement in the third inning, after the Giants had tied the score. Bush and his red flannel shirt came to the rescue and "bullet Joe," after being found for a fourth run in that inning settled down brilliantly. He held the Giants to three hits in the remaining six innings, allowing only one runner to get as far as second base until the ninth, when Stengel came through with the winning punch.

The Yanks got away to a flying start in the first inning. The central figure was Babe Ruth whose attempt to come back after previous world's series failures, and crown with glory the greatest season of his career, has absorbed almost as much interest as the outcome of the championship fray itself. With one out, Ruth forced Joe Dugan, who had walked, and then on a hit and run play scored on Bob Meusel's two-bas smash to centerfield. It was a daring and spectacular hit of base-running by the Bambino and he was accorded an ovation as he slid across the plate with the first run of the series.

Geared into action, the Yankees came back in the next inning and scored two more runs. Ward and Schang opened with singles, were sacrificed along by Scott, and tallied when Whitey Witt drove a whistling drive across second base that Frisch dove for but could not stop.

Groh's single in the first inning was the only hit garnered off Hoyt when the erstwhile "boy wonder," looked upon as something of a Giant nemesis "blew up'5 unexpectedly.

From Discard To Hall Of Fame

Casey Stengel, veteran centre fielder of the Giants, who emerged from the shadows of baseball to the full glare of glory with the home run that turned the first game of the World's Series to the credit of the Giants.

Four runs clattered across before the inning ended and the entire complexion of the battle was changed.

McGraw's Offensive

Kelly, first up, singled sharply to center and when Gowdy walked, the Yankees held a hasty conference in an effort to settle Hoyt. Then came the real turning point of the game a masterpiece of generalship by McGraw that gave the Giants a formidable advantage. Quick to sense Hoyt's weakening, the Giant pilot decided to retire his battery, and sent Bentley, a slugger, to bat for Watson, while Maguire ran for Gowdy.

The Yankee outfield, playing back for Bentley was caught unprepared when he popped a Texas Leaguer over the infield. It fell safe and the bases were filled with the heavy artillery of the Giants in the offing.

Kelly came in with the first score when Bancroft forced Gearin, who was running for Bentley. Heinie Groh followed with a booming triple down the right-field line that tallied Maguire and Bancroft, tying the score, and completing the downfall of Hoyt. Bush came to the rescue, but before he could retire the side, Frisch shot a single to right that brought in Groh with the fourth run.

Then began the desperate fight of the Yankees to overcome this lead. Outhitting the Giants altogether by a margin of 12 to 8, they had golden opportunities to score in five of the six remaining innings but in only one of them did they make good. That was in the seventh when Bush, who had singled, scored on Dugan's terrific three base clout to right that "Pep" Young juggled for a fatal few seconds. Ruth had an ideal setting when he came to bat, but though the Babe tried hard, his effort went for naught through a spectacular bit of work by "Long George" Kelly.

Brilliant Defense

Ryan, cutting the corners with his sharp-breaking curves, had Ruth swinging prodigiously until the big slugger caught one that whistled down the right-field foul line. It was labelled a hit but Kelly, with a quick throw to Snyder, caught Dugan at the plate.

Kelly's sparkling play was but one of several by which the Giants turned back their rivals at threatening junctures. Twice double plays checked the rallies of the Hugmen while twice it was the sensational work of Frank Frisch, brilliant second sacker, that averted possible disaster for the champions.

In the fourth, Schang walked and after Scott fanned, Bush doubled to left. Witt bounded to Ryan, who trapped Schang off third, Groh making the putout and then doubling Witt at second base as the little Yankee outfielder tried to make an extra bag on his tap.

Pipp Picked Off

Pipp cost the Yankees a run in the eighth when, after singling and going to second on a wild pitch he was caught off the keystone sack by Snyder's quick throw to Bancroft. Ward followed with a single that would have scored the first-sacker, but it was wasted when Ryan retired the next two batters.

Popp's apparent lapse was due, observers believed more to his injured ankle than to a lack of watchfulness. There seemed little question but that the injury slowed up his footwork by just the fraction of a second by which he was trapped.

The Yanke were retired in order in the ninth and thus was concluded the first act of the drama of 1923, the drama in which McGraw, the "Little Napoleon," who is seeking his third successive world's championship triumphed over the sheer power of the Yankees and Babe Ruth—their star of stars. For, above the team play fans are watching with intense interest the struggle between these two types—Ruth, the greatest hitter of all the mainspring of the Yankees, and McGraw, the silent masterful tactician, juggler of baseball's tricks.

The victory, incidentally, was the eighth in succession gained by the Giants over their metropolitan rivals in world's series play, a streak interrupted only by the tie game of 1922.

Leonard-Tendler Fight Pictures at Royal Friday and Saturday

Much interest has been created locally among the athletes and sporting element in general in the announcement that the Royal Theatre has secured the Leonard-Tendler championship fight pictures. The complete fight is shown in ten rounds, and it is as good as a ringside seat. This is in addition to the regular performance, and regular admission prices will be charged.

WOULD DROP LEASIDE

The Belleville Ontario says: Why all the noise about the January 1st residence rule in the Central Ontario Baseball League, and why do they want to drop Kingston from the membership, as displayed so promptly in certain papers?

These were the two subjects that were largely dealt with at the semi-annual meeting held in Cobourg on Oct. 3rd. It is an assured fact that Bowmanville will not operate next year on account of the Hosiery factory being shut down. Lindsay is very doubtful and Port Hope lost their franchise by dropping out and will have to re-apply. Leaside were not at all satisfied with the treatment they received in the play-offs after Oshawa were thrown out. Leaside should never have been accepted in this league at any time. The town of Leaside belongs to Greater Toronto and as some of the employees live in the city they should have applied to the T.A.B.A. and played in some grouping up there. Leaside is not, strictly speaking, a Central Ontario town, while Kingston is. Kingston was brought in on approbation for one year, and they certainly deserve another chance. They played good consistent ball, had a nice park and got good crowds all year. The train connections from Kingston are the very best excepting to Peterboro and there was no holler from that quarter, while to Leaside one has to transfer and go out in the suburbs to get there. Then when one does arrive they only have a handful of people attending their games.

The January 1st residence rule is all right. It has sufficed the needs of this league for some three years and it should be sufficient now. The O.B.A.A. considered that January the 1st would stop tourists quicker than a later date, and it has. Probably the other towns haven't got factories enough to keep their ball players busy from January 1st.

Jake Solomon told the delegates that other leagues were sending resolutions to have the residence rule changed. Well, why not let them do it? Surely the O.B.A.A. has heard enough of it from this league.

The semi-annual meeting of the O.B.A.A. takes place the second Saturday in November, while the C.O.B.L. will hold theirs on the second Wednesday following. Here is hoping that all matters will be finally adjusted satisfactorily and that the season will be able to get started without any wrangling such as was seen this past year.

As for the grouping it would be wisest to have a single schedule with double or triple schedules split in two halves, the winners to play off as in past seasons.

CANADIAN BRUISER AWARDED DECISION

MONTREAL, Oct. 11.— (Canadian Press.)— Jack Renault, heavyweight champion of Canada, was awarded the decision in a 10-round bout there last night with soldier Jones, Toronto.

Commenting on the fight, the Montreal Gazette says that "had he so desired, Renault could have scored a knockout any time after the third minute of the bout. Renault fairly played with his opponent in seven of ten rounds and delighted in cutting him about the face and head, but at the same time refrained from landing a knockout punch.

ALL SET FOR BIG BASEBALL EVENT AT RIVERSIDE SATURDAY

Speaker and His Party Are Now at Rice Lake And Will be Seen in Action in Memorable Fixture.

EDWARDS TO PITCH

Everything is set for the biggest baseball event of the year at Riverside Park on Saturday, when Tris Speaker's American League All-Stars will do battle with Conny Burns' Toronto Wellingtons.

Speaker and his party motored into town from Toronto last night, and are now at Rice Lake, but they will be here on Saturday morning for the big clash which is called for 2.45 o'clock.

Speaker's team will include Jim Edwards, Cleveland pitcher, Les Nunamaker, catcher, Roger Peckinpaugh, the Washington shortstop, Babe Dye, Buffalo's slugging outfielder, Jack Beattie, the London M.-O. team's manager at first base, and other well-known players, while the Wellingtons will have a classy squad of clever performers.

Wellingtons Defeated, 10 to 6.

The All-Stars played in Toronto yesterday, and The Globe says:

Tris Speaker's all-star team had no trouble in defeating the Toronto Wellingtons at Scarboro Beach grounds yesterday afternoon, even if Speaker and Ty Cobb did insist on taking a turn on the pitching mound. The final score was 10 to 6, and would have been even more one-sided had the visitors taken the affair at all seriously. The Stars crowded seven of their seventeen hits into the second inning, scored six runs, and then took matters easily.

"Babe" Dye earned a gold watch for himself when he hit a home run in the first inning. As he was the lead-off man he took no chances on any other player getting ahead of him. Later he pounded out two doubles and kept pace with Speaker for the hitting honours. He made a homer, a double, and a single. Cobb made only one safe blow in five times at bat. Ernie Hewer led the local batsmen with three hits in five chances.

They're Major Stars.

Big league stars in action were: Speaker, centrefield and pitcher; Nunamaker, catcher; Peckinpaugh, shortstop; and Edwards, pitcher; Jack Beattie, London manager, played first base and did good work. Mike Vincent also played.

About 2,000 people attended, and prominent among them were: Captain Joe Thompson, M.P.P., T. L. Church, M.P., Lou Scholes, former champion sculler, Dan Howley, manager of the Toronto Internationals, Lol Solman, president of the Leafs; "Red" 'Wingo, late of Toronto, and now of the Detroit Americans, and "Red" Fisher, former Toronto catcher

Asked what he thought of the ability of "Babe" Dye, Manager Speaker volunteered the information that he had never heard of the Toronto player, and wanted to know what club he played with. Evidently Cleveland is not bidding for the Buffalo outfielder.

Can Roam Wilds Now.

Just before the game started, Captain Thompson presented hunting and fishing licenses to Speaker, Nunamaker, Cobb, Peckinpaugh and Edwards. These players are in Canada on a hunting trip, Speaker's party being headed for Rice Lake, near Peterborough, and Cobb, Howley and others for Timagami. Howley, Tommy Daly, and Tom Bird, local sportsman, have been in camp at Timagami for ten days. Howley reports that the minions of the law relieved Mr. Bird of his guns and ammunition when he arrived in the Northland. These will be returned when the hunting season opens.

It was expected that "Andy" Anderson would play, but the former Toronto favourite was nowhere to be found when the game commenced. Mike Vincent may make his home in this city, while Wingo says that he will leave here this week.

The All-Stars and Wellingtons will play again in Peterborough on Saturday.

The score by innings in yesterday's game was as follows:

Stars	16001110	10	17 4
Wellingtons	21003000	6	13 5

Edwards, Cobb, Speaker and Nunamaker; O'Connell and Beaune.

Umpires, Hallinan and Shepard.

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.— (United Press.)— The opening of the stock market to-day was dull and irregular with fraction changes.

Southern Railway was up 3-4 at 34, and while the directors meet this morning, the opinion in the street is that the prices of the stock does not indicate that the $1 quarterly rate which is looked for when dividends are resumed is likely to be acted on to-day.

The Oils showed a firm tone in reflection of the report of a 62,000 barrel a day decrease in production of crude oil last week. However an analysis of the figures shows that more than one half of this drop occurred in Wyoming and can be attributed to the flood in that State.

Dullness continued through the first half hour but few important changes, the general list of stocks remaining at or near the opening levels.

Royal Dutch was up fractionally at 44 1-8, while Shelt Union, which it controls, was unchanged at 13 1-2. If Royal Dutch subscribes to its full privilege for additional Shell Union stock it will take about 1,400,000 of 2,000,000 shares to be issued at a cost of $14,000,000. Most of the Oils were unchanged, Producers and Refiners being an exception at 21 1-2, off 2 net.

Industrial Alcohol advanced a point to 51 1-2, following the announcement of a price advance of two cents a gallon for Commercial Alcohol. This is the fourth price advance this year and comes at a time when the company is having its largest business.

Plants are working at capacity and earnings prospects are said to be the best of any time since the war.

Trading continued dull, but with prices showing a declining tendency when Anaconda sold at a new 1923 low at 35 1-8, off 3-4. Utah Copper was down nearly a point and all the Coppers were fractionally lower.

Continental Can at 46 5-8, was off 1-4.

Talk in Oil circles regarding Producers and Refiners is that the company might do some additional financing. Some months ago the company offered additional stock at fifty and since reduced the dividend from $4 to $2 annually.

Opening prices include:

New Haven 12 3-8, off 1-4; United States' Steel 86 5-8, Can 89 1-2, off 1-2, Sinclair 19, up 1-8; Dupont 124 3-4, up 1-4; Bethlehem Steel 46 5-8, up 1-8; Southern Railway 34 3-4, up 3-4; Baldwin 115 5-8, up 1-4; Baltimore & Ohio 57 1-8, ex-dividend up 1-8; Chesapeake & Ohio 66 1-4, up 1-2; Studebaker 95 3-8; General Motors 14, up 1-8; American Sugar 61; Anaconda 35 3-8; New York Central 101, up 1-4; Wabash Preferred A. 31, 1-4.

ODDITIES IN NEWS

IMAGINARY

Patrolman Odell had not worked for three weeks, his left arm being paralyzed. He took his six-year-old grandson for a walk. The lad fell off a peir into the ocean at Glen Island, N. Y. Grandpa forgot he was paralyzed, dived into the water, swam to the boy and saved him.

Next day he showed up for work, paralysis cured. Grandson's peril had made him forget it.

Power of mind over matter? Partly. Another factor: The emotional shock of seeing his grandson drowning probably over-stimulated his adrenal glands and their sudden activity affected his nervous system in a way to counteract the paralysis. Take your choice of the two theories.

RICHES

It'd take at least 300 billion dollars to buy the United States and everything in it. That figure is the new government estimate of our total national wealth.

If it were divided evenly, there'd be less than $3,000 for every man, woman and child. Another way of figuring it would be to reckon the national income of the American people (about 40 billion dollars a year) as being 6 per cent. of national wealth. On which basis, national wealth is around 666 billion dollars, over twice the Uncle Sam estimate.

TO CHANGE DATES OF POULTRY SHOW

Also Proposed that This Year's Exhibit be Held In the Armouries.

Members of the Peterborough Poultry Association in monthly session last night concluded that the dates for the association's annual poultry show are not suitable and that other more appropriate dates shall be decided on at a meeting at K. Throop's shop, Simcoe street on Monday, Oct 17.

In this connection Secretary W. J. Nesbitt read a communication from the Provincial organization stating that the dates selected by Peterborough conflicted with the dates for the Belleville Show and that they would like Peterboro to change its date. An effort has been made to induce the Belleville Association to change their dates so as to leave Jan. 8 to 10 open, but this was impossible the Belleville Executive replied.

George Paxman suggested holding Peterborough's show in the armouries this year, and after brief discussion it was decided to endeavor to secure that building. If the Association can do this they will be able to hold their show here on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, January 23 to 25, whereas were it held in the held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to permit the building being cleaned up for Saturday's market. Mr. Paxman said that the armouries could be heated with several large Quebec heaters. George Grange thought the armouries would be a great deal more convenient than the market building, where everything has to be carried upstairs.

Mr. Robinson moved that Messrs. Darrah Nesbitt, Paxman, Grange and Holmes be appointed to interview Col. F. Bradburn requesting permission to use the armouries on January 2, 3, 4. This was seconded by Mr. Lucas and carried.

A letter from the Belleville Poultry Association's secretary, asked for mutual co-operation of the Peterboro and Belleville Associations in their respective exhibitions, and this was acquiesced in.

A working party was called for and it was decided that they should visit the Exhibition grounds on Saturday, Oct. 20, and prepare crates ready for the show.

Discussed Dog Show

A dog show in connection with the Poultry exhibit was discussed, but it was decided that this annex would cost too much. It was stated that 100 Boston Bull, have been promised as special exhibits from Toronto.

The meeting adjourned until November 14th when another social evening, open to the public will be held. Messrs. G. Paxman, E. H. White, V. J. Tully, S. E. Moncrief and R. M. Brown were appointed to attend to the arrangements for entertainment on this date.

President Darrah, who presided last night, extends a hearty invitation to the public to be present on this occasion.

The meeting last evening was also of a social character and refreshments were served under supervision of the entertainment committee's chairman, K. Throop.

CHICAGO ROAD WINS BIG RAILROAD PRIZE

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 11.— (Associated Press).—The Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Interurban Railway today was awarded the Charles A. Coffin Foundation prize, consisting of $1,000 in cash and a medal contributed by the General Electric Company, for having made the greatest contribution to electric transportation during the last year. The award was made to Britton I. Budd, President of the road and President-elect of the American Electric Railway Association, at its closing convention session here today. A score of companies from various parts of the country competed.

Seven accomplishments, popularizing service, gaining public goodwill, introducing economies through original and adapted ideas, improving construction practises, reducing accidents, improving employe management relations, and reducing new capital costs, were the basis of the award. Popularizing service, gaining public good-will and improving employe relations were given major weightings by the judges and on these the winner scored high.

Major financial accomplishments by the road include increasing its gross passenger earnings five times in seven years and its freight earnings 15 times in five years.

"We give service and tell our story," was the epitomized reason for success given by the company in its brief. The company's annual advertising appropriation is the largest of any electric railway company in the United States. Newspaper space is used liberally along with car signs, company publications, billboards, motion pictures and other mediums.

"No matter how frequently trains may run," the company's statement says, "if they are made up of cars of obsolete type, unsightly in appearance and uncomfortable in riding qualities, they will not meet with popular favor. If the cars are good and the roadbed in bad condition, the service will not satisfy the public. If employes are untidy in appearance, careless in the manner in which they perform their work, if they do a small favor for a passenger grudgingly and only when asked, the service is not satisfactory. If ticket agents are not ready to answer correctly and promptly any and all questions asked by the public relative to service, prospective customers will turn away disappointed and form a poor opinion of the company."

A WINTER GARDEN

With attention to the essentials, there is no reason why one should not have at trifling cost bloom from bulbs during the winter months, and enjoy, in fact a veritable winter garden. This is no new theory, as winter gardening with bulbs has been practiced in Canada as long as bulbs have been known, but the "when" and "how" are not as generally understood as they shou'd be, and failure sometimes is the outcome.

Bulbs for the house may be grown in soil and pots, in fibre and vases, in water and pebbles, in moss, and as air plants. This article will deal only with the soil and pot method.

When To Plant.

The planting of bulbs for the house after October is a wasteful effort. Have you ever grown hyacinths where the flowers would color while still hidden away down in the foliage? That is one of the results of late planting. Two-thirds of the stunted flowers of tulips and daffodils are due to the same cause.

Freesies should be potted in August: lilies, Roman hyacinths, poperwhite narcissus in September; Dutch hyacinths, tulips, daffodils, jonquils, crocus, from September to October, and Lily-of-the-Valley in November and December.

Soil.

If bulbs are to be grown for the house in pots, the soil should either be a compost such as gardeners use, or a good, live garden loam, to which should be added one-third leaf mould, and one-third decayed stable manure and sharp sand. Those who have no garden, can purchase the right kind of soil from the seedman at a moderate price. Do not use spent soil, such as that from window boxes, as to do so is to invite failure.

Potting.

In the bottom of the pot should first be placed some pieces of broken crockery to provide drainage. Fill two-thirds full with soil, place bulbs and cover within half an inch of the top of the pot to allow for watering. With hyacinths, daffodils and narcissus, the nose of the bulb should be protruded from the soil after potting is finished; other kinds should be completely covered. Then give the pots a thorough soaking.

Storage.

With the exception of Freesias, Oxalis, Callas and lilies, all potted bulbs should be stored away in a dark, cool place for the purpose of making roots. Do not attempt to force top growth until there is ample root growth to support it.

The usual place for indoor storage is the cellar or the attic or any spare room where there is darkness and ventilation, and where the temperature ranges from 40 to 50 degrees. Not only should the temperature be low, but it should not vary to a great extent.

THIS SOCIOLOGY STUDENT STUDIES WHILE WALKING

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 11.—(United Press).—Polle A. K. Bur, who trots around the globe on foot, stopped here the other day.

Bur, who is 21, is a sociology student and writer of Prague, Czecho-Slovakia. He started eastward from his home, was captured and nearly shot as a spy in Turkey, slept in trees with the monkeys in India, and worked with the harvest-hands of Kansas.

He will visit Russia late this year, before going to his home, but will return to the United States next August to complete at Northwestern University, Chicago, the sociology course he started at Prague University and continued on his trip around the world.

Becoming a diplomat is Bur's ultimate ambition.

He left Czecho-Slovakia with three other university students, who returned home, however, after becoming entangled in Turkish politics. Bur was saved from a spy's death by a letter from the mayor of Constantinople, which he had in his pocket. He fought against the Bolsheviks, was wounded in battle, and was decorated. He was received by princes in India, as well as by the monkeys, and since his arrival in the United States has secured the signatures of hundreds of mayors, governors and other notables in his autograph album.

His immediate ambition is to talk to Henry Ford.

Chess has been the chief pastime of the German village of Stroebeck, for more than 800 years.

"MERRY-GO-ROUND" HELD OVER FOR TO-NIGHT ONLY OWING TO PUBLIC DEMAND

Originally booked for three days only, "Merry-Go-Round" has been held over for to-night owing to so many requests. Universal has certainly produced a masterpiece. It is based on the thought that "love makes the world go round," and when you analize the basic thought of the picture you could well revamp this phrase to read, "it's love that makes the 'Merry-Go-Round'." To-night is the last showing and it is too good a picture to miss.

BIG STORM AT SEA ONE OF SENSATIONS.

Daring Prison Outbreak Another Punch in Drama Replete With Adventure and Mystery — "The Little Colonel" Supported By a Notable Cast of Screen Artists, Including Ruth Clifford.

There is a prison scene in the William Fox special, "The Face on the Barroom Floor," which opens at the Royal Theatre to-morrow that makes the blood race at the vivid picturization of what desperate men will do in a mad struggle for freedom. Closely following this comes the terrific storm scenes and the floundering ship at sea narrowly missing the treacherous rocks. In the nick of time, the light in the lighthouse shows the captain the way, and the ship is saved.

Henry B. Walthall, famed as the "Little Colonel" in D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation," plays the dramatic role of Robert Stevens, the artist, in this production. He gives a vivid performance of the man who takes to drinking when his sweetheart attributes a monstrous crime to him, and the exciting events that follow as a result make of "The Face on the Barroom Floor" one of the most powerful pictures that have come from the William Fox studios.

Much credit goes to Director Jack Ford for his deft handling of the theme of this story. He could have made it heavy and preachy, but instead, it preaches no lesson concerning the evil of drink. It is a straightforward story, which, abetted by its potent theme, makes it foremost among this year's specials.

AT THE REGENT.

NITA NALDI SEEN AS CLEOPATRA IN FINE PHOTOPLAY

Siren Extraordinary of Screen is Excellently Cast in "Lawful Larency"

Nita Naldi, screen siren extraordinary, is a modern Cleopatra in "Lawful Larceny," a Paramount picture directed by Allan Dwan which will be on view at the Regent Theatre for 3 days beginning to-day. Miss Naldi is a modern with pure Egyptian flavor and she years gowns that will inevitab.ly create a sensation wherever the picture is shown.

Modern adaptations of this particular Egyptian period were made for Miss Naldi by leading designers of New York with the result that her gowns are said to be "le dernier cri" in Egyptian mode, which, according to the leading modistes is to be the dominating note in the fashions of this and subsequent seasons for years to come.

"Miss Naldi is Cleopatra reincarnated," declared Mr. Dwan. "Many leading artists have said that she is the nearest to the famous Egyptian charmer to be found in America. With her long slender arms and limbs, piercing black eyes and raven hair she is wonderful in Egyptian clothes that are bizarre to the last degree, and in a surrounding of ancient splendor.

"In "Lawful Larceny" we give the public the newest ideas of Egyptian fashions and decorations. We have spared no expense and time in research for this material. Miss Naldi is a charmer of men in the picture and we have given her the latest weapons with which to work her charms."

Not only will Miss Naldi be clad in Egyptian gowns, but she will have a complete Egyptian background for her machinations against men. Every photograph of King TutankhAmen's tomb printed in this country was studied for ideas. No detail was overlooked in making Miss Naldi's latest appearance on the screen the most sensational of her career.

THE PASSION PLAY TO BE REPEATED

Rev .R. B. Grobb, who witnessed the Passion Play at Ober-Ammergan last year will repeat his exposition of the famous performance in All Saints' church, under the auspices of the Women's Guild on Wednesday, Oct. 17th at 8 p.m. The address will be illustrated by seventy lantern slides made from photographs of the various scenes. Admission 25c. 1d.

HYPNOTISM

A student, sleeping with a telephone head-set over his ears, can be educated by radio. While he slumbers, knowledge comes through the phones, into his brains, and stays there almost as indelibly as lessons learned while awake. This apparently was proved at the naval air station, Pensacola, Fla. Now the navy assigns two medical officers to study the matter.

It suggests that the efficiency experts soon may make us get our education while asleep and keep us working all the time we're awake. Will hypnotism become a short-cut to education.

HELD EUCHRE PARTY.

Eastern Star L.O.B.A., No. 525, held their first progressive euchre party of the season last night, which was a decided success. Ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. B. Stokes, second prize by Miss Rose Sexsmith, third prize by Mrs. Gray. Gentleman's first pirze, Mr. Jack Brown, second prize, Mr. Bert Pearson, and third prize by Mr. G. Bromley. After cards, supper was served, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. The members of Eastern Star L.O. B.A. feel grateful to all who helped in any way to make the party such an enjoyable event.

NEW TESTS FOR WOMEN STUDENTS.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (United Press) —Students at Stephen's College for Women here are working in various classes, decided by their answers to a mental test consisting of 160 questions on facts of general observation, book knowledge, and problems in mathematics. The results of the test determined the class in which they were placed. Their grades in school work, further grades on this "quartile" mental test system, and their grades during their previous high school courses, all will be taken into consideration in determining whether they stay in their class or not.

BED

One-third of your life should be spent in sleep—eight hours a night—says Dr. C. C. Robinson, health expert. So if you live to be 60, about 20 years are devoted to sleep.

Compelled to spend 20 years or more in bed, it's a marvel that people economize when buying mattress and springs, instead of trying to get for the 20 years in bed the same sort of comfort they obtain in easy chairs, ect., during the 40 years awake.

BANDITS MAKE A GOOD HAUL

One Guarded Watchman While Six Looted Warehouse of $125,000 Worth Of Furs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press).— Six bandits early today trucked $125,000 worth of baiied furs from the warhouse of Frederick Huth & Co., on West 36th Street. The robbery is believed to have covered a period of four hours. While one bandit stood over the night watchman with a pistol, his companions leisurely went through several floors of the warehouse, selecting the choicest furs in stock and lowering them to the street entrance by an elevator.

Truckloads of furs were moved from the building. Police believe the robbers completed their work at 2 a.m.

HOME RUNS IN

into left, Groh going to third, Groh scored when Young singled into left. Frisch halted at second. Meusel forced Young, Frisch went to third. Yankees claimed that Young interfered with Ward in making double play. Umpire Hart would not allow the claim. There was a long argument at second base. Cuningham hit into double play; Scott to Ward to Pipp. 1 run, 3 hits, 0 rerors.

Seventh Innings.

Yankees — Bentley took Witt's hopper and tossed him out. Bentley also threw out Dugan. Ruth walked and was caught off first, the play being Snyder to Kelly to Bancroft to Kelly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants—Kelly fouled to Pipp. Snyder sent a high fly out to Meusel. Bentley got a hit into left for two bases. Bancroft fouled out to Dugan. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

Yankees—Meusel fouled out to Snyder. Pipp walked. Ward singled into centre, Pipp stopping at second. Schang flied out to Meusel. Scott flied out to Meusel. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Giants— Dugan threw out Groh. Scott threw off Frisch. Young up. The crowd jeered Young while the Giant rooters cheered. Young got a single into centre. Meusel singled into left, Young going to third. Gowdy batted for Cunningham. Gowdy flied out to Witt. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Yankees—Stengel went into centre field for the Giants. Bancroft threw out Pennock. Frich threw out Witt. Dugan got a two base hit into left. Ruth sent a high fly out to Stengel. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Giants — Dugan threw out Kelly. another sparkling play by Dugan. Scott threw out Snyder. Jackson batted in place of Bentley. Jackson flied out to Meusel. No runs, no hits, no errors.

BODENMARK

The bodenmark is Germany's new currency unit. It's worth 358 grams of fine gold, backed by mortgages on city land and farms.

Money based on land values is something new under the sun. Should make a sound currency system, for "land values" is just another name for human productiveness. The more we work, more valuable becomes the land on which we toil—farm, factory, office, home or store.

WEDDING BELLS

SIMMONS—LAIDLEY

On Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. A. G. Bentley, 378 Stewart street, a happy wedding ceremony took place. The contracting parties were Edgar Ernest Simmons and Edna Elsie Laidley both of Peterborough.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Evangelist A. G. Bentley, the bridegroom being attended by Mr. George Butcher and the bride by Miss Clara Simmons.

The young couple were the recipients of many tokens of esteem and good wishes and left later by train for their honeymoon trip.

KITCHEN—GIBBS.

On Saturday, October 6, 1923, St. John's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Edith A. Gibbs, of London, England, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Spencer Kitchen, only son of Mrs. Joseph Kitchen, 1013 Water Street, Rev. Dr. Blagrave officiating.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white georgette ornamented with pearls, with an underslip of white satin, also a bridal veil with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations.

As the bride entered the church on the arm of Mr. Fred. Smith, the wedding march from Lohengrin was beautifully rendered by Mr. Frederick Mann. Miss Margaret Kitchen, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, and looked very pretty in a silk crepe de chine dress in a view rose shade with facings of pearl grey with grey panne velvet hat and shoes to match. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

The service was choral. As the bridal party left the church the chimes were rung by Mr. Butcher. After the ceremony the bridal party proceeded to the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. Kitchen, who was becomingly attired in a sand silk crepe de chene dress faced with green, with hat to match. A sumptuous repast was served. A toast was given to the newly married couple by the bride's brother in the most fitting manner.

The guests remained and spent a very enjoyable evening.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold wrist watch; the bride's to the groom initialed gold cuff links.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gray morocco vanity bag; to Mr. Thos. Gibbs and Mr. Fred. Smith (who gave the bride away), gold cuff links.

The presents were numerous and costly, including cut glass, china and silverware.

The guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown and Freddie, Mr. Thomas Gibbs, Mrs. E. Hirst, Mr. and Mrs. A. Reid and Kathleen, Mrs. Brearley, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss A. Aspinall, Mr. and Mrs. C. Duck, Mrs. F. Quidland, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fife and the Misses E. M. and A. Fife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Smith and Mr. Eric Smith and Miss Frieda, Mr. and Mrs. Sayers, Mr. L. Kendrey, Miss M. Crossley, Miss A. Bench, Miss E. Renshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Kitchen will reside in the city.

"DOC" COOK TO FACE HIS TRIAL FOR FRAUD

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 11. —(United Press).—Dr. Frederick A Cook, who fourteen years ago electrified the world with the announcement he had discovered the North Pole, will be placed on trial in Federal District Court here Oct. 15, on charges of fraudulent use of the mails.

With him, twenty-one of his alleged associates in the promotion of the Petroleum Producers' Association here last year will be called on account.

Cook and a few others are expected to plead not guilty. Cook will charge, according to statements he has issued, that the Government's prosecution of his was inspired by the big oil interests of the country.

The trial will be presided over by Judge John N. Killits of Toledo, Ohio, especially assigned here for this and other oil fraud cases.

Cook's chief counsel will be former United States Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey.

The number of witnesses to be examined will be greater, according to forecast of court officials, than in any other mail fraud case ever tried.

Cook has been in the oil promotion business here for four years. He was stopped last Summer, when the Post Office Department issued a "fraud order" gainst him, barring him from use of the mails.

It was in September, 1909, that Cook became internationally famous, when he sailed into Copenhagen, Denmark with the assertion that he had found the North Pole. A few months later he was branded by various bodies as a faker. Now the Government charges him with humbuggery in the sale of half a million dollars' worth of oil stock to people throughout the country.

STACK 'EM UP.

Before washing dishes, stack 'em up as to size and get all the silverware together and the cooking dishes together. You save time and know when you are through.

DISHWASHING.

Prepare such desserts and vegetables as you will need for the day in the morning if you can. Then the pots and pans used in their preparation may be washed at that time and the dishwashing in the evening will not be so difficult.

MARRIED

PAN GERMANS DECLARE A DICTATORSHIP WOULD MEAN A WHITE TERROR

Despite Rumors of Growing Communist Menace, Stresemann May Be Unable to Secure Majority For Passing His Dictatorship Bill.

FOOD RIOTS AGAIN

BERLIN, October 12. (Special.)—Reichstag supporters of the Stressmann Cabinet were hurrying to Berlin to-day for the second attempt to be made to-morrow to drive the dictatorship bill through the chamber. Despite the rumours of a growing communist menace in Saxony and Thuringia, it was said to-day the Chancellor may be unable to rally the neecssary two-thirds majority to pass the measure, owing to the assertion of the Pan-Germans and Communists that it would mean inaugurration of a "white terror."

The Chancellor has threatened to dissolve the Reichstag if it fails to pass the bill and to postpone the new elections as long as constitutionally possible so as to gain dictatorial powers.

The uncertainty of the Reichstag situation was again reflected on the Bourse to-day where the mark had dropped five millards to the dollar.

BRITAIN IS READY.

Britain is ready to negotiate directly with the Berlin government regarding resumption of work in the Cologne area of the occupied zone of the Ruhr which is held by the British troops.

Marquis D'Abernon, the British ambassador to Berlin, gave notification of the fact to the German chancellory. The British attitude, which is contrary to the French position of ignoring the Federal government, and dealing directly with the Ruhr industrialists has caused enthusiasm here.

ESTABLISH GOLD BASIS.

With outcome of to-morrow's vote on his authorization bill for dictatorial economical authority still in doubt, Chancellor Stressemann late last night determined to eliminate the Reichstag from consideration for the present. Equipped with an extraordinary mandate conferred upon him by President Ebert on the ground of the President's constitu-

Six Persons Dead Several Ill From Drinking Moonshine

PANA, Ills., Oct. 12.—(United Prress). — Six persons are dead and several others are perhaps fatally ill in a hospital as a result of drinking moonshine whisky.

Blame for the six deaths was placed on moonshine by a Coroner's jury last night, following the deaths during the day.

The six drank from hte same supply of liquor, according to evidence presented to the jury, and upon investigation the liquor was found to contain a great amount of fusiloil.

CANADA TOLD TO LOOK FOR SUBSTITUTES

Coal Supply in United States Anthracite Mines is Not Inexhaustible, Declares F. A. Coombe — Discusses Canada's Fuel Situation.

MUST ECONOMIZE

"The Dominion Bureau has been advised by the United States Bureau that Canada must look for some substitute for anthracite, as the supply in the United States cannot last indefinitely," declared F. A. Coombe, M.E.I.C., in discussing the fuel situation at the first of this season's meetings of the Peterboro Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada last night. Mr. Coombe is chairman of the General Fuel Committee of the Institute and chairman of the Montreal Branch of the Fuel Committee, and has made an intensive and extensive study of Canada's fuel problem and resources.

In a general review of the coal sources in Canada, the speaker discussed the possibilities in each kind of fuel, evidently leaning toward the utilization of bituminous coal through coking. "Although we hear so much about it," he said, "Nova Scotia only contains about one per cent. of the total coal resources of Canada." While the supply of coal from Nova Scotia is just about sufficient to satisfy Quebec, if it were brought in there it would release an equal quantity that is now shipped into that province from the United States. The supply of bituminous coal in the United States is practically inexhaustible, and could be drawn upon for domestic use in Ontario through coking.

Economize in Use.

The speaker advocated economy in the use of coal through utilizing water power wherever available. "For our railways and industries requiring steam we must depend on the United States," he said.

Another fact that the speaker stressed was the lower quality of anthracite coming from the United States mines. As the mines become exhausted, he explained the grade becomes lower and the cost higher. Anthracite was described as the luxury fuel, all right for the person who does not feel the burden of his coal bill. The man who feels the high cost of heating must look elsewhere

SAY BOBBED HAIR LOPS OFF SOME OF WOMEN'S YEARS

There Seems No Doubt in the Minds of Leading Hairdressers That Trend of Feminine Fashion Will Favor Shorn Tresses

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—To bob or not to bob—that, it appears, is still the question.

Last season, the "noes" thought they had the matter pretty thoroughly settled.

They spread abroad much propaganda about the new styles demanding a dignified type of hair dressing, and many fell for it, ceased their visit to the barber and cultivated the hair-growing institute instead. So the price of hair brushes went up —and up.

Then there were others who maintained dignity was an innate quality of mind and spirit not expressed by the hair or the clothes, and since they found the bob gloriously comfortable, they went on serenely in their bobbed way.

This summer, in Paris, Emile, the famous hairdresser, told me short hair had broken out with an entirely new fury, and women who had never felt the cold shears on their necks before were now becoming acquainted with the sensation. He predicted as great popularity for it this season in Paris, as during the war time, when one could have such a good excuse.

Old Ones Fall

Back in New York, I consulted J. Halloh who waves and clips the heads of some of the most fashionable Gothamites knowing he could tell me what our own smart set is doing.

"Th bob is just as popular now as it has been any time during its history," he informed me, "and the interesting part is that it keeps its hold on the older women even more than the youngsters.

"Hardly a day goes by that I do not bob some white or gray head. Not the faddy, extreme women carry on this style now, but the conservatives.

"Flappers gave up the bob easier than their elders did last year, because they did not appreciate, or need, its greatest advantage—that it actually does lop years off a woman. Short skirts and short hair are essentially youthful, and that's why you simply can't get rid of them."

The Favorite

The type of bob so popular now in New York is the style they call "La Garconne" in Paris, meaning the bachelor girl.

"This keeps the line of the head in the back. The front may be pulled back severely, or waved about the face, to suit the features of the wearer," he explained.

"The bob of a few seasons ago, that stuck out wide like a haystack, was not universally becoming because it was at variance with the Greek ideal of the small head as an attribute of feminine loveliness. It did tend to make women with large features look coarse, and sometimes masculine.

"No one can accuse the modern bob of that, and for that reason, I believe, short hair is a permanent institution and that we will see more bobbed heads this winter than ever before."

KID SATAN AND THE REV. YOUNG

Evangelist Never Was a Champion, But Always Was a Hard Fighter.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12. — "In this corner Kid Satan, in the other the Rev. Eddie Young."

The fight, announced above, has been on for years. Kid Satan, alias Knockout Lucifer, is well and unfavorably known. His opponent is the popular favorite even though he is less experienced.

The Rev. Edward R. Young, evangelist of the Church of the Assemblies of God, is his title now. He never was a champion—he always was a fighter—he still is.

Bible vs. Fisticuffs.

When Eddie was a kid and had vanquished each and every one of his playmates, two neighborhood sports arranged a bout in a barn with $5 as a purse. After 20 bloody rounds, Eddie won the fight and the $5 with an uppercut.

The sports said Eddie was cut out

STOP WORRYING DON'T GET OLD

Such is Advice of Dr. Held Who Draws from Monkeys Elixin of Youth.

By GEORGE BRITT

CHICAGO, Oct. 12—"Stop worrying and you won't have to get old."

So says Dr. William Held and proceeds to draw from the monkeys and chimpanzees in his laboratory an elixir of youth which may produce changes in life as sharp as the primordial transition from simian to human.

Rejuvention is his promise, and he is ready confidently to apply his treatment to any ailment, either of age or disease. The only incurable and lethal ill, he says, is care.

Back to Youth

Glands are at the basis of the method. Dr. Held does not transplant them, however. He puts the patient's own glands to operating again at youthful efficiency. The result is to give a full-time new lease on life, whereas it is claimed the

Fate's Sepulcher

Quicksand and bottom silt closed over the wrecks of cars which plunged off the weakened Coal Creek bridge near Casper, Wyo., recently, hurling some 25 to 40 passengers to their deaths in the turbulent waters below. Officials were impeded in their efforts to extricate bodies of victims from the tangled mass of steel and mud, due to submergence of the coaches, compelling them to burn passages through the roof tops with acetylene torches as shown in the picture.

BIG INCREASE BUILDING WAS STRONG POINT

BALL PLAYERS OUT

In 1896 the building in Peterborough owned and occupied by the Y. M.C.A. at the corner of George and Murray streets, was built at a cost of $13,000. This significant indication of the trend of the times was given at to-day's Kiwanis Club luncheon by Mr. G. H. Roper, general secretary of the local branch of the Y. M.C.A. Mr. Roper made an appeal for support and incidentally referred to the building as a valuable asset that was obtained through the generosity of the late Charlotte Nicholls The lumber in the building could hardly be purchased for that amount to-day. In North America alone the Y.M.C.A. has a membership of over one million and the work in foreign fields is beginning to assume large proportions. An effort is being made locally to increase the membership from 620 to 750. An extension to the building is also needed.

Mr. J. E. Kelso, of Rochester, who left Peterborough forty-four years ago when he was seventeen years of age, followed with an address in which he endorsed the work of the Y.M.C.A., Kiwanis clubs and other kindred organizations. Mr. Kelso was the first president of the Rotary Club in Rochester and of all his associations, fraternal and otherwise, the workof the Rotary Club appeals to him the most. "The work is simply being a friend to others," was the way Mr. Kelso put it. In Rochester the work of the Rotary Club has been very effective in aiding crippled children for which substantial resources have been placed at the disposal of the Rotarians.

Commenting on the work of the Y.M.C.A., Mr. Kelso said it was a worthy effort Do not hesitate, he said, to lend the institution a helping hand because they are helping to do a work that must be done today. It is too late to-morrow.

Visitors at to-day's meeting included Alex Kay and his championship baseball team, known as the Curlers. Reviewing the work of the players, Mr. Kay said it was the last team gathered together and it was finally labelled the Curlers. Some of the hardest games played throughout the season were played at home with local teams.

Kiwanian Joe Wearing welcomed the players and said the successful amateur sport was one of the best boosts a city could get. Success in business is achieved by hard work and the same thing applies to sport.

President J. A. McKone presided.

FRENCH LANDLORD BEGGED, TENANTS COULDN'T PAY UP

Occupants Lost Their Jobs During the War and Owner Had Not the Heart to Eject Them—Has Sympathy of Magistrate

PARIS, October 12 (United Press). — Prosper Matetrat, a French landlord, went out into the streets and begged rather than make the tenants of his two houses pay rent.

Hailed into Court for begging, he told this story:

"I own two houses in the southern suburbs of Paris. My tenants, however, don't pay me. All lost their jobs during the war, and can't afford to pay rent.

"Repairs cost money. As I haven't any money, I took to begging to save the houses from falling into disrepair."

"Go out and beg some more," said the magistrate. "I'm for you."

WAS ALMOST A NO-RUN GAME UNTIL NEAR END BIG CROWD FANS OUT

NEW YORK, Yankee Stadium, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Gotham to-day really was in a baseball fever. Lured by the call of the mighty bat of Babe Ruth and the knowledge that at last the Yankee team could stand toe to toe and take it with the Giant oufit, the town went baseball mad.

In the two previous games, neither the great Yankee Stadium nor the imposing Polo Grounds was filled, but when the word went round last night of Ruth's arrival as a world's series hitter, the fans caught on and grasped the old world series excitement.

Twelve policemen who spent all Wednesday night guarding one lone bleacherite had to call for help last night. At nine o'clock this morning there was a long line outside the Yankee Stadium that had gathered through the night.

At twelve the bleacher gates were closed, and thousands who stood in lines six abreast edged up for the higher priced seats of the grand stand.

The Yankees were on the field early, and the advent of Ruth was the signal for a great outburst of enthusiasm.

Shortly after noon they were followed by the Giants.

At one gate the mounted police and bluecoats outside had to use their clubs and charge the mobs lined up for the ducats.

Ropes were stretched to keep them back, and the streets cleared for the arrival of reinforcements should a riot call be sounded.

The Line-ups.

Umpires — Nallan, Heart, Evans, and O'Day.

First Inning

Giants — Bancroft flied out to Meusel. Scott fumbled Groh's grounder and batter was safe. Frisch flied out to witt. Young lined out to Witt who came in fast to make catch No runs, no hits, 1 error.

Second Innings.

Giants—Meusel flied out to his brother Bob. Witt took Stengel's fly. Kelly sent up a high one to Scott. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Pipp fouled out to Kelly. Ward popped to Snyder. Schang flied to Bancroft. No runs, hits or errors.

Third Innings.

Yankees— Bancroft made a nice

102 Years Old, She Will Be First To Pass Over Causeway

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—When the causeway over the Canadian National Railway at the village of Collins Bay is completed, Mrs. Darius Smith, who lives at Collins Bay, and who is the oldest inhabitant of Eastern Ontario, will have the honor of taking the first drive over it. She will be 102 years old on October 18th, the day of the official opening by Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Highways. She is enjoying good health and is possessed of all her faculties. Anthony Rankin, M. P. P., extended an invitation to Mrs. Smith to take part in the opening ceremonies and she has accepted. The causeway was erected at this crossing as for many years it has been regarded as a "death trap" and one of the most dangerous on the entire system.

BURGLARS ENTER COBOURG STORES

Four Premises Broken Into and Town Folks Much Excited.

COBOURG, Oct. 12.—There was great excitement here yesterday morning when it was found that two of Cobourg's best stores in the business centre of the town had been broken into and robbed, that a safe at Geo. Plunket & Sons' coal office had been blown open and Houghtailing's garage broken into. It is many a long year since such a wholesale robbing scheme has been effected here

P. McCallum & Sons are the heaviest losers, as they had from $2,000 to $3,00 worth of goods taken. The robbers evidently went about their work with considerable sang froid and system. The two stores robbed, W. L. Allen's hardware and P. McCallum & Son's dry goods store, are situated side by side on the south side of King street, just a little west of the Allen Theatre and about six doors from the four corners. They gained entrance to W. L. Allen's store by means of a basement window, which was barred with heavy iron bars. A crow bar was evidently used to pry these. The cash register was relieved of about $3.00 in change, some coppers being left in the till. The intruders helped themselves to a goodly supply of razors, a breast drill and a hand drill, about $50 worth in all.

Finding the entrance scheme at the rear to work in the one case, they tried it on the next store, that of P. McCallum & Sons. Here they got in through a barred window and proceeded to the main floor, where they went to work with discrimination and despatch. Investigating the shelves of goods they selected web after web of the best silks of different kinds, and ladies' suitings, taking in all from $2,000 to $3,000 worth. A drill left there and which had probably been used in effecting an entrance, is stated to have been part of the booty stolen from the Allen store.

Geo. Plunket & Sons' coal office was another place visited. Money was evidently the object here, as the

PETERBOROUGH TEACHERS MEET IN CONVENTION

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Three sessions of the County of Peterboro Teachers' Institute were held in the Normal School, commencing yesterday.

At half-past nine o'clock in the morning a group of enthusiastic teachers met to discuss ways and means of doing, more efficiently, the work they had been given to do.

President's Address.

After the opening exercises, some matters of routine business were given attention. Following these, the opening address was given by the president, Mr. Madill. In an interesting and forceful manner the speaker brought many points of vital importance before his hearers. He presented a picture—a company of soldiers, fully trained, listening to the instruction of their sergeant-major to "stand steady" when need arose. To these was likened a company of trained teachers. The time for these to "stand steady" was when occasions came for doing their best in the service to which they had given themselves. Teachers, like soldiers, should do what they are trained to do. Their objective is the making of good citizens. To teach well, one must be thoroughly familiar with his subject and this necessitates daily preparation of work.

Mr. Madill considers that the biggest curse of the rural school is the High School entrance examination. As a result of it too much time is spent on the fourth class. This is not fair to other pupils and the foundation for next year's work is poor. A good showing may be made one year, but this is followed by many years of undoing the injustice done to these younger pupils. A teacher should not strive to please the people but should do his work thoroughly and well.

Progress Hindered.

Imperfect work should not be accepted from pupils. It hinders progress to real objective. If teacher wishes to make real success in character-building, he should beware of temptations. He must not be careless, but must "stand steady" and discharge his obligations remembering that his is the most important of all work and is being done for eternity.

Reports on Education.

This address produced mingled feelings of awe and responsibility which were in no wise dispelled by hearing the reports given of the Ontario Educational Association. These were well given and interesting. Miss Crowe presented a detailed account of the sessions of the public school section, while Miss Little gave accounts of visits to other sections and impressions received from these. Both delegates tried to impress their hearers with

FOR PERFECT BODY

By NIELS BUKH.

With the system of gymnastics that I employ, I am not only trying to develop the perfect human race, but to instill in Europe a new idea—the idea that physical training is the means of self-expression, to individualism.

Heretofore the sole end of physical training in Europe has been to create better soldiers.

I am trying to get a new viewpoint—that gymnastics can be of aid in individual sports, competitive games, in the daily routine of life.

My one aim is the development of the perfect human body, strong in all its parts, and subordinate to a mind tuned to the better things of life.

Our Error.

America has always ranked first in competitive games. But I believe that America's physical training has been too one-sided.

The question that enters my mind is whether they would not be far better in their chosen lines of endeavor if they had first laid the foundation of a perfect body before attempting specialization in one sport.

Finland, I believe, illustrates my point. My system of training is widespread in that country, practically the entire population taking it up.

High Record.

Finland, a country with 3,000,000 people, ran second to America, a country of 100,000,000, in the 1920 Olympic games. Such populous countries as England and France were distanced.

In the development of the perfect body, I work for three things—suppleness, strength and co-ordination of mind and body.

First I develop suppleness. Then when the muscles are limbered up and their use is easy, I start in to strengthen them.

The final step in the training is the perfect subordination of the muscles to the commands of the mind.

VEGETABLE MARMALADES

There are a few vegetables that make delicious and unusual sweets. Carrots are especially good. The vegetable marrow can be used. Beets are attractive and combine well with fruits and tomatoes alone or, in combination, make conserves that are heartily appreciated during winter.

There is a distinct saving in the use of vegetables. They are cheaper than fruit in the first place and make it possible to decrease the amount of sugar in the second. The vegetable acts as a sort of filler or foundation while the fruit simply adds flavor.

Of course a vegetable marmalade is not as rich as an entire fruit sweet, but for everyday use in a family with children the "imitation" marmalade is desirable.

Imitation Orange Marmalade

One pound carrots, 2 oranges, 1 lemon, 3 cups sugar.

Scrape carrots and put through food chopper. Cook in boiling water to cover for fifteen minutes. Wash oranges and lemon and squeeze out juice. Cook rinds in water to cover till tender. Shred rinds or put through food chopper. Add juice, rinds, sugar to carrots and simmer till thick and jelly like. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin when cool. It will not take long cooking to make the marmalade, as there is much pectin in lemon rind.

Imitation Apricot Marmalade

One pound carrots, 3 lemons, 4 cups sugar, 30 blanched almonds, ¼ teaspoon pistachio flavoring.

Wash and scrape carrots. Put through food chopper and cook in boiling water to cover till tender. Grate the yellow rind from the lemons and squeeze out the juice. Add juice and grated rind to carrots. Shred almonds and add. Add more water if necessary to prevent burning. Cook slowly till thick. Add pistachio when removing from the fire. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal at once.

Green Tomato Marmalade

Five pounds green tomatoes, 5 lemons, 5 tablespoons minced ginger, 8 cups sugar.

Wash tomatoes and cut in slices. They should be very green without a trace of red. Put in a large crock, cover with cold water and let stand over night. In the morning drain well and chop. Wash lemons and grate rind. Squeeze out juice. Add lemon juice, grated rind and minced ginger to tomato with just enough water to prevent burning. Simmer, stirring occasionally, for an hour. Add sugar and cool till thick. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Vegetable Marrow Jam

The marrows should be not more than half grown. Pare and remove seeds. Cut in thin slices and shred. Weigh. Make a sirup of two pounds sugar and 4 cups water. When boiling add marrows and let stand two days. Drain off sirup. Weigh marrow again and allow 1 pound of sugar to 1 pound of fruit. Put fruit, sugar, grated rind and juice of lemons and ginger bruised and tied in a piece of muslin in preserving kettle. Boil slowly till clear. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

"It's Confidence That Counts."

STORM SIGNALS HOISTED ABOVE THE REICHSTAG

Stresemann Forced By the Left Wing of Socialists to Defer Vote on Bill.

COALITION IN DANGER

BERLIN, Oct, 11.—Storm signals are flying over the Reichstag Building, although less than a week has elapsed since Chancellor Stresemann's laboriously resuscitated coalition ministry was again inducted into office. The four parties constituting the coalition group, which it was believed could command a sufficient majority to enable the Chancellor to put through his dictatorial legislation, failed to-day to mobilize enough deputies to give Stresemann's authorization law the needed constitutional sanction.

Dicord in the ranks of the Socialists, whose left wing assumed an obstreperous attitude, after the successful filibustering tactics of the Nationalists and Communists forced the coalition leaders to seek refuge in having the final vote on this measure postponed until Saturday.

Majority Doubtful.

Whether the Government will be able to command enough votes to push the bill through the third reading with even a semi-respectable majority is to-night a matter of doubt. Upon the fate of the bill rests also the immediate future of Stresemann and his coalition.

Invested by President Ebert with authority to dissolve the Reichstag in the event that it balks on passage of the authorization law, the Chancellor summoned the party leaders for a final warning and then permitted the measure to go through the third reading debate, at the conclusion of which it was considered prudent to defer the final balloting until Saturday.

Paragraphs Approved.

While the bill as a whole was not finally dealt with the first paragraph was adopted 253 to 97. This related to authorization to the Government to take whatever measures are deemed necessary in financial, economic and social spheres, regardless of the Reich constitution. The second paragraph also was voted.

Unless the coalition in the intervening time fortifies its voting phalanx in a plenary session, it may be taken for granted that the present coalition cabinet will be succeeded by a directorate equipped with dictatorial authority according to the constitutional prerogatives at President Eberts' disposal, as defined by Paragraph 48, of the Republic's charter.

If Parliament is dissolved, new elections must be held within sixty days and the new Reichstag convoked within 30 days of its election. It is doubtful if elections could be held in view of the existing state of emergency, which is virtually keeping the country under martial law, and unhampered balloting would be impossible.

'T.B.' FROM COWS RARE DISEASE IN HUMANS

Physicians at Dairy Congress Give a Jolt to Widely-Held Theories.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 11.—Only one per cent. of human deaths from tuberculosis are due to infection from tuberculous cows, said Dr. William H. Price sanitarian of the Detroit Creamery Company, at the final session of the World's Dairy Congress here. Dr. Price was formerly with the U.S. Public Health Service. The safeguarding of health from tuberculosis derived from cows was he declared better accomplished through "holding" pasteurization of milk than through tuberculin testing of herds.

"Holding" pasteurization he defined as heating milk to 145 degrees Fahrenheit holding it at that temperature for 20 minutes and then cooling below 50 degrees. Bacterial interpreted with knowledge of the counts were valuless he said, unless interpreted with knowledge of the milk industry.

His views in part were seconded by Robert S. Breed of the New York State agricultural experiment station wo surprised some of the delegates by asserting that wholesome milk might be produced under very primitive conditions of equipment. He said:

"The idea that there was a close relationship between dairy score and the quality of the milk produced became so firmly established that it was a shock to many interested in milk control work when it became apparent that high class clean milk was frequently produced under very primitive conditions and that fine equipment is no guarantee that high class, clean milk will be produced."

Prevention rather than elimination of bovine tuberculosis was advocated by Dean V. A. Moore, of the New York State Veterinary College. He declared that the tuberculin test is not always reliable, and continued:

'The control of bovine tuberculosis requires simply an intelligent understanding of the disease in all its modes of dissemination. The owner can eradicate it from his herds without the aid of the state or federal governments and the time may com when public opinion will not approve such assistance."

Believe Planes Cause Drought

PARIS, Oct. 11.— The Jugo-Slav Government and the Franco-Rumanian Aero-Navigation Company are in somewhat of a dilemma, owing to a complaint that the company's airplanes prevent the rain from falling.

The company owns a landing station at Pantchevo, six miles from Belgrade and a native of that district noticed that ever since airplanes began landing there, over four months ago, not a drop of rain has fallen. He pointed this fact out to the rest of the population and a unanimous appeal was made to the Government to suppress the air station.

The question has been sent to the Academy of Sciences at Belgrade for a ruling as to the possibility of the airplanes having connection with the drought.

ENGLISH LIBERALS FIGHT PREFERENCE

LONDON, October 12 (Canadian Press Cable). — Sir Donald MacLean, one of the leaders of Independent Liberal wing, opened the Liberal Free-trade campaign by presiding yesterday at a record conference of the Scottish Liberal Federation, which opened at Perth, and which the leader of the Independents, H. H. Asquith, will address to-day.

Sir Donald said the Imperial Conference preference developments had raised a vital issue. Preference was simply their old enemy Protection disguised, and Liberals would give it no quarter.

The conference, at which four resolutions, all against tariffs will be considered, marks the beginning of a flood of Liberal oratory planned weeks ago, which will be staged at over three thousand meetings.

Officials of the Liberal headquarters at London yesterday declared the Government's Preference proposals would be fought with the whole force of the Party.

The Liberal newspapers are confident the nation will not tolerate tampering with food prices at a time when unemployment and distress are most acute, and declare the Government's proposals may split the Conservative Party.

They anticipate the women's vote, in the event of an election, would be overwhelmingly against food taxes.

Alberta Pool Starts Marketing of Wheat.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11.—The marketing of wheat by the Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, the name under which the Alberta wheat pool was organized, commenced on the local grain exchange this morning. The organization was registered in the name of D. L. Smith formerly manager in Winnipeg of the grain growers' export company.

Mr. Smith was on the trading floor to-day during the session but beyond an admission that he had started business in handling wheat for Alberta farmers he had no statement to make.

FOG SUSPENDS NAVIGATION ON LAKE SUPERIOR

So Dense Skippers Refused to Leave Wharves--Delay Loadings.

SMOKE THICKENS IT.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 11.—On account of fog, navigation in and about Thunder Bay and in the harbors of Fort William and Port Arthur and generally over Lake Superior was practically suspended early this morning and shipping was still marking time at a late hour this after noon.

Of the cargoes reported cleared to-day most of them are in ships sounding their fog sirens at anchor in Thunder Bay. Of thirteen reported loading, the ones that can load without shifting between the elevators are being loaded. On others operations are suspended because the fog has been so dense that skippers have generally refused to move from the wharves.

Wireless reports are to the effect that similar conditions prevail generally over the lake and in the open reaches that ships are merely feeling their way. Along the south shore smoke from scores of forest fires is adding to the density of the prevailing fog.

Grain to the amount of 2,560,000 bushels was technically cleared to-day. In the list were four United States boats with cargoes totalling 943,000 bushels. The W. Grant Morden's cargo of 450,000 bushels was the big one of the day. There was one United States boat was in the due light for grain section.

TRAIN CREW HELD UP, THREE KILLED

Passengers Injured During Raid in Tunnel.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 11.—The engineer and fireman and one mail clerk of Southern Pacific Train No. 13, Portland to San Francisco, were killed to-day by an explosion in the mail car while the train was in a tunnel near Ashland, Oregon, according to a telephone message to railroad headquarters here. The explosion was a supposed safe blowing.

According to the Medford, Oregon, agent, the train was held up in the tunnel at Siskiyou, California. Engineer Bates, Fireman Sing and Brakeman Brookmiller shot and killed, and a number of people were injured, he reported.

SHOULD EXTEND USE OF AIR PATROLS FOR FOREST PROTECTION

Empire Forestry Conference Recommends Government Subsidies For This Work — Recommends 'Reserve Forests'

PLANT WASTE LANDS.

OTTAWA, October 11. Canadian Press.—Fear of forest fires destroying the result of silviculture, or the treatment and planting of forest trees, is the greatest single deterrent to the general practice of reforestation in Canada. This view is emphasized by the British Empire Forestry Conference in its report fittingly issued to-day during "Fire Prevention Week."

This report deals at length with the great need of better fire protection in Canada, the reduction of the waste in logging and saw-mill operations and the application of more efficient methods of silviculture.

One of the most important recommendations made by the conference is for the establishment of "reserve forests" or clearly defined districts intended to remain as forests, where the arts of fire prevention and silviculture would be specialized. In other forest areas, not so well suited for reforestation, no attempt would be made to replant trees.

Use Empire's Resources.

The conference expressed its opinion that the British Empire's requirements of timber and other forest products, should be supplied to the greatest possible extent from sources within the empire, and that it should become self-supporting in almost all minor products.

Owing to Canada's vast forests, fire control, it is stated in the report, must continue to play an important part in the protection of the standing timber. While active fire protection is urged, the conference claims that unfavorable climatic conditions may result in sudden emergency periods of great danger, and for this reason forest officers should be clothed with powers adequate to conscript labor to fight emergency fires.

Air Patrols Invaluable.

"We are impressed," the report says, "not only with the value but with the necessity of using aircraft in protecting the forests of the inaccessible and uninhabited north country of Canada. Unfortunately costs of operation are so high as to restrict the use below the point of efficiency where forest authorities are required to pay in full for the services received. In view of the importance of this subject we feel that the attention of the governments should be drawn to the national necessity of providing free or at moderate rates for the use of existing air services to the fullest extent in forest protection work. Where government air facilities are not adequate to meet all the requirements we are of the opinion that subsidies should be granted to commercial air companies sufficient to allow them to carry out forest protection work at rates which are within the economic means of forest authorities."

Conference's Suggestions.

Reviewing the possibilities of practicing silviculture throughout Canada, following its tour of inspection, the conference makeh the following recommendations:

Eastern Canada: Forest planting of waste lands as a measure supplemental to the intelligent management of existing forests, which however must always constitute the main source of future supplies. More extensive experiments in the transportation and use of hardwood which is destroying the pulpwood forests.

Western Canada: More economical methods of logging and the protection of seed trees at present destroyed by the debris and waste mattering covering the soil following logging operations.

Wrecked Plane to Avoid Motorboat

SASKATOON, Oct. 11.— Forced to swing his machine up the Pas river to avoid a crash with a motor boat loaded with women, Flying Officer Harrop demolished two gasoline boats and a canoe and the flying boat Geyed, employed in fire patrol work in Northern Manitoba, is a wreck to-day. No one was injured. He was making a fast landing, the surface was deceptive and the boat hit hard. The mahcine made 84 successful trips this season.

BOILER EXPLODED FIREMEN KILLED

Fatal Accident to British Steamer on Delaware River.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11. — Three members of the crew of the British steamer Daghild were killed and several others were injured in the explosion of a boiler while the ship was proceeding down the Delaware river to-day, bound from this city to Sydney, N.S., in ballast. The dead were firemen. The steamer was proceeding to this city to-night under one boiler.

The accident became known ashore when Captain McPhail sent a radio message to the agents of the ship in this city, asking that a tug be sent to the vessel with a doctor. A tug was sent down the river and met the ship about 6 p.m. The identity of the dead and injured and the cause of the explosion were not given in the message .The ship was near Reedy Island, Del., when the explosion occurred.

PREFERENCE IS RECEIVED WELL IN DOMINIONS

Africa and Australia Comment Favorably on Proposals Made at the Imperial Conference.

FOREIGN MARKETS

MELBOURNE, Australia, October 12 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). — The Melbourne Age newspaper says Premier Bruce's speech before the Imperial Conference, in which he advocated effective protection for Empire products in the British market, was clear, capable, and convincing, and that it expressed the opinion of the majority of the people of the Commonwealth, "who cordially support him."

The Imperial Government's concessions, adds the Age, should prove of considerable value to the producers of the Dominions.

The Argus says Great Britain, in her offer of extended preference, does not commit herself to shutting out foreign products or sacrificing her agricultural population, but varies her policy in a manner which will assist emigration and foster the Imperial defence scheme.

The Sydney Evening News, which is a vigorous champion of Free-trade, says that no British Government could make the British people pay more for their meat or bread, which Premier Bruce desires, and survive an election.

SOUTH AFRICA PLEASED.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, October 12 (Canadian Press). — The Cape Times regards the Imperial Government's Preference proposals as substantial and generous, and as likely to lead to great development in South Africa, a real reward for South Africa's steady adherence to the principle of Preference.

The Argus considers that Premier Bruce of Australia went rather beyond his province in his speech at the Imperial Economic Conference, and hopes that all the Dominion representatives will avoid even the appearance of meddling in British domestic problems.

It points out the difficulty from the British point of view of there being no conceivable development of inter-Imperial trade that could compensate Great Britain for the loss of her foreign markets, and adds that it seems idle to expect at the present Conference the achievement of the aims regarding Preference.

Works in Nature's Way

There is no better way of insuring the regular, gentle functioning of the organs of the body than by the daily use of natural bran. Tillson's natural Bran is effective, but harmless, for it works in nature's way. Physicians recommend Tillson's natural Bran, because it is pure and untreated. It is bran in its natural state.

SETTLEMENT IN ACCIDENT CASE DECLARED VOID

Judge Decides It Must Be Sanctioned By Court Under Compensation Act

IMPORTANT POINT.

OTTAWA, October 11. — An important judgment has been rendered in the Hull Superior Court by Judge G. Dessulniers, in the case of Emile Laframboise against the city of Hull, in which His Lordship held that an arrangement entered into by the head of an industry with one of its employees, who is the victim of an accident, is null and void unless sanction for such a settlement has been obtained under the terms of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

On March 3rd last Mr. Laframboice while in the employ of the corporation, was severely injured while engaged in the construction of a sewer. He took action against the city under the Workmen's Compensation Act. In the meantime an agent of a Montreal insurance company which insures all civic employees, called upon Laframboise, and induced him to sign a document by which he agreed to drop his action against the city for the sum of $200. Later Laframboise finding that his hospital expenses and loss of time was not covered by the sum he had received repudiated the arrangement and proceeded with his action in the Hull courts. Judge Desaulniers held that the settlement with the insurance company, was null and void as it had not received the sanction of the courts and ordered the Hull Corporation to pay to the plaintiff the sum of $787.27.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 12 (United Press).—Services in memory of Nurse Edith Cavell were held here and in other parts of Belgium today, the eighth anniversary of the execution of the Englishwoman by the German army of occupatio. Numerous pilgrimages were made to the scene of the execution, a bare shed on the walls of which is a tablet commemorating the spot where Miss Cavell met her death.

STOCK AND BOND

There is a great boom in the mining industry. I have had many years experience in practical mining, both in Cobalt and Porcupine, and have a wide connection there. I am therefore in a position to get early and reliable information in both camps. I have made a profit for every one of my clients up to date, and shall be pleased to advise any one interested. There will be a strong market this summer and now is the time to get in.

DR. McCUAIG'S LECTURES.

Because there exists a great need for some plain talking in Peterborough on certain vital subjects, the Examiner believes that the visit of Dr. J. A. McCuaig cannot fail to prove beneficial in its effect.

Dr. McCuaig is no cheap sensationalist, carrying on a muck-raking campaign or expounding fantastic doctrine in regard to life's problems.

He came to Peterborough as a lecturer from the American colleges, as an expert authority on the particular subjects which he discussed here.

His addresses were full of common-sense advice, counsel that if followed would make the people of Peterborough wiser, happier and healthier.

There was nothing about his lectures that was offensive or beyond the standard of good taste, and his mission here was very successfully carried out, judging by the large number of people who heard him.

Those who were responsible for Dr. McCuaig's appearance here contributed a very useful public service.

FIRE DRILL.

Surprise visits paid by Fire Chief Gimblett to a number of Peterborough's schools yesterday gave satisfactory evidence of the results of instruction in fire drill in these institutions.

The schools were emptied in remartkably good time, without the slightest evidence of panic, and with the staff having complete control over their little charges.

The bigger pupils, whose duty it was to throw open the doors, did their work promptly and efficiently, and altogether the inspection showed that the school children have been well drilled in this most important respect.

Parents will be glad to know that this is the case.

It does not require a very vivid imagination to conjure up what might happen in the event of an alarm of fire in a school containing 500 or 600 children if there were no discipline and the pupils made a wild rush for the doors, jamming in the corridors or piling up on the stairways.

Systematic instruction, with alarms sounded at unexpected moments, makes the school ensemblage a unit, disciplined and under control, moving out quickly without confusing or crowding.

The evidence that Peterborough schools are well up to the standard in this respect is gratifying to citizens generally.

TAKING A CHANCE.

The two terrible level crossing accidents reported yesterday from Ohio and Pennsylvania in which altogether sixteen lives were snuffed out as result of collisions between passenger trains and automobiles, forms another tragic warning to motorists.

There is only one sure way of avoiding accidents at level crossings, and that is to come to almost full stop if the track for a considerable distance on either side of the highway cannot be clearly seen.

So long as the grade crossings exist as they are at present they will be a menace to the safety of motorists, but the danger would be reduced to a minimum once the drivers of cars realize the existence of the peril.

There are bad crossings in the vicinity of every city—Peterborough has her share of them—and it should be the duty of every driver to see to it that his own life and the lives of those who have entrusted themselves to his care are not endangered by criminal carelessness in passing over railway crossings without taking the proper precautions to make sure that the passage is clear.

To get hit it is necessary to get on the right-of-way, and no motorist who exercises reasonable care has any reason to be in danger from a train.

Sixteen people are dead today because two drivers took a chance.

They tried to save a minute or two—and disaster overtook them.

The game is not worth the candle.

THE DOOR OF OPPORTUNITY.

The decision of the Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors to establish a matriculation class in connection with the association's educational classes opens the door of opportunity to more than one young man who is anxious to embark upon a professional career and who has hitherto seen no chance to realize his ambition.

It often happens that a boy leaves school either voluntarily or otherwise without reaching the matriculation standard, only to realize a few years later that his failure to matriculate is barring him from advancing himself.

A course such as is being established by the Y.M.C.A. will bridge the gap as it will permit of a boy securing his matriculation standard, and at the same time following an occupation that will enable him possibly to set aside a fund to carry him through his college years.

The course is not in any way in competition with the work of the Collegiate Institute—it is provided essentially for the boy who has been unable to continue his studies at the Collegiate and who finds himself after a year or two away from school needing matriculation to start him out on the career that he has decided he wants to follow.

The Y.M.C.A. board is to be congratulated upon this step, which is another evidence of the Red Triangle's desire to be of community service.

The course is a key to advancement that will appeal to ambitious young men in this city.

FOOLISHNESS.

Some Canadian papers continue to harp on the desirability of complete publicity of the discussions at the Imperial Conference in London, and to express dissatisfaction with the arrangements made there to have summaries of the business done given to the press, says the Ottawa Journal. They want reporters to be present at all meetings of the conference and to be free to tell about all that they hear there.

It is difficult to be patient with such foolishness. If it were proposed that all meetings of the Dominion Cabinet, for instance, were to be open to reporters, nobody would scout the idea more fiercely than those newspapers which are now demanding the presence of reporters at the meetings of the Imperial Conference. These papers would realize in a flash the insanity of the idea of all dicussions at a political executive being open to the public, with the consequent utter destruction of all real freedom and frankness of discussion.

Yet privacy at meetings of Cabinets is a more dangerous thing, if it is dangerous at all, than privacy of discussion at meetings of such bodies as the Imperial Conference for the reason that decisions arrived at in the privacy of a Cabinet meeting are binding upon the country concerned, whereas views arrived at at meetings of the Imperial Conference are binding upon nobody. Before they can become effective they must be submitted to and be approved by the executive bodies of the various countries concerned.

Those papers which are clamoring for the presence of reporters at meetings of the Imperial Conference are confusing discussions with decisions. Discussion must be unrestrained if it is to be useful; and in the case of international and inter-Imperial affairs it cannot possibly be unrestrained if unrestrictedly open to reporters. As the Montreal Star remarks:

"It is utter nonsense to pretend that the inner affairs of an Empire and its intricate relation with a dozen foreign Governments can be debated with cheerful heedlessness in the hearing of the whole world."

Nor can any harm be done by privacy of discussion at meetings of bodies like the Imperial Conference, because as already said the views arrived at must be submitted subsequently to the judgment of representatives of each of the countries concerned, and do not need to be accepted unless they are acceptable. Surely nothing is more necessary for safety.

DEMOCRACY ON TRIAL.

(By Sir John Willison, in the Montreal Star.)

The dictatorship of Mussolini in Italy, the overthrow of the politicians in Spain, and in a sense the rise of the Ku Klu Klan in the United States are symptomatic of a loss of confidence in popular government. If autocracy was on trial during the Great War, democracy has been on trial since the peace. There is, of course, no exact comparison between the activities of the Ku Klux Klan and the revolutionary movements in Spain and Italy. In the Ku Klux Klan there is the hateful flavor of an evil sectarianism and a racial bigotry which challenges the fundamental principle of the American Declaration of Independence. But all three movements are in direct conflict with popular government and express a deep dissatisfaction with its results.

How far are public men responsible for these manifestations of autocracy? It is certain that in Italy government had become feeble and corrupt. If not less feeble, it was even more corrupt in Spain. In the United States probably there never has been less corruption in government, but has there not been some loss in public men of the old courage and the old stern devotion to principle? Is this not also true of Canada? More than ever aggressive minorities impose their will upon the masses of the people. The propagandists prevail and the people are made to imagine a vain thing. When the voices are loud and blatant those who know better keep silence. There is something like ostracism for the man who dares to resist the clamor of the moment or refuses to subscribe to panaceas for the ills of mankind which have been discredited again and again in the world's history.

One sometimes heard Sir Wilfrid Laurier say that no man was fit to govern who was afraid to face attack and incur unpopularity. If he was on sound ground and stood firmly for his convictions in the end he would prevail. Henry Adams said that if he could reach the four thousand today he would get the four hundred thousand tomorrow. A great deal of rash and unwise legislation would be prevented if those who have the knowledge and the experience to speak with authority could have time to "educate their masters." But noisy minorities drive public men to action before "the sober second thought" of the people has time to express itself and laws are made which have unexpected results and which the people will not respect.

It is admitted that over great areas of the United States the Volstead Act is treated with contempt. No doubt it is unfortunate that this should b so, but the fact illustrates the mischief which is done when legislation goes ahead of public opinion. There can be nothing enduring in legislation which expresses a passing emotion. The "second thought" is the only stable bulwark of government. A law dishonored, save only where crime is concerned, is a law which should not have been enacted. Under democracy no minority can govern permanently and responsible public men have no more right to serve the Few than they have to defy the Many.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Soot-choked stove-pipes caused a fire yesterday. Had it occurred in the middle of the night the result might have been serious. The incident furnishes a good object lesson for Fire Prevention Week.

Lloyd George's tour is a march from triumph to triumph. The little Welshman shares with Lord Renfrew the distinction of being the most popular visitors the Continent has ever welcomed.

Peterborough should officially tell Tris Speaker tomorrow that this district appreciates the official visit of the Cleveland star and his associates.

It is expected that the fish and wild ducks at Rice Lake will appreciate Saturday's ball game inasmuch as every able-bodied Indian on the reserve is coming to Peterborough to see Tris Speaker in action.

Lloyd George evidently believes that when in Rome it is proper to do as the Romans do. The Intelligencer reports that his train stopped at Belleville the other morning, but Lloyd George was asleep.

Peterborough people who bought German marks some time ago will be glad to learn that if they had six hundred million of them today they could buy a pound of butter.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 12. — The packers took a larger hand in the buying of cattle at the Union Stock Yards on Wednesday, with the result that 2,079 were sold. The receipts yesterday morning were: 129 cattle, 33 calves, 720 hogs, and 473 sheep and lambs. The number of cattle actually on sale yesterday was not much in excess of 500 head. This was regarded as quite favourable, as the receipts for the four days were 7,149, and it was thought yesterday morning that aside from some stockers the market would be cleaned up this week.

The trading on Wednesday showed that good to choice butchers' cattle had strengthened during the week from 25c to 50c a cwt., but that the common butchers had not more than held steady. Cows and bulls are a little firmer, and there are not sufficient bologna bulls and canners to fill the demand. Farmers are not buying stockers and feeders as fast as would be liked, and these cattle are dragging at the week-end. Week-end commission men's letters are advising the shipment of any finished butchers.

The annual competition for the boys and girls of Ontario was held in the pens yesterday. There were over 800 hogs in the contest, and these were sold by auction in the afternoon. It was expected that they would bring about $1.00 a cwt. over the regular shipments. Many in the exhibit, however, were in need of further feeding.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Persistent selling ascribed largely to absence of important new bullish developments had a depressing effect yesterday on wheat values. Evening up, however, for the holiday to-day, led to something of a rally at the last. Price closed unsettled 1-8c to 5-8c to 3-4c net lower, December $1.09 1-8 to $1.09 1-4 and May $1.13 1-2 to $1.13 3-4.

Corn finished 1-8c to 1-4c to 1 1-4c net lower. Oats 1-8c to 1-4c to 3-8c down ,and provisions varying from 7c decline to an advance of 2c.

Although at first a little upturn in the price of wheat resulted from notice of proposed plans for taxing wheat next year to offset any export loss this year, the market soon showed that buying power had waned, and was insufficient to absorb current offerings, especially the sales from holders who were in a position to realise profits. Reports of increased economic and political conditions in Germany counted somewhat as a bearish factor, but aside from this the market acted as though strained by the recent continued upturns in price. Talk of unseasonable cold in Argentina endangering the wheat crop there failed to exert any noticeable influence on the Chicago market, and served only to emphasise statements that Canada could ship plenty of wheat to fill European needs for months to come Something of an offset, though, was late word from Winnipeg that some United States vessels handling Canadian grain were to withdraw. All deliveries of corn, including the cash article, sold yesterday at a new high price record for the season, with No. 2 yellow up 4 cents at $1.14.

Favourable weather, however, for cutting and husking the new crop led to a subsequent downturn, oats following corn.

Provisions were dull and without significant change.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, receipts 8,000; all classes except stockers and feeders fairly active; fed yearlings strong to 15c higher; top $11.75 paid for mixed steers and heifers averaging 916 pounds, Best matured steers $11.60, weight 1,370 pounds ;best weighty steers, $11.50; bulk she stock higher in spots; other classes steady.

Hogs, receipts 30,000; mostly 10c higher; bulk good and choice 190 to 325 pound average, $8.00 to $8.15; practical, top, $8.15; better grades 135 to 180 pound average, $7.50 to $7.90; packing sows, $6.80 to $7.00; weighty slaughter pigs, $6.50 to $6.75; holdover estimated at 10,000.

Sheep, receipts 26,000; better grades fat lambs and cull natives, steady; sheep and feeding lambs steady to weak; natives, $13.00 to $13.50; top to shippers, $13.75; cull natives, $9.50 to $10.00; bulk fat ewes, $4.50 to $5.50; feeding lambs, $12.75 to $13.00; top, $13.25.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, October 12 (Canadian Press). — A correspondent writing from the national butter and egg convention being held in Chicago this week says "the storage situation in this country points to those holding early eggs not being disposed to sell at a loss so early in the season, and at present prices May and April eggs show a loss of two to three cents per dozen. Those dealers who are in the market to buy are only taking what they require for immediate consumption. Dealers who have an established outlet and who own storage stocks are working out their own stocks first. The condition is causing a kind of stagnation on heavy trading on the exchange. The quality of average receipts of fresh is very uneven, and on the board prices range anywhere from 28 to 35. Some storage eggs have been sold for export at around 35 f.o.b. seaboard. The price shows no profit on cost."

The general situation in Canada both with regard to fresh and storage remains practically unchanged. One or two shipments have been made recently of British Columbia fresh extras to the Yukon at 55.

Montreal steady, specials 47 to 48, extras 41, firsts 36, seconds 32, storage extras 40, firsts 35, seconds 31.

Winnipeg firm, dealers quoting delivered extras 32 to 34, firsts 29, seconds 22, jobbing extras 34 to 40, firsts 32 to 34, seconds 27. One car of mixed fresh and storage seconds reported rolling Montreal.

Albert and British Columbia markets unchanged.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Business was slow in the domestic cash grain market yesterday. There were no new developments in the local flour situation. The market in millfeed is fairly active, and demand for rolled oats shows some improvement. A fair business was done in baled hay. There was a steady undertone in the egg market. The demand for rotatoes continues fairly good. The feeling in butter is steady and trade in cheese is slow.

CHEESE BID TURNED DOWN.

BROCKVILLE, October 12 (Canadian Press). — The offerings on the board were 1,510 boxes coloured and 986 white, for which the top price bid was 19 1-4 cents per pound, and refused.

QUEBEC BUTTER PRICES.

MONTREAL, October 12 (Canadian Press). — At the Quebec Agricultural Co-operative Society auction sale here yesterday there were 40 packages of creamery butter offered, of which 175 packages No. 1 creamery sold at 35 1-2c per pound and 115 packages No. 2 creamery at 34 1-4c per pound, while 35 5-8c was bid for 250 packages special creamery, with 36 3-8c asked.

LAKEFIELD PARISH PRIEST RESIGNED

Rev. Father Meagher Relinquishes Charge on Account of Ill-Health.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 12.—On Wednesday evening between fifty and seventy five members of St. Paul's church Lakefield, gathered at the residence of Rev. Father Meagher to bid him good bye before his departure from the village. Rev. P. J. McGuire and Rev. J. J. O'Brien (formerly parish priest of St. Pauls') of Peterboro and Rev. Father Galvin of Downeyville were present also.

During the course of the evening Mr. John Coughlin, president of the Holy Name Society read the following address after which Mr. Patrick Sullivan presented a generous purse of gold to Father Meagher.

To Rev. W. P. Meagher.

Rev. and Dear Father Meagher,—It was with feelings of keen regret that your parishioners of St. Paul's church learned that your failing health had made it necessary for you to resign your pastorate.

During the nine years you have been with us, you have been ever kind. In all our affairs, social and otherwise we have always had your sympathy and aid, and you may rest assured it is with deep regret that we assemble to bid you good bye.

We hope your coming holiday may restore you to your former strength and that in the future God may bestow on you his choicest blessings.

We, your congregation, the members of the Holy Name Society, and the Catholic Women's League ask you to accept this purse as a slight token of our love and appreciation, trusting that you will sometimes give a kindly thought to your former flock in the little village of Lakefield.

Father Meagher completely taken by surprise, was deeply touched by the affectionate tribute of his people and made a fitting reply expressing his appreciation of the gift and more than all of the good wishes which prompted it. Father J. J. O'Brien spoke a few words also to the company expressing his pleasure at being present and his appreciation of Father Meagher's splendid work in Lakefield.

Father Peter J. McGuire also spoke briefly, his kindly humor making a bright spot in a gathering where regret at parting with a beloved priest was the prevailing sentiment. Father Galvin also gave a brief address. The gathering dispersed after once more expressing the hope that Father Meagher's health would be restored and that in the not far distant future he would return to visit the parish.

Father Meagher came to Lakefield in 1914 and during that time has made many friends outside his own parish as well as within its bounds. He has taken an active part in many of the village activities, being an enthusiastic member of the Curling Club until his failing health compelled him to retire from the game. He was always willing to assist any philanthropic or patriotic enterprise in the village and leaves a large circle of friends. Owing to his rapidly failing health he has applied for a three months leave of absence to regain his former vigor and in the meantime has tendered to the Bishop his resignation of the parish of St. Paul's, Lakefield.

There's Danger IN THE SIMPLE CUT

Your injury may be just a simple scratch, a cut, bruise, burn or scald; but it needs prompt treatment with zam-buk. Neglect and delay leaves broken tissues open to dangerous germ infection and ulceration, blood-poison or even chronic eczema.

Keep zam-buk always handy! This powerful herbal antiseptic applied to broken, chapped, burnt or lacerated skin is instantly effective. It ends all smarting pain and inflammation, makes tissues germ free and germ proof and ensures rapid perfect healing.

Mrs. Valmor Savaria, Morean St., Montreal, writes:—"I cut my finger to the bone while working an electric machine. The wound went the wrong way and became badly festered.

"It was surprising how quickly zam-buk stopped the pain. I persevered with the balm, and the wound which for weeks had defied all other treatment was healed perfectly. I shall never forget how zam-buk saved my finger."

In a hundred other emergencies of skin disease or injury, you will find zam-buk invaluable. All chemists 50c box.

FIERY CROATIAN LEADER GETS REFUGE IN LONDON

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(Associated Press)—Stephen Raditch, the stormy petrel of Jugoslavia, is now in London. The irrepressible Croatian patriot, who has been compared to Patrick Henry, Kossuth, d'Annunzio and De Valera, fled across six European borders unrecognized and found refuge in the British capital. The Belgrade authorities had accused him of high treason for defying the government and comparing the country's young queen, Marie, to Madame de Pompadour for her extravagance.

Raditch was formerly a bookseller in Zagreb, Croatia. He is gifted with great eloquence, and all the indpendent spirit and fiery temper of the true patriot. He began his bloodless fight for home rule against the Serbs in 1918, after Croatia had become merged with the new kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. Like the sons of Ireland who fought to achieve the independence of their country, Raditch from that time never ceased the struggle for the freedom of his countrymen. He was a constant thorn in the side of the Belgrade government, which both feared and respected him. After warning him many times against his radical utterances, the cabinet had him arrested, but soon ordered his release when his supporters threatened a revolution.

Raditch is sometimes described as the Mystery Man of Europe, and he has always been an enigma even in the Serbs, who variously call him charlatan, scoundrel and lunatic. But none of these epithets is regarded by outsiders as just, for the Croatian leader has behind him the whole of his little nation. He is small in stature and unimpressive in appearance, but possesses striking intellectual talents, much charm of manner, and many ideas which tumble over each other in their haste to find expression.

TO RECOGNIZE SCIENTISTS.

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—(Associated Press)—That scientists who make discoveries of benefit to humanity should no longer be robbed of the material fruits of their labor, was the decision of the League of Nations commission on social problems in a report given to the General Assembly of the League recently held at Geneva.

A resolution was adopted urging all countries to protect the property rights of the savants whose discoveries or inventions have often brought fortunes to promoters but only poverty to scientists.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Oct. 12.—A number of real estate transfers are announced in Cobourg and district.

Anna M. Allen has sold a house on Margaret street, Cobourg, to James Isaac Hie

Mr. Charles Martin is stated to have purchased Mrs. T. Richardson's farm in Percy township.

F. J. Hopkins has sold a part of lot 7, concession 4, Hamilton township to Annie Ferguson.

A. E. Cole has sold a part of lot 1, concession 1, South Monaghan to Ida E. Blake.

Haldimand Lady Injured.

Mrs. Harnden, who resides with her brother, Mr. John Nichols on a farm in Haldimand township about six miles from Cobourg, met with an unfortunate an unusual accident the other day. Mrs. Harnden was feeding some calves when one of the young animals bunted, knocking her over and fracturing her leg. She is stated to be getting along nicely.

Another Accident.

Murray Gordon son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon, while handling a revolver, shot himself in the hand. His injury, it is stated, is not a serious one.

Hastings Plowing Match.

The farm of Earl Vrooman, on the Ridge Road about four miles from Stirling has been chosen as the site for the first plowing match to be held under the auspices of the newly organized Hastings County Plowman's Association. The committee in charge of selection were Messrs. W. Dreury, F. C. Elliott, James Caskey and Roy Atkin. Two fields one of sod and the other of stubble will be the scene of the matches which take place on October 24.

Barn and Stock Burned.

One night recently Stanley Way's barn near Greenbush, Prince Edward county, was burned and also three horses, one bull, a pigpen containing two pigs, hens, about forty tons of hay and the season's grain. The family were in bed when the fire broke out. Clarence Way was the first out and at once went to the stable to release the horses. Mr. Way, Senior, reached the stable door just as a horse rushed out and was knocked down and injured. His face was scorched before he could reach a place of safety.

Customs Receipts Increase.

The customers receipts at the Port of Cobourg for the months of September were more than double what they were for September of last year, which is a gratifying situation in accordance with corresponding reports from other cities and town in Ontario. There does not seem to be occasion for any "whispers of death" here.

Three Injured Saturday.

A Toronto party consisting of Mr. Sidney Johnston, his sister-in-law and others met with a bad accident on the Provincial Highway between Cobourg and Port Hope while motoring through. A bolt in the spring broke causing tthe driver to loose control of the car and it went into the ditch and turned turtle. Mr. Johnston had an arm broken, his young son suffered cuts from broken glass and bruises, the others escaped lightly.

Coal Coming In.

Shipments of hard coal from the Pennsylvania mines are beginning to arrive in the lakefront district. The barge Hilda on Monday arrived at Belleville with one thousand tons of Scranton coal, egg, stove and nut from the Schuster Co.

At Port Hope, it is announced some seven hundred tons of hard coal is expected during the week.

Orono Lady Inherits Estate.

By the will of the late Charles Coulter of Hartney, Man., his niece, Miss Vera Coulter, daughter of Mr. Frank Coulter, Darlington, will inherit an estate valued at about $2,500, it is estimated. Mr. Charles Coulter a former resident of Durham county went west about thirty years ago and took up land. His death took place a few months ago.

Local and Personal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rose, Frankford, have returned home from Neepawa, Man., where they spent the past few months.

A Cannington man paid $5.00 when charged with shooting a partridge out of season by the distirct inspector.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boyce and family have moved from Wellington, Prince Edward county to Oshawa.

The death occurred at Port Hope on Sunday of James Dench, a prominent resident. He was in his 69th year.

Senator Mulholland, Port Hope has returned from a business trip to Winnipeg.

Harold Thompson son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Thompson of this town, fell from a step-ladder when playing and fractured his arm near the elbow.

Clifford Metcalfe employed as a farm hand by Mr. Joseph George, who resides near the town, was kicked in the abdomen by a horse.

Good Health in Happy Old Age

THE chief concern of elderly people is their health, and that is best assured by regular daily bowel movement. There is no truth, however, in the notion that because you are old you need a "strong physic." In fact, just because you are old a mild laxative is better for you. The trouble with purges and cathartics and physics is that they shock the system and weaken it and make the muscles of digestion flabby. Mr. John Muse, 128 Prince Edward St., St. John, N. B., says Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is the best medicine on earth and Mrs. George Luth, Pope, Man., who is in her 79th year, has found it easy to take, gentle in action and entirely satisfactory.

Does Not Gripe

You can be sure of satisfactory evacuations every day if you will take a spoonful of Laxative Syrup Pepsin at night when you retire. You will not need to take it very long as a few doses will soon encourage the bowels to act for themselves. The popularity of this wonderful family remedy has become so great that it is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Because of its mildness and freedom from griping it is especially ideal for the extremes of ages, for children and for elderly people.

Effective at Small Cost

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at any drug store. The formula is on the package, and the cost less than a cent a dose. Take it when you feel heavy, sleep poorly, have headache or night cramps, for these are also symptoms of constipation. Give it to the children when they are restless, feverish or have a cold. Laxative Syrup Pepsin will keep you and your family free from constipation, a condition that lowers the vitality 25 per cent and raises the blood pressure 28 per cent. Freedom from constipation lessens the pain of kidney trouble, neuritis and rheumatism.

MILK SHORTAGE IN GERMANY

By Carl D. Groat

BERLIN, Oct 10—(United Press) German babies are now paying a part of the fearful price of mark deflation in shortened milk rations.

Theoretically, babies under 5 years can have a liter of milk a day; in practice it is questionable whether they get it.

They must be registered with the police and "bread commission." The latter is full of red tape. It doesn't worry whether the babies get their milk cards or not so long as bureaucracy's demands are fulfilled.

Then, too, the big milk firm, Bolle has stopped part of its service already and is threatening to close other routes. One must chase far to find a milk store. Prices are high.

That there is a real milk shortage in Germany is NOT true. There is milk enough, but many of the swollen profiteering landlords see that butter made from milk is a more profitable commodity than milk sent at the big cities and sold a city-controlled price.

The Junkers come in for much cursing these days. Not only do they hold back milk, but they are hoarding their bumper grains in many instances waiting for higher prices—prices that are sure to come. They whine that they cannot pay taxes; the cities answer with "absurd."

But the cities are tiring of this sort of economy. This was demonstrated in August when in various communities workers marched to the farms confiscating cattle and selling the meat at artificially low prices. The Junkers are literally swimming in money but they scorn the "radical cities" and grow no gray hairs over the needs of their countrymen. They are what The Vorwaerts aptly calls "percentage patriots."

SOUND TESTIMONIAL EVIDENCE

showing the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of women is constantly being published in this paper. The strongest recommendation any article can have is that borne by the persons who use it. Once ill with ailments that caused suffering and despair, but now restored to the joys of health, from a grateful heart multitudes of women write letters of appreciation to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Cobourg, Ont. Such evidence of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of women should induce every suffering woman to try it.

WING COLLAR IS BACK, SAYS LAUNDRY EXPERT

CHICAGO (United Press).—Well dressed men are showing a decided liking to the standing wing collar this Fall, according to W. E. Fitch, general manager of the Laundry Owner's National Asociation, who addressed a men's style convention here.

"This tendency to wear the standing collar by men everywhere and in many walks of life is an indication of the increased interest American men are taking in their dress," said the expert. "For many years most men have considered this style of collar merely an adjunct of formal wear.

"This year a marked change has come about and the wing collar, preferably with a bow tie, has come into its own. It is in the laundries where these changes in the style of men's linen are first apparent. With the growing vogue for the wing collar, most men are asking for more starch in the shirt bosom, and a return of the semi-stiff shirt for business wear is already seen."

HEALTH HOBBIES

Fads and fashions in foods, and fasting, come and go like the seasons.

Every once in a while some new idea on how and what to eat to make you strong, wise and beautiful sprouts in the brain of someone with a food hobby. Many of us at once proceed to try to carry it out to the best of our eating ability.

All that is necessary to be well and healthy, and do life's work at its happy medium, is to use a little common sense and let hobbies and fads go their way.

The scientist and physician are pretty good guides to follow in all matters pretaining to normal health, and what to use to the best advantage as real body building and sustaining foods.

For instance, there is the going without breakfast hobby. It may be, as has been stated in this column, that thousands of people eat too much, but a nourishing breakfast is a sure cure for a grouch and a necessary meal for those who toil and spin.

The hot water fad is another—water internally, externally and eternally. We all admit the value of water, but hot water as a beverage has no real value, and it is best to use it as little as possible.

Sour milk is another hobby. It possesses no nutritive properties that are not contained in sweet milk.

Other faddist values may be dismissed as mere fads, without more comment.

Then there is the carrot fad. There is no reason why carrots should make you more beautiful than tomatoes or string beans, but they are a good food.

The idea that hard bread crusts will make you have beautiful, curly hair prevails in many parts of our country—but there is nothing to it, though crusts are good excercise for your teeth. Another fad is that fish are brain food. It takes brains sometimes to catch fish and that is as far as fish and brains count.

An old uncle of mine always carried a horse-chestnut in his pocket to ward off rheumatism. He never had it, but the horse-chestnut has nothing to do with rheumatic conditions.

LAKEFIELD VILLAGE NEWS OF INTEREST

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 12.—In the course of his sermon in St. John's Anglican church, Lakefield, the Rev. C. Grant King mentioned that the Bishop had instructed his clergy to urge their congregations to make use of the time prior to the Mission as a time of preparation. If lasting good was to come from the Mission, the preacher said, it could only be as God the Holy Spirit directed and controlled the hearts of all. The prayers and co-operation of the congregation were asked for as being essential to the work of preparation—for without preparation it were idle to ask for the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

The Mission at St. Johns will be from November 11 to 18 (inclusive, and the Missioner will be the Rev. R. Seaborn of Toronto.

Enjoyable Evening.

A very enjoyable evening was spent by the Lakefield I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 358, when they and a few friends held a smoking concert in the rooms. The first part of the evening was spent in progressive euchre, the first prize being won by Wilfred Murduff and the consolation prize by Dr. J. C. Smith. Refreshments were served at 11 o'clock, after which a short programme was given. The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

News Paragraphs.

About a dozen members of the A.Y.P.A. are attending the meeting of the Local Council of Peterboro and district A.Y.P.A. which is being held on Thursday evening in Millbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Webster have issued invitations to their annual party at "Minicanna" for Friday evening of this week. This party is looked forward to by the Young people and many of their elders as one of the happiest parties of the early autumn.

A meeting of the Lakefield Brotherhood and Sisterhood will be held in the Methodist basement at 9 o'clock on Friday evening. After the transaction of some important business a social hour will be spent.

A Tag day is being held in the village on Saturday in connection with the Children's Aid Society. This is an annual event and the response is generous as befitting the truly worthy cause.

The Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's church are holding an afternoon tea and sale of cooking and candy on Friday afternoon in the Sunday school room.

Personal Mention.

J. M. Twist who spent the summer in Gravenhurst has returned to his home in the village.

S. S. Spence spent Wednesday at Norwood attending the East Peterboro Exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser and daughters motored to the village from Burleigh Falls on Tuesday.

VELVET AND FUR.

Velvet and fur form an unbeatable combination this season. The bands of fox, sable, squirrel and mink are becoming wider and more striking.

PLAN TO EXPAND WHOLESALE HOUSE

J. E. Adams & Son Increase Staff and Stock.

The wholesale grocery business of Rishor's Limited, at Simcoe and Bethune streets, has been bought by J. E. Adams and Son, and the new owners are planning expansion already.

They have increased the stock, taking on several new lines, and have added to their staff. Mr. J. E. Adams told The Examiner to-day that he expected to increase the stock and the staff further as he developed the business. He said that he had found many encouraging signs among both local and outside merchants.

He stated that he wished to emphasize that the policy of the firm would be high quality and prompt service, orders being filled the day of receipt.

Mr. Adams has been in business for many years in Lindsay, where he started the wholesale grocery firm of Adams and Sparling, later becoming Adams Grocery Limited. He has transferred all his interests to Peterborough now however.

Will Your Boy Be Educated?

Of course he will, because you want to see him grow up to be a "real" man. When he gets out into the world and makes his mark, what pleasure and satisfaction it will bring to you!

But there is just one consideration—suppose you do not live until he is fitted for his life's work. This thought has escaped many a man. It is the chief reason ninety per cent. of children never complete their High School course.

The matter can easily be arranged—an education guaranteed to your children—through life insurance.

It is one of the great pleasures of life insurance representatives to be able to advise fathers and mothers how to provide for the education of their children, who will afterwards pay honor to their parents, holding them in high regard for this chance in life.

LIFE INSURANCE IS "THE LOVE THAT NEVER DIES," AND WHEN EXTENDED TO YOUR CHILDREN REACHES ONE OF ITS HIGHEST FORMS OF EXPRESSION.

PREMIERS MAY CONVENE ON THE HOME BANK HAPPENINGS

"Suggested that Provincial Banks be Opened if the Bankers' Association Fail to Take Ameliorative Action.

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.— (Canadian Press.)—That Hon. L. A. Tasschereau, Premier of Quebec, should convene the Conference of Premiers of the several provinces most directly concerned by the failure of Home Bank of Canada, and that assembled Premiers should pledge themselves to opening of Provincial banks in event of failure of the Canadian Bankers' Association to take ameliorative action in the Home Bank matter, was the suggestion advanced last night at the meeting of the Montreal depositors of the Home Bank by Bernard Rose, K.C., one of their most active champions.

The suggestion followed the reading of a letter which Mr. Rose had received from Mr. Taschereau, in which the Premier sympathized with the plight of depositors, assured them that his government was closely following the progress of Home Bank happenings, and, further, that if possible and necessary, provincial authorities would take whatever action they would deem best.

Many eulogies had been delivered upon the subject of Canadian banking system, he said, but it was under this same sysctem that depositors had lost at least a large part of their money—a loss which Mr. Rose attributed to lack of inspection without which, he declared, "a bank can return false and perjured reports."

BANKERS DECLINE TO AID THE DEPOSITORS

Say They Would Rather Face Situation Arising Out of the People Losing Faith in the Banks.

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—After deliberations lasting over an hour, the delegation of Home Bank depositors, which waited on the Canadian Bankers' Association yesterday, failed to obtain any further concession from that body, than what has already been announced.

The bankers announced they were not prepared to assume the liabilities of the Home Bank and did not consider it their business to put any recommendations before the shareholders of the various other banks, in the way of inviting them to do anything to make good the losses of Home Bank depositors.

Any Alternative

They said the banks were quite willing to face any situation that might arrise out of the people losing faith in banks through the refusal of bankers to further intervene on behalf of the Home Bank depositors, and even if an agitation were to arise on this subject.

Feeling of Unrest

While all the delegates took part in the discussion by the principols spokesmen of the depositors was Mr. McLaughlin, who set forth that there was a very strong feeling of unrest abroard, that citizens were greatly worked up against banks in general. There was, he said, great danger of an agitation arising, and the feeling spreading that the banks were not able to supply the needs of the country thereby working great injury to the banks themselves.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor replying on behalf of the Bankers' Association, said that, while he personally sympathized with the depositors in their losses, and while that was also the general sentiment among the banks and the bankers, he did not see how the Bankers' Association could make good the deposits.

He was convinced that the shareholders of the banks would object to taking over a liability greater than the assets. The banks, he said, were prepared to meet any conditions that might arise as a result of the failure of the Bankers' Association to make good the depositors' losses, on matter what agitation might take place.

BLAME BOLOGNA FOR DEATH OF CHILD

Ptomaine Poisoning Also Affected Other Members of Family.

LINDSAY, October 12. — The death occurred on Wednesday morning at Fenelon Falls of Alex. Robinson, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Robinson.

Death was due to ptomaine poisoning, the child having eaten a quantity of bologna sausage during a visit to Bobcaygeon Fair.

Other members of the family had partaken of the sausage, and were quite ill.

The child was one year and ten months old.

LINDSAY, Oct. 12.—A distressing accident occurred at Scugog, this week when Eva Jackson a bright little girl of five summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, was fatally injured.

The little tot was playing with a small boy, whose home is in Toronto. During their play Eva was struck over the abdomen with stock and shortly afterwards became seriously ill. She was rushed to the Port Perry hospital where she died on Tuesday.

INQUEST INTO DEATH ALLEGED RUM RUNNER

TORONTO, October 12. — Canadian Press. — That there has been no distinction made in instructions given to the police in regard to the use of fire arms between cases involving serious crime, and that of the Ontario Temperance Act, was brought out at morgue last night, at the inquest held into the death of John Gogo, the man shot on an alleged rum running launch near the foot of Leslie street.

The inquest was held under Chief Coroner George W. Graham, and after considerable evidence had been taken an adjournment was made until next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Quebec Teachers' Funds Tied Up in Home Bank.

MONTREAL, October 12 (Canadian Press). — It was announced at yesterday's session here of the fifty-ninth annual convention of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec that the funds of the Association, amounting to about $1,500, had been deposited in the Home Bank of Canada, and were now tied up owing to the collapse of that institution.

About 1,200 teachers have registered so far for the convention, the officials reported last night.

The day was taken up by submission of reports and discussion of educational plans.

BUENOS AYRES, October 12 (Canadian Press). — The proposals made at the Imperial Conference in London to give preference to the British Dominions and colonies in British purchases of meat and other food products have caused anxiety in Argentina, as 90 per cent. of this country's meat production is marketed in Great Britain, in addition to large quantities of cereals.

EXECUTIONER MUST GO TO GUILLOTINE

Requests to Be Allowed Execute Himself

PARIS, October 11. Canadian Press. — Isidore Nespel, familiarly known as "The Jackal," official executioner of the French penal settlement at Cayenne, French Guiana, is shortly to be guillotined himself.

As he has a very poor opinion of the skill of the executioner who succeeds him, he has asked to be allowed to erect the guillotine himself for his own execution.

Nespel was appointed executioner after serving a long term of penal servitude. Recently he quarreled with a convict and killed him in a fight. He was tried and condemned to death, and the Court of Cassation rejected his appeal.

A TORONTO MAN IS SLAIN IN ALABAMA

Woman Charged With Murder of William Ray

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press)—William H. Ray, formerly of Toronto, was murdered last Sunday at Bay Minette, Alabama, where Ray had for the past four years conducted a hardware business. Mrs. Emma Drath is charged with committing the crime.

Relatives and friends were informed yesterday afternoon of the murder after they had wired through the local police at Alabama for particulars concerning Ray's death. Following the shooting, the woman was arrested, charged with murder. The authorities there shipped the remains of the murdered man to Toronto, the body arriving here on Wednesday.

PROBLEM CONFRONTING A POLICE MAGISTRATE

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press.)—In speaking of the problem confronting him each day in the Ottawa police court in regard to mentally deficient offenders, Magistrate Hopewell, at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society yesterday, expressed the opinion that legislation should be affected whereby no magistrate or judge be permitted to sentence a man or woman for an indictable offence unless a medical certificate from two doctors be presented as to the offender's mental equipment. Magistrate Hopewell claimed that science could measure the mental equipment of an individual as easily as it could diagnose smallpox.

FOUR BANDITS HOLD UP TRAIN IN MOUNTAINS

Leave Four Dead Behind Them After Looting a Southern Pacific San Francisco Express.

POSSES IN PURSUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. Oct. 12. —(Canadian Press).— Leaving four dead men behind them, a gang of four bandits fled toward the north early yesterday afternoon, after a sensational holdup and robbery of the Southern Pacific Crack San Francisco Express Train No. 13 at the highest point in Siskiyou Mountains, 17 miles south of Ashland Ogn.

The dead are: S. L. Bates, Engineer, J. Edwards, mail clerk, C. D. Johnston, brakeman, and Marvin Seng, fireman.

Posses from three points are now combing the wild country where the hold-up occurred in, search of the bandits.

VESSEL WRECKED ON JAGGED ROCKS

Bottom Fell Out of Motor Ship — Carried Salmon Cargo.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press). — The motor ship Kennecott, caught Monday night in the Rocky tentacles protruding from the Queen Charlotte Islands off the western coast of British Columbia has been abandoned, a message received here from the steamer Cordova reported. The crew of the Kennecott was taken to Ketchikan, Alaska. The message indicated that the motor ship would be a total loss

The Kennecott carried forty thousand cases of salmon and six thousand tons of ore which she was bringing from Alaska. It is believed that the salmon, valued at $240,000 will be saved but the ore, it is stated may be lost.

Committed For Trial on Charge of Bigamy.

MONTREAL, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Rev. Maurice Day Baldwin, son of the late Bishop of Huron, was committed for trial before the higher Criminal Courts on a charge of bigamy here yesterday by Chief Judge Decarie, who heard the deposition of Mrs. Baldwin in enquete court.

Mrs. Baldwin produced two marriage certificates, which she claimed were her own, and another obtained from a minister in Vermont.

After she had sworn that the first was her own certificate of marriage with the accused, the Judge declared there was enough evidence to warrant a commitment.

Voluntary statement will be given on 18th October.

KING NOT GUILTY ADJUDGED INSANE

Slayer Was Quite Indifferent to Fate—Will go To Asylum.

HAMILTON, Oct. 12.— (Canadian Press.)— "Not guilty on account of insanity."

After two hours and 42 minutes' deliberation the jury in the George King murder trial returned this verdict last night, ending the trial which opened Tuesday afternoon.

The court room was crowded when the jurors filed in, but King continued to assume an attitude of indifference. Even when standing behind the bar to hear the words of Justice Mowatt, he paid little attention to what was going on.

King will be placed in an asylum.

GALICIAN FELL TO HIS DEATH IN MINE.

SUDBURY, Oct. 12.—Mike Chowhan, Galician, 27 years, employed by the International Nickel Company at Creighton mine as a chute blaster, met instantaneous death Wednesday morning when he fell through an ore pass on the sixteenth level. Chowhan, a new man, made a mis-step and fell with the ore to the bottom of the pass, a distance of two hundred feet. Injuries received from tumbling rock and the impact at the bottom caused instant death. Inquest was held at Creighton mine yesterday by Coroner Stoddard of Coppercliff and Chief Inspector of Mines Sutherland, of Toronto, and a verdict of accidental death given.

Signs and Omens

"It is worse luck to look in a dark closet with a match than to see a new moon over your left shoulder."

Chief George Gimblett's daily reminder which he is giving during prevention week today took the form of a parable. It concerns Mrs. O'Leary of Chicago.

Mrs. O'Leary was attending to her cow. She left her lantern in close proximity to the cow, and the cow kicked the lantern over. The result was all that could be desired in the way of a destructive fire, and is still known as the biggest conflagration in Chicago. It destroyed millions of dollars worth of goods.

Mrs. O'Leary didn't know the cow would kick the lantern. But she put it where the accident was possible.

That is how 15,000 persons were burned to death last year.

TEACHERS HEAR A STRONG PLEA FOR SCHOOL GARDENS

BRIGHTON, Oct. 12.— At the afternoon session Principal Langdon, of the Brighton P. S. briefly welcomed the visiting teachers to the village, after which J. B. Dandeno, inspector of elementary agricultural classes for Ontario gave an address on 'School Gardens For Public and Separate Schools,' an innovation of which he is an enthusiastic advocate. In the teaching of to-day too much prominence is given to books, pen and pencil, The hands and feet as well as the heads of pupils must be educated. Pupils like to work in the open air and some consideration should be given to this instruction. This work should not be done after school hours or it will become irksome to the children, but should be made a regular part of the course of study.

The chief objection to school gardens, Mr. Dandeno said, was that there were already too many subjects on the curriculum, but this could be overcome by eliminating some of the least important subjects. Any school can have a garden, even if it is necessary to haul soil for the purpose.

The garden should be large enough to supply every pupil with a plot, but not too large. Canada is land poor to-day and we would be richer if we had less.

Buy Tools at Home.

Only the best tools should be purchased and these should be obtained from the local dealer instead of sending to Toronto for them. Pupils should be taught to clean these every time they use them as the lack of care of utensils is one of the drawbacks in Canadian farming. Before being put up for the winter all steel should be oiled.

County councils should be asked for money with which to buy prizes for the best kept gardens.

Crops should be raised in the gardens in rotation, but it is best to plant only those that ripen after the summer moisture so that they may be cared for.

President Bellamy Objects.

Speaking for the Brighton High school, of which he is principal, President Bellamy said that there was no time for conducting a school garden and that the teaching of English grammar, for example, was more important than instruction in agriculture.

Believes in Bi-lingualism

Major Belford, M.L.A. for Northumberland East, one of the speakers for the afternoon is a former teacher and ex-member of the institute. The Major sets considerable store by the old time methods of education when boys were made to learn the multiplication table and three "R's" and were subjected to stern discipline. The Major deplores the fact, with gallant apologies for his attitude, that the lady teachers are now in the majority instead of the minority as in his time, as he is convinced that, men are better able to handle a class of boys.

Major Bedford praised the school system of Quebec, where the teaching of English and French are compulsory and is convinced that bi-lingualism would be an advantage to the youth of Ontario.

"Go to it," said the speaker referring to the Teacher's Federation. Get all the money you can and even then you will receive less than you have earned.

Objects to Superannuation Plan

Principal Langdon said that 40 years was too long a period for a person to teach before being eligible for a pension His idea is that the minimum should be set at 20 years and the pension rated after that.

Moot Charges in School Law

President Belford questioned Major Belford with regard to proposed changes — emanating from Premier Ferguson —in the School law. The Major said that while he had heard of these he had no definite information in the subject.

Closing Address

The afternoon session closed with an address on "Impressions of Western Canada," by Miss G. Peebles, principal of the Colborne Public School.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

DILL PICKLES

Every old garden had its bed of dill, and now that so many women are cultivating old-fashioned gardens why not include this fragrant old-timey herb?

Dill can be dried and used during the winter months when greens are scarce, in plain salads, egg salads and with creamed fish. Let stand in cold water to freshen it for winter use in salads.

And nearly everyone likes the tang of dill in pickles with wiener or club sandwiches.

Dill pickles are usually made of cucumber from three to four inches long, The cucumbers can be put into the brine as gathered, a few at a time until the crock containing them is full. Then cover with grape leaves to keep crisp and take care of any top spoilage.

Dill Pickles

Wash cucumbers and wipe smooth and dry. Make a brine of four quarts of water and one quart salt. Put cucumber in brine, cover with a weight to keep under the brine and let stand 24 hours. Remove from brine. Put a layer of dill in the bottom of a deep crock. Add cucumbers to almost half fill the crock. Add another layer of dill and fill crock to within two or three inches from the top. Cover with a layer of dill.

Pour over a brine made of four quarts of water, one and one-half quarts vinegar, and one quart of salt. Boil this mixture for 10 minutes. Let stand till cool and pour over cucumbers. The brine must completely cover the cucumbers to prevent mould. Put a layer of the grape leaevs over the whole.

Ella's Pickles

One cup ground mustard, one scant cup salt, three quarts of vinegar, one quart water, small cucumbers.

Mix mustard, salt, vinegar and water and bring to boiling point. Boil three minutes and let stand till cold. Wipe cucumbers dry with a clean soft cloth and put in a stone crock. Pour over vinegar and let stand three or four days before using.

These pickles can be made as the cucumbers are gathered. They are not soakd in brine before picking. To keep, cover with a weight and store in a dry cool place.

Crisp Pickles

One cup rock salt, one cup mustard, one cup sugar, one gallon vinegar, horseradish root.

Wash cucumbers and wipe dry. Put in a stone crock. Put a layer of horseradish over each layer of cucumbers. Mix salt, mustard, sugar and vinegar and let stand until dissolved. Pour over cucumbers. Continue to add cucumbers and horseradish until crock is full.

Wash and wipe grape leaves. Cover cucumbers with seven or eight long pieces of the grape leaves. Put a big plate over the crock and store in a dark, cool place.

The pickles will be ready for use in six weeks. The horseradish root keeps the pickles crisp. If the vinegar is very sharp dilute it with water. Too strong vinegar is often the cause of wilty pickles. Rinse pickles in clear water before serving.

STOLE TIRES FROM WOODVILLE GARAGE

Merchants of Villages in District Warned to Guard Property.

DEAN REVIEWS

CROSS-SECTIONS, by Julian Street (Doubleday, Page).

ANIMAL PERSONALITIES, by S. A. Derieux (Doubleday, Page).

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 12. — Time waits for no author. It is nearly five years since the armistice was signed and the grisly business of the World War was suspended. At this time Edith Wharton brings out a new novel, A Son at the Front." Those five years mark the barrier that stands between Mrs. Wharton and immediate recognition for a work of literature more substantial than anything she has achieved heret ofore

As centuries go, five years is no great span of time. Succeeding generations may cal for reprints of A Son at the Front" when imbroglios of nations again rake up the youth of the world for cannon fodder.

* * *

The action of A Son at the Front" begins just previous to Belgium's invasion by Germany. It ends before the armistice. War is kept always in the foreground, as though it were actually going on at the moment of reading. The temper of the American reading public is not for such atmosphere at this moment. That militates against the book.

On the other hand, the story is primarily a study of attitudes and philosophies. Its central figure is a French-born American, a painter who loves one person in all the world more than he loves himself. That is his son whose companionship has been denied him through the boy's growing years because of a divorce and his own inability to provide adequately for the boy.

The father gains affluence as the son reaches maturity. At last he is to have the opportunity to know his son. Then the war. The father attempts to keep the boy in a position where he will not face danger, but down in his heart hopes that the boy will have the greater experience of fighting.

* * *

The first division of the book in which the characters are outlined is ineffably dull, like the conversations of second cousins whom you've never met. Mrs. Wharton keeps the reader a stranger to her characters too long, but once the reader gets within the circle of action the tempo picks up rapidly. At the end you are weeping and rejoicing with the figures of the plot.

* * *

Undoubtedly A Son at the Front" was a labor of love with Mrs. Wharton. I do not know how long she was in writing the book. It covers 426 pages of fairly small type. It is so carefully done that she appears to have devoted at least several years to its wriiting. Better prose has not been written since 'If Winter Comes."

* * *

The other evening at Times Square I saw a dirty-faced urchin shy a tin box at a swell dressed dude. The dude, startled at the clatter of the box at feet, gave a sudden jump and lost his hat. Everyone who witnessed the incident laughed.

That little episode reminded me of 'Cross-Sections," a new volume of short stories by Julian Street. In these stories Street has his little pranks with several of our dignified institutions.

In 'Living up to Letchwood" he uses a slap-stick on our over a million circulation" magazines and their publishers. 'The Voice in the Hall" is a subtler thrust at spiritists. 'The Jazz Baby" is savage satire on the younger generation.

The story which closely parallels the incident of the urchin and the dude is 'The Silk Hat." This deals with a newspaper publisher whose chief cartoonist employed the silk hat as a badge of graft and corruption. Come a day when social usage compelled the publisher to wear a silk hat. The fate that befell him could have been conceived only by such a satiric cartoonist as Street.

Each of the nine stories in the volume ends in a sudden little fillip as sharp as a whip cracker. An excellent book for reading between home and work or on an overnight journey.

* * *

Edwin P. Norwood calls his 'In the Land of Diggleldy Dan" a story for children, but I'm quite sure if Dad reads it to Sonnybub he will enjoy it more than the boy. This book is a sequel to 'The Adventures of Diggeldy Dan," the quaint account of a circus clown and his animal friends.

Diggeldy Dan doesn't play so important a role as the animals in this latter book. Kangaroo and Captain Redcomb and Monkey discover the strangest lands that have been seen since Peter Pan and Wendy visited Never Never Land. Norwood's whimsical little fantasy has the touch of Barrie in it.

* * *

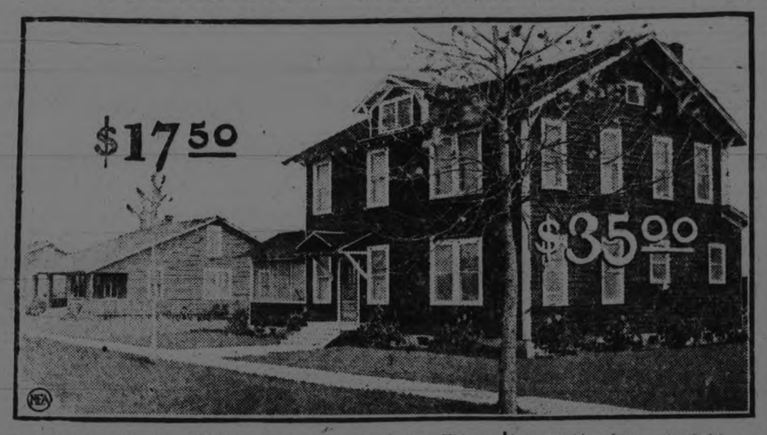
Just as Norwood has employed animals in the spinning of this fantasy for children, the late Samuel A. Derieux has cast animals and birds as heroes in Animal Personalities." If ever a man hated dumb animals he should read the book that he might love them, for to know dogs, horses, cats, cratures of barnyard and field as Derieux knew them is to love them. The affairs of animals as this writer pictures them are as tender, as touching and as humorous as the affairs of humankind.

* * *

In Norwood's fantasy crows are pictured as singing beautiful songs, although each bird sings but one note. The beauty lies in the harmony of having eight crows each singing a different note.

Derieux says that scarecrows are generally ineffective in keeping the birds out of a field. He tells of one sure way to keep crows away. All around the field we drove stakes. We fastened from one stake to another some ordinary cotton strings, an tied to these strings some bits of rags. The crows never lit in the field after that. However, they gathered from miles around to look into the matter. Every now and then a breeze would flutter the rags. Then they would all exclaim in harsh voices, as if saying, See that I told you it had life in it' What lies beyond his experience the crow is suspicious of."

OWNS THE WHOLE TOWN



WILSON, Ark., Oct. 12— What's Robert E. Lee Wilson going to do with his one-man town?

It's getting to be a complex problem, not only here in Wilson, Mississippi country, but for grizzled pioneers, railroad magnates, bankers in surrounding towns and financiers in St. Louis. Little Rock, Memphis and Chicago who wonder just what Lee Wilson, now 61, is going to do with a fast-growing town of 2000 population and which he owns —lock, stock and barrel.

Like some feudal land baron of old, this man owns everything in sight on a vast expanse of nearly 50,000 acres. It's all his, personally. The only thing he doesn't own in Wilson is a little yellow depot and a few hundred yard of steel rail, the property of the Frisco Railway.

But even the Frisco system hasn't anything on Mr. Wilson. He operates his own little railroad, runs it to suit himself, and it's 150 miles long. They call it the Jonesboro, Lake City & Eastern Railroad, and it links up Wilson with Jonesboro and Blytheville, Ark.

One U. S. Official

But even a multi-millionaire, such as Wilson, with all his business acumen, can't be expected to fill the shoes of a mayor, the chief of police, the banker, the hotel proprietor, the merchant, the preacher, the justice of the peace and all the other shoes incident to the rule, control and hustling town like Wilson.

There's only one government official in town—the postmaster. The tax collector drops around once a year, but it's easy to collect taxes in Wilson. He writes out a memorandum for Mr. Wilson and Mr. Wilson writes out a check for Mr. Tax Collector—and the ordeal is over.

There are 240 residences in Wilson and Mr. Wilson owns them all.

His property, including the town proper, extends 27 miles in length one way, eight miles in another and then winds along with the Mississippi River.

Eighteen plantations that will produce this year 6500 acres of cotton. There are 6900 acres planted in corn. The cotton is produced from 8000 acres. He has 1200 acres in wheat and 800 acres in alfalfa.

Thousands of acres of virgin timber.

Box Factory

A sawmill that represents an investment of $250,000.

A mill that produces 300 barrels of flour and meal daily.

An eight-gin stand, electrically driven, which cost him $10,000 and has a capacity of 90 bales daily.

The Bank of Wilson, with a capital of $25,000 and a surplus of nearly $35,000.

A department store, where one can buy anything from a toothpick to a flivver.

A modern school structure Mr. Wilson built at a cost of $200,000. He also set aside 100 acres of land surrounding the building. There is an annual deficit of $10,000 in the maintenance of this school with its staff of 20 teachers, but a check from Mr. Wilson's secretary wipes out the deficit without argument.

A Community Center building.

Waterworks plant.

Wilson rents from himself. He pays himself $45 per month for his nine-room house and that's the maximum rent paid by any citizen of Wilson. The scale of rents run from $12.50 to $37.50 per month, according to the size home.

Funny thing, nobody can live in Wilson without renting from Mr. Wilson, and nobody can work in Wilson without working for Mr. Wilson.

Wilson isn't very talkative with strangers. But he's dynamic in action and he doesn't employ laggards.

"Work hard when you work and play hard when you play," is his idea of life.

RADIO NEWS

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The time will come soon when radio will be as commonly accepted by humanity as is the automobile today—when tubes and hookups and wavelengths will be of less interest than the results obtainable from the different receiving sets.

This is the prediction of Edward H. Jewett, a new man in the radio field but old in the automobile game. Recently Jewett was elected vice president of the De Forest Radio Telegraph and Telephone Co., after Lee De Forest, its founder, had resigned.

"In my opinion," he concludes, "the radio business is undergoing a series of experiences very much like the automobile industry in its adolescent period. It will probably develop along much the same lines.

Twenty Years Ago

"I suppose everyone can remember the time when a man hardly dared own a motor car unless he felt himself thoroughly equipped to attend to it in every respect. Today, I venture to say, not one automobile owner in a hundred knows anything about the inside of his car. He does not have to and he does not want to. All he does want to know is that the car will take him where he wants to go.

"I think the time will very soon be here when radio will reach a similar point. The great interest of people in radio will be in what they can hear. They will be interested more in the quality of entertainment their receiving stations can furnish than in the receiving set itself.

"I look forward to the time, and I do not think it will be long, when people will buy receiving sets without having the slightest technical or scientific interest in radio. They will simply want the set for the entertainment and instruction they can get by its use.

Less Bother

"Up to now, I venture to say, a big proportion of the people who have installed radio in their homes have had a really scientific interest in radio.

"Of this group of the buying public, I think we have pretty nearly reached the saturation point. From now on the great increase in radio users will be in people who are interested altogether in what they can get from the broadcasting stations and not in how and why it works.

"Of course, there is one element of fascination in the radio that will never be eliminated. I am confident that most people will always be more interested in getting results from a great distance than they will in getting them close from home, even though the latter may be superior in quality."

THE IMPLEMENT SHED

Farm Machinery Worth Careful Caring For.

Practical Hints as to Location and Size—As to Foundation and Floor—Walls, Roofing and General Frame Work Described—Abort In-breeding

Implement sheds should be so designed that the accessibility of the implements stored therein will always be easy' Wide implement sheds are generally not as convenient as the narrower structures unless designed with doorways on both sides, or alleyways kept clear to facilitate the movement and storage of the implements. The storage of the implements in the farm barn or any other expensive building is not economical.

The Location

The implement shed should be so located that time will not be lost in travelling more steps than absolutely necessary with, or to get implements, either going to or returning from work. Where horses are used as the main farm power, the implement shed should be located near the stables, at a point where the teams can conveniently pass on the way from stable to field. On many farms the implement shed can be located at a point between the house and barn, a very desirable location, especially if the building is used for the motor car and workshop.

For a 100-acre grain and live stock farm fully equipped with the necessary machinery a shed 60 feet long and 24 feet wide is generally amply large. Different types of farming call for different tools and implements, so before deciding on the size of building to erect, determine the floor space required for each tool or machine and then plan a shelter large enough to cover all.

Foundation

The implement shed does not require a heavy foundation. A light cement wall six inches thick and set on firm ground is all that is required. Small pillars of cement set to support each post of the frame can be made by filling a half barrel, or nail keg, or small forms specially made with concrete. The posts used in the frame may be set in cement. Such practice gives strength and durability. Foundations set on the firm soil after the top vegetable mould has been removed are generally satisfactory in all parts of Ontario.

The Floor

A dry earth or gravel floor is all that is necessary if the shed is located on well-drained ground. Cement is desirable where the cost of such is not excessive. Wood floors are the most comfortable to work on, but such are expensive and may harbor vermin. Sand floors are objectionable. If the earth floor is damp at any time of the year iron may rust. Narrow boards placed under the wheels or runners will aid in their preservation.

The Walls

The implement shed walls need only be heavy enough to keep out the sun, the wind and rain, and strong enough to give rigidity to the structure. Vertical boards and battens on a 2 x 4 inch frame will provide such at low cost, or matched drop siding over a ship-lap sheathing will give a more durable and better appearing wall at a higher cost. Corrugated galvanized sheets or siding does very well, and has the additional advantage of fire-proofing the structure. Cement block and brick walls, if on good foundations, are very desirable from the durability standpoint, but much too expensive for general farms.

For narrow implement sheds the cheapest durable roof is the wide roof board and batten. Galvanized iron sheets if well supported on a strong pole or 2 x 4 inch roof frame makes an excellent covering. The prepared paper roof coverings of tar or asphalt felts are very desirable, and are generally dust-proof. Shingles make a very acceptable covering providing that the roof is not less than one-third pitch.

The Frame of the Implement Shed

The width and height of the structure will determine in a large measure the dimension of the structural material. Narrow buildings with gable or hip roof can be framed of 2 x 4 inch lumber. A building designed with shed roof will require heavier rafters; 2 x 6 inch for buildings over 12 feet wide, unless the building is high enough to permit the use of rafter braces. Corner posts, sills and plates may be one piece 2 x 6 inch or doubled 3 x 4 inch. Sheds that are built open front must be well braced to stand both side and downward strain. The posts on one side may be set well in to give a wide eave or overhang. A convenient type of shed or shelter may be constructed by erecting one line of posts and constructing thereon a frame that will give sufficient width to shelter wagons or large implements and be wide open all round during the period when farm implements are in use. Provision for closing in can be made by providing doors or panels which may be put in place for winter protection of implements.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. C., Guelph.

PREPARING THE BEES FOR WINTER

(Experimental Farms Note)

All work in the apiary has for its ultimate object the securing of a good crop, and hence the preparation of bees for winter means more than the safe wintering over of the colony.

The first step in preparing bees for the winter is also the first of the beekeeper's year as well as his first step towards securing next season's crop. About the middle of July preparations are commenced by seeing that each colony is headed by a vigorous young queen in order that the maximum number of young bees may be reared to carry the colony through the winter. Should the fall flow be insufficient to cause a large amount of brood to be reared, stimulative feeding will have to be resorted to; that is, 1 part of sugar to 1 part water or dilute honey mixture must be fed. Colonies that frames, should be united; this may b done by the newspaper method; o! two weak colonies may be brought together and wintered in one hive if it is divided by a close fitting division board. This latter method provides the beekeeper with surplus queens early the following season.

Having secured a large force of young bees, the next step is to see that each colony has sufficient stores to not only carry it through the winter but also through the early spring till pollen and nectar are coming in, thus enabling it to build up rapidly. The stores provided should be of the best; no unwholesome honey containing a high percentage of solid matter should be given. If natural stores are deficient, a syrup of two parts of the best granulated sugar to one part water should be fed. This being last stored will be the first consumed and, as it breaks down into gas and water, will defer solid matter accumulating in the intestines. Colonies in ten-frame Langstroth hives to be cellar wintered should weigh at least sixty pounds without their covers, while those wintered outside seventy pounds or more.

DINNER BELL

A rat is let out of its cage by Dr. Savlov, distinguished Russian scientist. A piece of cheese is dropped nearby. Doc immediately rings a bell," which frightens the rat. It scurries back into its cage without touching the cheese.

In the fiftieth staging of this experiment, the rat rushes out of its cage when it hears the bell, and runs in circles trying to find the usual piece of cheese—which isn't there this trip.

Doc and other scientists examine Mr. Rat's mouth, find it watering. So the discovery is announced to the world, that the rat had learned that the clang of the dinner gong meant something to eat. Human "intelligence" probably dawned similarly, ages past.

Doc Savlov and his associates next experimented with the rat's child, then the grandchildren—on for five generations of rats. They noticed that with each successive generation the rat learned the meaning of the bell more quickly.

The fifth-generation rat responded to the dinner bell with a watering mouth the fifth time he was baited. Took his ancestor 50 trips to accomplish the same thing.

Savlov made quite a sensation at a recent international medical conference when he told about his rat experiments which demonstrate that rats are influenced by their ancestors.

The scientists talked about "hereditary instincts" of the rats. They call it instinct, which theoretically is action by impulse without thinking or even consciousness of the act. But Savlov's rats remind us strangely of humanity's progress. The difference between instinct and intelligence may be chiefly a matter of man's vanity.

A BIG LINE-UP FOR SEATS AT BIG MEET

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Boxes, camp stools, cordwood and chairs were used as seats by the men and women who lined up long before the first streak of dawn at the Board of Trade offices here yesterday to secure seats for the Lloyd George address Saturday night. Hundreds were in line shortly after five o'clock, and by 8.30, when the sale opened, it extended several blocks, and included thousands of admirers of Britain's war-time Premier. The line was a mile long. Purchasers were limited to two tickets, but many were disappointed and complaints were lodged that some must have received more than their share. These charges were denied by the officials of the Canadian Club handling the sale of tickets. A committee of those who were unable to obtain tickets has been formed and an investigation is demanded.

FREEDOM OF LONDON CITY CONFERRED ON PREM. KING

"So Long as This Spirit of Freedom Exists Unity Of the British Empire Will Survive," Replied Canada's Chief Citizen Following Ceremony

LONDON, Oct. 12 — (Canadian Press Cable, by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent). — "Into our conference we seek to carry the spirit of the freedom of London, knowing that so long as that spirit survives, the British Empire will endure."

These words were used by Right Hon. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, to-day, when in her ancient Guildhall of tradition and story London conferred on him, as on Premier Bruce of Australia, her honorary freedom, and the words were indicative of the tenor of his remarks both then and at the subsequent luncheon given by the Lord Mayor in the Mansion House.

Unbroken Tradition.

On the first occasion Premier King showed wherein "freedom of community of the nations which comprises the British Empire" was an expression on an empire scale of the freedom of London. On the second, he indicated how that freedom had been carried to different parts of the world. By unbroken tradition, he said, the freedom of London was linked with the freedom of the community of nations, to which a formal expression was given in the Imperial Conference. It was in London that local self-government had its birth; self-government that was the very kernel of freedom enjoyed today not less in Canada and Australia, in New Zealand and South Africa, in Ireland and Newfoundland than in the United Kingdom itself.

"It is inevitable," continued Premier King, "that as the British Dominions continue to increase in size and grow in importance and influence, their freedom in all particulars will become commensurate with the extent of their interests. But such changes and modifications of existing forms and methods of procedure as may be necessary to this end will be worked out in the spirit of co-operation, worked out by conciliation and conference, in a manner which, whilst rendering more apparent and real complete autonomy of all self-governing parts, will continue to maintain the unity of the whole.

Confidence and Peace.

"Union, confidence and peace to the whole Empire," continued Premier King, "is the object of this conference which has brought together from beneath the southern cross and the north star representatives of India and self-governing Dominions to meet in London the Prime Minister and other Ministers of the United Kingdom in conference upon matters of supreme interest which are of concern to us all. May the community of the British nations for ever flourish and expand, conferring upon countless millions the benefits of its social and politcal civilization. Such is my sincere wish as a Canadian; my first wish as a Freeman of the City of London."

No Need of Treaties.

At the luncheon Premier King declared, in referring to the relations between Britain and the Dominions, that they had no need of treaties or declarations of loyalty. "Bonds which unite the people in one great community of British nations," he said, "are of far more enduring worth. This great Empire exists and will remain indissoluble as long as it rests upon full, complete and untrammelled autonomy of its component parts. In this principle lies the strength of individual nations and the greatness of a collective body."

"Tell me, pretty maiden, are there any more at home like you?"

So runs the perennial song of the Telephone Company. Its force of operators must be constantly recruited, for Dan Cupid is forever luring hundreds from the switchboard to the home nest.

In the schools for operators which are a part of the telephone system in every good sized city, careful training is given student operators. After a thorough physical examination, the girls are drilled in enunciation and voice production, and schooled in the system of numbering employed at the switchboard. Then at a practice switchboard they get a complete training in selecting and connecting the numbers asked for by their instructors who act the part of calling subscribers. Conditions at an actual switchboard are reproduced as exactly as possible and when this training is complete, the student is assigned to the less busy positions in the central office where her work as a beginner is under careful supervision until efficiency is assured.

Cholin Brings Age

"What brings old age is not years but cholin," says he, pronouncing the strange word "kolin." "Cholin ish a toxin liberated in the body, increasing as time passes. It is the direct cause of arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries which accompanies senility. It glazes over the glands so they function under a growing handicap.

Obtained From Monkeys

"The fighting elements in the blood are trying to combat this cholin. From tests of the blood it is possible to tell which glands are suffering from attack.

"Having found out which elements in the human system need reinforcement, we induce a development of those elements in the monkeys. Then we withdraw the glandular fluid so produced, add extracts made from separated animal glands and inject in the patient. The cholin is split, the patient's own members go to work again and rejuvenation is accomplished.

"I won't say how long life will be extended. You wouldn't believe it. But it will make the traditional threescore years and ten look insignificant And lengthened life will be a blessing, because vigor and health and increasing wisdom will accompany it."

Remarkable Cures Cited

It works already, Dr. Held declares. He cites the case of a woman of 50, suffering from high blood pressure, short breath and fainting spells.

After three months' decholinizing treatment the distressing symptoms disappeared and she joined a gymnasium class. A man of 91 took the treatment and went back to active work in his law office. In three cases, white hair began coming in at its old-time darker hue.

LONDON, Oct. 12. — (United Press, by Harry N. Moore).—The greatest curiosity is being displayed in England over the cabled announcement appearing in the afternoon papers yesterday of the new discovery of Dr. Banting, the Toronto scientist responsible for the insulin cure for diabetes, and people suffering from cancer, tuberculosis and other disease, have begun to write to the newspapers this morning asking for further news of the new cure.

Dr. Banting is beginning to be looked upon as a modern medical wizard, who is expected to find cures for every known human ailment.

M'GILL WEAK FOR GAME WITH VARSITY

Philpott, Hughes and Hanna on Injured List.

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—That McGill University rugby players will face a heavy task when they meet their traditional football rivals from the University of Toronto here Saturday.

Philpot is still in hospital suffering from an abscess of the jaw following a crash in the Queen's game, while Gordie Hughes is nursing a bad leg and Hanna a bruised hip. None of the three have done any drilling this week and will hardy be used aaginst Varsity, with the possible exception of Hughes. The gap will be filled by Coach Shaughnessy, with Bill Baker, who will essay the kicking roue and Jack Nickles, the freshman who has been showing ability as a quarter-back. These two, with "Bones" Little and Herbie Murphy, will complete the backfield, Fife being elected to fill the flying wing position. The line will be practically the same as the front rank that made such a stand against the tri-color with Captain McGregor at snap, Woodruff and Starke at insides ;Amaron and Manson at middle, and Charlie Robertson and Anderson as starters at the outside wings.

Club Said to be Conducting a Common Betting Place.

TORONTO, October 12, Canadian Press. — Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General of Ontario, will in a few days take action against the London Jockey Club of Niagara Falls, Ont., for conducting a "common betting place," and will through the legal representatives of the Crown, endeavour to prove that the Federal Charter under which the club is to operate, is invalid.

The London Jockey Club, the directorate of which waited on the Ontario government a few days ago holds that the Federal charter issued to them permits the running of races and the operation of betting machines at the track.

The club will open the track tomorrow at Niagara Falls with a full card of races.

"No attempt will be made to stop the races," stated Hon. Mr. Nickle to the Canadian Press this morning. "Officers will, however, be on hand to take evidence in connection with betting and a summons will be issued against them on that ground.

SUDBURY DISAPPOINTED WHEN TRAIN WENT OUT

SUDBURY, October 12 Canadian Press. — Owing to the early hour of arrival in Sudbury this morning, Lloyd George did not put in an appearance, much to the disappointment of a large humber of the former residents of Wales and some others, who gathered at the station. The train arrived at six fifty, and was here for ten minutes, but only the chef and the secretary appeared at the windows of the private car.

Dr. C. V. Corless of the Mond Nickel Co., J. C. Nicholls of the International Nickel Co., and Col. Jones of Spanish River Pulp and Paper Co. went ahead on Number three to Cartier to join Lloyd George special for breakfast.

This comprises an ordinance for the employment of a gold standard for all taxes in place of the existing method of levying assessments on a paper mark basis, and collecting them months afterwards in further depreciated currency.

With its revenues from taxation established on a gold basis, Chancellor Stressemann believes the first step will have been taken toward salvaging the nation's finaces.

Among futher ordinances which are expected shortly to be dictated is one providing for drastic curtailment of the government's expenses and the pruning of the official payrolls.

FOOD RIOTS AGAIN.

Food riots occurred this morning in two of Berlin's densly populated sections where the population is without potatoes or meat. In both instances, according to the police, those responsible for the disorders were unemployed men who were accompanied in their raids by many women. When they attempted to protect the food shops, the police were attacked by the mobs. Many arrests were made.

Miners' Agreement

An agreement has been signed between German miners' unions and French authorities for the return to work of all miners and officials of the Dorstfeld mine, one of the largest in the Ruhr, which the French occupied some time ago to exploit themselves. A similar agreement was made for the Bergfeld mine in the same district.

Under the agreement all expelled miners, officials and office employes are allowed to return.

Soaring prices and scarcity of food are accompanied by tremendous advances in cost of fuel, and newspapers are accusing coal dealers of keeping pace in their charges with dollar exchange rate while salary increases lag week's behind. Editors and writers of letters to newspapers urge the severest measures against so called profiteers in fuel, food and other necessities, accusing them of taking advantage of the plight of their country to rake in marks and then buy dollars and pounds sterling.

The municipal gas works supplying two-thirds of Berlin, has been enjoined by court order from cutting off gas supply in cases, where consumers refused to pay their bills.

STORM PLAYS HAVOCK IN LOO CHOO ISLANDS

TOKIO, Japan, October 12 (Canadian Press). — A terrible storm swept over the city of Naha, Loo-Choo Islands, on Wednesday night, and many persons are missing, according to despatches received here.

The breakwater of the city, which is the principal port of the islands and the capital of the Japanese Okinawa Prefecture, is reported to have been destroyed and all the dwellings surrounded by four feet of water.

for his fuel, and briquettes, bituminous coal, peat, coke and Alberta coal were discussed by the speaker in this connection.

"Anthracite from Wales is superior to American anthracite for domestic use," Mr. Coombe said, "provided it is properly screened on this side." The use of Alberta coal in Ontario depends on the better organization of the mines in Alberta and a lower freight rate. The speaker suggested the testing by the members of the Engineering Institute of all grades and classes of domestic fuel, and Leon Frazer, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, asked the members to take the Alberta coal now entering the city and give it a thorough test. The engineers, he said, from their expert knowledge, could give a more exhaustive report than the average man in the street.

Improvements to Stoves.

Much could be done in the way of conserving coal, Mr. Coombe said, by the introduction of a new type of stove and furnace those in use now being thirty years old. There should be a large combustion space in the grate and provision should be made for the admission of air over the fire.

Last night's meeting was well attended, and the chairman, Ross Dobbin, welcomed new members. A good programme has been arranged for the season, including talks on engineering problems by experts in many fields.

WHITE HOUSE A MECCA

By DALE VAN EVERY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (United Press).—Almost any day at the White House brings callers representing a very fair cross section of the nation.

There are Cabinet ministers and senate politicians and job seekers, Admirals and delegations, heads of departments and the merely curious among those who constantly stream through the entrance which leads to President Coolidge's office in the west extension of the White House.

Before the door there are always a score of photographers on the alert to get pictures of any persons of news consequence. The little room to the right within the entrance is the press room, from which newspaper men sally forth to interview those of the President's visitors whose words may be of importance.

The President arrives early. Though few of his official appointments are made for earlier than 9:30, important callers frequently turn up before 9. This is a favorite calling time for both Secretaries Hoover and Hughes when either has a question which demands a personal conference with the Chief Executive.

By 10 the rush of visitors is on in full volume. Probably not one in a hundred is admitted to the President. Many of them are tourists coming with letters of introduction from the Congressmen to get tickets to visit the White House proper. These are shepherded back and forth by the courteous White House police.

Ready to be Photographed

The newspaper men and photographers scan the arrivals closely. Most public figures are recognized at first glance. The official of importance generally consents readily to the photographing. But he is usually much shyer under the reporters' questioning.

Many of the callers who progress past the police at the door, past the secret service men in the hallway, past the clerk at the desk beyond, are calling upon Presidental Secretary Slemp. Minor questions of politics and appointments reach him first.

Probably the most noticeable thing about the American public as it is portrayed by its representatives approaching the White House is curiosity. Large numbers of tourists passing by and seeing the photographers assume the President is coming out. They wait for hours in the hope of seeing him. Others walk back and forth, furtively glancing through the windows, which on this side open on only the press room and the clerks' offices.

Visitors armed with letters of introduction get beyond the portals, but on entering discover only a large bare reception room. Most of these parties seem to be family groups. Invariably the woman marches ahead with the outstretched letter of introduction; next comes the children and at the end of the procession the man.

The police at the door have an uncanny memory. Newspaper men and visitors with appointments are constantly going in and out. But the first casual sightseer who assumes the building is open to the public is politely stopped on the threshold.

Long Office Hours

President Coolidge keeps long office hours. He is usually at his desk before 9. He goes to lunch shortly after 1. On most afternoons he is still in his office at 5.30.

The public gets most of its direct news of the President on Tuesdays and Fridays. He meets the newspaper men on Tuesday at noon and on Friday at 4 p.m. During every day reporters representing the press associations and the local papers are on duty at the White House every minute the President is in his office, but on Tuesday and Fridays practically every correspondent in Washington comes to attend the President's press conference.

HINDENBURG, WAR HERO, IS 76, VERY RELIGIOUS

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (United Press).—Field Marshal Von Hindenberg, the grand old man of Germany's military days, today is 76 years old.

The old Field Marshal opened his mail this morning to find dozens of good wishes and congratulations from his admirers all over Germany. The press was full of tributes to the former war leader, especially those with a reactionary editorial policy. Last year friends of the old marshal presented him with a big album of pictures depicting the public life of Hindenburg. Hindenburg makes his home in Hanover, where his fellow citizens have furnished him with a comfortable villa as a tribute to his military record.

Despite his age, Hindenburg rises early in the morning, taking a stroll through the streets as an appetite raiser. The old man is very religious, spending much of his time at prayer. He derives a small income, sufficient to keep him in comfort during his old age, from a few interest industrial concerns. He receives a petty pension from the government, which at the present value of the German marks means very little.

Whenever Hindenburg appears in public at revues, etc., he wears his field marshal regalia, though about Hanover he is usually seen in civilian clothes. Hindenburg makes a lot of noise regarding the possibility of a return of the old order, even occasionally advocating the use of force. However, most of his speeches are mere repetitions of what he has said before—a lot of generalizations about a united Germany.

Despite the fact that Hindenburg wears his old uniform on occasions he is no longer in any way connected with the military forces. Though he has many adverse critics he is generally considered as the national hero—Germans always liking to remember him as the man who saved them from the Russians at Tannenberg.

Hindenburg is not a man of marked intellectual achievements. He knows little of the sciences and letters. He once said that following his graduation from school he never opened any books except those relating to military affairs and his prayer books.

Fashion Hints

(By MARIAN HALE)

PARIS, Oct. 12—Only two types of hat are given any consideration in Paris—the large Capeline model, to be worn with the full, bouffant frocks, and the very small hat, either a cloche, or a roll-brim.

In Paris you are fitted for hats, just as you are for gowns. You try on the models to find something that suits you, and no one minds in the least how long this takes you. Then you enter upon a long consultation concerning colors and trimmings.

Next a third party arrives on the scene and charts your head with a tape-line, recording all her findings minutely, more carefully than a phrenologist would do it.

In a couple of days you arrive for a fitting, after your chapeau has taken on a certain shape bearing a resemblance to the original. On this occasion you make sure that your head has not increased or decreased and that you have not changed your mind.

Question of Line

In a week your hat is ready for you, made to humor all the bumps and depressions of your particular cranium.

The modistes will tell you that the Frenchwoman does not like fancy hats, but wants all the attention focused on the line. With her most elaborate frocks she wants severe hats.

In the charming gray and purple salon of Jane Blanchot I saw the hats photographed here, and gleaned much information concerning millinery styles for the winter.

Panne velvet is to be the smart material for hats, large and small. Nearly every hat is colored or has color in the trimming. The all-black model is hard to find.

Much of the trimming consists of feathers, tassels or fancy effects that fall low on the shoulder. Bows of ribbon or loops of velvet are seen, but they are applied quite flatly.

Ostrich feather fancies are popular on large or small shapes. Picture hats of black velvet have old rose, green, or blue ostrich tips arranged on one side of the brim. Often the brim is cut, to allow the trimming to fall through.

Match the Gown

Leather, popular on frocks, is even more so on hats and is used to make the hat, as well as combined with velvet to make the trimming.

Felt shapes are popular for street and are practically untrimmed. A bunch of white ermine tails is a becoming trim for a black velvet shape.

Frequently hats match handbags or belts, or carry out an embroidered motif found on the frock. At all times they give the effect of being a part of the costume.

Organize Company For Exporting Wheat.

CALGARY, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Organisation of an exporting company of the Alberta Wheat Producers, Limited, with D. L. Smith, of Winnipeg, formerly manager of the Grain Growers' Export Company, as manager, was announced here.

The office of the exporting company will be situated at Winnipeg.

Following this development it is expected that the board of trustees will have an announcement on Saturday as to the date when the pool will be ready to accept wheat from its members.

AN ADDRESS OF MARSHALL FOCH

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 (Canadian Press)—"Canadians wrote here their first page of that Book of Glory which is the history of their participation in the Great War." It was a remarkable tribute to Canadian valour which was paid by Marshal Foch at the recent unveiling of the monument erected by the Canadian battlefields Memorials Commission at St. Julien.

"It is indeed easy for me," said the Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Forces, "at the foot of this Monument, to recall that fateful day when the Germans, in an effort to assure victory, had recourse to emissions of gas, violating once more another treaty, another solemn agreement.

"How can one forget such events? Can you understand the deep anguish of the leaders, who, surprised by new methods of attack against which they had no means of defence, had just the same to face them and send into the furnace men who they knew in advance to be disarmed?

"It is the glory of those men who come from Canada to have held fast, and, miracle of energy, counter-attacked St. Julien, making this village and the little neighboring wood into a redoubt behind which Marshal French and I were able to seek and put into effect means which were to prevent the surprise from becoming a serious defeat.

"The Canadians paid heavily for their sacrifice and the corner of earth on which this Monument of gratitude and piety rises has been bathed in their blood. They wrote here their first page of that Book of Glory which is the history of their participation in the war.

"For it is not only here that their steady courage overcame the most desperate efforts of the enemy. We find the Canadians again at the Ridge of Vimy which they captured and widely overrun in a superb assault. When the outlook is dark, at the end of March, Canadians are among the first to arrive in the breach before Amiens. And when in August the hour of the great offensive has come Canadian troops break through the German lines on the route from Amiens to Roye and the first day advance more than 15 kilometres.

"That is only the preface of that ardent period during which Canadians advance from Arras to Cambrai which they capture, breaking in their passage the famous Quenant-Dreaucourt line reputed to be impregnable; then, tireless always aggressive, they leave Douai, seize Valenciennes and at length take possession of Mons the day of the Armistice, crowning by the capture of that city, a battle of one hundred days in the course of which the Canadians spent themselves without counting the cost and performed the most illustrious exploits.

"In those hundred days they have liberated more than 700 square kilometres of French soil, 228 towns and villages, engaged and definitely broken 47 German divisions who leave in their hands more than 31,000 prisoners, 700 guns, 400 mortars and thousands of machine guns. It is with deep emotion that I recall these memories in front of this monument, simple and strong like the Canadian spirit.

"I recall the days when, moved by the same feelings of justice and burning love of liberty we fought together against the common enemy. This close collaboration gave us victory on the field of battle. Let me believe that the sacrifices mutually suffered by our soldiers have created between our countries imperishable bonds which German intrigue will not be able to weaken."

HEALTH REPORTS FIRST

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 12 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, convenor of the standing committee on Public Health of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, considers that the most thrilling literature we have today are the health reports. They ought to head the list of best sellers, she thinks.

"In British Columbia we have one whole programme devoted to health reports and discussion on them. 10 Definite facts in regard to local schools never fail to arouse interest," she said.

Alberta she praised for its maternity nurses, and Manitoba she declared to be "strong on tonsils." Nova Scotia's child welfare activities, its teaching on the food value of milk, and its work in the matter of school lunches were all favorably reviewed. Ontario was also commended for its child and motherhood work, and Peel County Institutes in particular in regard to health work.

EGYPTIAN WOMEN ARE ASKING FOR FREEDOM

MONTREAL, Oct. 12 (Canadian Press).—An interesting letter from a woman in Egypt tells of the reception given the Egyptian woman Hoda Charaoui Pasha, when she went home after the great gathering of the International Women's Suffrage Congress in the Eternal City, when she spoke of the needs of women of her own country. In the Journal du Cairo her efforts are spoken of with the greatest sympathy and admiration, and even some of the most conservative papers show similar sympathy toward the endeavors of the women of the country to obtain freedom from century-old customs. Half the press is for the women, while the other half ignores them and their efforts.

An Egyptian woman who heard her speech in Rome writes that she made a startling impression. She dispelled the illusion created by writers who speak of the resignation of the women of the harem in the East.

"Egyptian women," she said, "are demanding that they be set free of the convention of wearing a veil and of living in harems. They demand the right to education, to divorce laws, to assume their share in public life, and that intercourse with the world outside of their narrow limits which will enable them to choose their husbands for themselves."

PUMPKIN PIE

"When the frost is on the pumpkin" most men-folk begin to think it's time for pumpkin pie. And most of these men, who know nothing whatever about the baking of these pies, have very definite ideas on the subject. They agree that the pies should be "thick" meaning an inch and a half deep, that they should be creaming and smooth and not too stiff, but by no means "watery." And then they disagree when it comes to seasoning. Some like them dark with spice and others say "No mixture of strong spices in my pumpkin pie."

So for the benefit of the woman who "strives to please" these recipes are offered.

Yankee Pumpkin Pie

Cut pumpkin in narrow strips. Remove seeds and pare. Cut in dice. Put in a kettle and stew covered until tender. Enough water to prevent burning must be added to the pumpkin. An iron kettle is best to stew pumpkins in because the pumpkin can be cooked drier and acquire a darker color without burning or scorching. It takes almost a day really to "stew" a pumpkin. Rub through a colander or put through potato ricer.

One cup of sifted pumpkin, 1 egg, 2 cups milk, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 scant teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon salt, rich pastry.

Line a deep pie pan with a rich pie crust. Beat egg slightly. Mix sugar, salt and ginger and beat into egg. Add pumpkin and mix well. Stir in milk. Blend perfectly and pour into the pie shell. Put into a hot oven to bake the crush quickly. Reduce heat and bake until the pie is firm to the touch. This rule is for an eight-inch pie pan. If a larger size is used add more milk and sugar, salt and ginger. If three pies are needed 2 eggs, 2½ cups pumpkin, 2 cups sugar, and milk to fill the pie pans is a good rule. One tablespoon ginger should be mixed with the sugar. If spices are desired add them to taste.

Puffy Pumpkin Pie

One cup sifted pumpkin, 2-3 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1½ cups milk, ½ cup cream, 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon salt, pastry.

Beat yolks of eggs with sugar, salt and spices. Add pumpkin and milk and cream and mix thoroughly. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold in mixture. Turn into a deep pie pan lined with rich pastry and bake in a hot oven at first and a slow oven to prevent the custard from watering.

Pie With Maringue

One cup sifted pumpkin, 2-3 cup sugar, 3 eggs, 2 cups milk, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, baked pie shell.

Beat yolks of three eggs and whites of two with sugar until light. Add pumpkin, milk, spices and salt and cook over a slow fire until thick and smooth. Turn into baked pie shell. Beat white of egg until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar and spread over pumpkin mixture. Bake eight minutes in a moderate oven to set and color the meringue.

The last two recipes are sort of special, company pies.

Fall Frocks

THE new season is at hand an most women are eager for new frocks and such an attractive assortment is here to choose from. Many of lustrous fabrics often with circular tiers across the front in apron effect are handsomely embroidered while those of crepe romaine, satin faced canton and charmeuse show pleatings, beading and lace trims priced from $19 to $75.

The Home

WHAT new costumes are to the woman of fashion, new draperies, a new rug, a cosy chair, a lovely lamp or two, are to the attractive home. And in order to suggest to you the most pleasing ways to put on the homes' Fall dress we ask you to make it your purpose when shopping Saturday to make a special trip to our Home Furnishings Department and hear about and see the new items for the home.

Footwear

SHOES that mean so much in carrying out to the finest touch of perfection the neatness and good looks of ones new fall apparel were never in such a captivating array, for everything in our Shoe Department is according to the newest mode. Shoes for dress and evening wear, for the street or pleasing lasts to wear with that new afternoon frock. They have all arrived and await your inspection. Visit the Shoe Department, second floor.

Blouses

AUTUMN brings a new assortment of blouses in delightful new styles as varied in coloring as the suits and skirts they will accompany, they reveal all shades most favoured this season. As for styles the over blouse in jacquette or slip-over style showing side tie effect are most seen in the prevailing mode. Canton, crepe joying the greatest popularity.

Accessories

ACCESSORIES in fashion's Autumn limelight are more than beautiful. They have been created with thought to costumes and bring them real success. de chene and brocades are the materials en-Gloves, veils, neckwear and hankies—women will delight in them all.

THE NEW SEASON AND ITS MODES

LIKE a tale from Arabian Nights, full of soft, glowing colors and characterized by a thrilling diversity, the newest modes unfold themselves in the panorama of this Fall Fashion Showing. Rich embroideries, deep piled fabrics, exquisite beading and exotic colorings fairly breathe in their gorgeousness, rivalling in beauty the jewelled ornaments and trimmings which accentuate the slim, austere lines, so reminiscent of the Medieval days.

Autumn and Winter Wraps

DAME FASHION age old connoisseur, surely felt an unwonted thrill of delight when creating these Coats in colors and fabrics so new and flattering. They are pleasingly varied in silhouette some adhere to straight lines, while others show a side tie fastening and slightly flared lower edge. Deep piled fabrics of a velvety texture enjoy a prestige all their own and blend harmoniously with the rich fur trimmings of Beaver, Isobel Fox. Fitch Opposum and Western Sabel. Priced from

$35 to $195

'We Find Suits Flaring Too

THE Fur Chin Collars seen on Autumn Suits was inspired by the fashion of the Incrovable Age during the 18th Century. The long coat is a departure from recent styles but does not constitute all that is fashionable in Suits, for the smart box suits and coats which flare from shoulder or from the normal waistline are equally fashionable and youthful. Suits may be either plainly tailored, beaded, embroidered, braided or fur trimmed.

$45 to $65

Woollens

A WONDERLAND of exquisite new Wool Fabrics from which to fashion frocks and wraps for every occasion. Deep, rich pile Fabrics of all descriptions, marvella coatings, camels hair Bolivia and blanket velours. All with a lustrous glossy appearance. Imagine yourself wrapped in beautiful brown marvella coat with long straight lines, or perhaps a skirt—a plaid in soft discreet colors that favor the wood shades and blend with all your sweaters and blouses. Wool Crepes in plain and brocade are very much in evidence this season and are being shown in our Dress Goods Department.

Silks

WHATEVER choice you make for new frocks, the fabric is to be found in our display of new Autumn silks in all the seasons new colors. Our gorgeous array of these new Fabrics will be a delight to the eye. Soft shimmering satins, cantons, velvets and brocades in novel patterns and exquistie colors—all predict gay sights at the social festivities of the winter season. Numerous color combinations in shot taffeta being shown for Fall. Ask to see them when in the store.

Fashion Today

FACES an ancestry varied and intricate. Her origins are sometimes humble. The proletarian peasant's loosely cut smock, romantic Spain's clinging frocks, the cowl of the monk emerging from the solitude of the monastery, the sleeve of the dancing girl of Japan, all characterized in the modes of Fall.

Hosiery

LEST in the enthusiasm of choosing larger things such a costume nicety as Hosiery in harmonizing colors should not be forgotten, here's a reminder that our assortments are very large and include the newest designs in both ribbed effects and the very smart drop stitch weaves

Gloves

FROM the finger tip to the quaint tiered cuff the new gloves follow the best traditions of the mode. Sometimes the cuff is greatly flared and intricately embroidered in colors and whether Madames sleeves are long or short she will prefer these black or white gauntlet gloves.

Millinery

TRES CHIC, MADAME! So new, so wholly desirable! Hats for all moods, all times of day, all tasks. Hats of velvet, duvetyne and brushed felt. The soft blending of colors, the soft fall of a plume, the gay daring of a curve or tilt—that is the secret these hats mirror with such endless dash and charm. Priced from $10 to $19.

DIAMOND JUBILEE OF THEIR WEDDING

Granddaughter Married at Festive Reunion of Oddie Family.

BURNBRAE, Oct. 11.—At noon, October 9, the family of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Oddie gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Donald to celebrate with their parents the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding. The venerable couple, in whose honor the celebration was held were married 60 years ago on that date at Dumbarton, Ont. The following week they took up residence on the town line between Seymour and Rawdon townships and have resided there ever since.

There were born to Mr. and Mrs. Oddie eleven children, six boys and five girls. They have also twenty-tree grandchildren and 8 great granchildren.

The members of the family present were: Mr. Alex Oddie of St. Catherines; William, Cleveland, Ohio; John and Percy of Seymour East; Mrs. Varcoe of Windsor, Ont.; Mrs. A. T. Donald, Mrs. John Rannie, Mrs. John Thompson of Burnbrae. The absent members are Bert of Delorane, Manitoba; Melville, Portland, Oregon and Mrs. William Ingram, Fernie, B.C.

The grandchildren present were: Mrs. Tufford of Beamsville; Misses Luella and Viola Oddie of St. Catherines; Helen Oddie, Kenneth Oddie, Jean Oddie, Ray Oddie, Irene and James Thompson, Mitchell and Elsie Rannie, all of Seymour.

A sumptuous dinner was then served, after which the following address was read:

Dear Father and Mother,—

It is with feeling of profound gratitude and joy in our hearts that we have the privilege of rejoicing with you today in the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of your marriage.

It is not given to many to have the unique experience which in the providence of God has been accorded to you. You have been spared to live together in the marriage relationship, for sixty years of mutual struggle and fellowship. You have seen your large family grow from childhood to manhood's and womanhood's estate, and they are rejoicing with you today, not only your own unbroken family circle but also their children and their children's children.

Since we have had the responsibility of homes of our own and have had families ourselves, we can better understand and appreciate the love and sacrifice of your lives for us. We can also more deeply realize now the debt of love and gratitude we owe to you.

To express our love and esteem for you our parents in something more tangible than mere words, we ask you to receive these gifts from us, your family, hoping you may still be spared with us for many years to come.

Mrs. Oddie was then presented with a silver tea service by Elsie Rannie and Mr. Oddie a gold watch by Jean Oddie.

Granddaughter Married.

A very unique feature of the celebration was the marriage in the evening of one of the granddaughters, Miss Luella Oddie, to Mr. Carlton Foster, both of St. Catherines.

The bride entered the parlour, which was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and asters, on the arm of her father, Mr. Alex. Oddie. The young couple were attended by the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Oddie. Miss Elsie Rannie, ring bearer, carried the ring in a basket of roses. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of silver crepe with hat to match.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Moore, B.A. of Strathroy, assisted by the Rev. J. J. Black, B.D., Burnbrae The wedding march was played by Mr. Victor Tufford of Beamsville.

After the marriage ceremony the large number of guests gathered to give greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Oddie and the young bride of the evening, repaired to the dining room where a very dainty supper was served.

After supper Rev. J. J. Black opened the proceedings with a few words of congratulations, then called on Dr. H. B. Longmore of Campbellford for an address and Rev. John Moore followed. Mr. Moore came from Strathroy to be present for the occasion. He was for many years the esteemed and deep beloved minister of St. Andrew's, Burnbrae, of which Mr. and Mrs. Oddie have been life long and valued members. He officated at the marriage of most of the family and his address contained many happy reminiscences of by-gone days.

This part of the proceedings closed with the singing of the hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds, etc." The remainder of the evening was spent with music and song in a happy fellowship.

Guests From A Distance.

Among the guests from a distance were: Mrs. Bertha Monroe and sons, of Windsor; Mrs. Johnstone, Peterboro; Miss Thompson and Miss Allison, Dumbarton; Mrs. Raymond Varcoe, St. Catherines; Mr. Victor Tufford, Beamsville; Mrs. Bissonette and Miss Hume Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Hoards; Mr. and Mrs. William Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. John Mehlejohn, Campbellford.

Sultana Cake from Scotland

(This recipe was sent to us by a man who said, "It came all the way from Scotland")

½ cupful Crisco
1 cupful sugar
3 eggs
3 cupfuls pastry flour
½ lb. Sultana raisins
¼ lb. candied lemon peel or 1 grated lemon rind
1 teaspoonful lemon extract
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
½ teaspoonful salt

Cream the Crisco. Add the sugar gradually and cream together. Then beat in the eggs one at a time without previously beating. Add the raisins, the lemon peel shaved fine and the salt.

Sift the flour, measure, add the baking powder and sift again three times. Add to the other mixture, beat well and bake one hour in a moderate oven. This makes two small loaves.

WOMAN IS PLEASED WITH MODERN AUTO.

Improvements Have Been Made to Meet Their Taste.

Look over the improvements made on the automobile in the last 25 years and what do you find the most marked trend in its progress?

And the individual for whom most changes have been made in the course of this advancement is—woman.

For proof, here is the conclusion of the Cleveland sales manager of a high-class car, who has had experience in automobile sales throughout the various stages of progress. It is that three-fourths of the cars bought nowadays have been sold on the decision of women.

She's Pleased.

And it is in recognition of this important fact that automobile manufacturers have sought more and more to please the woman, even more than the man, in selling their products. Beauty, comfort, ease in driving—all make their appeal to the feminine, while every effort has been made to reduce inconveniences on the road.

Of course, man would not like to feel himself eliminated from consideration when it comes to beauty, comfort and driving ease of a car. For he is interested in these attributes—but not so much as his wife or sweetheart, say auto salesmen. Besides, if they could show the husband that low purring motor, the sturdy chassis and the easily handled controls, they've done enough to sell him. While Mrs. Motorist must be sure she'll ride in comfort and that her car is more beautiful than her neighbor's.

Classes of Buyers.

According to this Cleveland manager's observations, the men who buy automobiles may be divided into four classes:

1. Those who say that whatever car suits their wives is satisfactory to them.
2. Those who consult their wives before buying.
3. Those who buy cars without consulting their wives.
4. Unmarried men.

Estimating the number in each group, this salesman concludes about 75 per cent. of the men who buy cars do so after having consulted the woman in the case. He puts nearly half the purchasers in the first category. And those who buy without considering their wives' feelings are as few as those who do the buying for the family table.

Always ready—always as rich and as good as the day it is drawn from fine, healthy cows. Your grocer can supply you any time. There are four convenient sizes.

JAZZ JANE IS ON THE SKIDS

Adelaide Steele Baylor Is a Woman of Real Vision.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—People who believe the home is a passing institution and that the Jazz Jane is replacing the Womanly Woman, might realize there is another side to the picture, if they could have a talk with Adelaide Steele Baylor.

This woman of vision and ideals believes in the American woman and in the American home so whole heartedly that she devotes her entire time to their advancement.

She is head of the home economics department of the Federal Board of Vocational Education and was instrumental in passing the bill providing that girls over 14 years of age may be instructed in household management and care of children while still in the elementary schools.

"The suggestion that girls could be taught the mysterious rites connected with baby care in the public schools would have brought smiles to the faces of housewives of yesterday," she admits with a smile, "but today that's being accomplished very quietly and effectively.

Courses For Girls

"There are at present 117,738 girls scattered through the 48 states who are studying home economics in the public schools—almost 100 per cent more than there were a year ago."

Which doesn't sound as if the home were disintegrating, does it?

"Formerly," she says, "housework was carried on along unplanned and often wasteful habits of routine.

"Now we impress upon girls at the start that keeping up a home is just as much of a business as keeping a store or a shop, and that like any other business, it should be planned and reduced to rules of efficiency.

Young "Mothers"

"Our courses teach girls to market, to budget their household expenses, to prepare food to secure the maximum nourishment with minimum expenditure, and how to eliminate waste in all household operations.

"In many communities instruction is carried on in a model practice cottage. Orphaned babies are adopted by the school and each girl has her turn at the care of the youngster."

Girls fortified with such knowledge will achieve a veritable revolution in the home, Miss Baylor believes, and with the elevation of home life we may look for decided betterment in the standards of national citizenship.

"There's no doubt about it," she assures me, "the housewife is learning her trade. The old cry about a woman's sphere being too restricted has been answered by making it boundless."

A SAND PILE LED NATION TO PLAY

Was Starting Point For the Playground and Recreation Association.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 12 (Associated Press).—A heap of yellow sand and a pile of "sand pies" in the yard of a little chapel in Boston in the summer of 1885, was the starting point for a movement which has made America the greatest playing nation of the globe, according to the leaders of the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

The association, bringing some 800 delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada, will meet here in annual convention October 8 to 12. Some of the leaders who will attend the convention have been leaders in the play movement from its infancy. From that little sand pile in the yard of the Parmenter Street Chapel they have seen this movement grow to the 4,601 supervised playgrounds of America.

Mabel Travis Wood, of the playground association, compares this growth to Shakespeare's typical man who passed through seven ages. The seven ages of the playground movement, she said, are sand gardens, model playgrounds, small parks, recreation centers, civic art and welfare, neighborhood organization and community service.

From the sand garden developed the model playground, which added to the sand box for small children apparatus for physical activity such as swings, ladders and horizontal bars, with their appeal to older boys and girls.

The year-round playground soon developed into the small park, and gymnasium apparatus, baseball diamonds, tennis courts and public baths came into evidence. The next period of the movement saw the building of field houses to add indoor activities to those of the open air.

Public recreation by 1912 was sufficiently advanced to branch out into the field of civic art and welfare, and six years later community councils and neighborhood associations began to appear.

As a result of the world war there has come the final and present stage of the play movement, the age of community service. During the war, the Playground and Recreation Association proposed to the government that it mobilize its play leaders and play facilities to give the soldiers proper recreation. War Camp Community Service was the result, and when peace came Community Service became the successor of the War Camp Community Service.

Now, more than 250 communities have organized their spare time for the common good. Some of the things Community Service, which is a branch of the playground association, has accomplished are training volunteer leaders, organizing neighborhoods, decreasing juvenile delinquency, transforming cluttered lots into playgrounds and supplying community music and drama.

The home of Lincoln was chosen for the recreation congress in October, because the association, according to Joseph Lee, its president, "is striving for the development of the kind of communities Lincoln wanted the country to have."

HEIGHT OF SKIRTS

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry has made him her Dream Prince.

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian,

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meets Miles and Terry at Monte Carlo, and recognizes in the supposed Million Dollar Doll, Terry Desmond whom he had met back in New York. In love with the girl, himself, he is relieved to learn that Miles' conduct toward Terry has been most chivalrous.

Mrs. Harkness, Miles' old servant, takes care of Terry on board the yacht.

Miss Caroline Sheridan, meeting the couple at Monte Carlo, endeavors to dissuade Miles from his disgraceful project. She writes to Betty of Terry's beauty and charm.

Miles, dining in Algiers with Terry, whom he does not recognize as the little girl he befriended so long ago, see Paul de Salvano with a group of strangers.

On the way to Bousaada, Miles realizes that he loves "Juliet Divine."

Miles asks the girl if she is capable of love.

In Bousaade Miles tells Terry of his love for her.

CHAPTER LXIV.

An Amazing Message

After a time there came the sound of a window being thrown open. Mrs. Harkness, having unpacked Miss Divine's luggage and her own, pushed back the green shutters of her French window at the other end of the balcony and bustled out for a draught of fresh air after her work.

"Harky, come here," Sheridan commanded, his hand on Terry's shoulder their two figures dark as if clearly cut in black velvet against the sky sequined with stars.

Harky was not like an ordinary servant. Miles loved and valued her. He knew that she would cheerfully give her life for him.

"I want to tell you," he said, as with startled reluctance, the old woman hesitated, "I want to tell you that here is my happiness. She's promised to to help me 'knit up my revelled skein' of life again, Harky.

"She's the only one who can do it. I've been finding that out, day by day. When the time comes that we can, we'll begin a new existence together. Are you glad, Harky?"

"Oh, Mr. Miles" stammered his old nurse. "If it makes you happy, I'm happy, too, that's all I can say, taken so suddenlike. There's nothing I want so much as your happiness, sir: and I do think that Miss Divine is a young lady with a good heart. You can rest on that Mr. Miles."

As Harky quavered on, she spoke more and more warmly, though her face showed trouble. But Terry was not satisfied. She did want Mrs. Harkness to be glad, really glad, if only it were possible.

Late that night, when the girl had parted from Miles after a walk in the moonlight bright as a day, though twice as wonderful, the old woman was waiting up to help undress her.

"Have I made you sad—or disappointed, Mrs. Harkness?" Terry wistfully asked.

"No—no, Miss," Harky answered.

"Tell me," the girl went on. "Do you think divorce is wicked?"

"Not I" protested the old woman. "I'm North of Ireland, I'm no Catholic. Them frivolous divorces I condemn; that kind where their tempers don't combat with each other, as they call it. But when a woman has deceived him for an Eytalian divorce is the only thing to part two persons who never could have been one, in God's holy ordinance.

"I'm sure my master has behaved like a martyr—if not a saint—and Mrs. Miles should be on her knees to him. If you can give him the happiness he's never truly had, Heaven forbid I should begrudge it—me who nursed him when he was a motherless little boy. But I could wish, ah me, what's the good of wishing? We must take things as they come and be thankful."

"What could you wish in particular? Is it something about me?" Terry insisted.

"God forgive me, if I hurt yer feelins, Miss, but ye know quite well what I'm meanin'. There, it's out now. And we'll bury it like it was a hatchet."

It seemed to Terry a very sharp hatchet, which cut at Julia as well as herself.

"Mrs. Harkness," she said, "I can't tell Mr. Sheridan this that I'm going to tell you, because he'd only ask me questions which I can't answer—yet. But you won't ask Questions. It's only this. It may have been very bad of me to come on this trip, yet it was meant to be good.

"I can't help believing I'm not as bad as you think, in other ways. I'm not worthy of Mr. Sheridan, of course, except that I worship him, and I've worshipped him for years and years. But I've been thinking, trying to remember every single thing I ever did, and truly I can't remember one which makes me too bad to marry a man that I love. I couldn't confess my sins at the convent because I wasn't a Catholic, but I used to tell the nuns and ask their advice."

"And what did the nuns do?" the old woman asked.

"Oh, they only patted my hand, and called me their dear child."

Mrs. Harkness shook her head. It seemed to her that the nuns had been very lenient indeed But then, she was lenient, too. She couldn't help being it.

There was something about the girl, something that took you, made you feel tender over her, made you want her to have happiness at any price. The old woman felt guilty and glad at the same time.

Downstairs, a telegram had just been given to Miles, greatly to his astonishment, for he thought that no one knew where he was, except the Captain of "Silverwood."

But the telegram, when he opened it, purported to be from the Captain of "Silverwood," and it was an amazing telegram. Miles could hardly believe that there was not a mistake, or that someone had not played him a hateful, practical joke.

Nazlo had appeared twice since their first meeting at Monte Carlo; at Genoa, and at Naples. His presence at these places might have been a coincidence of travel, but Sheridan had not taken it as such. He was sure that Nazlo was deliberately following the trail of "Silverwood," just keeping out of the way in order not to be called to account for impertinence. If he had come to Algiers, he could have learned without much difficulty that Sheridan had hired a car and gone with Miss Divine to Bousaade.

This telegram might not be from the Captain, after all. It might be a trick to get him—Miles—out of the way, leaving the coast clear for Nazlo with Juliet, here in the desert.

Sheridan decided to wire Captain Yale at once for confirmation of the message, asking if he had sent it himself, and if the news it gave was true. He wrote out the telegram; but it was too late for it to go that night. Perhaps if his question could have been on its way, he might have slept through some of the long hours. But the thought that all the hours were being wasted, ran like fire through his nerves. No sleep came to him, and he was out of bed at dawn.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

WHAT HAPPENED TO THOMAS CAT

He looked as innoce nt as a spring lamb.

Thoma, M. Cat cam, out of the kitchen door of Farmer Brown's house and looked around. He looked at the sky, then he looked at th, ground and then he sat down and starrted to wash himself.

He looked as innocent as a sping lamb, and as mild as a pan of milk, and as sweet as a barrel of sugar.

But Mister Dodger said to the Twins (they had just been around seeing if all the animals in Squealy-Moo Land wer, safe)—well, he said, "Let's watch that fellow. When Thomas M. Cat begins to look like a Sunday school, that's the time he's up to something.

By 'nd by, Mister Cat stopped washing and looked around. Then he purred till he sounded like a fly on a window pane.

Finally he stopped purring and walked down the path to the gate.

Then he sat down again and purred some more.

Then he got up and crossed the road and crawled under the fence into the field where the hay-stack was, looking for all the world like a nice apple-pie.

"M, H'm!" nodded Mister Dodger knowingly. "I just thought so! Come on, kiddies! Step softly and we'll follow that gentleman."

Thomas M. Cat walked slowly along the rows of stubble and pretty soon the Twins noticed that he wasn't so tall as he had been. He had flattened out like a black rug But he kept going on and on, straight for the hay-stack with a queer wiggling motion like a snake walking on its tummy.

By 'nd by he stopped, crouching down in the stubble as flat as a pan-cake.

He didn't see th, figures following He was too busy watching something. He didn't look like a pan of milk or an apple pie now. He looked like—Well, you should have seen what he looked like!

Then the Twins heard two squeaky voices. It was Missez Harvest Mous, talking to Mister Harvest Mouse.

"Come on," she was saying. "I have on my bonnet and shawl and the babies are saf, in bed. Look and see if the road's clear."

"Don't see a thing," came Mister Mouse's voice. "Looks safe enough!"

And off they started.

At that minute something big and black gave a leap.

"Oo!" shrieked Mr. and Mrs. Mouse in alarm.

"Meow!" spit Thomas Cat suddenly as though something had surprised him.

And you may be sure th, little mouse people didn't have to be coaxed.

CAMERA TERRIFIES

A poor ignorant woman, about to be deported to Poland, screams in terror, tears her clothes in anguish and pleads that she be not harmed. This happens when a camera is pointed at her by public authorities in Winnipeg, Canada.

May seem impossible, but she had never seen a camera. Probably she thought it was a small cannon.

Does it strike you as improbable, that a person in our day and age is not familiar with the camera? There are plenty of people in the remote districts who have never seen an electric street car or even a steam railroad—let alone such devices as radio, flying machines and movies. The world is not as small as coincidence sometimes makes it appear.

The poor old lady's fright at sight of a camera seems curious to us. But if a camera had been exhibited and demonstrated before the eyes of people a few hundred years ago, most of them would have thought they were in the presence of the Evil One.

Even as relatively recent a personage as George Washington would probably either have had heart failure, if he could have heard a modern radio, or decided that he was asleep and dreaming wildly.

The wildest dreams of one generation are the humdrum of the next.

At times all of us express a wish that we could rend the veil and peer into the future several hundred years. Or come back long after our death. If we could, we'd be apt to consider ourselves insane.

Progress would be terrifying if it didn't come slowly.

It's a mighty wise provision of nature, that we can't read the future. Many of the things that lie ahead and will be humdrum routine in their day would be terrifying to us now.

HOME-BREW CAUSE MANY SMASH-UPS

New Orleans Has Divorce Case On Account of Home Brew.

(By MASON DIXON)

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—Home-brew has caused many legal entanglements and family rows here, but New Orleans' first divorce suit on account of fermenting malt is a matter of record now.

Mrs. Albert Miller complains that her husband made her do all the work when compounding his home-brew. She had to wash the bottles, lay down the mash, skim it and then bottle it for him and stand and watch him drink it.

Several days ago she refused to fill the bottles and put the caps on, and she and her husband had a big row. She called the police, had his home brewery seized and asks the courts to release her from her matrimonial bonds.

Judge Nix, receiving the case, said, "This home-brew seems to be pretty strong in your case. It brews trouble even for the wife who doesn't drink it."

The number of seats of twins born here during August has established a record—26 pairs. March was the lowest previous month, with only two sets of twins.

"Bucktown" for years has been known as "the bad lands" of New Orleans. Here have been situated bootleg joints and cabarets. Orleanians have been wont to go there when they wished to put on a "hot night." Now they've changed its name to East End. The city council received various other suggestions. Among them were: "Six-Shooter Junction," "Bootleggerville," "Blind Tiger," "High-Jack Point."

Allan Lindsay, 3 years old, with too many epidermal color cells, and these too near the surface, must avoid sunlight to live.

His malady is rare, so rare that the most experienced physicians of New Orleans never had personal contact with a case before.

A New York electrical engineer, reading the dispatches, has prepared a suit of armor wherein a rare substance, called neon, filters from white or sun light all rays less intense than the red of the spectrum. Allan will try the suit.

New Orleans is famous for its raw oyster bars. You line up with your foot on the rail while a shucker opens the bivalves and sticks them in front of you on the counter. During the war and recent years oysters were 25 and 30 cents a dozen, depending on the place. With the opening of this year's oyster season the bars announced a 20-cent rate. This, the proprietors say, is due to cheaper labor and the abundant and cheap supply of horseradish.

FIND THE HAPPY MEDIUM.

The tendency is to make each "jump" cover entirely too much ground, with the result that the driver becomes weary to an extent where he is incapable of properly operating the car.

Many an accident toward the end of the day is due to the weariness of the motorist who is trying to drive two hundred or more miles per day so as to economize on time and hotel bills.

Some people should not drive over one hundred miles a day; others seem capable of doing three hundred without fatigue. But there is a happy medium somewhere between the two, and this should be the limit. It should be prima facie evidence of misdemeanor if, after being the cause of an accident, it can be proved that the driver covered an excessive amount of mileage during the previous 24 hours.

The territory covered, of course, makes a difference. A greater limit should be allowed in open country while on routes which carry the motorist through thickly populated cities the "mileage limit" should be much stricter. The man who tries to motor an excessive distance in one day is as much of a menace as the man who tries to drive excessively fast at an inappropriate time. In fact he is more of a menace, for excessive mileage in a given time usually involves excessive speed.

RUSSIA'S MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.— Russia's most beautiful woman, the Baroness Mara Lillier de Steinheil, has just arrived in America to start all over and make her fortune as a singer.

"Perhaps I was beautiful in the old Petrograd days," she admitted with an impersonal air. "Then the artists all wanted to paint me and men turned to look again as I passed, but in those days many Russian women were beautiful. Today none of them are.

"We have slaved and suffered and starved and lost our faith. Our faces will not lie."

If the baroness has lost any of the vividness that made her the toast of the Russian capital in the pre-revolution days, she has retained enough to make most women envious of her.

How to Live?

"Since the Bolshevist regime, we women have not thought much about beauty," she went on. "We've been more absorbed in the problem of getting enough food from day to day and saving our lives.

"Those who once wore jewels and furs and grateful for a few rags to protect themselves from the cold. Stockings are a luxury frew afford. Soap is so expensive cleanliness is out of the question. Face powder is prohibitive in price and every woman is wearing her own complexion. Bobbed hair is the style because it requires less care.

But one good has come out of all this chaos.

All Can Work

"Every Russian woman has learned to work," the baroness says.

"Women who speak languages usually can find employment in the government offices. Those who can sew can earn their bread. Others must cook, wash, scrub."

The baroness, escaping from Russia, became a scrubwoman and dishwasher in a Constantinople restaurant. When the proprietor found she could speak seven languages, he put a sign in his window saying all these languages were spoken in his place.

"Frequently," she said, "I was called from my scrubbing to act as interpreter."

Though her jewels were confiscated, she has brought with her an interesting collection of peasant costumes and headdresses and plans to wear the old native Russian dress at her recitals.

ANADA NEEDS AWAKENING IN PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

The greatest present need of public school music in Canada is that of awakening in a large number of leaders in public school work, who have not looked upon the subject with much favor, a conviction of the real values of music to a people. This number includes some of the heads of training school, superintendents, principals of high and elementary schools, and general supervisors.

The least delinquent are the grade teachers, because up until a very few years ago their training in public school music was a mere perfunctory affair. Patrons are not delinquent in the matter, because wherever music is well taught it is given hearty financial support. Those, then, who need the awakening most are this group of uniformed leaders, and comparatively few of them have any worth-while convictions on the matter. A number, it would seem, have little knowledge of the subject technically, historically, and psychologically, to give them any basis for consideration of its values. Because of their ignorance on the subbject, these leaders have been content to give no serious thought to music as a subject worthy of much attention in the public schools.

In fairness it should be said there are leaders in public school work who do recognize the values of music. These are in almost every instance connected with the city system of education. It is the schools of the small city, the village and rural section that are barren in real music teaching. The leaders in education are the ones very largely responsible for this condition.

STRANGE TALES TOLD OF UNUSUAL VOYAGE

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 12 (United Press).—Down under our continent, on the small Pitcairn Island, 2,000 miles off the coast of South America, live 137 descendants of a few British sailors who two centuries ago mutinied, killed their officers, and settled on that little dot on the world's map.

With Polynesian wives they took from Tahiti, the English refugees set up their own government, and there today their descendants live in utmost simplicity, but in happiness and contentment.

Not oftener than once a year they are visited by some steamer. The latest vessel to call at the island was the schooner William Taylor, with Captain John Trainor in command, which entered Portland harbor a few days ago, the crew revealing strange tales of experiences on the unusual voyage.

The islanders were in the best of health and spirits. Captain Trainor reported here, and not having had any communication with the outside world for more than a year, plied him with questions about happenings in other lands.

Despite the fact that the Pitcairn residents have exiled themselves from their homeland, they still cling close to things English, teaching their half-breed children the English language. Although their mode of liying is almost primitive, they are very well educated, the schooner's master said. Still, they hold to their own and express no desire for additional comforts or luxuries.

Their needs are simple. They raise everything they wish to eat, and live on fish, native fruits and vegetables, all supplied by their own hands. Cloth, tools and other simple supplies are all they need from "outside."

For these meager necessities they exchange with the bargaining schooner masters who visit them at long intervals the bountiful fruits and nuts which grow wild on the island, practically the only thing they have to offer.

BALLOONS RELEASED AT C.N.E REACHED SIX MILES HEIGHT

The four balloons, carrying a meteorological recording instrument, which were released from the Toronto Exhibition Grounds on September 6th, have been found by William Taylor, of Cobourg. The records made by the instrument show that the balloons reached a height of nearly six miles, and that at this altitude the temperature was 31 degrees below zero. The balloons, which were colored red, and were thirty inches in diameter, each had a lifting capacity of 4½ ounces.

Your Health

FOOT TROUBLE

Ignorance of the causes of foot strain and slavish submission to fashion are the chief causes for an amount of ill health and nerve tension throughout our whole life. The baby begins wrong because its parents neglect to exercise the help and needed direction in the first steps. Oftimes a little attention to standing and walking will prevent "heel pounding," or the "shuffle," which donates careless development in the child's foot muscles.

A large part of foot trouble comes from sadly neglecting the foot bath. Through lack of daily care in bathing the feet and providing clean, dry stockings every day your pedal extremities are often poisoned by perspiration and unclean conditions. The skin between the toes becomes "sick" and tender, causing many later foot troubles, such as peeling, cracking and offensive odors.

A careless position in standing at your work by which you favor one foot or the muscles of your legs, often causes a peculiar habit in walking by which the feet become flexed, causing soreness and swelling. This condition if not remedied may make it almost impossible for you to stand properly or continue at your work regularly. Give your feet plenty of rest. If you are inactive besure that your feet receive the needed amount of exercise to insure proper blood supply. Properly fitted shoes are needed if your mind is to function normally on the affairs of business or pleasure.

Early attention to strengthening exercises for your feet is advised. The arches found in shops will not correct flat foot, they merely act as crutches.

Try the following exercises for the correction of toe muscles, painful joints or weakness of the muscles in the forepart of the leg that support the arch of the foot:

Stand with feet parallel and somewhat apart with the great toes firmly placed or gripping the ground. Without bending the knees or moving the feet rotate the thighs outward repeatedly. Rise on the toes, keeping the body stiff, 10 or 15 times every morning and night, to strengthen the arch.

LONDON'S LORD MAYOR

LONDON, Oct. 12 (United Press).—With centuries-old civic ceremony the City of London today "elected" a new Lord Mayor to succeed the present incumbent, Edward Cecil Moore, when the latter's term of office ends Nov. 9.

Actually, the citizens of the "square mile" had nothing whatever to do with the choice of a chief magistrate, and there was no election in the popular sense. What happened was that the "liverymen" and members of the ancient "Guilds" met at the Guildhall and nominated the senior alderman, Colonel Sir Louis Al Newton, and there being no opposition, Newton was duly declared elected. This method of selection has proved satisfactory for centuries, so the average Londoner merely said, "Oh, really Who's Newton?" and let it go at that.

Sir Louis Newton is 56 years of age (comparatively young for a Lord Mayor) and is a Londoner by birth and training. He is Master of the Felt-makers' Guild and head of the famous manufacturing firm bearing his name. He has long been connected with London's municipal government, having been a member of the City Corporation since 1905, and alderman since 1916. He was Sheriff in 1918 and was knighted for war services.

The office of Lord Mayor is non-political, and nowadays is largely ornamental, but it entails a heavy round of ceremonial duties and obligations, as well as many privileges. He has an allowance of 10,000 pounds for his year of office, but as the capital's official host to visiting royalties and notables he generally has to spend three or four times this amount, so that there is no profit attached to the job.

The new Lord Mayor takes office Nov. 9, when he will be inaugurated with civic pageantry, including the famous "Lord Mayor's Show."

INTENSIVE FARMING

Would you like to have a farm with crops worth $20,000 an acre a year? That's what is done by "glass farmers" who grow vegetables and flowers in greenhouses.

A census report shows 3800 acres devoted to glass farming, with a crop of 77 million dollars a year—about $20,000 an acre.

But that dose not mean 20,000 profit, by any means.

The glass farmer averages an enormous value of crop. He also has an exceptionally big cost of production. The census found that it keeps two or three men busy for each acre farmed under glass. Then there's the cost of building the greenhouse, supplying steam heat—and other items of intensive cultivation.

Despite all the "buts" and "howevers," there's something firing to the imagination in any kind of farming yielding $20,000 an acre a year.

It gives us a glimpse of the future—the possibilities that lie in highly specialized scientific farming.

Time will come when there'll not be an "out of season" for any article of food. That condition is practically existent now, due to glass farming and fast express transportation from warmer climates to districts where winter makes impossible the all-year-round cultivation of plant life.

Many of us can recall when the average family in the northern states never had fresh vegetables in winter-time. Even potatoes were stored in the fall in a bin down cellar.

The Department of Agriculture restrains the enthusiasm of a would-be glass farmer by warning that "the quantity of coal, used to maintain each acre of space enclosed in greenhouses at the required temperature, varies from 250 to 300 tons a season."..... Oh, well, guess we'll continue dreaming about chicken farming.

ABOUT IN-BREEDING

Weakness in breeding stock is often laid to inbreeding, but facts prove that the greatest progress in producing fine cows has been by skilled men who have used inbreeding. But such breeders have known the blood lines of their stock, and they are thus able to mate so that strong points will be made stronger instead of weak points made weaker, as is often the case when breeding methods are careless.

A DESERT BANQUET TO WORLD-TOURING AIRMEN

Sour goat's milk and curds were the delicacies that three British aviators were forced to swallow at the desert feast of a genial Arab host, writes Major W. T. Blake in "Our World" for October in an account of his attempt to fly around the world. Telling how the airplane landed in the desert near a well to replenish the water supply, he says:

"An Arab came running towards us followed by another and in the distance by a large crowd of Bedouins. He threw his arms round my neck and kissed me heartily on both cheeks. I returned the compliment and passed him on to Malins. Then the second Arab did likewise, and the third, until I thought I should have to kiss and be kissed by the whole tribe. They were a hairy, unkempt, fierce-looking lot of ruffians, and as we had been warned that there was trouble in the desert I did not quite know what to expect.

"The Sheik, as I afterwards found the man who had greeted us to be, began to talk excitedly, pointing in the distance. For some time I could not grasp his meaning, my Arabic being limited to the dialect spoken in Egypt. He grew more and more excited and his followers joined clamorously in the conversation until I placed my hand in my pocket to make sure that my automatic was ready if needed. At last, exasperated by our lack of understanding, the Sheik drew his hand across his throat with a horrid gesture, at the same time making gurgling noises and again pointing in the distance.

"My apprehensions were now thoroughly aroused, and I told Malins that it seemed as if we should have to look out for trouble. Then I got two words which I understood, 'sheep' and 'feast,' and the whole thing dawned on me. We were being invited to go over to the Bedouin encampment and enjoy their hospitality. Having previously attended one or two Arab feasts I declined, explaining that we wanted water. The Sheik, however, was not to be denied. He accompanied us back to the machine and shortly afterwards a skin of curdled goat's milk appeared and we squatted round in a circle to drink the stuff. At the first gulp we were all nearly sick, the sour, clotted, evil-smelling mess, plentifully interspersed with goat hairs being almost more than we could stomach. I told the others that they would have to drink at least three cups if they did not want to offend our hosts, and protesting they complied. Unfortunately the Bedouins were not content with our drinking three cups, but forced many more upon us.

"The climax was reached when the Sheik, thrusting a hairy arm down into the goatskin, felt about until he had a handful of curds which he drew out and rolled into a ball as big as a hen's egg, and then popped it into my mouth as a mark of very great favor. After that I hastily arose and went round to perform some perfectly unnecessary work on the machine."

THE OLD MECHANIC SAYS:

"The trouble that fellow is goin' to in order to find out why his tail light is out of whack reminds me of the way one of these lights once fooled me. I think I spent a half hour on a job I could have done in exactly one minute if I'd my wits about me. And I think you fellows could profit by my experience.

"The light went out in the usual way, except that it flickered occasionally and sometimes burned steadily but dimly, just enough to show that whatever was wrong wasn't quite in earnest. The driver of the car had tried a new bulb, but with no better results. So I tackled the fuse.

"But there was no improvement in the light. The chap happened to be from a State where they had passed a law requirin' the installation of an approved tail light, so we began to suspect that the device he had added was not well put together. This led to an inspection of the plug and its connection, but we were still ten miles from the nearest solution—and gettin' farther away all the time.

"Just by accident I punched the screw-driver between the lamp bracket and the license tag. And the light came up bright and steady. The upshot of it was that there wasn't a good contact between the old bracket of the car and the bracket for the new lamp This meant a poor electrical contact and unsteady light. Furthermore, the license tag screws had loosened, so that the contact was practically broken. The remedy was so simple that I asked the chap into the shop and treated him to a home-brew highball."

ONCE AGAIN THE U.S. G.A. DODGES THE ISSUE

Parent Golf Body Seems to Avoid Real Problems

Once again the United States Golf Association has dodged the issue. Contrary to all the advance dope to the effect that during the national amateur championship at Flossmoor the steel shaft matter was going to be taken up; in other words, given official recognition, the problem was again evaded. Instead, the association executives threw out hints that other important rulings such as having to do with ribbed and punched clubs, also the ball, would shortly be announced.

Surely large bodies move slowly. Until that announcement which made its appearance last week, the United States Golf Association had never taken any positive stand on the matter of ribbed or punched clubs. Contestants in the open championship at Inwooda might have gotten away with a whole lot, had they tried, yet the danger—if such it could be called, seemed ever to threaten; and at last the officials stirred themselves.

According to official word, after January 1, markings on the face of iron heads must not exceed one-sixteenth of an inch in width nor shall they be less than 3-32 of an inch apart. The mandate further stipulates that all rough or raised edges must be removed.

In all probability the committeeman who drafted this rule have it figured out that the incident is closed; that ribbed or punched clubs after the first But already to those inclined to study the matter at all carefully, the rulers so long as they sought to do something in the game's interests might better have gone further, made a clean job of it instead of leaving loopholes through which those so inclined could crawl.

Doubtless the law makers believe that by restricting the width of the marking to one-sixteenth of an inch in width and by keeping the lines not less than 3-32 of an inch apart they have solved the problem. Already professionals have expressed the opinion that ways and means will be found to rip the faces so as to get plenty of "bite" to the ball and at the same time keep within the new specifications. Apparently the reference to "rough or raised edges" will put a stop to the punched markings.

In the opinion of a prominent golfer the whole situation would have been clarified and simplified had the officials come out boldly for perfectly smooth faced clubs devoid of all lines or punches. It was not until about 1900 that the markings on iron headed clubs began to appear and the only reason for this in the beginning was to prevent the ball from "slipping" when being played from the wet grass. Fine lined markings, however, such as were at first introduced, permit of the club head taking hold of the ball with enough of a bite to prevent slipping.

After January 1 it will be interesting to see to what ingenious lengths those so inclined will be tempted to go in order to maintain if possible the present day effectiveness of the deeply marked or punched clubs. That they will endeavor to beat the game seems assured.

In the meantime the ball is going to be subjected to another overhauling. Thus far no official announcement has been forthcoming, though we are informed that is only a matter of a short while. What the association has in mind is to lighten the ball, having become firmly convinced that the rubber core of today has become dangerously long in the opinion of the officials the size can remain the same, but instead of the weight being 1.62 it may be lessened to say about 1.25.

Should this be done the ball would become almost a floater. A few years ago when the growing bodies here and abroad were working over the standard ball problem it was a known fact that St. Andrew's leaned toward the floater, whereas the United States Golf Association executive committee argued in favor of a much heavier ball, feeling and rightly that anything as light as a floater would lack stability in a wind and of course become most unpopular in America.

A compromise was reached, but now after seasons of play the fact remains increasingly evident that the standard restrictions have failed to restrict. While the U. S. G. A. still hesitates to rule into play anything quite so light as the floater, it does style the present ball as too heavy. The hand writing on the wall, therefore, gives warning of a ball that will be the same size but not quite so heavy as the 1.62.

If they should ever adopt the floater in this country the chances are a large percentage of the golfers, after giving it a trial would refuse to play with it so long as they could procure an article similar to the one to which they had become accustomed. Against a strong head wind the floater would fare badly. A violent cross wind would also play havoc with its direction.

In the opinion of many the need for a standard ball is questionable. Add to that the forcing upon the golfers at large a ball that is going to prove unpopular and it will be quickly realized how difficult it is going to become to enforce the general adoption of the pesky thing.

As for the fear that the ever lengthening ball may be the cause of the ruination of the courses, it is noticed that the real testing layouts have not needed much alteration. In the east such famed eighteen hole circuits as the Myopia and Garden City links have stood the test of time. Championships were decided over these courses in the early days of the game in this country and today it would be hard to find better tests of golf.

There is no use in combating the natural instinct of a golfer. He would rather get distance than anything else.

HINTS ON PLOUGHING

Local Conditions Must Decide the Depth Required

Clay Soils Need Deeper Ploughing Than Sandy Land—Danger in Too Deep Ploughing—Depth of Seed Bed Important—Fishy Flavor in Butter.

Local experience is essential in forming an opinion as to the best ploughing practice for any district. Soils are so very different in texture, in depth, in exposure and in composition that best results cannot be expected from any uniform practice. What may be good practice for sandy soils might possibly be undesirable for clays. Generally speaking, clay and clay loam soils should be ploughed deeper than sand loams. The sandy soil does not require deep ploughing if a suitable crop rotation is followed, but with clays deep ploughing is desirable in order to increase aeration and warmth.

Depth of Seed Bed Important

Furrows six to eight inches deep give a much better seed bed than where shallower ploughing is practiced. This depth of seed bed is important in that it gives a greater feeding area for the young plant's roots, and creates better conditions for growth during the critical early period following seeding. In time of drouth a deep mellow seed bed will not dry out to the same extent as the shallow seed bed. The conditions in the moderately deep ploughing provide a more favorable tempefature, moisture and aeration necessary to the thrift of soil bacteria which are essential to the preparation of the food compounds on which the plant feeds. The shallow furrow cannot provide the conditions most suited to the development of young plants and this type of furrow should only be used on sandy soils or in after-harvest tillage.

Danger In Too Deep Ploughing

Where shallow ploughing has been practiced since first breaking, the change to deep ploughing should take place gradually, or some loss in crod may be experienced. Dead soil, turney to the surface in too great a quantitd at any one ploughing should be avoided. Weathering or exposure for a season will generally convert an unproductive subsoil to the condition that will enable such to support plant life. Frequently areas along roadways are stripped of the good top soil, a barren spot remains for several years until the weathering agents make possible the growth of useful plants. It is the same with the raw subsoil when turned to the surface. Do not bring up too much at any one ploughing, unless you can apply fertilizers to offset the influence. Aim to plough a furrow six to eight inches deep. Keep it straight and uniform. Good ploughing will give increased crop returns and it costs no more than crooked furrow rooting.—L. Stevenson, Extension Branch, O. A. College, Guelph.

DID YOU KNOW—

That the quickest way to clean out a pet-cock that has become clogged with dirt is to run the engine and accelerate it as you open the pet-cock? Usually this will remove an obstruction that resists being punched out with a pin.

That unless the engine is old and the piston rings likely to be worn, weak compression in a cylinder is due to valves which do not seat tightly. They may be warped or coated with carbon, requiring regrinding, or the trouble may be simply due to too little clearance at the tappets. Of course make sure that the spark plug is tight and that the pet-cock does not leak.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

What Is the Human Body Worth?

JUST how much is the human body worth? This question has been answered by courts and commissions in the various States in nearly as many different ways. For example, a thumb is worth $225 in Wyoming, $600 in Oregon, and in New York and Alabama the legal compensation for sixty weeks. Wyoming holds a human hand worth $1,000, while its value rises to $1,600 in Washington, $1,900 in Oregon, and 244 weeks' compensation in New York. Similar variations in legal value occur with reference to the loss of an eye, a toe, a foot and fingers.

New York holds that when a worker is injured so that only his good looks are impaired, he may collect from his employer owing to the humiliation entailed. In New York and Michigan compensation was awarded when horses bit ears off workers, but in New York the award was based on the common law. One worker collected in New York because he was unable to replace his lost eye with one of glass, and a drooping eyelid, which made the injured person appear to be winking at whatever he observed resulted in another award. Another New York workman, whose nose was bitten off by a horse, received $2,500 from the compensation board. Deafness has been valued at $3,000 in Oklahoma and deafness in one ear at $1,500. In Washington loss of hearing is only compensable at $1,900 and one ear's deafness at $500.

Varying percentages of wages are offered for the compensation of lost members in each State, ranging from 50 per cent to 66 2-8 per cent, as well as varying numbers of weeks for the payment of the compensation. Under the number given in Table 10 of the Dismemberment Schedules under Workmen's Compensation Laws by the National Industrial Conference Board, the value of the members of a workman's body in New York State are as follows:

Eye	$2,357.76
Hand	4,494.48
Arm	5,747.04
Foot	3,776.00
Leg	5,104.96
Thumb	1,105.20

Pennsylvania has held in the case of a lunch-counter attendant that heat prostration at work, causing death, was an accident, while in Connecticut frostbite was similarly judged. In New York, however, the courts held that a sunstruck

SOME HUMAN BODY VALUES

1. Eye	$2,357.76
2. Thumb	1,105.20
3. Hand	4,494.48
4. Arm	5,747.04
5. Leg	5,104.96
6. Foot	3,776.00

wagon driver was not entitled to compensation. Pennsylvania authorities showed regard for the injured worker in the case of a dog-catcher in Newcastle, who was bitten by one of his captives and died of hydrophobia. His estate received compensation.

One of the sharpest controversies among compensation boards is over the proper valuation of the impairment of sight. Various tables and tests have been evolved, but they display wide discrepancies. They agree, in fact, only on one item: What constitutes normal vision. Montana, Utah and Wisconsin allow twenty weeks' more compensation for the removal of an eye than for blindness in one without removal. Pennsylvania, however, holds that where there is blindness the removal of the eye makes no difference, and allows nothing additional.

One of the most important phases of the report is that which shows the widely varying amounts expended for medical treatment under the awards of various States. For instance, in Wyoming in one year only 8.6 per cent of the total awards allowed was for medical expense, while the percentage in Connecticut for two years was 38.2, totaling $1,663,107.08, and in Massachusetts, where industrialism has reached one of the highest points of development, the percentage was 20.8, with medical expenses of $1,602,067.74.

In only one State, New Mexico, is there a provision for the physical examination of workers before an injury occurs.

The term "medical service" receives widely different interpretations in various States. Ohio and Connecticut have freed employers from liability troubles due to quacks, masseuses and "doctors of medical electricity." Similarly the California State Commission refused to reimburse a worker who consulted a Chinese herb doctor. Iowa and Connecticut do not regard osteopaths as qualified to act in compensation cases, while California permits them.

One result of the laws has been to break down the universally accepted principle of privileged communication between doctor and patient. In many cases physicians can be compelled to testify as to their treatment.

States differ in the laws' rulings on various surgical operations. For instance, the hand extends to the elbow in the legal opinion of Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Kansas, Nebraska, New York and other States, while it extends only to the wrist in Colorado, Idaho and Montana. The human foot in Colorado extends only to the ankle, but in Alabama it extends to the knee. New York takes a middle ground, merely qualifying it as some place "between the knee and the ankle."

How COURTS and Commissions Have Decided PUZZLING QUESTION

A Pennsylvania worker lost the power to walk easily with one foot and received compensation, while in Minnesota the Supreme Court refused to affirm a similar award because "the foot was still there," but authorized partial compensation.

Bernard L. Shientag, Public Service Commissioner of New York, says that "the value of some death cases in New York State may range as high as from $20,000 to $25,000."

"These figures are based upon actual tables," the commissioner said, "and these tables have their origin in the number of dependents of the deceased and amount of wages. The Compensation Inspecting Rating Board, which fixes compensation, has set the value of the average death case at from $5,000 to $5,500. Cases that are much higher than these are usually cases resulting from permanent disability.

"In the case of the death of a workman who is without dependants, $1,000 is deposited in the form of an award to the State Treasurer."

Transmission of TALENT for MUSIC

UP to the present, very little statistical evidence has been collected bearing on the question of hereditary transmission of talent for music. To be sure, a survey of the family history of famous musicians sometimes permits the recognition of general hereditary principles, but the extensive statistical material which is needed for the solution of the problem, owing to the fact that experimentation is impossible, is entirely lacking. In view of this fact, as the Journal of the American Medical Association points out, a new book by the Halle Professors Haecker and Ziehen must be regarded as especially significant. Haecker is an instructor in the field of mechanics, and Ziehen is a psychologist.

The new work deals in a scientific, statistical manner with the hereditary transmission and the development of talent for music. By means of ample questionnaires, they investigated the family histories of several thousand persons, gleaning all the data possible pertaining to talent for music. They do not claim that their data are absolutely reliable in all respects, but they give the results of their investigations for what they may be worth.

In marriages in which one of the parents is musical and the other is not, marked talent is found more frequently in the male offspring than in the female; this is especially true if it is the mother, rather than the father, who is musical. In such mixed or discordant marriages, the positive load seems more effective than the negative. They found that the transmission of talent for music follows the Mendelian laws of heredity. In so-called concordant marriages; that is, in which both parents are musical, about 40 per cent, of the offspring have marked talent for music, and almost a further 40 per cent, are musical.

But there are also offspring (which finding agrees with common practical experience) that have little talent at all. This finding is not at all surprising when we examine into long lines of inheritance.

Two main deductions may be drawn from the statistics. Male offspring are, in general, somewhat more susceptible to an hereditary bent than are female offspring, and an hereditary bent derived from the mother's side is, in general, somewhat stronger than on the father's side. The development of talent for music shows two peaks. In persons with marked talent for music, their special gift often shows itself before the end of the second year; especially is this true if the talent is inherited.

Musical talent in children is usually discovered more readily and earlier in case the parents are musical than is otherwise the case. In an environment given to music, musical talent is more readily discovered. The statement was frequently made that talent for music in the form of correct singing appeared in a child before it began to talk. It is remarkable to note that of forty-six composers, whose statements may be relied on, thirteen, or 28 per cent., had no opportunity to hear music in their younger days, which shows that talent for musical composition may develop independent of musical stimulation in childhood.

Haecker and Ziehen were unable to demonstrate with the statistical material at their disposal that there is any definite correlation between talent for music and talent for mathematics. The percentage of males who, lacking in talent for music, have a talent for mathematics is surprisingly high, so that one is almost tempted to assume that the presence of the one talent compensates for the absence of the other. Further evidence for this assumption is found in the fact that, among males with marked talent for music, only a small percentage have talent for mathematics. In males, according to the material on which the research was made, there seemed to be a correlation between talent for music and talent for drawing, and an even greater correlation between talent for music and poetic talent. In females these correlations are not well marked, but receptive talent for drawing appears to predominate over poetic talent.

The COLORING of BIRDS' EGGS

THE markings on the shells of birds' eggs, according to a recent authority, are produced by pigment being exuded on to the shell while, still in a soft state, it is passing down the passage called the oviduct. If the egg is stationary when the pigment is exuded, the markings take the form of round dots, which naturally tend to group themselves round the egg at one point; but more usually the egg is moving down the oviduct, rotating as it goes, and the markings then form irregular smears and blotches. The general tint of the shell is produced at an earlier stage. White seems to be the primitive color for eggs, and it is pointed out that most birds which nest in holes lay white eggs; but the exceptions are very numerous—e. g., jackdaw, tree-creeper, nuthatch, etc.—and so with those which lay in covered nests.

The distinctive markings do not appear to bear much relation to the classification of species, and many birds which are closely allied in species lay very dissimilar eggs. In view of the way in which the markings are produced, it is easy to understand the differences which occur among the eggs of the same species, as the marking may be affected by any abnormal circumstance at the time of laying—by the state of the bird's health, by fright or hurry, etc.

Every one must have noticed how sparrows' eggs differ, and many birds which as a rule lay heavily-marked eggs may at times lay white eggs. Thus, specimens of white guillemots' eggs are to be seen, and at least one case is on record where white eggs were laid by a woodcock. The color of the eggs laid by some birds is said to increase in intensity as the bird grows older.

Why a Chinaman Cannot Pronounce Letter "R"

BECAUSE of the tiny differences between the larynx and palate of the Chinaman and those of an English-speaking person the former finds it impossible properly to pronounce the letter "R." These differences occur in different degrees in all races and are due in the first place to the localities in which the ancestors of the various races found themselves.

While men of the north speak with as little opening of the mouth to the cold air as possible, in the south most nations—like the Italians—will give the fullest stress to each syllable.

In the course of ages these habits effected an actual distinction upon the voice production boxes of the various races of mankind. The French "p" becomes the German "b," the English "th" is practically unpronounceable by many nations.

The Chinese voice production box in the same way has grown up to fight shy of the English "r," and to replace it by the easier "l."

How LEAVES Menace the MOTORIST

FALLING Autumn leaves form a menace to the motorist, as a recent bulletin issued by the National Motorists' Association points out. This bulletin was issued in the belief that the increased road travel of the present day calls for super-precaution on the part of all automobilists who will motor extensively during the Fall.

"Beware of 'leaf skidding,'" the bulletin warns. "This is the most pernicious form of skidding on record because, unless the driver is trained to anticipate it, he is always caught unawares. In the Autumn the falling of leaves on hard-surfaced roads furnishes a special hazard in wet weather, the water remaining under the leaves when the remainder of the roadway is dry."

Under these circumstances, it is pointed out, the motorist proceeds as though the road were safe for normal speed and is consequently caught in a bad skid or slide when he is obliged to lock his wheels.

It is estimated by some engineers that the wheels of the car do not have to be locked to produce the skid, so effective are the wet leaves in encouraging the car to lose traction.

"A second source of danger," the bulletin adds, "is the discarded license tag. Toward the end of the Summer season many tags purchased by tourists in order to comply with the non-resident laws are discarded in such a manner as to be easily found and illegitimately used by other car owners, or by thieves. The danger to the tourist is this respect is interesting.

"In event of collision with a car illegally tagged the tourist has no way of obtaining judgment against the offender, even if he takes his number. When the case is followed up the name of the original owner is all the authorities can link up with the particular tags, and he can usually prove his innocence."

The motorist, therefore, is warned to be certain of the identitiy of the party he happens to collide with, should he be unfortunate enough to have an accident. It is not enough to take the other fellow's number.

It is also pointed out that tourists who have taken out additional licenses should be particularly careful not to discard them in such a way that they can be used illegitimately. The loss of such tags during the remainder of the year may cause a motorist considerable inconvenience, since he will be held technically responsible for a car on which they appear. Proving your innocence is not always an easy matter.

The Association also warns against the hazard of increased night driving resulting from the coming of shorter days and the regular return to standard time in localities where Summer daylight saving has been in effect. Headlights, neglected during the hot weather, are likely to be out of focus at the very time when they are most needed and when drivers are out of practice in night driving at touring speeds.

MICE as a CAUSE of ASTHMA

DR. WILLIAM LINTZ, Clinical Professor of Medicine in the Long Island College Hospital, New York City, remarks that while emanations from all sorts of animals have been known to cause attacks of bronchial asthma, there is no case on record in which emanations from rats or mice have been the cause of such an attack. The following case which recently came under his observation is therefore the first example of mice being the cause of bronchial asthma.

The patient was a married woman, aged thirty-six, who had been suffering for the last seven years from typical attacks of bronchial asthma, which occurred four or five times a month, mostly at night, only occasionally in the day-time, and chiefly from December to March. The attacks did not appear to bear any relation to food, weather, or the emanations from the cat, horse, or dog. All laboratory examinations and certain cutaneous tests proved negative. No cause could be detected for the attacks, which were relieved by an injection of adrenalin, until Dr. Lintz in examining the patient's premises was struck by the number of mouse-traps scattered about the house and learned that the place was infested by rats and mice. It then occurred to him that the asthmatic attacks might be due to mice for the following reasons: (1) The attacks occurred from December to March, when the mice had left the fields for food and warmth in the house. (2) They usually took place at night, when the mice were running about the house. (3) When the patient stayed at her mother's house, a short distance away, in which there were no rodents, she was free from the attacks, which recurred as soon as she returned home and lay down in her bedroom.

The correctness of the hypothesis was confirmed by exposing the patient to the emanations of a mouse without her knowledge, so as to exclude all psychical influence by placing the animal in a covered box and asking her to smell it at a time when she was perfectly free from asthma. Three minutes later she had a typical asthmatic attack associated with intense dermatitis. A very energetic campaign against the rodents in the house was then undertaken, and after removal of a few dead rats from beneath the patient's bedroom floor she remained free for three years from all attacks.

The case proves, as Dr. Lintz remarks, that cases of bronchial asthma are pieces of research work, and often require a knowledge of the patient's environment before the problem can be solved.

FISH That PRODUCE Powerful ELECTRIC CURRENTS

SECOND only to the baffling mystery of what electricity is, which still puzzles the leading, scientists of the world, are the marvelous and astonishing living batteries of certain fishes which have the magical power of producing their own electricity at will and in quantities large enough to make them dangerous customers to meet.

These animated "induction coils" in the shape of fishes inhabit various parts of the seven seas, and although scientists have studied them assiduously for years, their secrets are still hidden in the microscopic cells of their electrical organs.

Foremost among these piscatorial dynamos, which M. Van Demark writes about in "Practical Electrics, is the electric eel of the brackish waters of South America. This eel is not unlike the common river eel familiar to everyone. It grows to the astonishing length of six and seven feet, but the average specimens of this species are about four feet long.

This eel is nothing more than a fish in an extended and elongated form, and possesses a powerful electric battery near the tail with which it stuns its prey and drives away its natural enemies. Few denizens of the deep, large or small, would relish a second encounter with an electric eel. When attacked it merely claps its "live-wire" caudal appendage against its enemy and presses the button.

Scientists who have dissected these eels to discover "the reason" have been defied. They found that the electrical organs consist of two pairs of longitudinal organs located between the skin and the muscles of the caudal region, composed of 240 cells and supplied by more than 200 nerves.

The eel can discharge current enough to kill an animal of considerable size, and can easily knock down a man or horse. After a few consecutive shocks the battery is exhausted and the eel has to retire to a nearby mud-bank to rest so that he can generate a new supply. In an hour or two he is ready for the next victim.

This eel is very good to eat, but no one cares to take them off the hooks, so the common way to catch them is to drive horses into the bayous where they are known to be plentiful. The eels attack the horses and quickly exhaust their batteries. When they are powerless to do any further electrocution they are speared by the natives. Not infrequently horses are lost in this manner of fishing.

The eel is not the only denizen of the deep to be safeguarded by powerful electric batteries. There is the torpedo ray, or skate, which looks like a three-cornered kite with a long tail, equally dangerous to handle without rubber gloves. There are also several quite unrelated fishes which possess the extraordinary property of communicating an electric shock to animals with which they come in contact.

In all cases the electric organs are modifications of muscular tissues, looking like a mass of closely packed prisms, each divided into a series of compartments filled with a gelatinous substance.

The electric ray has its batteries located near the head. They are supplied with energy from large nerves proceeding from the brain. The ray is an ugly customer and can give as much trouble as the electric eel. A man receiving a shock from a large ray will remember it for a long time, if, indeed, he is not killed outright.

Even the little rays can give quite a shock when molested. The electric ray is a member of the skate family, and most skates can produce more or less electricity, but the ray is the only one of this species which is dangerous to handle.

Then there is the electric catfish from the Nile, which carries around a powerful storage battery concealed under its skin next to the muscles. This battery is a layer or blanket of electric cells covering most of the body. The charge can be delivered at will, and is quite powerful, but, as the fish never attains large proportions, its shock is not dangerous to anything except small animals.

While all the fish mentioned above are capable of producing electricity for hunting and defensive purposes, not one of them utilizes the current for electric lighting. And yet, strange as it may seem, there are plenty of other fishes which do use electricity produced by themselves for this very purpose.

Not until the last eight or ten years has any attempt been made to investigate the life of the deeper parts of the ocean. But the trawls and dragnets suspended a mile under the water, where it is necessarily total darkness all the time, reveal a multitude of small fishes each equipped with an electric light. Without this light they would, of course, be unable to see at all at that great depth, where the sunlight can never penetrate. The nets bring up a host of these small fishes, and in nearly every case they are equipped with the brightest eyes and little individual lanterns to light their way along the dark pathways of the deep.

Are the World's Deserts Really Expanding?

GEOGRAPHERS assert that there is every evidence that the great desert belt that extends across Africa and Asia at or a little above the tropic of Cancer is growing larger and drier. The Syrian Desert, which is now an utter waste, was crowded with cities and full of cultivated fields only two or three thousand years ago. Mesopotamia and Persia, ancient seats of civilization, could scarcely have risen so high if their climate then had been what it is now. There are plenty of evidences that the Sahara and the Libyan Desert have encroached on the fertile lands of North Africa and of the Sudan. The old "granary of Rome" in Tunis is now largely an arid waste. It is not surprising if the Nile draws less water than it used to from its tributaries in the Sudan, and loses more than it used to by evaporation.

Most geographers agree that the deserts are growing at present. Some believe that it is only an inevitable step in the drying up of the earth, and expect the process to go on forever, though perhaps with occasional remissions. Other scholars say that there is evidence of an extraordinary amount of fluctuation in the climate of the world; that there have been much drier periods than now, as well as much rainier ones; and that the widening of the northern desert band is only a phase in a long-time movement of climate from wet to dry and back again. But as these secular movements are extremely slow, often taking many thousands of years to complete their swing, no one now living will be here long enough to know which theory is the right one.

MANY STARS IN GAME TOMORROW

Speaker Will Have Classy Bunch for Game With Wellingtons.

Although the definite line-ups for to-morrow's big game between Tris Speaker's All Stars and the Wellingtons have not been announced, it is assured that there will be a classy array of talent in action. On Speaker's team, in addition to the Cleveland leader himself, will be Jim Edwards, the Cleveland southpaw; Les Nunamacher, catching; Jack Beatty, the London manager, at first base; Roger Peckinpaugh, the Washington infielder, at shortstop, and Babe Dye, the hard-hitting Toronto boy who was with Buffalo this year in the outfield. Wellingtons will have either Graham or O'Connell pitching, Beaume catching, Hamond, Donahue, Eagleson, Hewer and other well-known semi-pros. The game will be called at 2.45 o'clock, and with good weather a good crowd is expected. Alex. Kay and Jake Solomon will umpire. The World's Series score and bulletins of the C.G.E. - Welland game will be given out.

FOOTBALL NOTES

The following players will represent the Canadian Woollens on Saturday against the Vets. Kick off 2.45 sharp at the Oval.

Hillman, Cridland, Chambers, Ward, Monkman, Sayers, Mitchell, Shaw, Warman, Bramhall, Roberts. Reserves—Lee, Lauchlan.

The following players of the G.W.V.A. are requested to be at the Oval at 3.15 sharp to-morrow (Saturday) for the League game with the Canadian Woollens: Griffin, Blowers, Crowe, Hurlle, Wade, J. Chambers, B. Burrows, Dyer, Monk, Sharman, Gilley, Bestard and F. Wade. Mr. Russell will be the referee in charge of this game, as Mr. Clarke is unable to officiate.

PANNIERED GOWNS.

for a pugilist. Eddie's mother had set her heart on him filling a pulpit. But the fighting virus was in his blood and the sports won out—temporarily at least.

"I fought all over California and Nevada and helped entertain the wide-open town of Goldfield in 1906 during the gold rush," Young recalls. "I have lost decisions, but never taken the count. In those days anything less than 20 rounds was considered amateurish. I did not stoop to anything like that, of course.

K. O. For Satan.

"I guess I was like the prodigal son mentioned in the Bible. I spent my winnings in riotous living and usually was on my uppers. One time, huddling over a 'tramp fire' on a damp night, I chanced to pick up a newspapers and read a certain article. There and then I decided I could use my gift of fighting in the pulpit as well as in the ring.

"When I first entered the Bible Institute at Los Angeles I was a pathetic figure. Some professor told me my vocabulary was inadequate and I didn't know what he was talking about.

"For the last 12 years I've been fighting as I never fought before to put Satan down for the count. There is just as much action in the pulpit as in the prize ring and a lot more satisfaction."

Strangely, the evangelist was not interested in the Dempsey-Firpo contest. The Bible, and not the sport page, is his favorite reading.

FATHER MUST PAY UPKEEP OF CHILD

Kingston Man Held in Jail Until He Arranges For Maintenance.

KINGSTON, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Michael Considine, the man who gained considerable notoriety some little time ago by deserting his family and taking a trip across the border with a young girl, is now being detained as a prisoner at the County Jail until he defrays the expenses of keeping a child which was born as a result of his escapade.

It appears that Considine was proved to be the father of the child in question, and an order issued in Court that Considine should pay all the expenses in connection with the birth, and also contribute $5.00 per week for the maintenance of the child.

This order has not been carried out, and as a result Considine was summoned to appear before the Court, but disobeyed the summons.

As a result of this, an order was issued that he should be confined to the County Jail until arrears of payment were made up.

He was arrested yesterday in Toronto by Sheriff Vair and brought to the jail last night, where he presumably will remain until satisfactory arrangements are made for the maintenance of the child.

PETERBORO TEACHERS

the importance of visiting the meetings of the Association.

Mr. Lees made "Some Observations," which were of great interest. He commended the "O.E.A." to the teachers, and drew attention to a poster that hinted at attendance, one hundred per cent. strong, from our Institute. He spoke of a mysterious power in the school that had been named "School-room Technique." This is a result of all things being so ordered that an air of grace and ease is given to the general working of things. This power is felt in some schools, while in others, everything seems to be out of harmony.

Service Stressed.

The idea of service was stressed. Are we doing our best to be of service to the children whom we teach, and to the communities in which we work? Are we giving better service now than was given some years ago? We should make ourselves worth the salaries we receive. The aim of the greatest of all teachers was service.

The meeting adjourned at this point, and one came away knowing that he had "the biggest job in the world," and wondering whether he was doing the least bit toward making it a success.

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session opened with an address by Mr. S. N. Perry, M.A., of the College of Education, Toronto. His subject was "Picture Study in the Grades." The speaker in a pleasing manner and by the showing of many pictures, led his hearers to see the value of picture study as a valuable means of developing powers of appreciation of art. Teachers should have an aim in teaching art. It should be an incentive to other work.

In Form I. children love to illustrate but are quite unconscious of their limitations. Not much picture study can be taken in this grade excepting the study of simple pictures collected from many sources. The speaker told of the great interest that could be aroused in children by the study of some really difficult pictures. He thought it well to mention the gallery where pictures are to be seen. Pictures are studied from two points of view—the story of the picture and its art. The art of some pictures was noted. Lines, horizontal, vertical oblique, and curved, denote different characteristics, while the gradation of values give tone.

Visited City Plants.

At the close of this address the teachers visited the plants of the Bell Telephone Co. and the Peterboro Milk Products, in both of which great care was taken by those in charge to explain all the workings of the institutions.

Evening Session.

The evening session opened at 8 o'clock. Miss Gardner, a member of the city staff, pleased her audience with a vocal selection. This was followed by an address by Mr. Perry on "What Shall We Look for in Pictures." By the use of slides, important characteristics in pictures were pointed out. Artists use different devices and rules of art for bringing out the theme of the picture. These were indicated and explained in the illustrations. This was an entertaining and instructive address.

Miss Heffernan gave a vocal solo in pleasing style, and the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

WELCOME SENT LLOYD GEORGE

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 12.—A much enjoyed social gathering was held in the Baptist Church on Monday evening in connection with the 39th anniversary of the Campbellford Baptist Church.

A good representation of the members and friends gathered and enjoyed to the full the splendid musical programme which had been arranged under the direction of the choir leader, Richard C. Weston.

Pastor H. S. Bennett occupied the chair, and Rev. T. L. White, of Lakefield, addressed the gathering on the genesis of some of our best known and much-loved hymns.

Several addresses by laymen were given on the subject of "How to Succeed as a Church."

Night Letter to Lloyd George.

In view of the fact that Honorable David Lloyd George, who is a Baptist, is now visiting Canada, the following resolution was heartily and unanimously passed to be forwarded to him at McMaster University, Toronto, on Wednesday, Oct. 10, in the form of a night letter:

Hon. David Lloyd George, LL.D., c/o Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt, Government House, Toronto.

Honorable Sir and Brother,—The Campbellford Baptist Church, assembled in anniversary gathering Monday evening, by a hearty and unanimous vote, extends to you and yours Christian greetings; a royal welcome to Canada and our University, and the best of wishes for many more years filled with the abundant blessing of God.

Signed on behalf of the Church.
Herbert S. Bennett, Pastor: John Hall, Richard C. Weston, Fred. W. Weston, David Mason, Chas. Hoskins; Garnet Lloyd and Harry W. Carter, Deacons.

Following the programme the ladies of the church served refreshments.

On every hand words of appreciation were heard and the general feeling is that from beginning to end the 39th anniversary services augur well for the future welfare and development of the church.

Women's Meeting.

The annual Deanery meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was held at Campbellford on Friday, Oct. 12, in the Parish Hall. The following is the programme:

11 a.m.—Holy Communion.

12 to 1—Opening meeting at the Parish Hall. Address by Miss Naftet.

Lunch at 1 o'clock.

2.30 to 4.30—General meeting and an address by Miss Rees, of Toronto, on "Literature."

All members of the Women's and Girls' Auxiliary are asked to attend these meetings. All members of the congregation are cordially invited to attend.

BROTHER OF A LOCAL MAN KILLED IN CAR

Leo Marchand Was Victim of Automobile Accident Near North Bay.

Word was received in Kingston yesterday that Leo Marchand of this city was killed at Powassan when an automobile overturned in a creek about 6 miles north of that village. The driver of the car, S. Legree, of Sudbury, escaped with slight injuries. After the body of the unfortunate man had been examined by Dr. Harcourt, district coroner, it was removed to Powassan for inquest purposes.

The two men left Powassan in a runabout at 5 o'clock, on their way to North Bay. How the accident happened is not known, but the occupants of another car which reached the creek shortly after the Legree car, discovered the latter machine upside down in the water. With the help of other travellers they managed to right the car, and found Marchand's body beneath. Legree evidently had been thrown clear, and after regaining consciousness, had gone for assistance. The accident happened on the main trunk road leading to North Bay.

Marchand, who lived with his mother, had been employed by the Shuttleworth Company for six weeks.

L. Marchand was well known in the city and for some time was employed at the drug store of L. T. Best. He was also in insurance for some time. He left here about four years ago, going to Toronto and then later on he went to North Bay.

Deceased was well known in athletic circles in Kingston and played in the Mercantile League for the Insurance team two years ago. He was a Roman Catholic in religion and is survived by four brothers, Roy and Brice of the city, Lloyd of Toronto and Edward of Peterboro; also by four sisters. Mrs. Bruce, Toronto, Sister Mary Edith, House of Providence, Bernadette and Madeline of the city.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

"THE FACE ON THE BARROOM FLOOR."

"The Little Colonel" Supported By Notable Cast, Including Ruth Clifford—Royal To-Night.

Few pictures have come to the Royal Theatre which have been greeted with such unqualified praise as 'The Face on the Barroom Floor,' the latest William Fox special production which opens a two days' engagement at the Royal Theatre to-night.

This photodrama hits the mark for which it was aimed as surely as if it had been fired from a rifle. It contains every element necessary for a real, successful entertainment—melodrama, thrills, romance, a glorification of American womanhood, love, interest, adventure and heart appeal.

The story deals with the life of a famous artist, played by Henry B. Walthall, who took the downward path of life after an unfortunate love affair and his brilliant fight to win back his place in the world. How he does this and in addition wins the love of a charming girl, provides the basis of the theme for one of the most interesting photoplays seen here in a long, long time.

Ruth Clifford, a talented actress who has been starred in innumerable screen successes, plays opposite "The Little Colonel," and a cast of notable screen artists, including Alma Bennett and Harry Gribbon, give more than adequate support. The picture is a credit to Director Jack Ford, who is responsible for a number of screen successes released by Fox Film Corporation during the past year.

Leonard-Tendler Lightweight Championship Bout Added Attraction at Royal To-Night

The complete lightweight championship between Benny Leonard and Lou Tendler will be shown at the Royal to-night. It is four reels in length and will be shown after the regular performance.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"Where the North Begins," is one of those elemental pictures that will interest and delight nature and animal lovers. The scenes of natural beauty centre about the little Hudson's Bay port of Caribou, and the northern wilderness, where an epic drama of the frozen places is enacted. Gabriel and Felix, and the Fox make the eternal triangle of a story that resolves itself into a struggle for love and life and money as symbolized by furs. The hero, possibly, of the tale is the dog, a wonderful northern dog, bred among the wolf pack, who reverts from his wolf life for love of the French trapper, Gabriel. The dog figures in many episodes, and proves one of the most talented animal actors yet seen on the screen.

There is a blizzard when "My Friend," as Gabriel calls his dog, rescues his master, and the big shaggy creature outwits the master-villain, "The Fox," in a bloody chase.

To those who like a breath from the open spaces, a glimpse of far reaches of solitary natural grandeur, and for romance and hate as played out with elemental forces ascendant, this will be an intriguing picture.

A good comedy and several short reels complete an entertaining programme.

AT THE REGENT.

A COMIC OPERA OF THE SCREEN

Larry Semon Comedy Reminiscent of Elaborate Musical Shows, With Beautiful Girls and Everything.

Now on at the Regent there is a distinct novelty in the way of screen entertainment. The picture is "The Agent," a Larry Semon comedy, which is a some distance ahead of the conventional among laugh provokers.

The story is built around the activities of a band of rum manufacturers along the Mexican border. Enjoying a prosperous business, they have at length established themselves as almost a separate principality, in toxicated with the success of their illicit business. The central distributing point and rendezvous of the band is a magnificient cafe, where joy is unconfined, night and day.

Into this picture The Agent in the person of Larry Semon, injects himself, armed with a badge, a set of outrageous whiskers, and a pair of rapid-fire legs, which he needs pretty constantly.

Mark Twain once said that humor consisted of exaggeration in one form or another, and that it was a comparatively simple mechanical matter to write stuff that would make people laugh. Be that as it may, Larry Semon has succeeded in mixing the sublime with the ridiculous to a startling degree, and the result is what one might describe, very conservatively, as "a big comedy special."

Yankees Win Second 4-2--Speaker's "All Stars" Here To-morrow

RUTH CLUBBED HIS WAY INTO WORLD'S SERIES HALL OF FAME WITH SUCCESSFUL HOME RUNS

Wreaked Vengeance on McGraw and His Touted Tactics and Led Yankees to Victory—Ruth's Feat Unparalleled.

Great Climax to Drama.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press). — Babe Ruth crossed with mighty tread yesterday the threshhold of World's Series glory that has been barred to him for two years.

Driving out two thundering home run thrusts in successive innings—a feat unparalleled in championship baseball history—Ruth was the dynamo in the powerful attack that enabled the Yankees to turn the tables on the Giants, capture the second game of the series by a score of 4 to 2, and square the count with the world's titleholders in the 1923 struggle for diamond supremacy.

First up in the fourth inning, with the score tied at one-all, the great slugger put the Yanks into the lead with a terrific, towering blow that landed atop the second tier of the right-field grandstand and started the downfall of Hugh McQuillan, Giant ace. Another run was scored in that hectic inning, but on his next turn at bat, in the fifth, the Babe crashed one of Jack Bentley's southpaw slants into the lower right-field stands. That blow was the climax of the game; Yankee victory was cinched then and there, for it proved merely a formality to carry on to the finish.

Smashed McGraw's Strategy.

It was a spectacular triumph for the Yankees, whose punch mastered John McGraw's strategy and gave them the first World's Series victory they have known since the fifth game of the 1921 championship—a span over which eight defeats and one tie have been the disastrous portion of the American League champions.

It was a brilliant day for Herb Pennock, fragile left-hander, who twirled the Giants into subjection in masterful fashion; and for Joe Dugan, fleet-footed third sacker, whose marvelous defensive play brought him repeatedly into the limelight.

But, over and above the mere outcome to the game, the brilliant cogs that fitted into the winning Yankee machine, it was the day of days for Ruth, baseball's star of stars, who had come into his own and found the end of the rainbow of World's Series fame for which he had sought before in vain. True, Ruth earned his spurs as a pitcher, anging up a record of 29 scoreless innings in championship play that still stands; but it was batting laurels that the greatest home run hitter of all time was seeking and he gained them today. No matter what he does the rest of the series, his place among series immortals is secure.

Thus, it was a triumph, even greater for Ruth than for the Yankees; the ascendancy of brute force, the power of the wallop, over the tactical genius of John McGraw, baseball's "Master Mind." For behind the struggle for premier diamond honors from the start has been the greatest drama of all, the matching of Ruth's dynamic individuality against the strategy of the grey-haired, silent leader of the Giants.

Two years ago, Ruth was handicapped in the series by injuries; last year he was a "bust"—outguessed and baffled by the tactics of the "Little Napoleon," but last night he was a triumphant figure—a vital force that upset with sheer might the best laid calculations of his opponent, and knowing the confidence that his great achievement yesterday has inspired, he may prove the deciding factor in the outcome of the third straight battle between Gotham's rival clubs and spoil McGraw's goal of a third successive championship.

Ruth's Predecessors.

Ruth's feat of two home runs in a single World's Series game has been done thrice before in two decades of championship history, but in none of these instances were the circuit blows made in successive innings and successive times at bat. P. H. Dougherty of the Boston Americans was the first to accomplish the trick, in 1903. It was duplicated in 1915, by Harry Hooper, also of the Boston Americans, who drove out home runs in the third and ninth innings of the fifth game of the series with the Philadelphia Nationals, and again, in 1917, by Benny Kauff, of the Giants, who hit for the circuit in the fourth and eighth innings of the fourth game of the series with the Chicago White Sox.

Wednesday, the story of victory was one of Giant smartness, alertness and generalship, plus the decisive ninth-inning home run of Casey Stengel. Yesterday the situation was reversed and it was punch, typified by Ruth, that decided the issue. And the Yankees won, because they carried their brains in their bats.

Wednesday it was the Yankees who knocked at, but could not open, the door of opportunity; yesterday it was a tale of missed chances by the Giants, though they were fewer than their opponents had in the opening game.

Pennock Held Giants.

Except for two innings, Pennock, southpaw star of Miller Huggins' staff, had the Giants at his mercy, twirling with consummate invincible skill and backed up by a defense that at times was spectacular.

Opposed to the frail-looking, but superbly confident left-hander, were two of McGraw's mound string—McQuillan, who was bombarded into retirement in the fourth inning, and Jack Bentley, portsider, who, except for Ruth's second circuit clout, pitched capably for the rest of the game.

Pennock Hurt.

Pennock's victorious performance was all the more remarkable in the face of an accident in the fourth inning when he was struck on the side and painfully hurt by the first ball pitched by Bentley. Pennock fell to the ground, writhing in agony, and it required several minutes work upon him before he was able to walk to first base. But the mishap apparently did not lessen in the least his effectiveness, for he retired the Giants in order in the next two innings.

The Yanks gathered ten hits off McQuillan and Bentley, only one more than the Giants collected off Pennock, but the blows of the American Leaguers were of the more solid variety. Both clubs hit hard sporadically, and Ruth was not the only one to gain home-run glory.

Two Other Homers.

Aaron Ward, second sacker, who played an excellent all-round game, scored the first run in the second inning with a booming clout to the upper tier of the left-field grandstand. In the Giants' half of the inning, Irish Meusel tied the score with a duplicate smash.

Ruth's first monumental crash opened the fourth inning, but the Yankees increased their advantage to two runs, when Pipp singled, went to third as "Pep" Young juggled Schang's smash and scored on Scott's drive to centre. That blow ended McQuillan's stay on the mound. Assuming the rescue role, Bentley filled the bases by hitting Pennock, but then settled down to retire the side by forcing Witt to fly out.

After Ruth's second homer, in the fifth—a clout that brought the Babe one of the most thunderous ovations he has ever been accorded— Bob Meusel got to second when Young mishandled his single, but Pipp and Ward were easy for Bentley.

Flash of Temper.

The first display of bitterness that has cropped out in the play of the rival clubs occurred in the sixth when the Giants' rally was checked after one run, the last of the game, had been scored. It looked as though the tide of battle was about to turn when Groh, Frisch and Young opened with successive line single, the third sacker scoring on Pep's blow, but here the Yankee defence stiffened behind Pennock's cool box work. With Young on first and Frisch on third, Irish Meusel drove a bounder to Scott who tossed to Ward, with an easy double play in sight. Young was forced out, but in diving to second he upset Ward and blocked the throw to first. It was the signal for a vehement protest by the Yankees, who gathered about Umpire Bob Hart to protest against Young's play, which, to the crowd, seemed a deliberate piece of tactics. The argument lasted several minutes before the players went back to their positions. It was something of the retribution of fate that Cunningham, the next Giant batter, hit directly to Scott and this time, the double play went through and the Giant sortie was ended.

The Giants had another chance to break through in the eighth when Young and Irish Meusel singled with two down, but Gowdy, batting for Cunningham, flied to Witt. The champions went out in order in the ninth.

Stengel Ended It.

The Yankee half of the ninth witnessed a bit of drama in itself. Ruth, who had walked in the seventh, was in the offing, swinging his war clubs and the crowd centered its interest in the possibility that the Babe might add another homer as a parting shot. With two out, Dugan paved the way for Ruth's turn at bat with a double.

Once the Babe swung and missed; next a ball, then the crack of wood and leather ,and a mighty shout. Astonishingly high and far out to centre flew the ball, but under it settled Casey Stengel, hero of yesterday, who had come back for just one inning play, and finis was written to the mighty deeds of Ruth for the day.

Schang's Throw Nails Frisch

Frankie Frisch's dreams of scoring Jawn McGraw's first run in this year's little party with the Yankees came to naught in inning No. 1. Reaching first on a fielder's choice, he made a valiant attempt to steal second. But he was caught as he slid for the bag. Wallie Schang's fine throw to Ward turned the trick. Here we see Ward touching Frisch with the ball, and Umpire Nallin calling him out. Wallies Pipp, who discarded his crutches in time to enter the series, is shown watching the play from first base, with Umpire O'Day and a Giant coach behind him.

Whose two mighty wallops wrecked the strategy of the "Little Napoleon" of the Giants in the Yankee victory yesterday—Ruth chose the enemy's camp as the betting for His "Day of Glory."

CUBS WIN SECOND FROM WHITE SOX

Schalk Is Banished For Throwing Dust at Umpire

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.— The National Leaguers made it two straight over the Americans in the Chicago city series to-day when the Cubs won the second game of the set from the Sox, 4 to 3.

Vic Aldridge pitched tight ball and was afforded brilliant support for seven innings, but after yielding two runs in the 8th, and passing Mostil, first up in the ninth, he was replaced by Fussell. Hollis Thurston twirled the route for the Sox and was hit hard in spots.

Catcher Ray Schalk of the Sox was banished in the second inning for throwing a handful of dust at Umpire Ormsby in protesting a close decision at second, when Schalk was called out. Scores:

Cubs	100 201 000	4	10 1
White Sox	000 000 120	3	10 2

Aldridge, Fussell and Hartnett; Thurston and Schalk, Crouse.

SEE SPEAKER AND HIS STARS

The baseball fans of the district are reminded of to-morrow's big ball game at Riverside Park between Tris Speaker's "All Star" team of big leaguers and the Toronto Wellingtons. The game is called for 2.45 o'clock and is under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. of Marmora.

This is an unique chance to see some of the Nabobs of baseball in action, including Speaker, Roger Peckinpaugh, Babe Dye, Jim Edward, Andy Anderson, and others. They played the Wellingtons in Toronto on Wednesday to a big crowd and as an attraction provided the feature of the season at Scarboro.

Billy Evans Says

Is Batting Practice Worth While? Pitchers Seldom Exert Themselves. Value is Questioned.

Is the batting practice as indulged in by major league teams prior to the starting of a game merely a waste of time? A a matter of fact, this goes for every ball game that is played, as batting practice is a part of every game from the amateur field up to the majors.

* * * * *

* * * * *

A number of new recruits had reported to Quinn and he was anxious to see them in action. A number of them were being used by Man. Chance in the batting practice. Several Boston pitchers, who were not to be used in the game, did the pitching for batting practice. These pitchers did not work in their customary style or use their regular stuff. Most of their offerings were fast balls, delivered with about half speed, just the nicest kind of pitching to hit. merry with the pitching offered, ratt-

* * * * *

The Boston batters were making hits off the left-field fence with monotonous regularity. Some of the players doing the hardest hitting had been weak sisters all year in the regular games.

* * * * *

"Does that kind of pitching mean anything?" asked Quinn. I told him that I doubted if it really helped batting, that possibly it was a detriment. "For years I have had that opinion," continued Quinn. "The batters never face soft pitching like that in the regular games, that is why I think it is a bad thing. It seems to me that the pitching in batting practice in order to be beneficial should be of the same style as used in the game The pitchers should put something on the ball, use their curve and at times shift to a change of pace. The batting practice as I see it now, is not a real test of hitting, but rather made-to-order pitching."

* * * * *

Since discussing this feature with Quinn I have talked it over with several managers. Most of them agree with Quinn that the efficiency of the present system is very doubtful. However, they question whether it would be a good thing to burn up a lot of pitching strength in batting practice. Several agreed that it might be good judgment to use their second-string men for such work.

* * * * *

Whether or not there is a remedy for it I rather agree with Quinn that the present haphazard system used in batting practice is hardly worth while.

SCARCELY TWO BRITISH RACE TRACKS ALIKE

Very Few Have Flat Measured Mile or Half-Mile Course — Natural Country.

"Glorious Uncertainty."

By P. M. SARL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(United Press)—Interest in the international race between Papyrus, the English Derby winner, and the horse selected as the most representative American three-year-old, at Belmont Park, October 20, has been aroused to an unusually high pitch since the British thoroughbred arrived in the United States and started training.

Up to the time Papyrus sailed on the Aquitania, British sportsmen were rather skeptical about the race, and now that it has been assured, the turf fans are, for the first time, paying some attention to American racing methods and general conditions.

Up to this time, the English race followers had looked lightly upon the American turf and had rather disregarded its activities as being vastly inferior.

When Basil Jarvis, trainer for Papyrus, told American writers that he didn't know how fast his thoroughbred coud run and that he never had him clocked, the Americans were surprised, according to cable stories printed here.

In view of this and because of many other habits of trainers and race followers in England that must be regarded as eccentric in the United States, it might be interesting to tell the American race fans a few things about the British turf as it is regulated and regarded here.

Although claiming to be the world's greatest turf fan, the Englishman has been supremely indifferent to horse racing in other countries. A few big French races, such as the French Derby, the Grand Steeplechase De Paris, the Grand Auteil Hurdle and the Prix de Conseil Municipal were followed with interest, chiefly because there were usually some English competitors, but, apart from these, continental racing was ignored by press and public.

Perhaps two big races in Australia, and the Viceroy's Cup in India completed the average British turfman's knowledge of the world's big turf events. Such events as the Kentucky Derby, the Futurity Stakes, or the Preakness Stakes hardly ever earned mention in the sporting press and, in fact, Britishers generally relegated American racing to an inferior status.

The "glorious uncertainty" of the British turf owes its popularity to the variegated nature of the race track in this country. There are scarcely two alike and they are laid down over natural country, without the slightest attempt to alter or improve the landscape, hence the "human element" of the horse enters into every race on every track. The horses that is "nippy" rounding turns may shine at Chester with its oval, soup-plate-like track, but fail lamentably up the severe gradient at Ascot, or on the gruelling Cesarewitch course at Newmarket. The solid plugger on dead-galloping tracks will be sprawling all over the place down the hill at Epsom or Brighton, or hopelessly outpaced on the sharp Manchester track.

To tell the British turf enthusiasts that Papyrus won the Derby in 2 minutes 38 seconds conveys nothing to him. He wants to know how much he won by (in lengths) and whether the course was dry or wet, also what horses were behind him and what their earlier performances were. Record time in the Derby attracts little more than passing interest and is very little criterion, as courses are frequently being altered to meet modern or local conditions.

For instance, Captain Cuttle's Derby time last year—2:34 3-5—created a new record, but the track had been made some fifty or sixty yards shorter than when Splon Kop broke the record in 1920 with 2:34 4-5 Spion Kop, in turn, had some yards under the previous record-holder Humber, in 1910, whose time was 2:34 1-5. Herein lies one of the difficulties of "clocking" in England. Very few tracks have a flat measured mile, mile-and-half, etc. The Derby course, for instance, nominally one and a half miles, is actually about sixty yards more. The "mile" at Sandown Park is actually one mile and sixty yards, and the "mile" at Alexandra Park is 110 yards above the standard. Similarly with other tracks. The historic St. Leger track at Doncaster is 132 yards more than a mile and three-quarters, yet competitors are always judged as if they had compassed the bare 14 furlongs. The Royal Hunt Cup at Ascot is always reckoned a seven furlong event, but the track is 166 yards more, and the severe uphill finish makes it more than the equivalent to a mile and a quarter race on an easier track.

Under the circumstances a speedy and handy horse of the Papyrus type would probably always do well on the fast and uniform tracks in America, but it is doubtful if an American-trained horse would soon adapt itself to the variegations of British tracks.

BATTLED WITH ELEMENTS TO GET PICTURES TO EXAMINER

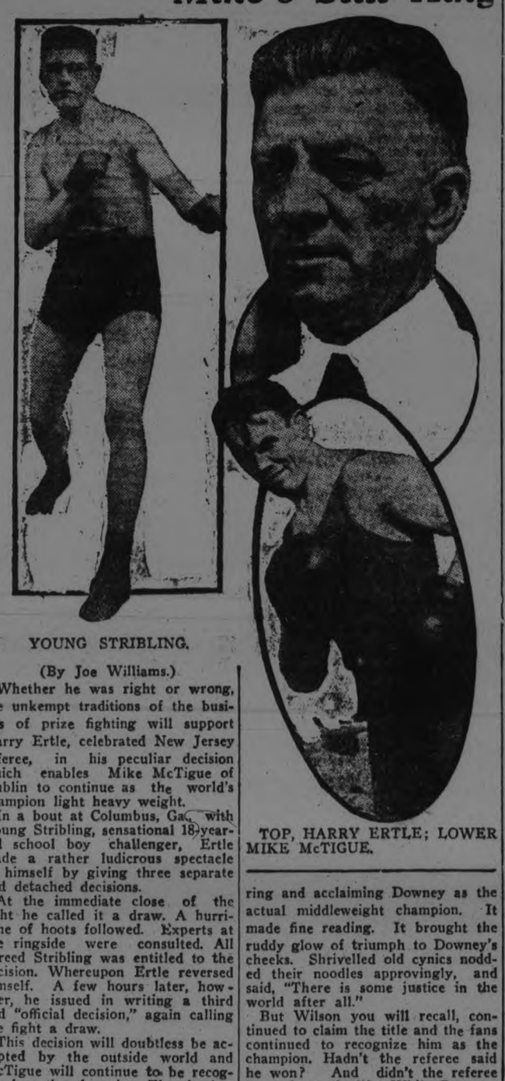
Pilot Wesley L. Smith, Ace of the Eastern Division Air Mail Flyers, achieved the seemingly impossible when he helped accomplish this scoop on 1923 World Series pictures. Many an aviator would have refused to start from New York in the face of the strong head winds, and low visibility, and would have been within his rights. Smith, however, was selected because of his skill and daring. He made a day-and-night flight after the 1922 World's Series, and an all-night flight with the Dempsey-Firpo fight pictures.

When Smith arrived at Cleveland with the plates, forty minutes late, and already given up for lost by many waiting for him, the pictures were seized and distributed. Special automobiles, fitted with developing and printing facilities rushed the pictures north, south, east and west, and the fastest trains carried theri share of the Yankee Stadium pictures. Speed was the watchword, and the automobiles were given special permits, removing the limit.

This is how the pictures came to the Peterboro Examiner and are reproduced in this edition—just one more instance of the high-class service given its subscribers.

Queer Decision But Mike's Still King



YOUNG STRIBLING.

TOP, HARRY ERTLE; LOWER MIKE McTIGUE.

(By Joe Williams.)

Whether he was right or wrong, the unkempt traditions of the business of prize fighting will support Harry Ertle, celebrated New Jersey referee, in his peculiar decision which enables Mike McTigue of Dublin to continue as the world's champion light heavy weight.

In a bout at Columbus, Ga., with Young Stribling, sensational 18-year-old school boy challenger, Ertle made a rather ludicrous spectacle of himself by giving three separate and detached decisions.

At the immediate close of the fight he called it a draw. A hurricane of hoots followed. Experts at the ringside were consulted. All agreed Stribling was entitled to the decision. Whereupon Ertle reversed himself. A few hours later, however, he issued in writing a third and "official decision," again calling the fight a draw.

This decision will doubtless be accepted by the outside world and McTigue will continue to be recognized as the champion. The ring has a way of accepting the referee's decision and word as final, regardless of accompanying circumstances that might point to a flagrant injustice.

Bryan Downey, for instance, actually knocked out Johnny Wilson, holder of the midleweight championship, in a Cleveland ring, yet was deprived of his honestly and legitimately won honors by a hand-picked referee, one Jimmy Gardner, who not only refused to admit that the champion had been knocked out, but declared Downey the loser on a foul.

So brazen was the fraud that 13 different states promptly went on record as barring Wilson from the ring and acclaiming Downey as the actual middleweight champion. It made fine reading. It brought the ruddy glow of triumph to Downey's cheeks. Shrivelled old cynics nodded their noodles approvingly, and said, "There is some justice in the world after all."

But Wilson you will recall, continued to claim the title and the fans continued to recognize him as the champion. Hadn't the referee said he won? And didn't the referee know best of all? While Downey, the man who had knocked him out fairly and soundly, went hither and yon picking up stray purses, Wilson his victim, was matched with Harry Greb in a championship fight, and paid a fancy figure for his labor.

Young Stribling is a school boy. He has much to learn about this queer business of prize fighting. If he finds eventually that the world declines to come to his door to do him honor as a champion, he need not be surprised nor discouraged. What happened to him was little more than a circumstance compared to the raw deal to which Downey was subjected.

LONG GEORGE KELLY,
Whose fielding at first base for the Giants has been sensational in the first two games of the World's Series.

BUSINESS MEN DEFEAT MASONS

While Lakefield Firemen Trampled All Over the U. F. O.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 12.— The Business Men won their first game in the softball league last night with a last inning rally that netted four runs and left the Masons one down in the score of 14-13. Rev. T. L. White pitched for the winners with C. Lake on the receiving end. Northey and Connell was the Masonic battery.

The score by innings:

Business Men ..... 2331014—14
Masons ..... 1233310—13

In the other fixture of the evening the Firemen walloped the U.F.O. team to the merry tune of 41 to 8, three doubles and a triple helping roll up the Fire Fighters' grand total. Bob Summers was the bright start of the evening's performance turning in a fine game at bat and on the bases. The batteries were Graham and Dave Darling for the U.F.O. and J. Ridpath and C. Ridpath for the Firemen. Score by innings:

U.F.O. .....600 1 10 0 — 8
Firemen .....381(10)25(12)—41

It Will Be Hard On Both of Them

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—As Lafayette coach Dr. J. B. Sutherland got a good line on his Pittsburgh eleven-to-be last week when the two rivals came together in their more or less annual grapple.

For Sutherland is to come here next year as head coach, replacing the venerable Pop Warner, who is going to the Pacific slope to teach the Californians the gentle art of passing and punting.

While the departure of Pop is regretted, the coming of Doc is hailed with joy. It is expected that he will take up where Warner left off and that the Panthers will continue to be one of the big threats in eastern football.

"How'll you ever get used to the soot here?" demanded Pop in a moment of levity before the game.

"How'll you ever get used to the sunshine out there?" parried Doc.

CALL MEETING TO TALK ROAD RACE

Every Runner Is Urged to Attend Tuesday Evening.

Doug Loomis has called a meeting for Tuesday night at seven o'clock at the Y.M.C.A. for all those interested in distance running. If the attendance warrants it the Y.M.C.A. will put on the annual Thanksgiving Day race themselves. Several of the local runners who have kept in condition would like to see this event continued and Millbrook report a candidate who would enter if the race is put on.

The decision Tuesday night will depend upon the turn out at the meeting. If it is large enough and sufficient enthusiasm is shown the road race will very likely be held this year.

SOCCER NOTES

The final league soccer game will be played on Saturday afternoon between the Canadian Woollen, Peck cup holders, and the Great War Veterans, Gordon Cup holders, at Nicholls Oval. Kick off at 3.30 prompt. Referee J. C. Russell.

Last Saturday afternoon, the Woollens defeated the Vets in Peck Cup final after two strenuous games. If the Woollens rd another victory to their credit tomorrow afternoon they will give the Thistle, the League championship. If the Vets win, it will necessitate a sudden death game between Vets and Thistles—a draw will not assist the Vets.

The controversy between the O. F.A. and Toronto F.A. over the Ontario championship has been settled now, O.F.A. has ordered Massey-Harris (Brantford) — the team that defeated the local Vets— and Taylor-Forbes (Guelph) to play the final for Ontario championship to-morrow. Original finalists, Wyllis-Overland (Toronto) and Thistle (Hamilton) have been suspended for illegal transactions.

In the Alex Kay School Trophy Competition, the Prince of Wales will play the Immaculate Conception on Monday evening. Mr. W. G. Nicholls will referee. All schools are requested to continue playing soccer after they are knocked out of the competition because the association may form a league.

The following gentlemen will act in the capacity of referees in the school games: J. C. Russell, Jack Clark, Frank Viceler, Alex. Dick, W. G. Nicholls, Jack Cairns and Fred Sutcliffe.

White Bros., local athletic outfitters, have had a busy week supplying soccer footballs to the schools. They anticipate, at any moment the arrival of the handsome trophy that will be emblematic of league championship.

Sarazen Is Only King to Repeat

Sarazen, however, was unable to repeat in the national open, losing that honor to Bobby Jones, Atlanta amateur.

Jess Sweetser made a gallant but unsuccessful bid to repeat as the amateur champion this year, while Glenna Collett, youthful Providence star, was unable to survive the third round in defending her title as woman's champion.

BALTIMORE TIES UP THE JUNIOR SERIES

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct 11. — The Baltimore Orioles Internatianal League champions, tied the Junior World's Series here to-day by defeating the Kansas City Blues, American Association pennant winners, 3 to 1, the second game. Baltimore hit Caldwell opportunely while Groves held Kansas City to four scattered hits.

Groves won his own game when he singled over third to score Boley in the sixth inning.

The teams will resume the series Saturday after a day of rest to-morrow. Zinn probably will pitch for Kansas City, but Baltimore's selection is uncertain. The crowd to-day, in spite of a light rain before the game and threatening weather all day, was approximately 13,000.

BROCKVILLE HAD BIG BALL SEASON

Played 32 Games, Scoring 281 Runs Against 170.

During the season just closed the Brockville baseball team, who were defeated by the C.G.E. in the Intermediate O.B.A.A. semi-final round, participated in 32 games, of which six exhibitions were played at home; five exhibitions away from Brockville; 10 league games on the home grounds and 11 abroad; winning 22 and losing 10.

In the 32 games Brockville scored 281 runs and had 170 scored against them, the review of the games played being as follows:

SPEED OF PAPYRUS HAS ALTERED ODDS

British Horse Surprised "Railbirds" in Workout.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Papyrus, the English Derby winner, who will meet Zev in the $100,000 international race at Belmont Park on October 20, put over a surprise on the 300 watchers at the Belmont track today when he covered the mile and an eight in 1:54 4-5 without taking a long breath.

Giving his stable mate, Gold Bar, a lead of more than a sixteenth, the English three-year-old broke flat-footed and stepped out with a tremendous burst of speed. He picked up Bar Gold within the half mile and went past him as if he were standing still. Papyrus was full of run when brought up.

The crowd rushed to get bets on before the odds changed, as they did considerably within five minutes.

RUGBY

Ross Dobbin expects that the first league game for the local intermediates will be called for a week from Saturday with Parkdale Canoe Club. The team had a fine workout at Central Park yesterday evening, but will be idle on Saturday for the reason that most of the squad will be with crowd at Riverside for the game between Tris Speakers' All Stars and Corny Burns' Wellingtons of Toronto.

Harry McKee formerly of Peterboro is handling the Parkdale paddlers, and by the way is also secretary of the O.R.F.U. He is a Commodore of the Parkdale Canoe Club.

eGorge Lister, manager of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Toronto, has written for a game with Peterboro juniors. They are leading their group in the Toronto senior rugby league and are affiliated with the junior O.R.F.U. They would like to come to Peterboro for an exhibition game. The club's address is 7 Brunswick Avenue.

THE LOCAL ENTRANTS MADE A GOOD SHOWING

The City Championships Were Well Contested This Year.

This year's city championships, which were run off at the Exhibition Grounds, were a bigger success than any similar meets held in the city for the past few years. All the classes were filled, and each trophy was well contested for.

The senior or unlimited class in competition for the Howden Cup had the biggest list of entries of any.

The day was suitable and the track fast.

The time for the 100 yards was fast in both senior classes, McBrien and H. Young each doing the century in 11 seconds. Ji Thornton chased McBrien hard, while Miller was close on Young's heels.

The results of the competitions and the total points of each contestant are:

Howden Trophy, Unlimited.
D. Fitzgerald, 563; R. Miller, 490; D. Bates, 480; J. Thornton, 439; "Frenchy" Holland, 403; Lewis, 390; McBrien, 223.

Eastwood, Eighteen and Under.
H. Young, 588; B. Copping, 492; J Holland, 402; G. Miller, 379.

Huycke Trophy, Sixteen and Under.
Lewis, 480; Sturgeon, 479.

Peck Trophy, Fourteen and Under.
Starr, 500; Sturgeon, 347.

GOVERNMENT DRY-DOCK.

The opening ceremony will be performed by His Excellency the Governor-General and Dr. James H. King, Minister of Public Works, will attend to take part.

BRITISH HARVESTERS WILL GET SOME WORK

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., October 12 (Canadian Press). — Northern Saskatchewan has 2,700 winter jobs open for British harvesters, 300 of whom can be placed immediately, said J. F. O'Leary, district superintendent of the Soldier Settlement Board for Northern Saskatchewan, yesterday.

The vacancies are divided into 1,700 industrial and 1,000 farm positions.

GASOLINE WAS SOLD AT 25c. PER GALLON

VANCOUVER, B.C., October 12 (Canadian Press). — Gasoline was selling at 25 cents a gallon at the Union Oil Co. stations here yesterday to meet competition of the retailers who had been selling at this price for several days. They purchased their supply at Blaine, Washington, and brought it here in trucks.

CREW THIRTY LOST.

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press.)— Little hope is held out here for the crew of thirty of Tanker City of Everett, which sank yesterday, 150 miles west of Tortugas. No trace has been found of Everett's lifeboats.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.— (Canadian Press.)—Tommy Lougran, of Philadelphia, was awarded the decision last night over Harry Greb, world's middle-weight champion, in ten round bout.

FIRE DESTROYED HOME AT OMEMEE

Mr. Frank Milloy Just Had Time To Rescue His Family.

OMEMEE, October 12. — Last evening the home of Frank Milloy, near here, was destroyed by fire, the cause of which is unknown.

It was first noticed by Mr. Milloy about 10 o'clock. He immediately went upstairs and rescued the two children, who were in bed.

Nothing was saved from upstairs, and very little downstairs.

The house was completely destroyed.

About a year ago Mr. Milloy had his son killed when he was struck by a manure spreader.

AUSTRALIAN ART ON EXHIBIT IN LONDON

LONDON, October 12 (Canadian Press Cable). — The first exhibition of Australian art in London was opened yesterday in the London Royal Academy by the Duke of Connaught.

His Royal Highness expressed the opinion that the exhibition would bring home to Britons the fact of the existence in Australia of a thriving and vigorous intellectual movement with a love of beauty and the desire to give it shape.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, October 12. — Mr. Clarence Gladney is erecting a fine new summer cottage on his lot beside that of Mrs. Carscallen's, at Crowe Lake. Mr. Tim Byrnes also intends to build this fall.

Mr. Vincent Quinn, of Tweed, was a visitor here on Sunday.

Mr. H. J. Payette was in Belleville on Friday.

Messrs. F. Lloyd and H. Osler are in Montreal taking a six weeks N.C.O. course.

Mr. E. Collins and family are at their cottage at Crowe Lake.

DARING HOLD-UP WAS STAGED AT PORT PERRY

LINDSAY, October 12. — A A daring hold up was staged at Port Perry last night and Mr. Geo. McKee of that village, while on his way home, was waylaid by two masked men, who ordered him to throw up his hands, at the same time firing several revolver shots over his head. Th. then relieved him of $65, a gold watch and several keys.

GET RID OF BEATTY BY SENDING HIM TO STATES

LONDON, Oct. 12. Canadian Press. — The rumor that Earl Beatty (First Lord of the Admiralty) is to be offered the British Ambassadorship at Washington in succession to Sir Auckland Gedesd, is current in naval circles.

According to the Daily Mirror the story is that the authorities want the Earl out of the way because of his strong opposition to the proposal for a reduction in pay of the navy in 1924.

WHY SHOULD THERE BE DEATH WHISPERS

Only the Vigor of Youth Apparent in Canada Today.

VICTORIA, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Canadians should pledge themselves to the task of shattering sectional barriers and silencing apostels of pessimism to the end that Canada may arise from the present period of trial a thorough-going nation, united and confident, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, declared here last night.

The Minister pointed out that Canada was the only country that had participated in the war whose money was at par to-day.

"I ask you have we reason to despair?" he asked. "Seventy per cent. of Canada's national debt is owed to our own citizens. A few years ago most of our borrowings were from other nations, but that time has definitely passed. Why should there be 'whispers of death,' when there is no death, only vigor of youth."

RESIGNATION TO BE ACCEPTED BY OTTAWA CABINET

R. P. Gough Will be Replaced on the Canadian National Board.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press)—Cabinet this afternoon, considered the resignation of R. P. Gough, from Canadian National directorate and it will be accepted. It is understood that resignation is now in hands of Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, acting Premier, but Mr. Fielding declined this morning to discuss the matter. Announcement is also expected of appointment of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, former judge of Supreme Court, to post of Lieutenant Governor of Quebec. This appointment has been forecasted for some time, but it is now believed to have been made, although official confirmation is lacking.

Hon. A. K. McLean of Halifax, is in the Capital and his presence suggests possibility of his early appointment to vacancy on Exchequer Court Bench.

INDEMNITY FOR SLAIN OFFICER

One Million Lire to Family of General Telline Of Italy.

ROME, Oct. 12.—(United Press.)—The Italian government has granted an indemnity of 1,000,000 lire to the family of General Tellini, Italian official whose murder in Epirus resulted in the Corfu incident.

Premier Mussolini, in making the announcement Thursday, stated that smaller indemnities had been granted the families of the other three Italians of the party who were murdered.

The family of Major Corti receives 500,000 lire, that of Lieut. Bonaccini 300,000 lire and that of Farnetti, the General's chauffeur, 200,000 lire.

It is learned that the automobile in which the Italian party was travelling when ambushed, has been shipped to Italy and will be placed in the historical museum at Rome. The machine has just arrived at Brindisi.

WOMAN LED IN BERLIN RIOTS FOR SUPPLIES

Police Reserves Drew Their Swords and Drove the Mobs Away From the Stores.

DICTATORSHIP BILL.

BERLIN, October 13 (United Press).—Led by a wild, screaming woman ,the noted Communist, Frau Ulrich, five hundred demonstrators stormed grocery stores in Berlin yesterday, and at various points made attempts to loot truck loads of produce.

The crowd consisted mostly of housewives, although a few men, roused by their wives' insistence upon action, joined the demonstrators.

When the local police were unable to cope with the situation, reserves were rushed out.

The women attacked these reinforcements, stoning and cursing them.

The police drew their swords, and drove the crowd off, but several were wounded in minor scrimmages.

The Bill was designed to give him special powers to carry out his emergency reforms to keep Germany solvent and check disorders.

Adoption of the measure was obtained when the Reichstag's sergeant-at-arms rounded up enough straggling deputies to ensure the Chancellor's getting a safe, although not too ample, majority, favourable to the grant of emergency power.

The vote makes constitutional the action for rehabilitation that the Stresemann Government plans to take.

BLUDGEON'S ARE USED IN STRIKE

Serious Clash Between British Columbia Union Longshoremen and Strike Breakers—Four Injured.

VANCOUVER, October 13 (Canadian Press). — The fourth day of the longshoremen's strike was marked last night by the first serious clash between strike breakers and the strikers here.

Stealing aboard the Canadian Government Merchant Marine freighter Canadian Highlander, nine alleged strikers attacked sixteen strike-breakers with bludgeons and axes, seriously injured four, and drove the rest from the boat.

The strike-breakers complain that an armed guard on the boat stood by and rendered them no assistance.

There have been several minor clashes also in different parts of the water front.

The strike has extended to Victoria and all ports on the Canadian side of the Pacific Coast, except Prince Rupert.

Both sides are "standing pat," and there is no sign of the resumption of negotiations.

NIAGARA FALLS LOST A FACTORY

A Fire Loss of $200,000—Fire Got a Good Start.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 13. — (Canadian Press),—The big factory of the Dominion Canners at St. David's was destroyed by fire early to-day with the loss of $200,000. The blaze occurred in the early hours and had gained considerable headway before being discovered. Niagara Falls firemen prevented the spread of the blaze to the adjoining storage buildings. Two carloads of sugar, 2 500 bushels of pears, besides 2,000 bushels of peaches and much valuable machinery were destroyed. It is understood there is a hundred thousand dollars insurance on the building. Huge stocks of canned goods were saved through the efforts of the firemen, and an official's estimate of what was saved is $300,000.

The fire was a spectacular one, and attracted people of the district for miles around.

GIANTS COLLAPSE IN SECOND INNINGS AND YANKEES START SCORE

When the Smoke Cleared Away the Yankees Had Nicked the Giants For Six Runs—Got Another in Third.

STORY OF PLAY

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press). — Back across the muddy harlem to-day came the New York Nationals and New York Americans to do battle in the fourth game of the 1923 World's Series.

Awaiting at noon the appearance of the two teams on the field to struggle in the most crucial of the contests so far were between 15,000 and 20,000 fans, who completely filled the small cracker bleachers and more than half of the reserved seats of the double-decked grandstand. Several hundred of them stood in line part of the night, and when the gates were thrown open the bleachers were quickly filled.

It was the nearest approach to summer weather that had been vouchsafed the series.

The fans felt that if the Giants won to-day that once again the Yankees would be battling for a lost cause to-morrow, and the realization of the great ball club going down to defeat in such a close struggle forced a note of melancholy in the amphitheatre.

The squad of Giants came on the field at about twelve and went about their preparations listlessly. The squad of Yankees came on at 12.20. They began to toss the ball with all the appearance of grim determination in their faces. They didn't have the elasticy of yesterday nor the buoyancy of the first day. At 12.30 Wally Pipp, the Yankees' first baseman, who was forced out of yesterday's encounter when he injured his sprained ankle, came to his club's dressing-room to get into his togs, but whether he would get into the line-up still was a question.

There was an appearance of strained relations between the two teams, partly over the ninth inning episode yesterday, in which the Yankees accused Frank Snyder, the Giant catcher, of "tipping" the bat of Aaron Ward when Pitcher Nehf threw over a clean strike in which the Yankee second baseman was called out. There was no jovial bantering nor exchange of mutual expressions of admiration.

Babe Ruth came on the field unobserved and stopped to autograph a score card for a little boy. He stepped into the Yankee dugout, and most of his team-mates who had been practicing went in to sit at his side and discuss their woes. They delivered frequent bulletins on Pipp's condition and talking over him among themselves. His ankle, they said, was black and blue, but that, nevertheless, he was coming out to practice and see if he could make the grade.

The batting order was as follows:

First Innings.

Yankees—Witt singled past Bancroft. Dugan popped to Snyder, trying to bunt. Babe fanned. Bancroft took Meusel's grounder and touched second. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Innings.

Yankees—Pipp singled over second base. Ward singled to centre, Pipp going to second. Scott juggled Schang's sacrifice bunt and the bases were filled. Pipp and Ward scored on Scott's single to left. Schang went to third. Scott was knocked out of the box, the third pitcher to be sent to the bench by the Yankees' bats in the series. Ryan went into the box for the Giants. Schang scored on Shawkey's sacrifice fly to Stengel. Witt got a long hit into left and scored; it was a two-base for Witt. Groh took Dugan's grounder and touched Witt. Ruth walked. Dugan and Ruth scored on Meusel's three-bagger to left. Ryan was knocked out of the box, the second Giant pitcher to be sent back to the bench in this innings. McQuillan went into the box for the Giants. Pipp flied to Stengel. Six runs, five hits, one error.

Giants—Stengel walked. Kelly singled into right. Snyder fouled out to Schang. McQuillan went out, Pipp to Shawkey, Stengel going to third and Kelly to second. Bancroft

Fantastic Story In London Sketch

LONDON, Oct. 13—(Canadian Press).—A story which the Daily Sketch publishes regarding the Prince of Wales and Canada is likely to arouse skeptical laughter here, although the newspaper prints it seriously enough. The Prince's declared attachment to Canada seems to have occasioned much speculation as to whether a change in constitution of Dominion is contemplated.

Among developments which Sketch story heralds is the elevation of the Dominion to status of a kingdom with Prince of Wales as King.

NEW PRODUCTS LOCAL MARKET

Butter Had a Slow Sale—Other Produce Plentiful.

Dairy products were plentiful on the farmers' market this morning, at prices similar to last week's quotations. Butter had a slow sale, from 40 to 38 cents a pound, eggs were selling for 45 to 48 cents a dozen, and there was plenty of fowl, hens at 20 cents and chickens 25 cents a pound ducks at 30 cents.

In the open section, potatoes were down in some carts to $1.50 a bag, with a general price of $1.75. There were lots of apples; Spies at $5.50 a barrel, Rhode Island Greenings at $4.50, a good looking red apple, the Montreal Beauty, at 60 cents a peck and Peewaukies at 50 cents a peck. Overflowing big baskets of little peaches were 60 cents, and grapes 50 cents.

A novelty on the market this morning was winter radish, in black and white, at 5 and 10 cents apiece, or 50 cents a peck. Red cabbage were 15 cents a head.

Three little collie pups in a box at the lowery entrance block the traffic, men and women stopping to stroke the little soft heads, that had a price on them of $2 apiece.

There was spinach at 40 cents a peck little beets in large baskets for 60 cents and small white onions at 75 cents a peck.

The first carload of honey ever shipped out of Peterborough to one consignee went out this week, when a car approximating 27,000 pounds of pure white clover honey went to George A. Stone of Vancouver, B.C. The car was composed entirely of Beckist graded honey, bearing the stamp of the Ontario Honey Producers Co-Operative Association, and was pooled between the apiaries of Brown-Shields, Chas. Brown, Chas. Gouette and Wm. Thompson of Peterborough. An order for a second carload of honey to a western dealer has also been placed in Peterborough and will go out within the next fortnight.

LORD RENFREW IS NOW ON SEA PART JOURNEY

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press).—With very little ceremony the special train bearing Lord Renfrew to Quebec, pulled away from the Windsor Station this morning at 7.45 o'clock.

While there were a number of friends and admirers at the station, anxious to get a peep at him before he left, few were rewarded with success. The Prince retired late after a very busy day, and was asleep when the train started to move. After special luncheon at the Garrison Club he boarded the Empress of France, which sails to-day.

Here Kitty, Kitty, Kitty!

Strong men would be put to flight at the mere sight of one of these pets which little Miss Beth Bailey, 14, of Newport, Minn., is fondling in such unconcerned manner. You've guessed the genus. They're skunks, but quite harmless—if you know 'em, Ruth says, and feed them plenty of muskmelon, their favorite tidbit.

MAN CHARGED WITH MURDER BY HYPNOTISM

Aged Astrologist Alleged to Have Influenced Young Boy to Murder His Step-Mother—Ammonia Used.

TALE OF SORCERY

MARSHFIELD, Oregon, Oct. 13.—(United Press.) — The police today were investigating the strange case of a bed-ridden old man, alleged to have murdered his sister-in-law by means of a boy acting under his hypnotic influence.

The man is Arthur Covell, a widely known astrologist. He is alleged to have hypnotized Allan Covell, 16, and forced the boy to kill his stepmother, Mrs. Fred Covell, by holding a cloth saturated with ammonia, over her face. The astrologist was arrested yesterday and charged with the crime.

The police referred to Covell as "the astrological murderer," and said that the aged man "plotted his crime with the stars." Investigation revealed a setting with all the elements of a sorcerer's tale.

There was Covell, bedfast for years with a broken back, lying on his cot and still carrying out the plans in his ever active mind through the boy, his nephew, who was completely under the spell.

There was Mrs. Covell, who had waited on the old man every day for years, and whom he hated because of her health and strength.

There was the husband, Dr. Fred Covell, who was at first suspected of the murder committed September 4th and held under arrest until the boy told the strange story of acting for the crippled old astrologist, Mrs. Covell doing her housework, the husband away at his office, the boy acting as a body for the mind of the bed-fast old man.

SIR THOMAS WHITE ANSWERS CRITICISMS

GOOD QUALITY ALBERTA COAL WAS RECEIVED

Peterborough Man Reports That His Test was Satisfactory—Quality is Assured by Alberta Government Protection.

NO CHEAP GRADES.

That Alberta coal is in every way superior to anthracite for domestic heating is the statement made to the Examiner on the first post card returned in connection with the test now being conducted in the city.

This man states that the western fuel gave more heat and lighted quicker than the anthracite coal. The quality was good, and he expresses complete satisfaction with the test.

Regarding the quality of Alberta coal, a recent statement of Premier Greenfield of Alberta, is interesting:

Determined efforts will be made to protect the Alberta coal mining industry as well as the coal-consuming public of the east, against abuses of the present marketing service,' he said. Already some ill-advised schemes have been formed, for taking advantage of the reduced freight rate to market inferior grades of coal in Ontario, and offers of low priced fuel have been made in various parts of that province which could only be filled by shipping the cheaper grades or coal mined by surface stripping.

The result would be only disappointment and perhaps permanent injury to the reputation of Alberta's coal, and wildcatting schemes of this kind will be discouraged in every way possible, says the premier, who is of the opinion that the order-in-council just passed by the government, requiring all orders from Ontario to have the approval of the marketing commissioner, will provide a desirable and necessary check on questionable operations of this kind.

Nothing further will be done at the present time, it is stated by Mr. Greenfield in the direction of freight rate reductions. "We shall cultivate the field already open to us," he said when asked about the possibility of a renewed effort along that line. "Sir Henry Thornton has done very well for time being, and we shall on our part do the best we can to furnish the best and cleanest coal that can be produced in Alberta, so that the eastern consumers may really be able to judge of its merits. Future freight rates will then take care of themselves.'

MALE VOICE CHOIR OPEN TO ALL MEN

Object of Choir is to Foster Male Voice Work.

The Peterborough Male Voice Choir opens its winter season on Tuesday next, 16th October, at the Greene Music Company's studio, under direction of M. B. Chenhall, and extends a cordial invitation to all men interested in vocal work to be present.

Membership in the choir is open to all men in the city, irrespective of creed or policy. The object of the organisation is to foster male voice work and to improve the standard of vocal music generally.

The visit this week to the city of the Rhondda Male Glee Singers gave an impetus to the choir, in the example afforded of perfection in such work ,by constant and careful training, and the local Male Voice Choir, with a reputation for good work to live up to, hopes this season to surpass in excellence its previous high record.

BELGIAN GOVERNMENT PLAN USED AS BASIS

Three Allied Governments Favor Its Submission to Commission.

BRUSSELS, October 13. Canadian Press. — The Belgian government has invited the French, British and Italian Governments to refer to the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission, the Belgian reparations plan submitted to the allied governments on June 6th last to be used by the commission as a basis of concrete plan of German reparations in the impending negotiations.

It is officially stated that the three allied governments have acceded to the Belgian proposal and that the Reparation Commision will undertake a study of the Belgian suggestions.

The Belgian action is made known in a communique made public to-day by the Belgian official nesw agency reading:

"The Belgian Government has called the attention of the French, British and Italian governments to technical studies of the reparation problem recommended by the Brussels government to the allied governments, suggesting the advisability that they be examined by the Reparation Commission. These technical investigations indicate the methods by which Germany could pay her debt.

"The Belgian Government feels that these reports are destined to serve, partially at least, as a basis for a concrete reparation plan.

"In submitting them to the allies she had only one purpose, namely, to assist in bringing about a practical solution of the reparation problem. The Belgian government had thaught that when Reichs should have abandoned its policy of resistance, fulfilling a condition upon which, according to the French and Belgian communique of June 6th, the question of the resumption of negotiations hung, it would be extremely desirable for the allies to be in accord concerning a solution of the reparation question.

OBTAIN GOOD RESULTS IN TESTS OF FIRE DRILL IN THE CITY SCHOOLS

Fire Chief Gimblett Paid Surprise Visit Yesterday, Holding a Stop Watch on Exit of Scholars—No Drill or Gong In Collegiate.

HASTE NOT SOUGHT

Public and Separate schools in the city were surprised by Fire Chief George Gimblett on Thursday and Friday when he visited them without warning and rang the fire alarm in each building. Results, the Chief said, were very satisfactory, only minor irregularities being discovered. Some improvements were suggested and recommendations will be made to the Board of Education, but the general standard for quickness in clearing the building and system in preparing for the eventuality of fire brought warm commendation from Chief Gimblett.

In the matter of discipline and steadiness under the excitement attending a fire alarm, the peer of city schools is probably St. Peter's Separate school, where the children moved from their class rooms to the playground in wonderful order. There are three floors in this school, connected by two narrow stairways, and 450 pupils were in class rooms when the alarm was sounded. In 1 minute and 47 seconds every child was out of the school. There was no running or pushing, the entire manouevre being carried out in perfect order.

Another interesting feature in this school, not connected with the inspection, but arising out of it, was the return of the pupils. Three boys form an orchestra which plays a march, to which the pupils keep perfect time in their return to the class rooms. The girls were especially good on the march.

St. Peter's Convent.

Chief Gimblett did not give warning of his visit, and the schools were taken by surprise. He was accompanied by a fireman who tested the doors to see that they opened easily.

At Peter's convent the 220 pupils were clear of the building in 40 1-2 seconds. There was a litte running during the exit here, but this will be corrected. It is the desire of the Chief to inculcate a spirit of steadiness in the drills which may avoid a fall, with consequent disorganization.

That the children were "on their toes" is shown by an incident in this school. While the Fire Chief was working with the bell when the pupils were on their way to the class rooms after the alarm, he unintentionally rang the gong. The smallest pupils immediately turned and ran out of the building, thinking a second alarm had been sounded.

King Edward School.

What promiesd to be a small stampede at King Edward school, resolved itself into a splendid plan of operation that was noticed in many other schools. When the alarm was sounded about a dozen big boys rushed madly along the corridors to the doors, and by the time the first of the orderly rows of pupils arrived, the doors were thrown open and held by these boys .The 497 pupils in this school cleared the building in 1 minute, 6 1-4 seconds. The stairways are wide and the corridors have none of the corners which cause delay at St. Peter's.

Queen Mary School.

In 52 seconds the 475 pupils at Queen Mary school were out of the building. Chief Gimblett remarked on the cleanliness and care in storage shown in the basement.

He congratulated Malcolmn Clarke, the principal of the school, on the speed in which the children carried out the drill, and made suggestions which will relieve congestion ot one point.

Prince of Wales School.

There was some running when the alarm was rung in at the Prince of Wales school. There are 16 rooms and 650 pupils in this school, and the clearing time was 58 1-4 seconds. The boiler room was neat and clean and fitted with fireproof doors. The classes were well divided as to exits ,and fitted in very well, the pupils from the upper floor arriving at the foot of the stairs just as the downstairs pupils cleared the hall.

Collegiate Institute.

No fire alarm, no fire drill, and some locked doors were the conditions that greeted the Fire Chief at the Collegiate Institute. The first teacher interrogated did not know where there was an alarm, and diligent search failed to uncover a bell. Chief Gimblett found that no fire drills are held at this school, and there is no means of alarm, this being the only school visited where such a condition exists.

In the South Central School there is no system of fire drill, but there are two fire gongs. The teachers of the Public School classes there give their classes individual instruction in fire drill.

Doors Were Locked.

At South Central School two outside doors were found locked.

Sacred Heart Separate School was visited but an alarm was not rung by Chief Gimblett, as he inadvertently gave notice of his presence.

PETERBOROUGH IN WHO'S WHO

Sons of This City Who Have Written Their Names With the Country's Great Men.

Under the above caption, the Examiner will print daily the story of a native of Peterborough who is listed in "Who's Who and Why," which is described as "A biographical record of men and women of the time."

Many Peterborough old boys have succeeded in business and are now powers in the financial world. One is Chief Engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway; another is a grain and lumber king in Western Canada and a third is Registrar of a University.

Signs and Omens

"The child who plays with matches will gain experience."

One of the advantages in the match over the old flint lock is its quickness. Unfortunately the match is no respecter of seasons. It will go off just as quickly when you don't want it to as when you deliberately strike it on the box—if you treat it wrong.

One way to misuse matches is to place them near stove pipes. The makers don't guarantee them to explode when subjected to this test, but one test will be a sufficient lesson.

Another time a match may light with disastrous results is in the hands of children. If not for the sake of the home and contents, then for the sake of the children whose clothing may become a burning shroud through careless play with matches, keep the box on a high shelf. Two hundred children were burned to death in Canada last year.

Matches are useful, but have in their way a potentiality for evil as great as any high-explosive shell.

FIVE YEARS IN KINGSTON COOP

That is What it Cost Two Men to Escape From Guelph.

GUELPH, Oct. 13. — (Canadian Press).—Six hours of French leave and the theft of two suits of clothes from the home of Mrs. Lehman at Aberfoyle yesterday cost two Toronto men, Alvin McKenzie and Ed. Williams, five years in the penitentiary, in addition to completing their term of imprisonment in the Ontario Reformatory. They both escaped yesterday while at work on the prison farm, and after paying a visit to Aberfoyle, proceeded towards Hamilton, but were overtaken by guards and recaptured.

They were sentenced in court this morning.

PEOPLE HAVE QUEER SPOTS TO HIDE KEY

Families With Only One Key to Front Door Make Ingenuous Plans for Secreting It—Amusing and Troublesome.

WHAT'S THE USE?

Any observant person in Peterborough knows that almost every family has a hiding place for the front door key where father may find it if he comes home while mother is still "calling". Few families, it seems are fully equipped with keys, and it is necessary to have a common key for the entire family.

Ingenuous plans are often elaborated whereby the key is not hidden two days in succession in the same place. By this plan if an enterprising burglar saw the key being removed from under the mat on Sunday and lifted the same mat on Monday he would find that the ingenuity of the family had foiled him by moving the key to the door transom.

An inquiring reporter took note of some of the hiding places and found the height of ingenuity was reached by an Aylmer street resident when departing on his holidays. This wise man locked his door, climbed through a window, hung the key in the hall, and went out to his holidays through the window. The window remained unfastened all through his vacation, but he rested content in the assurance that his front door was securely locked with the key on the inside. The key, at any rate was safe.

A lady just around the corner on Sherbrooke street locked the front door and slipped the key underneath. On her return from uptown a great deal of unsuccessful fishing with a bent hairpin failed to retrieve it, and hubby was compelled to secure a ladder and enter by an upstairs window.

Some Hiding Places

People who have spring locks on their doors frequently forget to fasten the latch back and thereby lock themselves outdoors. The opposite was true of a man in the south end who affixed a patent lock of this nature on the wrong side of his door.

A family on Brock street puts the key in the letter box when going out, and neighbours hang the key to the front door in the back porch. Under the verandah mat is a common hiding place—so common that it has ceased to be a secret and prompts the question "what's the use." Other usual parking places for keys are on the ledge over the door, in crevices in the verandah, in flower pots under foliage and behind the venetian shutter on a nearby window.

Among the more uncommon places for the secreting of keys are a bird house, used by a family on Lock street; under the verandah step, an Aylmer street hiding place; on a lady under the verandah table, used by a McDonnel street family, and in the fork of a tree, observed at a Water street residence.

Found by Code

A code has been arranged by a Bolivar street gentleman who will now be compelled to change it avoid detection. The first letter in each day gives the secret to the location of the key. Here is his code: Sunday, shutter; Monday—mat; Tuesday—transom; Wednesday — window; Thursday—table; Friday—flower pot and Saturday—step.

One family on Wescott street had only one key to the front door, but several fitted the lock on the tool shed. Every member of the large family carried a key to the tool shed door, and the house key was hung on a nail inside. To enter the house it was necessary to unlock the tool house, get the house key, lock the tool shed door and walk back to the hall door.

What's the use? If these hiding places could be observed by a casual passer-by what could not be done in the way of breaking and entering by a person bent on mischief?

A sense of security to the householder is all that comes of hiding the front door key in these places.

WHAT HURTS CANADA HURTS THE STATES

Declares New York Herald Commenting on Possibility of War.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. —(Canadian Press.)—Speeches made in Canada by Right Hon. David Lloyd George, are being eagerly followed here and throughout the United States. His Toronto speech has created a great deal of discussion, being interpreted by several writers here as a warning to Canada that another war is impending.

The Herald says to-day the former Premier "practically served notice on Canada that another war is brewing in Europe.

"That means that Canada will march again, for where the British Empire is seriously threatened, there the Dominion will be found," it says.

"That brings the armament race rather closer to the United States than it has been heretofore. What hurts Canada hurts the United States indirectly. Whatever hinders progressive economic development of Canada injures our own economic development, so closely bound together are these two nations."

The Times comments on the Toronto speech in a somewhat less pessimistic tone. It takes the view that despite the situation in Europe, the nations do not want war, and will not seriously consider it.

VITAL PUBLIC SERVANTS

There are three public servants—your doctor your dentist and your music teacher the selection of which should not be left to random choice because it is essential to your physical well being that each in his particular profession shall be a master of that profession. The singing teacher as well as the doctor or the dentist should be able to correctly diagnose and prescribe in every case.

The health of one who may be receiving instruction in piano or violin playing may be in no danger even though the instruction be of the poorest. Not so in the matter of voice culture this being a procedure the success of which depends upon the exactness with which the pupil follows the instruction of the singing teacher who knows—one who has passed beyond the experimental stage.

The singing teacher worthy of the name is one who has attained proficiency in the art of singing and who then by analysis of this personal achievement together with much practice in instructing others finally becomes the skilled teacher and is as great a blessing to his pupil as is the great doctor or the skilled dentist to the patient.

As an exercise for the promotion of health there is scarcely any exercise so wonderfully helpful as singing when correctly done and it is equally true that there is scarcely anything more destructive to health than singing when incorrectly practiced.

MONTREAL MAN IS HUNTED FOR GIRL'S MURDER

Strangled While Asleep in a New York Rooming House — Evidence of Struggle.

POLICE HAVE CLUE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12. — Police to-night broadcast description of a man, believed to be the son of a Montreal minister, whose West 97th Street room adjoined that of Miss Estelle Phillips, attractive department store executive, until this morning, when her mutilated and almost nude body was found on the floor near her bed.

While a futile search for the suspect was being made police assembled from bits of evidence in the room and on the body, a connected story of the murder. They believe the assault was committed by a degenerate who entered the room while Miss Phillips was asleep and strangled her before she could call for help.

A hang bag containing four cents, found open at her feet, investigators think was left by the murderer to give the appearance of robbery as the motive of the crime. A towel was knotted about the dead woman's throat and there was evidences of a desperate struggle.

A Montreal Train

Detectives said a man closely answering the description of the suspect was seen boarding a train for Montreal to-night. The desription of the suspected man was sent throughout eastern Canada and the States. The man had identified himself to be a fellow employee in an uptown hospital as the son of Montreal clergyman, the police learned. He took the room in the 97th Street house a week ago. Miss Phillips had lived there six years.

Miss Katherine Meiteria, friend of the murdered woman and an occupant of the 97th Street house, gave the best description of the suspect after she had found Miss Phillips dead when she entered the room to arouse her this morning. She said she was awakened shortly after mid night by "smothered, gargling sounds" from the direction of Miss Phillips' room. Alarmed, she arose and lighted the gas.

Saw Roomer Leave

She said she heard steps in the hall half an hour later. Opening her door, she peered out and saw the man starting downstairs. His room separated hers from Miss Phillips'. The man wore a cap and carried a suitcase and an army overcoat on his arm, she said.

Curious at the hour of his departure, Miss Meitria said she went to the window and watched him board a surface car. The man who boarded the Montreal train, beside answering the same personal description, wore the same sort of clothes and cap and carried a suitcase and an army coat similar to that seen by Miss Meitria.

RADIOGRAMS.

There are no fewer than 4,000,000 radio receiving sets in operation throughout the United States.

According to estimates, one home in every six in Pittsburgh, Pa., is equipped with a radio receiving set.

Messages are now sent by radio from New York to Italy, a distance of 4,500 miles, in one-fortieth of a second.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is an ardent radio fan, and derives much pleasure from her set, which is a large one of improved type in the White House, in Washington.

There are 566 broadcasting stations in the United States and seven in outlying possessions. Canada has 30 radiophone stations; England six; France five; Germany one; Belgium one; Czechoslovakia one, and China one.

Stops Dance Of Teachers

SUDBURY, October 13 (Canadian Press). — An example of discipline not on the programme was given at the Public School Teachers' District Convention at 11.20 last night when Inspector D. M. Christie bounded on to the floor where the reception to visitors was being held at the High Shcool, and rang the school bell for attention.

He declared young men were smoking cigarettes in the halls, and ordered the dance to cease at once.

The dance was not on the official programme, but the teachers, mostly women, had invited young men, and the dance naturally followed.

ELEVEN KILLED IN FOOD RIOTS

Shops Pillaged in Cologne and Solingen in British Occupied Territory.

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 12.— The disorders which began last evening at Solingen, in British occupied territory, continued to-day the casualty list now totalling eleven dead including the Commissary of Police, and thirty-five wounded. Many stores have been pillaged. The British troops have not yet interfered. Other unemployed men are marching from Grafrath to help their comrades.

At Hoecht, where 2,000 unemployed besieged the City Hall, the German police fired on the crowd, killing one and wounding ten others.

The pillaging also continued today at Cologne, and the police fired when the crowd stoned them.

Plundered Warehouses.

COLOGNE, Oct. 12.—A number of casualties, including at least one fatality, occurred here late yesterday when crowds, aroused because of the high prices, began attacking and plundering warehouses and food shops and became engaged in clashes with the police.

In several instances wagons and automobiles hauling food supplies through the streets were attacked and the provisions carried away.

Increase Relief.

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 12.— The French authorities conferred to-day with the German officials and representatives of the employers and unemployed regarding plans for relieving the distress of the people here. After obtaining approval form Berlin, the city agreed to increase the amount of relief for the unemployed to three hundred and fifty million marks each daily, with an additional fifty million to heads of families, but as even this is admittedly inadequate the city officials are trying to induce the Berlin Government to augment it. Free soup kitchens are being considered.

The French cavalry to-day was patrolling the streets and the population was forbidden to move about after ten o'clock at night.

CHEMIST'S FEE ON LEVEL WITH BALL PLAYER'S

Comment in Controversy Over Remuneration of Analysts For Government.

FEE AGREED UPON.

OTTAWA, October 12. Canadian Press. — "If this estimate of Mr. Grattan's be aproximately correct, then the per diem revenue of the chemists if based on your recommendation of twenty-five dollars per sample, would approach almost to that of a professional ball player, which you would agree might be considered as extravagant by the interested public."

This paragraph is taken from a letter written by G. N. Clark, Dominion Seed Commissioner, in a controversy which has been going on recently in chemical circles and between chemists and the Dominion government. The discussion grew out of the action of the Department of Agriculture in appointing certain "official analysts recently to examine feeding stuffs and fertilizers."

Fee was Fixed.

The controversy has had to do somewhat with the formation by these "official analysts" of "the Canadian Association of Official Analysts," but has centred largely around the fee paid by the government for the work. This fee, which was fixed at a conference between the "official analysts"—who are largely attached to universities and other institutions of learning—and government officials, is fifteen dollars for a complete analysis.

In the course of the controversy L. E. Westman of Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Institute of Chemistry, wrote to the seed commissioner, protesting against the low fees paid by the government.

"I think," said he in a second letter to Mr. Clark, "that the point of the whole question is that the fee given to any analyst you appoint who is a university professor should be quite a little above that which would be considered satisfactory by a commercial laboratory. Perhaps $25 would be much nearer the mark than $15, which I understand is now offered for a complete analysis."

Two Samples a Day.

It was to this letter that the Seed Commissioner made the reply quoted at the opening of this despatch. He quoted in support of his statement an opinion given by George E. Grattan, a chemist in the service of the department.

APPOINT BRODEUR QUEBEC GOVERNOR

Succeeds Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick at End of October.

OTTAWA, October 13 (Canadian Press). — Hon. Louis Philippe Brodeur was yesterday appointed by the Government to be Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, succeeding Sir Charles Fitzpatrick.

The announcement was made last night by the Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, Acting Prime Minister, who said that the appointment would take effect from 31st October.

FIRST CHINESE GIRL TO GO AS MISSIONARY

Born in B.C., Dr. Victoria Chung Leaves for Fatherland.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 13.—(Special).—Dr. Victoria Chung, the first Canadian-born Chinese girl to go as a missionary to the land of her forefathers, has sailed on the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Australia to assume her duties under the Canadian Presbyterian Board at Kongmoon South China.

Dr. Chung was born in Victoria, B.C., and graduated in medicine from Toronto University, having served as an interne during the past year at the Toronto General Hospital. Miss Agnes Dulmage, of Toronto, joined Dr. Chung here and will take charge of the Girls' School at Kongmoon after enjoying a furlough in Canada.

QUEBEC PROHIBITION WAS FORMED RECENTLY

MONTREAL, October 13 (Canadian Press). — The Quebec Prohibition Federation of the Quebec branch of the Prohibition Federation of Canada was formed here yesterday at the Provincial Convention of Temperance forces.

Only three dissenting votes were cast against the proposal.

The purpose of the new organisation, as stated in the constitution, is "the total suppression of the liquor traffic through the closest possible co-operation and unity of action of all temperance forces of the Province; the promotion of a systematic and vigorous policy of education among the youth and electorate of the Province, and the securing of the most vigilant and effective enforcement of the existing temperance law."

There will be four standing committees: Finance, Education, Legislation, and Law-Enforcement.

Officers of the new organisation were elected.

Troops Quit Rail Heads

DUSSELDORF, October 13 (Canadian Press). — The Belgian troops have evacuated the railway stations at Duisburg, Ruhrort, and Hamborn, it is announced by the German newspapers, and the French soldiers.... have been withdrawn from the North Essen Station, re-opening traffic over the German-Operated line between Essen and unoccupied Germany by way of Dorsten.

This will afford better facilities for the provisioning of Essen and the other Ruhr centres.... by German-operated trains.

RETAIL TRADE SATISFACTORY

Hardware and Grocery Reports Indicate Steady Business.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13. — The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Limited states:

HALIFAX — Wholesalers find slight increase in business in seasonal lines. Retail conditions fair to good. Collections fair.

ST. JOHN —Satisfactory conditions reported in wholesale line still continues. Retail trade as the season advances, shows more activity. Collections improving.

MONTREAL — Wholesalers generally reporting an increase in orders over the same period of last year. Hardwar, fairly satisfactory owing to the building activities in the city. Groceries report fair business in staple lines. Retail business continues fair. Collections slow but with continued shipment of grain better collections are looked for.

TORONTO—Wholesale trade generally reports improvement both in sales and collections. Retail trad, a little better. Building trade still busy and employment situation fairly satisfactory.

WINNIPEG—Wholesale houses confined to Manitoba territory report little change in general conditions but those covering the western provinces report better volume. Retail trade fair. Collections fair.

REGINA — Wholesale business holding steady. Retail trade quiet as yet, but improvement looked for Collections slightly improved.

SASKATOON—Wholesale trade much improved and retail slowly improving. Collections also show some sight advancement.

CALGARY—Practically all lines both wholesale and retail report improvement in business and feeling of optimism prevailing. Grain markетings have not shown much effect on collections yet but substantial betterment expected.

VANCOUVER, Wholesale grocery and hardware good average; dry good, fair; boots and shoes slow. Retail trade fair. Fine weather influencing fall goods trade. Collections, wholesale hardware good, other lines fair.

CURLEY WILSHUR DEFENDED TITLE

TORONTO, October 13 (Canadian Press). — Curly Wilshur, of Toronto, successfully defended his newly won title of Canadian featherweight champion here last night, when he completely out-folght and outclassed Joey Fox, of England, in a ten-round bout.

After the first two rounds, in which it looked to those at the ringside that Wilshur was destined to be a short-lived champion, he cut loose with fierce body fighting, and for the remainder of the tussle the English boy was on the receiving end.

Fox showed up well in the opening rounds, and worried Wilshur with a straight left, which he poked continuously into Wilshur's face, but from that on Wilshur dropped boxing and started the third round with a body attack, which carried him to victory by a wide margin.

He was the aggressor for eight rounds, and weakened Fox with trip hammer blows to the body.

Although the Englishman was forced to command all his ringcraft and boxing ability to protect himself, and was holding on in the last two rounds, Wilshur had not sufficient sting behind his blows to win with a knockout.

Both boys weighed under the featherweight limit at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and the bout was announced as being for the featherweight title.

In the preliminaries, Chris. Newton, of Montreal, and George Fifield, of Toronto, fought eight slow rounds to a draw at 136 pounds. Newton had a slight edge in the first stages of the fight, but was unable to hold it to the finish.

FLEET PARADE THROUGH LOCK AT THE SAULT

Grain Vessels Held Up By Fog — Thirty Remained Last Night.

SEVERAL WRECKS.

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich Oct. Press Cable)—The Prince of Wales 13.—Yesterday was perhaps the busiest day of St. Mary's Locks this year. With the clearing of the fog the big fleet of steamers which have been held up began to move slowly. Fog conditions were not greatly improved when darkness set in last night. Vessels were however making some headway so that at dusk about thirty steamers remained below the locks to be locked through.

Another collision was reported yesterday afternoon when the steamer Steinbrenner returned to the Soo with several plates smashed in on her starboard side.

DENIAL BY PREMIER OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Says Prohibition and the Ferguson Reports Are Both False.

ST. JOHN, N.B. Oct 13.—In a telegram to the Telegraph Journal last night from Bathurst, Premier Venoiot says:

'Press despatch from Quebec quoting me as saying that in a speech he fore the Reform Club I favored Quebec Liquor Law for New Brunswick is absolutely false and without any foundation whatever. The only reference made by me at the meeting to liquor laws was to the 'wet condition' existing there. Prohibition in New Brunswick was not discussed by me in private or public. The statement in the despatch touching regulation seventeen of the Ontario School Law is equally false. I discussed informally with Premier Ferguson the question of teaching French in schools generally but he nuever pronounced himself to me on the regulation in question. I was vry much impressed by his broadess of view touching the relations that should exist between English and French people in Canada and when I spoke at the Reform Club, I felt it my duty to refer to his attitude in his respect. I said nothing that could be interpreted as referring to the Ontario school question much less the repeal of Regulation XVII. I entirely refused to give interviews on any subject while in Montreal or Quebec City"

LITTLE HOPE FOR REVIVAL OF TRADE

Decline in Foreign Currencies Followed Mr. Curzon's Speech At Imperial Conference.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press Cable).—European conditions are not such as to inspire the stock markets with cheerfulness, and it is interesting to note how sensitive the foreign exchanges are to political events. Following Foreign Minister Curzon's speech at the Imperial conference last week on reparations there was an immediate decline in forign currencies of the allied countries. A better tendency followed but the uncertainty of the political situation on the continent affords little hope at present of a revival in trade.

French francs have fluctuated and shown a slight improvement but French national bonds have been depressed. The position has had a detrimental effect on stock market operations and the volume of business has been small.

But there are bright features. British government securties continue to command attention, particularly the five per cent war loan. There has also been a good market this week for colonial government issues. The successful flotation of the state of Victoria and the Australian Commonwealth loans amounting together to £16,500,000, absorbed within a fortnight, have been followed by a loan for the Nigeria government of £5,700,000. It is in four per cent inscribed stock and matures in 1963, the issue price being 88.

In the foreign bond section Japanese issues have continued steady. There has been mention of the early issue of a loan by the Japanese government part of which was to be placed in New York. The suggestion is heard that the loan will be of short duration, probably ten years.

The mining market, although business is restricted, has shown greater firmness and Rhodesian issues have displayed some activity. Canadian shares are now attracting increased attention following the general meeting of the Huronian belt company limited.

The home railway market has brightened but trading in industrials has been dull particularly those of the manufacturing type. In the tea share market buying has lately shown a slackening tendency with reaction in prices but the week closed with signs of recovery.

LONDON CONFERS FREEDOM CITY ON VISITING PREMIERS

Ancient Ceremonial in Investment of Cherished Honors—Sworn to Keep the King's Peace.

LONDON, October 12. — (Special Cable to the Canadian Press by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent.) — When with old world ceremonial London to-day conferred her honorary freedom on the premiers of Great Britain, Canada and Australia, the city compurgators in ancient phrase declared them to be "men of good name and fame, who do not desire to defraud the city, but would 'pay their Scot and bear their lot.'"

(Compurgation was the ancient practice of clearing an accused person by the oaths of several others, called compurgators, usually twelve of them, who swore to their belief in his innocence.)

Standing, each of the trio of premiers took the oath to keep the king's peace in my own person."

Premier Baldwin, both at the Guild Hall, where the ceremony took place, and in his after lunch speech in the Mansion House, stressed the necessity of the development of the Empire for meeting "the gravest problem of unemployment this country ever had to face." He felt confident, he said, that a solutoin would be found for the grave troubles that now confrontd the empire. Canning's policy had been to call in the new world to redress the balance of the old, and "we call into our councils those representatives of the great dominions overseas in the new world that we may see by taking council together whether it be not posible, as I know it is, to redress the balance in our old world troubles by so developing our inheritance that there may be open before our people and theirs a fairer inheritance in the future than any of us has yet enjoyed."

Premier Bruce urged the business men to unite with the statesmen in helping to solve the present economic difficulties.

DOMINIONS TO TEACH BRITAIN PROTECTION

APPROACH WOMEN.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(Associated Press.)— Although there seems to be little possibility of the British Government adopting a general protectionist policy, the indications are that the Dominions intend to give the Mother Country an intensive educational course in the principles of protection. It is understood Premier Bruce of Australia intends to remain in Great Britain after the Imperial Conference has adjourned and will travel extensively through the Provinces, explaining the details of the preferential programme and pointing out the benefits which he considers Great Britain, as well as the Dominions, would gain from it.

The Liberal leaders do not fear any immediate change in the Government's policy. They view any general increase in the taxation on foodstuffs as unthinkable. They consider Prime Minister Baldwin's Cabinet is held by former Premier Bonar Law's pledge to maintain the general fiscal policy approved by the voters at the last general election.

Drift Toward Tariffs.

The free traders, however, are well aware that the Government, by attempting to placate the overseas protectionists with a few morsels of dried fruit sugar and tobacco, have taken action which heads towards tariff mazes from which the Government may have the greatest difficulty in receding.

Having met with partial success in receiving the promise of preference for fruits, the Dominions are considered likely to continue to urge similar consideration for all of their products ,for although the expres-

BOARD AND $100 A MONTH WAGES FOR WOODSMEN

Scarcity of Lumberjacks Ascribed As Cause of Unprecedented Offers.

HARVESTERS PASS BY.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Lumber jobbers in the Gatineau Valley are now offering the heretofore unheard of wage of $100 per month and board to woodsmen for their services during the coming winter. Jobbers' bushmen last year were paid between $40 and $45 a month with board, which is the wage being paid by the lumber companies this year. The advance is due, according to local employment agents, to the scarcity of bush labor in the Gatineau.

At present it is estimated, about 10,000 more lumberjacks could be employed by the various lumber companies who operate in the Gatineau and Ottawa valleys. Some relief to the existing shortage is expected in the return of easterners who went west for the harvest. Some of these are returning east, but very few are coming to the Ottawa district. In the majority of cases those who are returning from the west are going through to New Brunswick and Nova Scotia

A train bearing 300 returning harvesters arrived at Ottawa to-day but of these only three stopped here, the remainder continuing to Montreal and the Maritimes.

EGG.

An egg sells for nearly $1600 in London. It was laid by a Great Auk, bird now extinct. Only 70 of these eggs exist, which explains the high price. Scarcity is a hypnotist. For all useful purposes, the egg of a Great Auk is worth less than a plain chicken egg—fresh out of the cop, or even from cold storage.

After our actual necessities are supplied, value is largely imaginary —matter of self-hypnotism or hypnosis of others.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1923.

A CANADIAN GAIN.

It is impossible to conjure up any feeling of regret or any sense of loss at the departure from Canada of Mrs. Hector Prenter, who has been one of the Communist leaders in this country, and who has gone to California because of her health, and also to carry on propaganda in the interests of the militant section of the Labour movement.

For many years Mrs. Prenter has done little else in this country but attempt to stir up trouble.

Her energy and zeal if directed into useful channels might have made her a most valuable citizen.

She chose instead to preach enmity toward the "capitalistic system" and to babble on many platforms of the "working-class war for freedom," and other high sounding but meaningless phrases so popular with agitators of her like.

If there has not been a revolution in Canada the credit cannot be given to this misguided woman whose decision to take up residence in California is the only helpful thing she has ever done for this country.

Mrs. Prenter might have been of even more service in this respect had she persuaded some of her Communist associates to go with her.

All of them have outstayed their welcome in Canada.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

Down in Quebec they are discussing a proposal that will come before the next session of the Legislature in the form of a bill making it necessary for farmers who drive cattle along the road after dark to carry a red light as a precaution against accidents.

There have been not only in Quebec, but in this Province as well, many cases in which motor cars and wandering cows have collided in the dark, sometimes with disastrous results to the car, and often to both, and the proposed legislation would do much to avert such collisions.

In Ontario, far from taking any steps to protect the travelling public from accidents of this kind, we have not yet got to the stage when we are willing even to make it compulsory for all vehicles to carry lights after nightfall.

Horse-drawn vehicles unilluminated are found in numbers every night on the highways of the Province, a constant menace to the safety of the public.

For some unaccountable reason the majority of farmers seem to prefer to run the risk rather than to take the trouble of providing their vehicles with lights, and hitherto with a Legislature in which farmers predominated there has been no chance to secure legislation that would make conditions safer on the highways.

One of the first acts of the new Legislature should be to introduce a bill compelling every vehicle that travels on the roads to carry lights after dark.

A PUBLIC LOSS.

The resignation of Grant MacNeil, Dominion Secretary of the G.W.V.A., principally because the funds necessary to carry on the work of the organization, are exhausted, should be a matter of regret, not only to returned soldiers, but to citizens of Canada genearlly.

More than the ex-service men owe a debt of gratitude to ex-Secretary MacNeil and his associates, for it should never be forgotten that they gave the organization sane leadership when Harry Flynn and his gratuity demands threatened to cause a world of trouble.

Conditions were ripe at that stage for the development of a nasty situation.

As one contemporary puts it, "Men like Grant McNeil and R. B. Maxwell were the pillars of strength in the organization that resisted Harry Flynn and the $2,000 gratuity demand at a time when destructive forces in Canada might have set the heather on fire."

Thanks to McNeil and other leaders, the G.W.V.A. refused to be stampeded by selfish demands for something they knew was impossible to be conceded.

Instead the efforts of the organization were directed along constructive lines, leading to measures which have greatly bettered the position of the returned soldier and of the dependents of those who gave up their lives.

It would be a pity indeed if the movement were to be allowed to disappear now, and the branches in every centre should put their shoulder to the wheel.

Here in Peterborough the membership campaign of the local branch is a direct challenge to every veteran.

The bugle is calling; how many volunteers will come forward and help save the day for an orgization that has steadfastly fought for the interests of returned soldiers since the day it was launched.

WHO PAYS THE FIRE BILL?

The American people could save up to $500,000,000 a year by taking fire risks more seriously, says the New York Herald. Practically the only fires that are truly accidental, in the sense that they are beyond human control, are those caused by lightning, and proper lightning rods would prevent many of these. In investigating the causes of other fires underwriters usually find that somebody neglected his or her duty or blundered in the doing of it.

This national fire loss is a charge of $20 a year upon each of the 25,000,000 families in the United States. The direct losers from the fire are paid off to a certain extent by insurance companies; but the money thus disbursed comes from premiums which enter into the cost of all products.

The consuming public pays the fire bill eventually, and also pays the cost of collecting the premiums and administering the fire insurance business.

Fire insurance is a meritorious and serviceable business; but the companies and agencies engaged therein make no bones of saying that the country would be better off if the scope of their business were reduced. The fire insurance interests back this anti-fire propaganda to the limit.

The National Fire Protection Association has been working since 1895 to reduce the fire losses of this country. It has studied the subject scientifically and financially, and it has come to the conclusion that the great obstacle to fire prevention is simply the recklessness and carelessness of the public. This week, with its program of lectures, exhibits and motion picture films, ought to carry the lesson home to many a heedless individual who unthinkingly risks lives and property by not taking proper precautions against fire.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

This is Fire Prevention Week, and it seems to be arousing rather less than the usual amount of attention. Perhaps there is some discouragement; the movement certainly has not had the hoped-for effect of diminishing to any evident extent the appalling ravages of the fire demon. Yet, had it not been for these efforts in the past, the situation may have been even more regrettable than it is. No one can estimate the actual gain resulting from these annual campaigns to stir up the public conscience as to the menace, and the duty devolving upon every individual to reduce that menace by every means in his or her power.

One thing is quite certain, and that is that carelessness plays a big part in the unhappy condition which prevails. There is, it is certain, criminality as well as carelessness. Deliberate, wilful destruction accounts for a deplorable proportion of the total fire loss. It is, of course, idle to appeal to the criminal-minded to exercise care and adopt the precautionary measures recommended. But when this vicious class has been eliminated from the reckoning, there remains a great body of perfectly innocent people—innocent, that is, of wrong intention—who are nevertheless responsible to an astonishing degree for the unfavorable showing presented by the fire statistics of this country. It is to such as these that the appeal is made.

It ought not to be necessary to impress upon parents the duty of keeping matches out of reach of their little ones. It should not be necessary, either, to persuade householders to get rid of the accumulated rubbish cluttering up their premises, which is as dangerous as it is untidy. There is such a thing as spontaneous combustion, though the majority of people entirely ignore that fact, and there is no disputing the wisdom of relegating inflammable material—especially when it is past being of service to the possessor—to the ashbin. As for those hoarded-up stocks of old clothes, which are never likely to be needed again, there are charitable institutions who can make use of them, or rummage sales—and there are the rag-peddlers, for the commercially minded; anywhere rather than in the attic, to be consumed by moths and to add to the risk of fire. Similarly, with the hoards of old paper; they should be got rid of without delay.

Having cleaned up the home, there is the question of personal habit. Familiarity breeds contempt. Civilization has made us used to many wonderful conveniences. We have our electrical appliances of all descriptions, our gas apparatus, our heaters—and last, but by no means least, our extremely convenient matches. The safety variety, which strike only on a prepared surface, are not, unfortunately, in favor in Canada, and that makes the necessity of carefulness in the use of this indispensable article the more imperative. If people could be induced to exercise greater precaution in the use of this one commodity, the resultant saving in the loss of life and property would undoubtedly be very great indeed. Here are simple ways in which everybody can help the campaign in the most effective manner.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

If you have seen to it that your home is cleared of inflammable rubbish, Fire Prevention Week will not have been in vain.

IMPERIAL PREMIERS ARE GIVEN FREEDOM OF CITY

LONDON, Oct. 12 (United Press.—The Labors of the Imperial Conference were interrupted today for an interesting ceremony, when Imperial Premier Stanley Baldwin, Canadian Premier W. L. Mackenzie-King and Australian Premier S. M. Bruce were granted "the Freedom of the City of London" by the civic authorities, at the historic Guildhall.

Practically every member of the overseas dominions conference delegations attended and many British and foreign notables. Chief personal interest centered on the Australian Premier, Bruce, who is a comparatively unknown man to Britishers, but who defeated the re-doubtable former Hughes, regarded as the Lloyd George of Australia. Bruce wore amongst his decorations the white and blue ribbon of the Military Cross—won on the battlefields of France, where he was severely wounded.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 13. — The market this week registered a slight improvement as regards prices over the previous week, but too liberal supplies of common quality and unfinished cattle prevented the improvement extending to anything further than the best quality of finished butcher cattle.

In Monday's market there was a limited demand for a few export cattle, the best in this class selling from $7.25 to $7.50, but in two days' purchases of about 450 cattle for export, the total average price worked out at about $7.20, or, to be exact, $7.19. With these 450 cattle taken for export, the total average price for the export trade, the supply left of choice useful butcher cattle for the home trade rather under the demand and prices for the best butcher went up about 25c over last week.

Supplies for the balance of the week continued rather heavy, and for the most part consisting of common and unfinished cattle. Excepting for a few choice butcher cattle, for which there was a good demand all through the week, prices remained at about steady levels, neither receding nor advancing. With steady buying, though at times a little draggy, the market gradually worked towards a fairly good clean up for the week-end, relieving the congested condition which existed over the whole of the previous week.

Closing prices were steady to firm for choice butchers at from $6.25 to $6.50 and for anything extra choice, if available, up to $6.75. The general run of good butcher stuff offering ranged from $5.75 to $6.25, comparatively few cattle going above these prices. Common butcher ranged freely from $3.50 to $4.50, a fair medium from $5.00 to $5.50.

There was a fairly good market all through the week for fat cows, a few extra choice going up to $5.00, but mostly running from $4.25 to $4.50, and the common from $3.00 to $4.00.

Export bulls were in demand early in the week, at from $4.00 to $4.2. Bologna bulls from $2.50 to $3.00.

A few choice calves sold up to $12.00, but on the whole the market was weak for calves, with two heavy supplies for common stuff.

Sheep and lambs generally were firm and a little stronger with lighter supplies. Choice ewe and wether lambs sold from $12.00 to $12.25; a few extra choice, $12.50. The market was a little easier on the close.

Hogs were steady on the basis of $8.2 f.o.b., all the early part of the week, but the market was weak and unsettled at the close, packers bidding 50c lower for the week-end, or $7.75 f.o.b. and $8.35 fed and watered.

In a Big Way

The future of Northern Ontario and Quebec in a mining way is developing much more rapidly than many good people realize. Funds for the development of promising properties are becoming available in a big way and the natural reflection of this is that the market in mining shares is beginning to do business in a big way.

The development of a broad market in mining shares holds attractive possibilities for trading and investing in these issues. We offer complete facilities to all who are engaged in transactions of this kind.

WEATHER EXHIBIT AT ROSENEATH FAIR WAS DECKED WITH PRIZES

Alnwick Township's Agricultural Society's Exhibition Last in Local Circuit With Glorious October Sunshine.

Gate Receipts Heavy.

(By Staff Reporter.)

The annual Fair of Roseneath Agricultural Society, "open to the Province," took place yesterday. Thursday was opening day, but yesterday was the big event, and proved to be, according to the directors, the very best Exhibition in the annals of the society, from point of view of exhibits and attendance both. The gate receipts were in the neighborhood of $1,150, which figures out to over three thousand people, and surpasses last year's total receipts by nearly double the amount. The exhibits, particularly in horses and cattle, and in the home-made cooking section, were much beyond the average. A quartette of races, a bicycle and auto race, tug-of-war and baby show added to the liveliness of the afternoon.

A day that dawned in the midst of a heavy fog that extended for over thirty miles of countryside and that settled in thick spots over the roadway last evening, brightened to an afternoon of mild, warm sunshine, an ideal day for attendance and racing events.

Travellers by motor from the neighboring district and the many who came by horse-drawn vehicles, were rewarded by glimpses of reddening autumn woods that could hardly be surpassed anywhere in the county for sheer autumn loveliness.

Cattle Exhibits Large.

Cattle in an open wire fenced field were tied to the palings, in a goodly showing that surpassed last year's, running principally to Durhams a nd Holsteins, the latter the best ever shown at Roseneath. There were a few Herefords, and Jerseys were conspicuous by their absence. Holsteins were shown mainly by Robert Campbell of Roseneath and H. Coyle, Durhams by Mr. McEwen of Harwood and Herefords by Mr. Mitchell of Norham.

Over the crest of the hill were pens for sheep, with pigs in only one pen and he remainder of the swine in the long carts that brought them to the Fair. Sheep were not as many in number than last year, and were mainly of the short-wooled stock. Holdsworth Brothers of Cobourg, Mr. Van Allen of Stirling, Dr. Alyea of Colborne, J. G. Honey of Roseneath and H. C. Curtis of Warkworth were principal sheep exhibitors, the latter taking twelve first prizes in this section. Pigs were scarce, mainly Yorkshires.

The poultry show, housed in a large tent, with the overflow partly filling another tent where the coops were placed on the ground, was quite representative, excelling last year's showing. Here also Mr. Van Allen of Stirling had some fine birds, with H. C. Curtis of Warkworth a good runner-up, and good exhibits from Dr. Aylea's chicken-runs in Colborne. H. C. Curtis also won the prize for the best bird shown—a white Wyandotte that won the same prize at Warkworth Fair. In the big tent Buff Orpingtons and brown Leghorns were favorites, with several of the gold and silver Polish fowl. In the small enclosure big Toulouse and Emden geese were companioned by little brown bantams, a pair of odd Wyandotte Columbia pullets, ducks of all colors, pigeons, guinea fowl and a family of guinea pigs. There were pure white rabbtis with pink eyes and ears and three little brown specimens with twitching noses.

Judging of horses went on against the open hillside, with heavy draught teams, four in number, and agricultural horses taking the lead There was a better showing than usual also of drivers and carriage horses. D. Taylor of Centreton had some good draught beasts, and Mr. Stinson of Percy showed in the agricultural class, with others.

Roseneath's annual dog show was not forgotten this year. There were a dozen dogs, mainly hounds and collies, one of the former, a first prize winner, bringing her little family along with her in a crated box.

Women's Work.

In the small building devoted to women's work, there was an extremely good display of fine needlework and wonderful home-made cooking. In a large glass show-case in the centre of the hall were arranged examples of the culinary prowess of Roseneath housewives, which were the object of hungry looks throughout the afternoon. Here were fancy cookies of every description, beautiful layer cakes, one fruit cake picked out in a silver design, home-made candy and pies, one a monstrous apple pie in a mammoth round pie-plate fully twenty inches in diameter. Against the wall, under gauze, were loaves of bread and buns, preserves and dressed fowl.

A good idea at the Roseneath Fair was the ticketing of most exhibits, both in the poultry and fancy-work sections. People seemed to be just as interested in learning the names of different birds and intricate designs in needlework as they did in the fowl and fancy pieces themselves.

In the fancy-work section, each variety exhibited, while the specimens were not large in number, seemed to excel in the carefulness of its execution. In the quilts there were some fine examples of piece-work, with one white spread whose red bordered squares contained outline drawings in red stitching of birds and animals and flowers. Several pretty cushion covers were executed in colored wools on scrim; a white linen tea cloth had a deep edging of fine filet; there was a pair of prize-winning guest towels whose hems held lines of love birds done in blue, the edges of blue crochet; there was a lovely bag in solid beads; a couple of linen cushion covers embroidered with scarlet silken poppies; a linen centrepiece with conventionalized tulips in yellow and red silk; a very dainty centrepiece of bolting cloth with design in colored silk of holly berries and leaves; a few pieces of burnt work and china painting, and a tea tray whose glass cover showed the painted basket of bruit on the satin beneath. Fine buttonholing was shown on long pieces of cloth. There was plain sewing shown on shirts, and comfortable looking knitted socks and knitted sweaters.

In the children's section there were a couple of beautifully dressed twin dolls, with little embroidered frocks and tiny coats and caps of brown crochet. Examples of penmanship and mounted leaves and two or three bird houses were also two or three bird houses, were also

The ladies also showed a good collection of butter, cheese and eggs.

Indian Bandsmen.

Over in the middle enclosure, where vendors of kewpie dolls in all the varieties of beach flirt, electric dolls and fan-dressed ladies did a rushing business, the hot dog tents and pink lemonade men were well patronized. The fact that comparisons are odious didn't bother the young lady who remarked that "at the Peterborough Fair they only charged you a nickel for a cone," when she had to shell out a dime for hers. In the bright little bandstand the red-coated bandsmen of the Alderville Indian Reserve played valiantly, with the pipers from the Arlie Marks Company piecing them out during the afternoon.

On the grounds there were exhibits of cars—Durant and Chevrolet and Ford—a milking machine and some De Laval machines. D. McKinnon of the Canadian Packing Company's office in Peterborough explained the various types of bacon hogs. Over in an open shed a small number of vegetables and grains and flowers were on view, with fruits tastefully arranged on a broad platter, the mound of grapes and apples tooped by small green gherkins.

Children Take Part.

An attractive drill by small boys and girls drew a crowd. Eighteen little boys and girls from the Burnley School went through a series of graceful evolutions, the little lads in brown Indian costumes with fringes of red and feathered head-dresses, the little girls in white. The leader was Burton Downs, and the teacher, Miss M. H. Baker.

AUSPICIOUS OPENING TEACHERS' INSTITUTE AT BRIGHTON VILLAGE

Record of Attendance Is Considered Exceptionally Good — Interest-Holding Report From Delegate to Toronto Meeting O. E. A.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

BRIGHTON, Oct. 13.—(By a Staff Reporter).—"I think that this is an auspicious opening," said W. Bellamy, Principal of the Brighton High School at the opening session of the Teachers' Institute in No. 3 inspectorate of Northumberland and Durham Counties in the Public School here Thursday afternoon. Secretary-Treasurer C. S. Haig of Campbellford, on calling the roll, announced that out of the 93 Public School teachers in the inspectorate 76 had answered to their names. "That is a good record of attendance," continued the President, "and still they come," as the door opened to admit half a dozen more belated young school teachers.

Report of O. E. Delegate.

After the convention had been organized Miss Maud Spears, teacher in the Hastings Public School, submitted an exhaustive report of her observations at the meeting of the O.E.A. in Toronto last Easter, which she attended as delegate from the institute.

President Bellamy complimented the young lady on the originality of her report, which was written in her own concise language instead of being merely a rehash of what had been published in the daily papers at the time of the gathering. The President recalled an incident in his own experience when a lodge of the A.O.W.W. in Cobourg sent a delegate to the grand lodge, and then gathered to hear his report of the proceedings. The delegate read from several newspapers, and when he was through a member moved a vote of thanks to the reporters who had written the articles with which they had been regated.

The President's Address.

The address of President Bellamy to his fellow-teachers was an interesting recital of reminiscence of his 40 years of active service in the profession, in High and Public Schools. He has taught longer than any other teacher in the county of Northumberland, and his 40 years have been spent within the boundaries of that subject. Mr. Bellamy declares that if he continues to feel as well and young as he does today he will go on like Tennyson's brook, forever.

Former School Buildings.

Mr. Bellamy called attention to the progress that has been made in school buildings during his lifetime. He recalls a school in which he served where the windows came to within two feet of the floor and two rows of long desks ran around the walls. The boy who was fortunate enough to occupy the middle of one of these benches was practically immune from discipline as it was impossible for the teacher to reach him.

Mary's lamb followed its owner to school to the dismay of the teacher. Mr. Bellamy had a more extensive visit of this kind. One morning, after a windy night, he found that the door had been blown open and a flock of sheep was comfortably cuddled around the stove.

Believes in Federation.

Mr. Bellamy believes in the Teachers' Federation. "Teaching is a noble profession, and the members should organize to keep it up. Some object to paying the membership fee because they do not intend to teach for any length of time, but all such should have some consideration for those who intend to follow the work all their lives.

He taught school years ago for $300 a year, and when he got up to $325 people thought he was wealthy.

"How many of you would like to teach for that amount or twice that amount?" he asked.

Epithet for Toby Crachit

P. S. Inspector Boyes of Campbellford explained to the young teachers how to fill out reports that are forwarded to him. Evidently Inspector Boyes has been at times in his career victimized by the person who when making a report or a letter appears to consider it a crime to dot an "i." This point brought Mr. Boyes to the story of that faithful clerk made famous by the facile pen of Dickens. When Scrooge, the grouchy taskmaster, had his vitals warmed by the joy of Christmas and in an excess of good fellowship punched his clerk in the waistcoat and ordered him to lay in a supply of coal before he dotted another "i," that, according to Mr. Boyes, told the story of Toby's efficiency. The best epithel he could have would be the eulogy, "He was a faithful clerk for he dotted his eyes."

Nominating Committee.

After G. S. Langdon of Brighton, Miss Grace Peckles of Colborne and A. G. Cracknell of Castleton had been selected as a committee to nominate the officers for next year, the institute adjourned until 2 p.m.

TWO NATIONS HOLD MEMORIAL TO NURSE

LONDON, Oct. 13.— (United Press).—Memorial services were held here to-day in memory of Edith Cavell, the herpic English nurse, who was shot by the Germans in Brussels during the war, on charges of espionage and assisting allied refugees to escape through the German lines. Today was the eighth anniversary of her execution. It was in the gray dawn of October 12, 1915, that she faced a firing squad, protesting her innocence of spying, though admitting having helped refugees to escape.

The imposing statue to the nurse, just north of Trafalgar Square was garlanded with wreaths and floral tributes. The Belgian ambassador, members of the embassy and consular staffs attended the memorial service.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS AN EXCELLENT REMEDY

When the baby is ill—when he is constipated, has indigestion, colds, colic, or simple fever or any of the other many minor ills of little ones—the mother will find Baby's Own Tablets an excellent remedy. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus banishing the cause of most of the ills of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. E. D. Duguay, Thunder River, Que., says: "My baby was a great sufferer from colic and cried continually. I began giving him Baby's Own Tablets and the relief was wonderful. I now always keep a supply of the Tablets in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

FOODS THAT MAKE BLOOD

The majority of people do not choose their daily food, to any extent, for its protein or health value. Habit and custom seem to govern in this matter of choosing food, far more than any physiological reasons.

They eat what they like best or what tastes good and seems to fill the bill or the stomach. No one thing is more common, however, than over-eating and frequently of the wrong kind of food.

The proteins furnish the chief tissue-building element—nitrogen. Tissue building, furnished by the normal blood stream, for the growth repair and upkeep of your body comes chiefly from the protein group. It is the most valuable of the great food groups.

While practically all foods contain some protein, a few that are commonly used do not. Butter, cream and oil, which are composed chiefly of fat and water, and sugar, sirups and starch are non-protein.

The two most important proteins are the white of eggs and lean meat. Veal, mutton, pork and ham are rich in proteins. Omlet combining ham and eggs is a most nourishing protein food. Beef soup or consomme are good for your protein portion, in liquid refreshments.

Among the vegetables the most valuable in protein are tomatoes, asparagus, canned peas, radishes and spinach. Celery and cauliflower should be freely eaten for their protein, blood-building value.

Oatmeal has just an average value. Mixed with milk or cream, it is a valuable blood food, although rich in fats and carbohydrates as well as protein.

Among the fruits and berries, oranges, lemons and apples, while not distinctive proteins, contains enough to be of real value in this group. Strawberries, rasberries and blackberries lead the berries in protein.

Bear in mind that your protein foods are most essential. Also that too much is better than too little. The body will waste away and die if denied its proper supply of protein.

TURKEYS STOLEN AT OMEMEE CARS DRAINED OF GASOLINE

First Field Day of Omemee High School Interrupted By Rain—Teachers Attend Convention.

HELPFUL ADDRESS.

OMEMEE, Oct. 13. — Sneak thieves are again busy in this vicinity, Mrs. Albert Fee having had seventeen nice turkeys stolen. A few nights ago, Mr. George Mills, a farmer, was awakened by the fierce barking of a collie dog, and when he arrived on the scene was approached by two marauders looking for gasoline, who by the hasty escape were not in any dire need. However, when the owner made a survey of his premises he found the hen house doors closed and everything in readiness for a good haul of poultry.

Drained "Gas" Tanks.

A large number of young people attended the shower given to Mr. and Mrs. Melville McBrien on Wednesday evening.

During the festivities a number of uninvited guests made a raid on the cars, standing in front of Mr. McBrien's house, releasing all the gasoline from the tanks. One car, we are told, contained eight gallons. The shower and party following, lasted until a late hour and the arrival home was made in the wee sma' hours.

That it takes more than a wintry day to dampen the ardour of the Omemee High school was clearly evidenced on Friday which was field day in Omemee. It was a new departure for the High school here, but one in which the students are brimful of enthusiasm.

The events were scheduled with the idea of co-operation. Play or competition organized in group manner promotes good sportsmanship and teaches the individual members of the group to co-operate with one another to promote the interests of the group.

The students were divided into two groups, the golds and the blues, a captain and committee being appointed for each. Rewards were given in points, 1st prize 5 points, 2nd prize 3 points, and 3rd prize 1 point. The first competition between the two sides was in the making of attractive posters announcing the event. Rivalry was keen and many attractive water coolur announcements were in evidence in the store windows.

After a sullen grey morning, Old King Sol, as if out of pure curiosity, beamed forth in the afternoon, as if to make a golden autumn day count an extra point for the group of that colour.

Promptly at two-thirty, the students, numbering sixty, divided into colour groups, marched double file from the school to Athletic park, the golds in the lead. As points were given for spacing, good behaviour, no talking, etc., the parade can better be imagined than described. Suffice it to say, the orderly, well-conducted march drew forth many complimentary remarks from admiring spectators. Then followed a splendid programme of sports which were run off without a hitch or any tiresome delays.

"King Sol" continued to beam until the fourth race, when he proved himself a poor sport by going in and remaining there when the 'Blues' won their first race. A shower followed and the contestants in the various races proved that they were neither sugar or salt by sticking with the game until the programme of races was completed when, owing to the inclemency of the weather, the baseball games between the colour sections were postponed.

Softball Games.

The girls' softball match was played on Monday afternoon after school. Both teams worked hard but the gold won a victory over the blues section, securing 17 runs to their nine..

The boys' baseball game was played Tuesday afternoon after school when the golds were again successful. The final score was 16-9.

For the winning team in baseball 10 points were allowed, 1 point extra being allowed for each home run.

The competition is to continue throughout the year, a special prize will be awarded in the spring.

PETERBORO DEANERY OF W. M. S. CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, October 13. —The annual meeting of the W.M.S. of the Peterboro Deanery was held here yesterday in the Parish Hall of Christ Church, and the attendance was good and the various discussions interesting. The officiating clergyman, who served the Holy communion to the delegates at 11 o'clock, this ceremony marking the opening of the session, was Rev. J. O'Connor of Fenton. Mrs. Halliday of Peterboro presided, and Mrs. G. G. Evans of that city acted as secretary of the meeting.

Rev. Mr. O'Conor delivered a brief address to the delegates, who joined in singing a missionary hymn.

Lunch was served at noon by the ladies of Christ church.

The afternoon session opened with an address by Rev. Mr. O'Connor, who urged the delegates not to discourage young men of the church from entering the ministry.

The roll call showed the following number of delegates present from various points in the deanery: Campbellford, 40; Hastings, 6; Havelock, 4; All Saints, Peterborough, 3; St. John's Peterboro, 10.

Rev. Mr. Hughes of Young's Point gave an interesting account of the Mission which he is conducting at Stoney Lake.

The report of the deanery officers were then received showing that this was the first meeting of the Peterboro Deanery since the separation from Durham County. There are now 27 branches, nine sessions, seven juniors, two girls and two evening branches, and seven branches of little helpers.

There are 375 members who take the "Living Message," the official publication of the organization.

Mrs. Halliday Resigns.

The resignation of Mrs. (Dr.) Halliday as chairman, who intends to remove from the Deanery, was accepted with regret. Mrs. J. P. Archer, of Campbellford, one of the leaders in Church work in the parish, was unanimously elected to succeed Mrs. Halliday.

There was a long discussion on the appointment of Deanery officers. It was proposed by Mrs. Jenkins, of Campbellford, and seconded by Mrs. (Rev.) Balgrave, of Peterboro, that the Deanery officer be elected for two years, the office to be passed around to the different branches, the secretary of that particular branch to be general secretary.

It was suggested by Mrs. Vance that visits be paid to some of the outlying districts mentioned by Rev. Mr. Hughes in his address. Mrs. Edwards advised sending magazines to the people in the Stoney Lake mission field.

The formal welcome to the visiting delegates was extended by Mrs. J. P. Archer, the new Deanery officer.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. (Dr.) F. D. Free sang very sweetly, "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters."

Christmas Bazaar.

The Willing Workers of Christ church will hold a Christmas bazaar on 30th of November, this to take the place of the annual bazaar which in former years has been held at Easter. There will be fancy work, plain sewing and candy tables and a Christmas tree. An old-fashioned supper will be held during the evening.

Big Cauliflowers.

Walter G. Fraser offers odds that he has in his garden the champion cauliflowers of Northumberland county. He has them 15 inches in diameter and says that he saw nothing to equal them at any of the fall fairs this year.

NINE HORSES LOST IN STABLE FIRE IN CITY

Fuel and Transfer Co. Barn Destroyed in Early Morning With Loss of $4,000 — Fire Chief Gimblett Injured.

ORIGIN IS UNKNOWN

Nine horses were burned to death last night in a fire which destroyed the stable and barn on Aylmer street, owned by the Peterboro-Fuel and Transfer Company. The animals were valued at $200 each, and the total loss will be between $4,000 and $5,000, T. N. D. Kelly stated this morning. "We can build the shed again," h said, "but we can't bring back these poor horses."

At 12.04 an alarm was received over phone 24, and within a few minutes three more alarms were received. Mabel Carter and Harry Zealand were two of those who sent in calls. Zealand is signalman at the C. P. R.-C.N.R. diamond, near the scene of the fire.

On the arrival of the fire department, the inside of the building was a solid mass of flames, bystanders say, and despite the fact that the firemen ran out four lines of hose in record time there was nothing they could do to save the horses. By herculean efforts they succeeded in saving the city buildings which were in danger of catching from the already doomed stable. Little windows high up in the walls of the burning shed belched flames and smoke, and it was impossible to tell the location of the horses or whether there were horses in the building.

Eugene Hurtubise, Sid Sandy and others tried to release the horses but were unable to rescue a single animal. On the arrival of the Fire Department these men asisted in running hose. "They worked like niggers," Fire Chief George Gimblett said.

Fire Chief Injured.

In cutting away a board to get at the heart of the fire, Chief Gimblett's axe slipped, and cut his left foot. The injury is so serious that he was ordered off duty by a doctor, and is now confined to his bed.

There were 2,000 witnesses at the fire, the Chief said. The flames lit up the whole district, despite a very heavy fog.

Inside the stable this morning the cremated horses lie in positions that show the animals made a gallant bid for freedom. One horse had broken loose from its tying post and had gained part way to the door when it was overcome. Another was lying with its fore feet in a manger and its head stretched toward a window.

Asked as to the origin, T. Wedlock said he has had trouble with people smoking in the stable, and a dropped cigarette stub may have caused the blaze. Chief Gimblett was told by Mr. Kelly and a carter that tramps are in the habit of using the barn and one of these visitors may have started the fire. Nothing definite, however, is known.

Horses were Dear.

A young lady in the Fuel and Transfer Office in speaking about the fire, said, with tears in her eyes, "The horses were dear to us." From the carter to the porprietor, the greatest sorrow is felt for the animals, and this overshadows the money loss to the firm.

Besides the horses, there were four sets of harness, valued at $70 each, 600 bushels of oats, and two tons of hay consumed. The loss is only partcovered by insurance.

Second Fire.

At 2.24 a.m. a call was turned in for the ladder truck to combat a fire which had started in the roof of the shed owned by T. Rehill, some distance from the barn fire. It is believed taht a spark was carried from the big fire. A hole about three feet in diameter was burned in the roof.

WEATHER EXHIBIT

Small boy and girl riders in the ring were awarded prizes, the first to Marcus Radley of Roseneath, the second to little Bereniece Brown of Roseneath, on a small black pony.

Miss Gertrude Lewis, Port Hope, was the only lady rider, and also received first prize as lady driver.

Baby Show Too.

The baby show tent was a mecca for men and women alike. There were nine entries, eight receiving prizes. In the under nine months class, the awards went to (1) Mrs. W. J. McMurray, Cobourg; (2) Mrs. W. J. Moore, Hastings; (3) Mrs. W. J. O'Brien, Baltimore; (4) Mrs. H. McMillan, Hastings. Over nine months: (1) Mrs. Don. Beamish, Hastings; (2) Mrs. H. Lamey, Hastings; (3) Mrs. H. Hogg, Roseneath; (4) Mrs. Jno. Freeman, Hastings. The F. J. McArthur, Cobourg, special prize for the most contented and smiling baby, who received a high chair valued at six dollars, went to Mrs. W. J. McMurray, Cobourg.

The judge was Dr. Lloyd, of Cobourg, the attendant nurse Miss L. Alford, of Cobourg.

The Racing Events.

The racing events were four, with trotting horses in three classes and a farmers' special.

Class A results were as follows: (1) Liberty Patch, B. Tinney, Cobourg, 1-1-1; (2) Herman E, A. Elmhirst, Keene, 2-2-3; (3) Polly Stout, R. Elmhirst, Keene, 3-3-2.

Class B: (1) Doris Patch, S. McMillan, Campbellcroft, 1-1-1; (2) Cy Winger, W. Elmhirst, Indian River, 3-2-2; (3) Bella Watts, D. Teel Wooler, 4-3-4. Lady Manor and Lady Way also ran.

Class C: (1) Thor Patch, S. McMillan, Campbellcroft, 2-1-1-1; (2) Minnie Hal, D. Teel, Wooler, 1-2-3-3; (3) Furioso, B. Tinney, Cobourg, 4-4-2-2. Prince R also ran.

The farmers' race went to: (1) Minnie A, Jas. McIntosh, Cobourg; (2) Lucky Lou, E. Timlin, Roseneath; (3) Tim, Mr. Greenly, of Warkworth.

Judges were J. Davidson of Cobourg and J. R. Richards of Cobourg and starter, G. Kingsley of Cobourg.

A little excitement was provided the racing audience by the withdrawal of the two horses of Dr. Johnston of Port Hope. The doctor had entered his horse, Roy Mack, in the Class A race, and his horse, Harry H, in Class C. Harry H won the race for this class in Warkworth, and the judges in Roseneath considered him fast enough for Class B. They refused to allow the doctor to run the horse in Class C, with the result that the owner withdrew Roy Mack also from the events.

A feature of Roseneath Fair is its splendid track, a dirt course of nine-tenths of a mile in length, wide and in prime condition.

A little bit of excitement of a different sort was also on the programme, when an officer of the law apprehended a visiting gentleman, on whose property, an unworked portion of a farm, a still was said to have been located and led him off to Cobourg.

Spelling Match.

At the conclusion of the baby show the big tent was utilized by three small girls and one little boy, engaged in a spelling contest. Something went wrong with the arrangements, and the number of children intent on a spelling match gradually melted away until only the quartette remained. By diligent search, they managed to locate a kind-hearted gentleman, Mr. Jack Drope, of Roseneath, who, with the aid of the printed prize list as a spelling book, managed to test their ability. "Overall" proved the boy's undoing, his mechanical brain running to "overhaul" in the spelling, and "recognize" and "mangolds" proved the undoing of the later combatants. The final result stood: (1) Hilda Jones, Hastings; (2) Howard Lapp, Roseneath; (3) Mildred Lapp, Roseneath.

A bicycle race was run off, with two contestants: (1) B. Speers, Roseneath; (2) Warl Waldie, Roseneath.

In the automobile race for the slowest car in high gear, there were two competitors also, the award going to William Taylor of Roseneath.

The prize for the best Barney Google outfit in a slow race went by default to the one contestant, in a very good outfit: Harold Blodgett of Roseneath.

Tug-of-War.

The tug-of-war between picked teams of the twelve strongest men of East and West Northumberland went to the eastern division, captained by J. Freure of Warkworth, who secured, along with his companions, a fine pair of overalls as a prize. The Western team was captained by Mr. Fred. George of Roseneath.

Among the visitors to Roseneath Fair yesterday was Dan. Whetung, Sr., of Peterboro. A truck-load of visitors from the Curve Lake Reserve attended the Exhibition also. Another visitor was Mr. F. A. Easson, of Keene, who always declares that the Keene visitors are among the best-looking bunch at any Fair.

In the Town Hall, the ladies of Fenella Methodist Church served hot meals.

Judges at Roseneath Fair yesterday in the different departments were: Horses, light—J. H. Walker, Iroquois; heavy—H. L. Barnhardt of Oro Station. Beef cattle and sheep — Bruce H. Martin, Corbyville. Dairy cattle and swine—Alex. Moore, R. R. No. 1, Latta. Poultry—C. H. Wilson, Whitby. Ladies' work — Miss Alice Long, Shannonville. Dairy and domestic science — Miss G. Gray, 650 Bathurst Street, Toronto. Grain, roots and fruit — F. Ball, Baltimore, and J. J. Collins, Hastings. Dogs—O. Edwards, Norwood. Baby show—Dr. Lloyd, of Cobourg. Auto contest — Don. Douglas, Campbellford.

EXPRESSED ALARM RE THE HOME BANK FAR BACK AS 1914

Trusted Officials Were Concerned At That Time Over Institution's Future, Says a News Story.

TORONTO, Oct. 13. — News story in a Toronto paper this morning states that information which reached that Newspaper few days ago and which was subsequently carefully investigated is believed by those in close touch with situation to have an important bearing on affairs of defunct Home Bank. It is now known says the story that as far back as 1914, some of trusted officials of Bank expressed alarm regarding institution's future and asked for an inspection and inquiry by Board of Directors. At that time news of so startling a nature was conveyed to the Banks three western directors by W. N. Machaffie, then manager of Bank's western business, that investigations were at once commenced. On his suggestion representations were made to Sir Thomas White, then Minister of Finance, who asked Z. A. Lash, K.C., to make investigations, and in calling for special returns insisted that interest in A. B. Frost account should not be taken into profits.

In a statement last night Sir Thomas White stated that he was satisfied at time that matters had been arranged in business-like manner.

In 1916 Mr. Machaffie came to Toronto, and was afterwards appointed assistant to the President on his suggestion, an inspection was made of head office, which, he claimed, showed a discrepancy but the man who discovered it was sent to a far away branch. Mr. Machaffie stated that he again asked for an head office investigation, but that he was virtually frozen out of his position.

FRUIT DEALERS NEED HELP FROM GOVERNMENT

MELBOURNE, Australia, October (Canadian Press). — Treasurer Page, of the Australian Commonwealth, in meeting a deputation yesterday representing the fruit industry, which asked the Government's assistance, informed the fruit men that the Government had decided to grant bounties amounting to £125,000 with the object of increasing the local consumption of fruit and the exportation of canned fruits. The bounties will be payable for the 1923-1924 season only.

CORONER'S JURY LOOKED INTO DEATH OF RUTKA

SUDBURY, Oct. 13.—Coroner's jury into the death of Bill Rutka, killed in auto accident on Murray Road two weeks ago, brought in verdict at two oclcok this morning declared that accident was caused after three hours consideration they declared that accident was because driver of car John Rusiar "was either under influence of liquor at the time or incapable of operating car." No action has yet been taken by police as verdict was not officially reported to District Attorney until late this afternoon.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION IN TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13. Advices from Angora show that the Government there is considering that status of the Y.M.C.A. in Turkey in the light of reports made by special investigators. Agitation against the organization which was carried on for a time in certain radical papers after the Lausanne peace conference, has since been in abeyance.

STORY OF FIGHT WITH THE WAVES

Shipwrecked Crew Reach Port After Trying Time

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—Canadian Press.— Story of a fight with the elements on the sea swept decks of the dismantled and water logged Barkantin, John S. Emery of Boston, was made known yesterday when her Captain E. M. Davis and nine of a crew arrived on the Red Star Liner Sandland, which rescued them in mid-ocean on October 3. The four days' crew had been clinging to a rope lashed to the ringbolt on roof of afterdeck house, while big seas tumbled over Barkantine.

They had no fresh water and subsisted on some canned peaches and pears salvaged from a Lazarette under the cabin deck. All instruments, paper, and clothes were lost.

"I am 63 years old," said Captain Davis, "and have only the rubber boots, flannel vest and serge trousers I have on, but I am ready to go to sea again to-morrow."

AN ADVENTUROUS THEOLOGY IS URGED BY OXFORD DIVINE

Bible No Longer Regarded By Some as the Precious Treasure, the Book Divine, Says Correspondent.

To the Editor of Examiner.

Sir,—It is so seldom that anything is published or publishable within the compass of a newspaper on the modern view of the Bible as held by most theologians and echoed in the pulpits by the country ministers that I ask you to give room for the following report of a meeting held in Montreal on Wednesday, October 10. The historical Jesus on whom they are laying such emphasis just now is, of course, the Jesus of history, not of the Bible. The Bible is no longer regarded as "the precious treasure, the holy Bible book divine" of our Sunday school days. The clergy propose now to regard Jesus as some regard Alexander the Great or Plato, viz., a great man whose record and personality is preserved for us by history. It would be better to call Him the Jesus of literature since that is all they propose to make of Him in future. It will be interesting to see what the great public will say to all this when they learn to know what is being done. We see now why there has been such a run on "social service." It is necessary to keep the minds of the mass of the people occupied while their faith is being stolen from them and a new belief put in its place. Since the poor old Bible is no longer to be an authority, where are we to get our authority? From the Protestant clergy? God forbid. What a frightful desolation it has all become. The world may well be dissolved in blood and tears. And what has become of prayer? Has it ceased to be the means of finding a solution of our troubles? The Saviour used to be considered the instant and all-sufficient, the only possible remedy for evil and sin. But now we go to the polls and enact laws to do it. Instead of protecting ourselves by laws from merely personal injury, we have decided to substitute laws for the divine cure. We set ourselves up, our scholarship, our self-conceit. "Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, lest we forget, lest we forget."

All the new fangled clergy who preach the efficacy of human means instead of Christ alone are traitors and unbelievers, every one. He believed the Scriptures. Do these ministers disbelieve Him?

J. H. BURNHAM.

(The Montreal Star.)

Truth, Not Tradition.

"The need for a more open-minded and adventurous theology, able to cope with modern conditions, and based upon truth rather than upon tradition and the maintenance of time-worn institutions, formed the theme of an address by the Reverend Principal W. B. Selbie of Magdalen College, Oxford, on "Theology and Modern Thought" in the Convocation Hall of the Royal Victoria College.

"Theology must be brought into the market-place," the speaker maintained. There is an urgent need, he said, of a restatement of theological doctrines in terms which will satisfy the needs of modern men. But whatever happens to theology, religion lives. The existence of "strange and bizaare substitutes like Christian Science and Theosophy" testify to man's need of a religious life.

Dr. Selbie reviewed the main currents of modern thought which tended to affect the standpoint of theology. The naturalism of science may modify our theology, but it does not compel us to deny the existence of God or of the spiritual life. Science and materialism are by no means identical. Materialism is based on theory and not on fact, and as such needs further support. Science has no real quarrel with theology; it adds to it, but does not take away from it. Similarly the psychological account of religion, which seems to make religion wholly a matter of auto-suggestion, cannot explain religion away. The sphere of the psychology of religion is strictly limited, and it can make no pronouncement as to the reality of the religious objects. Such pronouncements come within the sphere of philosophy.

Process of Revelation.

The modern historical method, said the speaker, the application of which to religion was formerly questioned by theological students, has come to stay. Upon it Christianity must rest. It calls for a new interpretation of the person of its founder, but the historicity of Jesus is not thereby destroyed. The personality of Jesus is the culmination of a long process of revelation. It is a witness to such revelation, but a witness which must be expressed in modern terms.

"Theology must escape the bonds of tradition. A more open-minded and adventurous theology is alone able to cope with modern conditions." The doctrine of "Safety First" which, Dr. Selbie said, had apparently characterized the attitude of the older theologians, must be discarded. The pursuit of the truth must guide theology, although theology must be evangelical as well as liberal. History and criticism must be allowed to do their work, and they will be found to be a help rather than a hindrance.

"The need is for a theology based on th anaturalness of religion to man and the capacity of Christianity to fit in with men's needs and aspirations." There must be a complete recasting of terms, the speaker urged, and with this the new generation will concern itself. There now exists in many countries a Youth Movement, holding loosely to conventions and traditions, but animated by a passionate desire for truth. The question now is, will the older men boldly join in, or will they simply mark time? There can no longer be unthinking acquiescence from the younger generation. Moreover Dr. Selbie concluded the new theology is not the possession of one sect or church, but all faiths must work together with an open mind.

Principal James Smyth of Wesleyan College, in voicing to Dr. Selbie the appreciation of the audience, said that he prayed for the day when theology would have a place on the regular curriculum of American and Canadian universities, so that theological professors and students might have the same freedom of investigation as their colleagues across the Atlantic.

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

May Obtain Relief by Enriching the Blood Supply.

In the days of our fathers and grandfather,s rheumatism was thought to be the unavoidable penalty of middle life and old age. Almost every elderly person had rheumatism, as well as many young people. It was thought that rheumatism was the mere effect of exposure to cold and damp, and it was treated with liniments and hot applications, which sometimes gave temporary relief, but did not remove the trouble. In these days there were many cripples. Now, medical science understands that rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and that with good, rich red blood any man or woman of any age can defy rheumatism. There are many elderly people who have never felt a twinge of rheumatism, and many who have conquered it by simply keeping their blood rich and pure. The blood enriching qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is becoming every year more widely known, and the more general use of these pills has robbed rheumatism of its terrors. At the first sign of poor blood, which is shown by loss of appetite, dull skin and dim eyes, protect yourself against further ravages of disease by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The have helped thousands—if you give them a fair trial they will not disappoint you.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OUR WORLD FOR OCTOBER

Houston; "A Message to America," by the late Premier Kato of Japan; "Who is Winning in the Ruhr," by Captain Godfrey L. Carden; "Taking the 'Cuss' Out of Customs," by Julius H. Barnes; "The German Housewife Plays the Market," by Kate Miethe; "How Russia Looked to Me," by Charles R. Crane; "Arab Feasts and Indian Monsoons," by Major W. T. Blake; "World Unity Through Education," by Augustus O. Thomas; "Unarmed South America Cannot Disarm," by Augustin Edwards; "The Finns in America," by Qntero Riippa.

World Fiction for the month includes:

"Corn," by Charles Tenney Jackson; "The Gypsy Van," by Paul Bourget, and "A Swathe of Summer," by James Rorty.

HIGHWAY SIGNPOST OBSTRUCTS TRAFFIC.

The following press-agent yarn is too good not to be repeated. It emanates from Los Angeles. Here's the way it goes:

During the filming of her new serial, "The Timber Queen," Miss Ruth Roland and her company went to northern California to make location scenes. It was bitterly cold. Miss Roland likes to select her own locations, and, with Bruce Gordon, leading man, started out on a snowshoe hike to inspect the surrounding country. When they had gone several miles, Miss Roland suddenly tripped and fell headlong into the snow. Gordon righted her, but her shoe seemed to be caught on something under the surface of the snow. After much effort Gordon cut away the thong of the snowshoe, pawed away several feet of snow and disclosed—a Lincoln Highway signpost!

It should be explained that the standard Lincoln Highway steel signs are affixed to hardwood posts standing eight feet above the ground. At that it could easily happen in winter.

REBUILDERS OF THE NEW JAPAN

Herbert S. Houston in an article, "Rebuilders of the New Japan," writes in "Our World" for October, of the outstanding personalities in Japan's crisis—the men who compose the new government. The new Cabinet was formed while the earth still trembled from the shocks of the earthquake. Mr. Houston writes:

"Japan is already emerging from one of the greatest disasters in history. Even while the earth still trembled and flames swept over Tokio, in the first days of September, a new cabinet was formed—a cabinet, it might well be called, of the rebuilders of a new and greater Japan. For assuredly the men in this cabinet, formed by Count Yamamoto, as Premier and Foreign Minister, seem to have been selected with especial thought of their fitness for the great tasks of reconstruction. In fact, some of the most important posts, it appears, were reassigned as the stupendous work began to take form, in the smoke and desolation of a shattered city. This was notably true in the case of Viscount Goto. The retiring mayor of Tokio was to have had his old post of foreign minister, as the cable news had frequently reported, but the place given him was that of Minister of Home Affairs. In this post, on the very right of the reconstruction lne, this resourceful statesman who had ac complished great things toward making Tokio a modern city, may be counted on to do even greater things in rebuilding the city. It will be recalled that Viscount Goto secured the services of Dr. Charles A. Beard, formerly of the chair of Politics in Columbia University, in working out a modern plan of city-government. And Dr. Beard, who had returned to this country, has made the interesting disclosure that some highly modern ideas of city planning may now be carried out, making of the new Tokio a capital of marked beauty and convenience.

"But so vast a work of rebuilding, even with a Goto to direct it, requires vast resources of capital and credit. And from the presidency of the Bank of Japan Inouye has been called to the Ministry of Finance to find these resources. By general agreement he is the man for this essential post—a man of the highest prestige in world finance who will be able to command confidence in the countries where credits must be found. And while he seeks funds abroad, a colleague of the first rank, Baron Den, as Minister of Commerce, will be reorganizing industry at home. This able administrator, who has a record of remarkable accomplishment as Governor of Formosa, may be counted on to restore the trade and industry of the country so that they can yield large government income for taxes and, at the same time, establish the bases on which Inouye's structure of credit can safely rest.

"The other members of the Cabinet, including Admiral H. Takarabe, Minister of the Navy; General Z. Tanaka, Minister of War; Mr. Ki Inukai, Minister of Communications; Mr. Keijiro Okana, Minister of Education; Mr. Kiichiro Hiranuma, Minister of Justice, and Mr. I. Yamanouchi, Minister of Interior Railways, measure up broadly to the high standards of these men."

HERTZIAN

Broadcasting station WGY (Schenectady, N. Y.) offers a prize of $500 for the best radio drama submitted before Dec. 1. WGY has been feeding long-distance drama to the radio bugs for a year. And has gotten a big enough "rise" out of its listeners to convince it that a new form of dramatic art is in the making.

All the world's an audience. The appeal so far is entirely to the ear. Some experimenter one of these days will blunder on a way to enable the far-off audience to see, by radio, the play being staged at the broadcasting station.

Our descendants, using radio, will see ball games, battles and other important news events as they occur.

CREODONT

Wolves, tigers, bears, seals, cats, dogs and all other meat-eating animals had the same ancestor or original parent, long ago. The common ancestor was the creodont. So claim scientists.

The other day, in Asia, they dug up a skull of a creodont, which apparently was twice as large as a grizzly bear. If they can also find the remains of a five-toed horse, they say it'll prove that Asia was the original home of animals as well as man. Sherlock Holmes was an amateur compared with the detectives o science who are reconstructing the past from faint clues.

AUTO

A weather-proof car that doesn't need a garage will soon be put on the market, according to word from Detroit. Saving garage rent would be an attractive item for most motorists.

The idea of a weather-proof auto is so practicable in principle that it's a wonder no one ever thought of it before. Progress is the result of imagination and psychic driving forces. Respect the visionaries. Though often crazy, they're at least not going to seed.

Why you have Rheumatism

RHEUMATISM is largely due to weakened and deranged kidneys. When the kidneys fail to properly fulfil their duty of carrying away the poisonous impurities in the blood stream, uric acid accumulates, and rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and other serious ailments follow.

If you suffer from headaches, pains in the back, dizzy spells, or specks floating before the eyes, painful, suppressed or scalding urination let Gin Pills set your kidneys right, and restore you to the glory of good health. A few doses will bring relief. A few boxes will make you entirely well.

Passing of Phones and Telegraph

What kind of communication will we have thousands of years hence?

Of course, wireless will be developed almost to perfection, but will we still have to write letters to one another? And telegrams? And will we still use the telephones?

An inkling of a solution is suggested by H. G. Wells, famous British novelist, in the latest product of his imagination, "Men Like Gods."

In this an inhabitant of the earth finds himself suddenly in another world, a Utopia, where the people are supposed to be thousands of years advanced. In his wanderings about this new planet the Earthling has occasion to notice the means of communication. Crystal, one of the Utopians, puts it into use, and Wells goes on to describe how.

Messages Tapped

"Crystal carried a little bundle of wires and light rods; and presently coming to a place where a pillar stood in the midst of a lawn he spread this affair out like a long cat's cradle and tapped a little stud in the pillar with a key that he carried on a light gold chain about his neck. Then he took up a receiver attached to his apparatus, and spoke aloud and listened and presently heard a voice.

"It was a very pleasant woman's voice: it talked to Crystal for a time without interruption, and then Crystal talked back, and afterward there were other voices, some of which Crystal answered and some which he heard without replying. Then he gathered up his apparatus again."

This the Earthling learned was the Utopian equivalent of letter and telephone.

No Writing

"A message is sent to the station of the district in which the recipient is known to be, and there it waits until he chooses to tap his accumulated messages. And any that one wishes to repeat can be repeated. Then he talks back to the senders and dispatches any other messages he wishes."

The transmission, of course, is wireless.

"The little pillars," explains Wells, supply electric power for transmission or for any other purpose the Utopians require. For example, the gardeners resort to them to run their mowers and diggers and rakes and rollors."

This is a rather flighty bit of imagination, but who can tell how far we may progress with the remarkable steps we have already taken in this direction?

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(Special.)—The short holiday session of the stock market following the Columbus Day holiday was dull and uninteresting, transactions were almost entirely of professional character, there being few customers in brokerage offices and apparently a large element in Wall street decided to extend the holiday over the week end. News developments were scarce being limited to a cut in tire prices and the passage of Chancellor Stresemann's law which will undoubtedly result in the appointment of a virtual dictator for Germany. After a comparatively firm opening, prices soon shaded on a minimum amount of trading, but by the end of the first hour progress in this direction stopped and a number of the leading issues rallied a point or more, trading was of limited nature even on the upswing and again lapsed into extreme dullness with concessions from the prices made on the rally. Studebaker appeared to have less power to hold its gain than others of the leaders, the Oils held firm despite the receivership petition for India-Homa refining a reflection of California competition with mid-continent crude and the two Standard Oils, New Jersey and California, were up 1-2 however, the preferred stock of the former company was down 3-4 to 116 and the street hears talk of impending financing. Rubber stocks did little on the tire cut development, being extremely inactive, the market developed firmness toward the close of the first hour and on a slight increase in activity, the leading stock regained their recessions and in some cases sold above the previous closing levels, the market gave every appearance of being at a stalemate, fractional gains occurring on limited trading and not carrying through, while dullness again developed when leading stocks had recovered from the early morning reaction. Prices opened irregular but there were some overnight selling orders which caused quotations to shade off soon after the initial prices. Studebaker opened at 95, off 1-4 and later sold at 94 3-4. Steel sold at 86 1-2, off 1-8 and Southern Railway at 32 3-4. The attendance was light on the floor and around the street. Dullness continued through the first half hour with prices being shaded from the opening levels, particularly in Can, Studebaker, Steel and some Coppers. After opening 1-4 off at 95, Studebaker was offered down and soon was at 94 1-4, within a fraction of the year's low. The market closed irregular with the following prices: U.S.S. 86 3-4, off 1-4; Baldwin 115 1-8, off 1-8; Studebaker 94 3-8, off 78; Can 90 1-4, off 1-8; Sinclair 19 1-4, up 1-4; Anaconda 35 3-8, up 1-8; General Motors 13 5-8, off 1-8; Reading 76 5-8, up 3-8; Chesapeake and Ohio 65 5-8; Baltimore and Ohio 56 1-8, up 1 1-4; Association Dry Goods 75, off 1 1-4; Southern Railway 33 1-8, up 3-8; Texas Co. 41, up 1-2.

Arthur C. Hawley has opened up an office at 332 1-2 George street, equipped with teletype ticker service wires connecting New York, Chicago, Toronto and Montreal stock exchange. Stocks may be bought for cash or carried on conservative margin.

MAY OPERATE UNDER BELLEVILLE CHARTER

Attorney General Nickle Has Not Heard of New Plan.

KINGSTON, Oct. 13.—(Special.)—W. F. Nickle, Attorney General, arrived in Kingston this morning and when interviewed regarding the announcement that the London Jockey Club would operate a race track under powers granted to the Belleville Driving and Athletic Association, stated that he knew nothing whatever about the alleged arrangements. "This is entirely new to me," he said. "And a phase of the racing matter which has developed since I left Toronto. I am not in a position to pronounce upon it till the matter has come before me for consideration." The London Jockey Club's refusal to operate under its charter at Niagara Falls drew the fire of Attorney General Nickle and he served notice that he would prosecure the club. The proposals now announced that the club will evade the issue and operate under Belleville, will be looked into by Mr. Nickle.

"SILHOUETTE" GOT ITS NAME FROM FRUGAL TREASURY OFFICIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The word "silhouette," which is now so generally used in describing the latest Paris creations, has a peculiar origin says a writer in The Mentor for October. Eitenne de Silhouette was a French Minister of Finance. He introduced a great number of schemes to rid the government of its financial embarrassment and called upon the people to practice many unpopular economies. When Silhouette demanded that the nobles convert their plate into money, cartoons and scurrilous lampoons were hurled at the unlucky minister.

"Silhouette" became the slang word for anything reduced to its simplest form. In an ironical mood French artists made portraits in outline only, "saving labor and materials." When France finally emerged from her financial predicament the economies of Silhouette disappeared. Only the outline picture, which continued to flourish under the name of "silhouette," remained to perpetuate his memory. Since then the word "silhouette" has been accepted into both the English and French language.

WOULD STRENGTHEN THE PEACE LEAGUE

Speeches at Imperial Conference Deal With This Phase.

LONDON, October 13 (United Press). — The concerted expression of opinion of the British Empire on the League of Nations was made public on Friday when speeches of the Imperial Conference delegates in Thursday's League discussion were published.

Summed up, the substance of the lengthy speeches were as follows:

Premier Stanley Bruce of Australia declared that the League would never be what it should be unless th egreater nations were members.

Premier Massey of New Zealand held that the League should initiate and promote peace by arbitration, by conciliation, or by force of public opinion.

Attorney-General MacNeill of the Irish Free State said that Ireland would fully support the League, even to the extent of co-operation in bringing pressure to bear on recalcitrant nations.

Lord Robert Cecil, England's leading advocate of the League, stated the position of the Geneva body by saying: "The League is what its members make it. The League is not a super-state, and it is not intended to give laws to the world. It might be defined as an international organisation to discuss and agree upon international action and work for the settlement of international difficulties and disputes."

All the members agreed that Britain's only possible policy was to give the League the fullest support, agreeing with Cecil's statement that "We ought to do our utmost to strengthen the League and make it more and more the corner-stone of our policy."

Friday was given over to the impressive ceremonies at the famous Guildhall, when the freedom of the City of London was conferred upon Premier Baldwin, Premier Mackenzie-ming of Canada, and Premier Bruce of Australia.

Crowds of Londoners turned out o catch a glimpse of the Dominion ruler, whose visits have further linked the overseas Empire with Britain.

CHARLES DANA GIBSON TELLS THE STORY OF THE CARTOON

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. In the modern sense, the cartoon originated in Holland stimulated by the revolution of 1688, says Charles Dana Gibson in The Mentor for October. From there it migrated to England, and there found fertile and congenial soil. The most significant cartoons of the eighteenth century were directed against the "bubble mania," the speculative madness engineered by the South Sea Company in London. Cartoons such as the famous one picturing Fortune riding in a car driven by Folly, were displayed in London shop windows and influenced the art of Hogarth, who is accepted as the father of the modern cartoon. Following Hogarth came Rowlandson, who devoted himself to social satire, and James Gilray who stirred public opinion against Napoleon.

Benjamin Franklin was the first American cartoonist. His work was crude, still it inspired the Colonists. His most famous cartoon was that of a snake cut up into sections and named after the Thirteen Colonies. Under this cartoon were the words "Unite or Die."

America's first great cartoonist, Thomas Nast was the product of the Civil War and for years afterward he continued to influence public opinion. It was Nast who finally drove Boss Tweed out of New York. Another great cartoonist of that period was Tenniel who drew the reverent and splendid "The Nationl Mourning at Lincoln's Bier," printed in "Punchtr just after the death of the martyred President. Following Nast, came Keppler, Victor and Gilliam, Rogers, Walker and Herford, followed by men who have given the American cartoon a permanent place in our national history.

$7,000 FINANCED COLUMBUS' VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The amount of money invested in financing the first voyage of Christopher Columbus to America has been roughly estimated from some old account books of that day. It is said that the total cost of the expédition was seven thousand dollars. This small sum opened up a huge continent now worth billions of times more than the original investment.

As commander of the fleet, Columbus received about $300 a year. The Pinzons, commanding the Pinta and Nina received about $180 each. Members of the crew were paid 50 reals a month —about two dollars and fifty cents. The cost of food per man was fixed at four or five cents a day. The chief expenditure was for cannons for the three vessels. No less than 14,000 pesetas were invested in the defense of the fleet—about $2,000, almost one-third of the total cost of the expenditon, says J. Pennington in The Mentor for October.

UNIQUE GROUP OF SCULPTORS IN CHICAGO MIDWAY STUDIO

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—In the rear of the Midway Chapter House belonging to the University of Chicago is a unique studio. Fifteen years ago Lorado Taft was offered the rent of a stable in the rear of this Chapter House. Here he established himself. Since then he has built new studios and gathered a group of students until at last it became a colony of workers in sculpture. Nothing else like it exists in the United States.

In these studios, and by means of his young assistants, he has built some of the most significant groups of statuary in America. Among the first of these is one called "The Great Lakes." In this studio also he conceived and worked out to a triumphant finish "The Fountain of Time," which was last year put into concrete by the South Park Commissioners, and stands just at the west end of the Midway at Washington Park. This is one of the most colossal undertakings in the history of American Sculpture, says Hamlin Garland in The Mentor for October.

PAINTER LIVED TO SEE WORKS SOLD FOR $11,000,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Ernst Meissonier escaped the fate of most great painters who struggle through life and die poor. While he was still alive, his paintings, about 400 in all, sold for over $11,000,000. Not all of this sum went to Meissioner. It is estimated that he personally received about one million dollars for his work. His reputation was so great that he was able to charge the wife of a famous California millionaire $15,000 for a portrait of herself, says a writer in The Mentor for October.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Colorful Notes on Fall Accessories

Gloves

Every Fall Costume should have its finish in a pair of these Kid or Suede Fabric Gloves. Gauntlet cuffs are tiered or flared or embroidered in gay colours. One may be proud of every inch of these, of Black and White Silk. They, too, are smart.

Mode, Mole, Beaver, and Dark Greys are Glove colours agreeable to New Suits and Wraps.

Neckwear

A few sets of this new Neckwear will work wonders in a Fall Wardrobe. Sweaters, Suits, and Frocks will assume new characters, with each style so intriguingly different. Plainest Dresses become pretty Party Frocks when adorned with velvet collars and cuffs embroidered in Gold. Dr

Many others, just as pretty, may be seen in the Neckwear Dept. Dainty Lace Tabbings, Jabot Frilled Fronts and Collars, all in a pleasing assortment.

Umbrellas

Have you an Umbrella? Are you prepared for the first fall of snow? If not, you had better slip up town To-night and choose one from the daintiest and best assortment we have had in many a day. There's a host of different handles—some are of carved wood or amber, others are of bone, each one possessing a strap, which makes carrying them so much easier. Tips of ribs and points are sometimes finished in amber or bone to match handles.

Hosiery

Hose that best perform their fashion duties are coloured to blend with new Costumes. These show all the newest Greys, Tans, and Browns, and are of a splendid quality. The new drop stitch and ribbed effects are exceedingly striking. Drop in and see for yourself.

This season Paris tires of the coloured accessory craze. Now Fashion's pendulum swings back to accessories that match rather than contrast with new Costumes.

IMMIGRATION ISSUE MUST BE MET BY U. S. CONGRESS

Law Expires Next Year and Labor and Capital Are Pulling in Opposite Directions — Judge Gary's Ideas.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (United Press).—The labor vote—and the support of capital—are bound up in the handling of the tremendously important immigration question in the Congress.

Capital, spoken for by Judge Gary of the Steel Corporation wants the doors opened to cheap labor. American organized labor would be incensed by any let-down to the point of almost unanimous repudiation of the party that permitted it.

There is a general demand, growing every year, for a final, intelligent settling of this question, which assumes with each passing year greater importance in the life of the nation. But indications are that it will not be so settled this year. In fact, it may be sidesteppd entirely by extension for another year or two of the present 3 per cent. immigration quota law.

If this is the result it will be because of squabbling among the proponents of various immigration plans.

Selective Immigration

Secretary of Labor Davis wants selective immigration. He wants the Government to pick its new citizens or temporary residents in their home countries—choose them before they come here, and keep out all who cannot pass selective tests. That plan will be strenuously opposed on several grounds. Its expense in one thing; the complications it might involve with other Governments is another; the pressure of scores of hyphenated organizations in America is another. These hyphenates, now newly active since the war is over, stand up and hawl any time mention is made of any immigration plan that would react against their particular brand of immigrant.

Representative Albert Johnson of the House Immigration Committee wants to base immigration quotas on an early census, so as the immigration from Southern Europe will be cut down and that from the Nordic countries will be increased, or be left relatively higher.

The American Federation of Labor will ask for a decrease in the quota or for complete barring of immigration.

Big employers like Gary will try to have the restriction abated, either through a direct increase in the quotas or through insertion in the laws of loop-holes in the form of exceptions.

Scramble If No Law

Some sort of immigration law must be passed, or present one extended, as the law now operating expires in June, 1924. Congress will be given a picture of a scramble for entrance into free America that reeks nothing of laws. The inadequate forces at the border cannot prevent smuggling of immigrants.

Proponents of selective immmigration will cite the work of an unofficial committee of Americans in Constantinople in support of selection.

Constantinople was crowded with Russian refugees, fleeing the Soviets, and most of them eager to come to America. The unofficial American committee took upon itself the task of weeding out those not desirable from an American point of view. Not nearly all who wanted to come could be admitted; the Russian quota was too limited. But so well did this unofficial committee impress its influence that Russians coming to America from Constantinople had to have the committee's OK.

Labor's stand against the position of Judge Gary and other advocates of free immigration has been strengthened by the slight let-up in the booming wave of prosperity. The United States Labor Department is informed that while there are some shortage of skilled labor, the lack of unskilled labor which Gary complained of does not exist. Therefore, there is no need, labor argues to force Americans to compete with cheap, unwholesome labor from Southern and Southeastern Europe.

RESOLUTION PASSED AT CLOSING SESSION

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Seven resolutions were passed at the closing sessions of the Provincial convention of temperance forces held here yesterday afternoon. These included requests that only one bottle of liquor should be sold to a purchaser in any one day, according to the letter as well as the spirit of the liquor law; that the liquor stores be required by the commission and the Government to carefully observe provisions against sales to persons under 18, to any convicted of drunkenness, and to any person who habitually drinks to excess. The convention strongly disapproved of professors and teachers taking a stand publicly in favor of drink habits and customs, urged the Government to co-operate with the United States in preventing rum-running, took a strong stand against the establishment in any college town or place where there was a returned soldiers' hospital of any liquor stores; asked that the Government amend the law to stop the shipping of liquor into dry areas; and objected to the practice of hotel-keepers of delivering beer to rooms in the hotel or of serving wine there.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Oct. 13.—The annual convention of the Young Peoples' Leagues of the Cobourg Methodist District was held at Garden Hill on Tuesday and proved to be a very interesting and helpful event. Delegates assembled from Port Hope, Cobourg, Welcome, Canton, Baltimore, Roseneath, Camborne, Centreton and other circuits. Three sessions were held morning, afternoon and evening, during which much that is of paramount value and interest in young people's work was brought out.

The scope of the Young People's League has now been enlarged until according to its constitution it not only embraces the Epworth League membership but all those on the rolls of organized Sunday School classes. This places the organization on a much broader basis with a consequent larger membership.

Rev. F. W. White, B.A., Welco chairman of the Cobourg district, opened the morning session with appropriate devotional exercises, after which the president, Mr. Eldred Lean of Camborne took the chair. The reports presented by the various district officers showed encouragement, and there were followed by a discussion of different phases of the work, during which many valuable suggestions and plans were brought out. A business committee was appointed to present matters requiring decision in concrete form to the convention in the form of resolutions and also to nominate officers for the coming year. This committee met just after the noon-day luncheon.

Handsomely Entertained.

After the morning session was dismissed the delegates sat down to bountifully spread tables and thoroughly enjoyed the sumptuou repast prepared for them by the ladies of the convention church.

The afternoon session opened at 1.30 with devotional services conducted by Rev. J. G. McKee, B.A., B.D. the new pastor of the Baltimore circuit and a former Bridgenorth pastor Following this there was an address by Rev. Archie McLaughlin, B.A., B.D., Keene. Citizenship Vice-President of the Bay of Quinte Conference League, who gave an able talk upon this important department of work and was heard with much interest and profit.

Returned Missionary Spoke.

The convention was fortunate in having the presence of Rev. D. Norman, B.A., D.D., of Kanazava, Japan, who gave a most interesting address on the work in that country, so much in the public eye at present, because of quake and flood and fire. Dr. Norman spoke with conviction upon the importance of the work there and by skilful word pictures opened up for the delegates assembled some conception of what it maens to be a missionary and a worker among the Japaneses. He said he was sometimes asked if he were satisfied to spend so much of his life in Japan, and stated emphatically that he was. If I had my life to live over said Dr. Norman, I could not think of anything that could give me greater joy than to go to Japan. Dr. Norman got very close to his hearers in his inspiring and informative address, until those present felt the thrill of such service, and gained a deeper conception of the Master's message. "Go Ye and teach all Nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

Rev. R. F. Stillman.

Another treat was in store for the delegates at the afternoon session and that was the address by Rev. R. F. Stillman, Cobourg. Mr. Stillman took as his subject the words, "Look Up, Lift Up." This terse command has been laid upon all Leagues since the organization was effected in the E.L. motto. "Look Up, Lift Up, for Christ and the Church." These words, he said, should be a great impetus and uplight to the organization. He referred to the Student Volunteer motto, "The World for Christ in this generation," to Lord Nelson's motto, "England expects every man this day to do his duty," but the matter for our consideration he said, is our motto, let us consider what it means to lift up. Sometimes we depend too much on programs and set prayers because we are not looking up as much as we ought and remembering that we are the branches of the Vine, which is Christ. Looking for Divine guidance we receive wisdom and power. To look up is the secret of the success of all Christian activity and all endeavor in the service of God. Mr. Stillman referred to Moses to Daniel as men who looked up, to the Disciples at the Mount of Transfiguration to John to Paltmas. We all, also as followers of Christ must look up until we are endured with power from on high. It is that which fits us to lift up. When we look up, we are fitted to lift up our brother men. We as Epworth Leaguers should lift up those around us, those in China, in Japan. Our motto means loyalty in service, devotion to the church. We should be the last ones to criticize the church. We should serve the church, we should not be afraid the church will fail, it cannot fail because it is the body of Christ.

The Business Committee presented their report, nominating the following officers to carry on another year, which was ratified by the convention.

Past President—Mr. Geo. W. Garnet, Port Hope.

President — Mr. Eldred Lean, Camborne.

First Vice-President—Miss Jay Nicholls, Cobourg.

Second Vice-President—Miss Florence E. Hall, Colborne, R.R. No. 3.

Third Vice-President—Mr. Ellis Snelgrove, Camborne.

Fourth Vice-President—Mrs. F. W. White, Port Hope, R.R. No. 1.

Fifth Vice-President—Mr Herbert Burwash, Baltimore.

Sixth Vice-President— Miss C. Staples, Port Hope.

Secretary—Miss L. C. Beatty, Port Hope.

Assistant Secretary—Miss H. Fitzsimmons, Port Hope.

Treasurer—Mr. J. G. Finlay, Colborne, R.R. No. 3.

Secretary of Evangelism and Social Service—Rev. J. W. Baird, Port Hope.

Secretary of Religious Education—Rev. H. A. Bunt, Canton.

More more more more

Conference Representative—Rev. J. W Baird, Port Hope.

Representative Summer School—Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., Camborne.

Representative Winter School—Rev R. F. Stillman, Cobourg.

A Dainty Supper.

The Garden Hill ladies were the hospitable hostesses again for supper, when a dainty, appetizing and abundant repast was served and delegates and their friends at the convention church enjoyed a happy social hour.

The Evening Session

The evening session opened at 7 p.m. the President, Mr. Eldred Lean presiding. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. J. N. Lovelace of Centerton. Mr. Elwin H. H. Brown, Port Hope, treasurer of the Bay of Quinte Winter School in a brief illustrated talk, ably described that important gathering, which had its inception at Cobourg a couple of years ago and which has become an important factor in religious education and training for service among the young people of the Bay of Quinte League. Mr. Brown emphasized the fact that the school would again assemble in Cobourg in January 1924.

The installation of officers, always a pleasing and noteworthy function, followed.

Rev. Dr. Norman gave another inpirational address, that was informative, interesting, earnest and convincing.

Rev. J. W. Baird, Port Hope, gave a strong practical address taking as his theme, "The other fellow," which was packed full of true, convincing advice. Its practice would lead the way to higher ideals of Christian fellowship and help to solve the age-long question, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

The Music.

The music throughout the convention was conducted by Rev. F. J. Horwood. Mus. Bac., Camborne, whose exceptional musical talent and consecrated ability sets him apart as one most ably fitted for such service.

"A questionaire" in the afternoon session was splendidly conducted by Rev. H. A. Bunt, Canton, a former Roseneath pastor, who is recognized as a prominent and useful worker among the young people of Cobourg district and of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

District's Representatives.

The missionary representatives of the Young People's Societies of the Cobourg Methodist District is Rev. Dr. W. E. Smith who went out to China nearly twenty-eight years ago being the first representative sent to foreign field under auspices of the Young People's Forward Movement for Missions. Later the Peterboro District was affiliated with Cobourg in the support of Dr. Smith. But upon the occasion of the Silver Jubilee of the service in China of Dr. Smith and his late devoted and well beloved wife, Cobourg district assumed their full support, a duty which the Cobourg District Young People's Societies have since faithfully carried out.

Dr. and the late Mrs. Smith returned from China a year ago last spring and only a short time after reaching Toronto she succumbed to a fatal malady from which she had been a sufferer for some time. The last of August Dr. Smith left Toronto to return to his solitary post on the mission field, leaving here his entire family, three daughters, and one son, the latter now a student at Stanstead College, Quebec. It is faithfulness such as his that inspires those who remain by the baggage to do their utmost for those who go down into the battle.

NIGHT

Baseball games are being played at night, under high-powered flood lights, in the new athletic field of the General Electric Co. at West Lynn, Mass. The illumination is so cleverly arranged that players and audience never lose sight of the ball.

Ball games beginning at midnight may be next on the programme. Baseball is a form of theatricals rather than a sport, since the audience participates no more than it does at a movie, and night may after all be its logical environment. Night baseball would be a great thing for fans who can't leave their jobs for afternoon games.

BRITISH AIRFLEET HOLDS EMPIRE'S LINE

By LYLE C. WILSON

LONDON, Oct. 13.— (United Press).—The "White Man's Burden" for 100 years the weightiest item in the British infantryman's shoulder pack, has been transferred to the infant Royal Air Force.

Here and there over the face of the globe England is still engaged in consolidating the vast Empire which she bought and seized in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

The Royal Air Force has proved itself a most efficient consolidator.

"On April 21," the report records simply, "1,500 pounds of rations were dropped at Benawi as a test."

It must have been a test of crucial importance to the Benawi garrison for—"On April 22 an additional 5,000 pounds of rations were dropped at Benawi."

Ground troops marching in the lightest possible order were constantly supplied with food and supplies by their flying comrades.

The report, which has just been made public, relates that on April 29 the Air Force evacuated 200 men suffering from dysentery, a distance of 260 miles from Girde Tilleh to Bagdad.

"These cases," it is declared, "must otherwise have had a six-day donkey journey, with considerable hardship and suffering."

Along the Northwest frontier of India, where rapacious Afghan hordes constantly threaten to pour through the Khyber Pass into the British Indian dominions, the war has continued for years.

Murder, pillage and minor battles succeed each other in such bewildering rapidity that it is difficult to tell where one uprising ends and the other begins.

The Royal Air Force has fallen heir to the police work of this troubled section.

Unruly tribesmen respond quickly to the warning of accurately dropped bombs. These bombs destroy villages. Villages are difficult to reconstruct. The mere killing of men doesn't curb a tribesman's lawlessness. When his village begins to suffer he is surprisingly willing to listen to reason.

A squadron of R.A.F. planes, sailing high in the air above a disturbed area, has more effect today than the appearance of an entire army with a full complement of artillery ever achieved.

That the tiny wars are not losing their momentum is evidenced by the recent action of the British War Office in sending a new draft of 3,000 air men to the East.

Natives north of the Khyber Pass are not seasonal fighters. European wars, as well as those of less civilized continents, have been known to be delayed until the appearance of fair weather or the completion of a harvest.

Afghan warriors refuse to postpone their fighting for any constingency. The mountain trails will be as full of native fighters this Winter as they have been through the Spring and Summer.

MEMORIES OF NIAGARA HAUNT LLOYD GEORGE

Says Rainbow Bridges the Gulf that Divides Nations.

WHITE RIVER, October 13 (Canadian Press). — Memories of Niagara have haunted Lloyd-George all day. He was full of enthusiasm over what he had seen there.

"Did the rainbow that arched the Falls seem to you a symbol of the future?" he was asked on the train.

"It threw itself clear across the gulf that divides two nations," he replied.

The train is due at Winnipeg this afternoon.

A drive about the city and an address in the evening are the only events on the Winnipeg programme.

Endless Chain

Western Europe's population increased 6 millions between 1910 and 1920, despite its loss of about 20 million lives in connection with the war and Spanish influenza.

This fact, announced by mortality statisticians, shows that nature already has more than restored Europe to normal in the matter of its most important loss—human life. This, of course, will not become vividly noticeable until the babies and young children of the present grow to manhood and womanhood. Right now there is a decided shortage of grown men "over there."

France checks up and finds that last year it had 759,846 births, against 689,267 deaths. This was a population gain of close to 71,000, with the birth and death rates almost identically the same as they were in 1913.

But France's population is increasing so slowly that her military heads are worried.

They have not forgotten that, in the 50 years before the World War, Germany's population nearly doubled while France's showed very little increase.

France's nightmare is the German Cradle.

In the early days of the war, France began to have more deaths than births. Austria found itself in the same fix in 1915, Belgium in 1916, Germany in 1917 and Italy in 1918.

The only important European warring country that did not fall victim to diminishing population during the war was England. It had more births than deaths all through the war, though the surplus of births over deaths dropped from 377,000 in 1913 to as low as 50,000 in 1918. The figure in 1922 had crawled up to 293,000.

The British will "come back" rapidly in the matter of man-power. Their death rate in the last 20 years has been reduced from 17 for each thousand to 13.

Watch the birth and death statistics if you want to keep close tab on the European situation. The militarists still control Europe, and their concessions in the direction of peace, also their degree of insistence on war preparations, are regulated by the supply of available cannon fodder, as compared with the enemy's.

The baby in its cradle represents the foremost armament.

Expensive watches are put through a temperature test so they may work right in freezing and hot weather.

"ART"

Our larger cities have quite a flood of immoral picture magazines printed in Europe. Here and there the various societies for the suppression of vice are causing the arrest of newsdealers selling these wares.

As usual, the favorite defense is that these immoral publications are "art"—but few of the buyers are artistic. We can be thankful that our civilization is not old enough to produce much real "art," which in its so-called higher forms is next door to decadency and a weathervane of social decay.

MISTER SCARE CROW'S STORY

Mister Dodger shook his limp straw hand heartily

"Why, you've lost your gun, Mister Scare Crow," cried Nick, as he was taking a walk with Nancy and Mister Dodger through the corn field.

"No, no, I haven't,' nodded Mister Scare Crow, his wide straw mouth curved in a merry smile. "I didn't exacty lose it. I threw it away. And he chuckled so that he shook all over. It was the end of the season and Mister Scare Crow was getting quite old.

"And your tin-pan hat is gone, too," said Nancy, suddenly noticing that the sentinel of the corn-field was bare-headed.

"Tee, hee, hee!" chuckled Mister Scare Crow again. 'I didn't lose that either. I threw it away, too!"

Indeed!" declared Mister Dodger You're getting quite frivolous in your old age, Cousin Scare Crow. It isn't everybody who can afford such extravagance.'

"Extravagance, nothing!" denied Mister Scare Crow suddenly growing sober "One is never extravagant when helping a friend. And if Farmer Brown can't trust me with a real gun and real bullets, one has to do the best he can."

"Whatever on earth are you talking about?" demanded Mister Dodger. "Please explain yourself."

"That's what you should have said in the first place," remarked Mister Scare Crow amiably, "without jumping at conclusions. I'll tell you all about it. Do you know, Don the big dog?"

"Yes!' cried the Twins.

"Oh, yes, yes, indeed," echoed Mister Dodger. "He's one of the nicest people in Squealy-Moo Land."

"Then I think that you'll agree that I did exactly right," said Mister Scare Crow. "Well, Don has a burying place."

"A burying place!" cried all three listeners.

"Yes!" nodded Mister Scare Crow "For bones. He had to have it a secret, so he buried all his bones right here at my feet. He really has quite a boneyard and I never told a soul.

"But one day, Tike, Farmer Smith's dog, discovered his secret and started to dig the bones all up.

"I didn't know what to do at first. I was so upset. And then I thought of my gun. I let it drop right on his back as hard as I could. He barked and ran away, but by 'nd by he came back. So I had to do some more thinking.

"Then my tin pan hat popped into my head. The very thing! So I shook it off and it not only landed on him but made enough noise for a war. He ran like a streak and I don't think he'll come back this time," chuckled the straw man.

AN OPEN MEETING AT QUEEN MARY'S

Queen Mary Home and School Association held a splendid open meeting in the School last evening, when certificates were presented to the successful candidates at the recent entrance examination. There was a large gathering of parents and friends of the school. At 7.30 a short business meeting, presided over by Mrs. W. T. Hall, was held by the Executive, and shortly after eight o'clock the programme began.

The first number was a well-rendered piano duet by Jean and Marion McCannan. Next there was a solo by Master Jack Brown, eight years of age, a recent arrival from Scotland, who, unaccompanied, acquitted himself so well that he had to respond to an encore. Master Robert Wyllie, a youthful performer also gave two violin solos most creditably. The musical part of the programme was concluded with two fine vocal solos given by Miss Payton. Miss Letitia Elliot kindly acted as accompanist.

Then followed the great event of the evening, the presentation of the entrance certificates by Mr. A. Mowat, public school inspector of the city. Mr. Mowat gave an interesting address on education, indicating modern tendencies and giving a word of congratulation and advice to the class before him. He spoke of the good record of the city public schools, and of Queen Mary School, when in 1922 forty-one were successful out of a class of forty-one, and this year thirty-nine out of a class of forty.

After the presentation Miss Helen Ross, for the class, in a few well-chosen words, expressed the thanks of the class to Principal Clark, and generously ascribed the success of the class to his efforts.

Refreshments were then served and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

"I Had Terrible Backache From Kidney Disease"

Mrs. M. A. McNeill, Canaan Sta., N.B., writes:

"I was troubled for years with terrible backache, resulting from kidney disease. At times in each month I remained in bed, the pain was more than I could stand, and to walk was almost impossible. I used about $50.00 worth of other medicines, but with little results. Now I am completely better, after using only five boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

MRS. H. JACKSON NEW PRESIDENT

Heads Peterboro County Teachers' Institute for Ensuing Year—Convention Here Closed.

The last two sessions of the County of Peterboro Teachers' Institute were held in the Normal School yesterday.

At nine o'clock in the morning, the session was opened with the singing of "O Canada," led by Inspector R. F. Downey. This was followed by the repetition of the Lord's Prayer in unison.

A Helpful Talk.

The first speaker for the morning was Inspector R. F. Downey, who gave a most entertaining and helpful address on "Literature."

"Literature," said Mr. Downey "is an illusive subject. It develops the imagination. The pupils must be trained to visualize. The teacher must be a student of literature to be a successful teacher of it. He must study hard to find out the author's meaning. He must know his subject, his pupils, and something of the author. Literature is broad, deep and high; boundless and endless. It develops and feeds the emotions and the finer feelings. A proper study of literature makes children courteous, polite and patriotic. Mr. Downey chose different selections from the Fourth Reader, and showed the various ways of approach in handling these different types of lessons. The first type of lessons chosen were what was classed as the "reading selections." Many teachers fail to get the value of the conversation in these lessons. The emphasis must be right, and as it would be in conversation. Secondly, some patriotic lessons were taken up, and later, certain selections which are valuable for their beauty, such as "The Daffodils," "Indian Summer," "What is so rare as a Day in June?". Other lessons were chosen as the best lessons from which to teach topics. It was also pointed out that certain selections should be taught at certain seasons suitable to the time of the year at which these things are being described. The speaker showed how some lessons could be taken in groups with great advantage to the understanding of the child. This excellent and practical address was much appreciated by the teachers, and should help them to a large extent in the best way of handling various type of literature lessons this year.

The History Paper.

Following this, Miss Stark of Norwood, who marked Entrance History papers this year, spoke on the Entrance History papers. She said pupils should be taught to read the question carefully, so they would not miss the point, and thereby the marks. In the marks, the pupils are given credit for historical facts Where an answer is not all good the pupils are given marks for any part of the answer that is found to be correct. Miss Stark had many papers with her, and read some answers for which full marks were given. She read others where a part of the answer was good and worth something and still others which were worth nothing. Some of these were ridiculous in the extreme and caused a merry laugh. She gave the teachers a very clear idea of how the history papers are marked. A very interesting discussion followed.

Community Singing.

A pleasant diversion was given at this part of the programme by some splendid community singing, led by Mr. Downey, assisted by Miss Gwen Simpson at the piano. The teachers entered heartily into the spirit of the singing, and it was enjoyed by all.

The Right Thing.

This was followed by a lecture by Mr. Perry on "Stressing the Right Things in Art. The speaker presented each teacher with a printed plan to be used in teaching Art. There are three avenues of approach in the teaching of Art. These are Line, Tone and Colour. The position on the paper of the object to be drawn must be first taken into account, then the proportion, and the correct perspective. The light values must be noted and then the colors. All can appreciate, only a few can excel in the practice of Art; therefore begin with and emphasis appreciation. By Picture Study teach the children to appreciate what is beautiful and great in the pictures of the great masters. Pupils should be taught design and lettering. Some of them will become our designers, and the others will learn what is good in design, so that they may become good buyers and buy things not because they are costly, but because they are artistic. They will learn to discriminate between good and bad in Art. Pupils should draw from the object. The principles of Art can be understood and applied by all in interpretation or in practice. The study of Art must result in making life richer and more worth living. It gives refinement, solace, and pleasure to the life.

A hearty vote of thanks was here tendered to Mr. Perry for the three splendid and inspiring addresses given to the Convention. The meeting adjourned.

The Agriculture Course.

On Friday afternoon, Mr. William Wendt of Norwood gave a highly appreciated talk on "Teaching the Course in Agriculture." He said in part: "Ontario is primarily an agricultural province. Our aim should be to make people realize the vast importance of tilling the soil and getting the best out of it; and that this problem is just as valuable as any problem of any business man. The work must be practical. Teach lessons suitable to the community in which you live. To be successful in this work, the teacher herself must love gardening and the great outdoors. The study of Agriculture in a practical way teaches the children to see the things God has made for them. It teaches them the true dignity of labour. It is conducive to good health. To interest children in this work, the teacher might tell the story of Luther Burbank, and the marvellous things he has done; and also the story of Dr. Saunders of the Ottawa Experimental Farm. The dignity of labour should be impressed on the children; and we should remember that in our school gardens, the gardeners are more important than the gardens. A lively and interesting discussion followed this lecture.

Following this the teachers enjoyed ten minutes of hearty community singing.

Next, the Reading Course for Teachers and the Institute Library was discussed.

Following this, the audience was delighted with a well rendered vocal solo by Miss Hefferman.

Household Science.

The last number on the programme was an interesting talk on "Hot Lunch and Household Science in Rural Schools," by Miss Jennie Barrie. Miss Barrie spoke first of the benefit of the hot lunch to the health of the child. The parents appreciate this very much and a fine spirit is created between the home and the school. Miss Barrie showed just how the work has been carried on in her own school, and suggested various dishes which may be easily served.

The best results of serving hot lunches are seen in the improved health and comfort of the child, and also in the gratitude shown by the parents, and by the children themselves.

The convention then closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Officers Elected.

President, Mrs. H. B. Jackson.
Vice-Pres., Mr. R. F. Downey.
Sec.-Treas., Mrs. Alice L. Stilson.
Cores.-Sec., Mr. Richard Lees.
Executive Comittee, Miss Duff, Mr. K. Madill, Mr. W. Wendt.
Auditors, Miss V. Watt, Miss E. Garbutt.

SAFE FAT REDUCTION

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helpfulness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription, and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly and quickly reaching their ideal of figure with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a case, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

A HUNDRED YEARS IN THE LIFE OF PETERBOROUGH

Origin of Its Settlement as Revealed by Old Papers Formerly the Property of and Treasured Most Highly by the Late Thomas A. S. Hay, For a Great Many Years City Engineer of Peterborough.

STURDY IRISH PIONEERS BRAVED THE MIGHTY DEEP

Peter Robinson Immigrants Sailed From Mother Country in 1825 For Canada; Where They Settled on Scott's Plains, the Location of Peterboro City.

(F. H. DOBBIN)

One hundred is a symmetrical number, either in dollars, years or in material things. Men, for instance, offer to bet one hundred dollars, just off-hand, and then withdraw when the bet is covered. One hundred years of the life of a dwelling is certainly a respectable and useful old age. And one hundred years in the life of any Canadian municipality and its people is entitled to be viewed with respect. So we will take the last hundred years of the life of Peterborough and look back and tell of some things of interest that so far have not been told in the same way and with the same particularity.

Some time after the death of the City Engineer of Peterborough, a box of papers that he had treasured most highly found its way to the care of the Public Library. That is what Public Libraries are for, among other functions, to take and keep all sorts of things that otherwise would be buried in attics, cellars and in vaults. And the local librarian is careful to keep with great fidelity and concern, contributions that were at one time of public interest and may in after years prove to be valuable for purposes of reference. Much of the interest attached to the local Museum is due to the interest taken by Mr. Hay and his fellow-worker, late F. R. Yokome, so long editor of the Examiner.

This box of papers remained unopened until a short time ago and when looked into disclosed the intimate records of the Peter Robinson Immigration of 1825, to Scott's Plains, in the Newcastle District, Upper Canada. The same being now the location of the City of Peterborough, and of the immigration that preceded the movement, by the coming in of a number of families who were settled in the District of Bathurst, (now part of the County of Lanark) in the year 1823. The immigration to Scott's plains took place in 1825, the district having been previously sub-divided and the County of Peterborough and adjoining counties being of the Newcastle District.

Considerable matter has been written from time to time in regard to the Robinson Immigration, but in any event, for the last forty years nothing of particularity has been placed in print. So it is the purpose of this writing to tell of a part of the intimate work done in organizing the immigration into Upper Canada, from Ireland, and how the details were carried out, attaining very favorable results.

As to the situation prospects and conditions of the South of Ireland, at the time under discussion. There was a thronged population, much of distress, severe poverty in a large measure unrelieved. Two successive years of potato blight had made the food situation nazardous. Tenant farmers, farm laborers and people of such occupations were suffering to the largest extent. England, which was Ireland's best customer in the way of food-stuffs was obliged to look to other markets for sufficient supplies. Also the Mother Country had been at war, almost continuously for twenty-five years, and had only ten years before broken the power of Napoleon, and sent him to St. Helena. Following the disbandment of many regiments of the Line, many thousands of men, with no settled form of occupation were thrown on an already too sparse labor market. Indeed, for a time, the same state of unemployment developed as we have now reflected all over Great Britain, following the last Great War. But the troubles of 1822-26 were larger in proportion, as the relative population was much smaller.

England, at the time, had not made any large and marked advance in manufacturing for world markets. Such was to come after the perfection of the practical steam engine, the "Spinning Jenny" of Arkwright that built up the looms of Lancashire. The loom of Jacquard worked a marvel of efficiency in pictorial and ornamental weaving, as we have its uses displayed in the carpet factories of today.

In 1823 a proposal was placed before the British Government to forward some thousands of people from Ireland to Upper Canada. Sixty thousand pounds sterling was set aside for the purpose. In that year a considerable number of families and single men were sent out and located in the District of Bathurst, now a part of the county of Lanark. The lists of passengers of the vessels "Hebe" and "Stakesby," which are included in the papers as mentioned above, show that the first carried 198 persons over 14 years of age, with 91 children, aad the latter 184 persons over 14 years and 96 children.

Early in 1825 reports as to the success of the Bathurst settlers and immigrants proving favorable, an effort was made to renew the movement and Mr. Peter Robinson, of York, (Toronto) a brother of Hon. John Beverley Robinson, was invited by the British Government to supervise the immigration, acting both in Ireland and in Canada. Thorough preparation and preliminary work was made in Ireland, many people of importance lending assistance, for the South of Ireland was a thronged community and there was much of poverty and privation. An official announcement was issued by the British Government, setting out the conditions governing the immigration, and as Mr. Robinson reports, inside of three months 50,200 applications were made. It had been decided that 2000 souls would be the maximum number allowed to make departure. Following is a copy of the poster-handbill in circulation one hundred years ago, for the same conditions and announcement, with some amendments, had applied to the immigration of 1923. This hand-bill has laid, folded and docketed among the papers for a century.

EMIGRATION TO CANADA.

MEMORANDUM of the terms on which the Government has agreed to convey a limited number of Settlers from Ireland, to Upper Canada, under the Superintendence of Mr. Robinson, and to locate them upon lands in that Province; and also of the conditions upon which the lands shall be granted.

Such emigrants as the Superintendent shall accept, shall be conveyed from the place of embarkation in Ireland, to their lands in Upper Canada, wholly at the public charge, and provisions shall be furnished them during the voyage, and for one whole year after their location upon their respective lots.

Such farming utensils as are absolutely necessary to a new settler shall also be found for each head of a family, or person receiving a grant of land.

No person above the age of 45 years shall be conveyed to Upper Canada at the Public Expense, unless under particular circumstances, in the discretion of the Superintendent, and no person above that age shall receive a grant of land upon his arrival in the Colony.

Every male above 18 years of age and not exceeding 45 years to whom a certificate shall have been given by the Superintendent that he was accepted by him as an Emigrant Settler to receive lands in Upper Canada, shall on his arrival receive a location ticket, or order for 70 acres of land in such part of the Province as the Lieutenant Governor or such person administering the Government shall assign. And in order that such Emigrants as shall be industrious and prudent may have an opportunity of extending their possessions and providing for the respectable maintainance of their children, an additional tract of 30 acres, adjoining every such grant of acres, shall be reserved by the Crown, ungranted for the space of TEN YEARS after the location of the lot of 70 acres, to afford opportunity to the proprietor of such larger tract of purchasing the same within the period, by paying the moderate sum of TEN POUNDS, Sterling.

The Order or Location Ticket for 70 acres to be given to the Emigrant on his arrival shall express certain duties of settlement, and cultivation, the same in proportion as are required by the Government to be performed on lands granted in Upper Canada to other Settlers, and the period to be allowed for the performance of such duties shall also be expressed in the order.

So soon as the settlement duties have been performed the party may obtain his Patent on paying the expense of preparing the same, which it is supposed will not exceed two pounds ten shillings Sterling on each grant.

Each tract of 70 acres shall be subject to the payment of an annual Quit Rent to the Crown of two pence per acre to be paid half-yearly in such manner, and subject to such penalties and forfeitures, in the case of failure, as shall be expressed in the Patent, and the same Quit Rent shall be charged also upon the grants of 30 acres.

It shall, however, in every case be in the option of the proprietor to redeem the Quit Rent at any time on paying of TWENTY YEARS purchase and with respect to the original location of seventy acres, no Quit Rent shall be chargeable until FIVE YEARS have expired from time of location.

As it is intended that all persons who shall be thus assisted by the Government in removing to Upper Canada shall become actual settlers in the Province it is necessary that it should be clearly understood that if the condition of cultivation and improvement to be specified in the Location Ticket shall not be performed within the period prescribed, or if the person locating any lot under the present system shall before receiving his Patent for the same, withdraw from Upper Canada, and remain absent for the pace of six months without sufficient cause to be allowed by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, the land so assigned to such person may be given to another applicant.

Modification In Conditions

It will be observed that the condition was made that no person over the age of forty-five years would be accepted. This to ensure so far as possible that those going on the land should be physically able to perform labor, and be so far as possible free from disabilities or impending sickness. But some discretion was allowed to the superintendent in regard to the enforcement of this provision. A very limited number was taken whose ages exceeded the general rule. Several men of mature years but who had long practical experience and work in farming and whose advice could be of material assistance to those comparatively inexperienced were taken, and afterwards it was found that the decision to accept such was a wise one.

Several women who were known in their neighbourhoods as capable and experienced in maternity cases and familiar with the ailments of children and the application of household remedies were also included. These men and women, whose service it was thought would prove of value in the community were placed amongst the locations. Besides the steadying influence of older persons proved, on the whole, to be of large value. A father or mother, rather than be left in Ireland and separated from sons and daughters, accompanied, but passage was not provided at public expense, and no food allowances or lands were allotted, once the party had reached locations.

It Was a Selected Immigration

Each applicant was required to be vouched for by those who knew of the habits, industry, honest and good conduct, and general good character as well, of each applicant. No stipulation was made in regard to the number of children. Apparently the more the merrier. Applications were written, either by the person or some one for him on paper, and in many cases the certificate of character was written on the other side of the sheet, if space permitted, for paper one hundred years ago was made by hand and prized accordingly. Those, preserved with the papers and documents, are the actual writings as presented to the superintendent. Diverse forms of handwriting, penned by men illiterate as well as by educated persons.

Apparently many of the applicants came off the estates of the title nobility and landed gentry in South of Ireland if we judge by the fact that testimonials are written on paper bearing armorial crests, seals and escutcheons of dukes, earls, lords and knights in profusion. Over two thousand of these certificates are ticketed and docketed and in order, including those for the nearly five hundred families of the applicants who were accepted. So if anyone living in this district or in and around Peterborough wishes to see what was set out about his forbears, (assuming they are descended from those of the immigration) the information may be consulted.

Each certificate bears the endorsement of Mr. Robinson in his handwriting, for these are the selections from over 50,000 applicants. A few of these writings are printed further on in this article, to illustrate the diversity of approach, the special pleadings made, and we can appreciate the intense anxiety to know the result in individual cases. It was One Great Adventure.

Having arranged, in Canada, as to the lands on which the immigrants would be located, (in the Newcastle District, now generally referred to as the Midland District of Ontario), Mr. Robinson proceeded to London, Eng., received instructions, and crossed the Irish Sea to locate in Cork, as headquarters. There he was domiciled at Conway's Hotel, George St. He fell to work early in April, and for some weeks was occupied in making the selections and with much personal conference with a large number of officials having the details of equipment and shipment in hand. The stock of farming tools, spades, hoes, etc., were bought in Canada, the tools in use in Ireland not being adapted to tilling the soil under an unbroken forest. Provisions for the voyage were collected and stored, as well as much that would be required to sustain the immigrants for a whole year after making locations.

Vessels were provided from the Royal Navy, to be used in the month of May following. When it came to the actual embarkation at the Cove of Cork, the city was in a state of great excitement. Thousands of people, friends and relatives of the immigrants gathered to make farewells. The docks were thronged, day and night. Nine ships had been provided and lay in waiting. Mr. Robinson states in his official report that he proceeded in succession to each vessel, had the captain bring on deck every seaman, officer or employee, closed the hatches, except the main hatch, and having read the conditions to be assented and adhered to compared the facts as written in the certificates, with the replies of the immigrant head of the family, and received assurance from those who knew the people, and if all correct passed the man and those accompanying him below decks. This in order to prevent substitution and to ensure that no one was taken other than those properly accredited.

Applications and Endorsements

From the mass of certificates a few have been selected as typical of the many. And are here reproduced as illustrative of the tenor of the appeals. The text that follows, was endorsed, at the top of the sheet, as having been received on 14th May, 1825, and is addressed to Capt. Peter Robinson, at Conway's Hotel, George St., Cork.

Sir,—

"The bearer, James Sheehy, son of late Mr. Edmund Sheehy, of Ballyestate of the Earl of Kingston, having experienced many trials and disappointments and wishing to avail himself of the opportunity now offered him, humbly applies to you for proper information in order to enable him to embark with the rest of the people now destined for Canada.

Though at a very early period of life doomed to feel the loss of his parents and to be visited with many afflictions naturally resulting therefrom, still he hopes the character which he has always honorably maintained in the most trying moments of his life, will obtain the humble boon for which he intends soliciting your kindness.

Hoping that this appeal in behalf of a well-conducted, proper young man who has always been intimately known to our family, may not prove ineffectual, meanwhile.

I remain, yours truly,

JEREMIAH SULLIVAN,
Longford Row.

Cork, Friday morning
May, 1825.

Follows an application that pictures a very deplorable state of life and the appeal is one calculated to excite pity and consideration, and consequently, permission to pass on to the better land—Canada.

The letter is addressed to Peter Robinson, Esq., at Conway's Hotel, Cork, under date of May 17, 1825.

"Sir,—

"We certify that the bearer, William Mulcahey, is a very Honest, Industrious and Well conducted Young Man, and Perfectly understands Farming.

He held Land on the Little Island, near Cork, and from the Fall of the Prices was obliged to surrender it.

He is now in a most miserable situation, having disposed of his potatoes, garden and furniture in order to supply himself with the necessary matters to go to Canada. His name has been entered and written by Lord Ennismore, at Connamore, soon after last Christmas."

Signed by six citizens, D. Stephenson, R. S. Rehalley, and four others.

Here is a vigorous claim put forward on behalf of a man who must have been close to sixty years of age, but who was anxious to have a try at pioneer life in Canada the West. By the rules of the game he was wholly beyond the age limit, but he has the support of the Clergy, and that counted for a whole lot in the day and times of which we are writing. He pleads that his service as a soldier for forty years should give him a preference, and proposes to face the trials of a life in the back-woods with the same courage that carried him over many a well-fought field. It will be observed that he has the endorsement of the whole military staff of his regiment.

Kinmore, County Down, Ireland.
Month January, 1823.

"We certify that the Bearer, Samuel Dickson, about the year 1786 became a volunteer in the Kinmore Company, commanded by late Matthew Forde, Esq., That he continued on until the reduction of the same in 1793; that in January, 1797, he was enrolled and was a member of the Kinmore Yoemen Infantry. That he went through the actual service that corps was in during the rebellion of 1798, the Battle of Ballyrushmeah and the insurrection of Roscommon, by the late Matthew Forde, Esq.

"That he always conducted himself during a service of nearly forty years in a sturdy, loyal and soldier-like manner, to the satisfaction of his officers. Also, has two sons, Hugh and Robert, has served with the above corps, the former two and the latter about four years with the same commendable behaviour.

Signed, M. Forde, Capt. Commanding R. Y. T., Jas. Browne, 2nd Capt., W. Shaw, 1st. Lieut., and also by 2nd and 3rd Lieuts.

As a further recommendation the applicant presented the following:

"To the character for steadiness and loyalty as given above by the Officers of the Kinmore Corps of Infantry to Samuel Dickson and sons, I give my cordial approval and am happy to add my testimony to the general character as a quiet, peaceable and industrious family. Samuel Dickson has lived in this parish since he was born and was esteemed an honest man and a useful member of Society and such I believe him to be."

Signed, L. V. Carey, Vicar, Parish of Kilmore.

Here is an application, brief and to the point, but the writer has evidently heard things about the weather in winter in Canada, and suggests provision, accordingly. The letter is undated, but was penned by a resident of Cork:

"Sir.—I beg leave to represent y'r Honour that I, and an intended emigrant for Upper Canada, am fully satisfied to embark for the same, with the Exception of my Children Being not arrayed to bear any of the Frigids.

"Nor am I provided with any farming utensils and in fine I am not able to defray any Expense to the beach. Sir, I am Anxious to know whether I am to be provided with any of the above.

"Honoured Sir, I remain, yours unexceptionally,

PETER FANE.

Those who have read 'Carleton's Tales of the Irish Peasantry," will remember the useful man known as the hedge schoolmaster. Who travelled about, imparting information and penning letters for those unable to write. Follows an application, evidently from the hand of such a person. The script is ornamented with many of flourishes, and the stilted language is typical of one doing a good job and earning his trifling fee:

"To Captain Robinson, etc., etc.—

The Humble Petition of Patrick Sammon, of Capatemon, County of Clare, humbly most sheweth:

That y'r Hon'bl Pet'r having a large family consisting of eleven members in number, Pet'rs age being 45 yrs., Margaret Sammon, his wife, 45 yrs., John Sammon, his eldest son, being of 25 yr's, and Jos. Sammon, his son, aged 22 yrs. (then follows a specific enumeration of all others by ages and names) all in sound and perfect health.

That y'r Hon'bl Pet'r was informed that you will about the middle of April next take out free emigrants to His Majesty's settlements in Upper Canada, in North America. That y'r Hon'ble Pet'r was reared very industriously in the farming line until from the Depressed State of the Times y'r Hon'ble Pet'r and family have been reduced to a state of the greatest Distress and Poverty.

That y'r Hon'ble Pet'r is humbly emboldened to solicit that you may be Graciously pleased to look on him and poor family with favor and an eye of pity and consideration on giving y'r Poor Petitioner and poorer family a Free Passage to Upper Canada in North America.

As y'r Honour will see by the annexed signatures that the above poor family are most worthy of Y'r Honours consideration. All of which is most humbly submitted by,

PATRICK SAMMON."

The applicant fortified his appeal with a host of signatures, all specified as "gentlemen." H. Walthay, Mayor of Limerick; J. Dunnay, Rector of Munheim, Limerick; four of the local magistrates of the city; W. J. Pickey, sheriff; Edmund Sheehy, P.P., in the city; the Town Clerk; the Town Crier, and many other public officials. Truly a formidable array to guarantee the condition and circumstances of the Sammon family-at-large. (The watermark in the sheet of hand-made paper is dated 1821.)

It is quite evident that at the time the envelope, as we have it now in use, had not been devised. All of the missives are written on sheets of paper, many of sufficient size to be folded several times, tucked in and leaving a clear space for the formal address. Many were sealed with wax, for privacy, and stamped with the seals of the last persons signing, for approval, the application.

Many bear the armorial bearings of titled persons, the applicant having appealed to the owner of the estate to further the cause. Earls, Lords and Knights have given their signatures and endorsations, for the routine of selection, as previously described, made for a surv val of the fittest. The papers on which very many of the applications were written is as perfect in color and texture a swhen it was used. All was made by hand and the water marks show that paper used had been made many years before being put to service. On sheets the nk is as yet, intensely black and legible. In other cases very dim and rather obscured, the ink apparently having been thinned with water. Many show the marks of having been carried about in the pocket for a considerable time.

Sailings of Transports and Ships

Among the papers preserved are the official lists taken and prepared by the Masters of the several vessels engaged to carry across the ocean the immigrants. All were, of course, sailing vessels. Those termed transports had for years been engaged in the service of carrying British soldiers and troops to points along the European coasts convenient to where Britain was carrying on military operations and in fact all over the globe. Hence these ships were well fitted to bring across the Atlantic Ocean the group of adventurers leaving the "Ould Sod" to carve out homes in the New Land. All these lists have been written with great care and give minute description as required by the shipping regulations of the time.

Eleven vessels in all were engaged. The last two on the list were those that brought out the immigrants afterwards located in the District of Bathurst, now the County of Lennox, in the eastern part of the province, and back of Kingston, on the lake front. These two ships sailed in early part of 1823. Those from Cork took departure on the days and dates as specified. Each ship was provided with a competent surgeon, drafter for the service from the Royal Navy. In this connection it is of interest to note that Dr. Reade, remained in the "Scott's Plains" and with the settlers for three years, having contracted so to do with the Government. Dr. Francis Connin remained in the village, and took up practice on his own account. He built a house and in which he lived and practiced for many years, and with him lived his two sisters, capable English ladies, who came out several years after Dr. Connin. The house in which they lived stood at the corner of Water and Murray streets, and was taken down to build on the lot the residence for Dr. Buchanan.

May 10, 1825. Ship "Star." Joseph Beckett, Master; Norman M. Morris, Surgeon. 35 men, 31 women, 214 children.

May 13, 1825. Transport "Regulus." George Drain, Master; William Burnside, Surgeon. 29 men, 25 women, 157 children.

July 8, 1823. Transport "Hebe." (Names of Master and Surgeon not given). 198 men and women, and 91 children.

July 8, 1823. Transport "Stakesby." (Names of Master and Surgeon not given). 184 persons over 14 years of age, and 91 children under 14 years.

An interesting document accompanies the shipping list from the "Stakesby," being the certified mess list for the voyage. The complement of passengers was made up in forty-two messes, with from six to eight persons in each mess. Six persons over fourteen years or eight under the fourteen year age.

A man and woman were detailed to look after the wants of the six children. In many cases one family made up the mess. Persons were detailed to draw each morning from the ship's stores the allotment of food for the mess for the day. A detail is written of these supplies, which seems ample. For each grown person one pound of beef or three-quarters pound of pork, with sufficient potatoes, rice, bread, salt, and on stated days of the week, tea or coffee. The ration was varied from day to day as to its variety of plain foods.

In general the passage occupied 31 days, at the end of which time the immigrants arrived at Quebec, and were forwarded to Kingston. Here they remained for nearly two weeks, living mostly in tents. All suffered from the intense heat of the season. The narrative of how they reached the vicinity of Peterborough has been already told in these columns, and may not be here repeated.

A Proposed Continuance of Emigration

After the lapse of three years it was considered in official circles that the mass emigration, as detailed, had on the whole, been fairly successful, and it was proposed to bring out to Canada others, many of whom had relatives already established on the Crown lands. Generally speaking, it was felt that the emigrants, by industry, good conduct and a willingness to adapt themselves to the life on which they had entered, that if others could be assisted to go forward, that Upper Canada would get what it most needed, increasing population, and a people of British habits, thought and feeling.

There had been some opposition in Ireland to such renewal of immigration, characterizing the settlement as a sort of transportation and banishment, attended with privation and misery and to represent the experimental emigration as unsuccessful.

The emigration, if carried on, would not be wholly free, but that an estimated cost of sixty pounds per family would be incurred. This to be repaid by the settler within eight years, by instalments of five pounds per year.

In order to ascertain the state of feeling amongst those already in Canada, and on the land, a questionnaire was prepared and sent to each settler, and also to many who had made Canada their home, though not under the Peter Robinson auspices. It may be here written that while the expression "settler" was used in general conversation and as a loose definition, those who came of their own volition, paid their way and acquired lands direct from the Crown were the real settlers, or claimed to be, while others coming out by the free passage were known as immigrants.

A large number of these enquiry sheets had been received, and many are with the fyles of papers. Stated questions had been printed on the left-hand side of each page, the answers to be written in opposite. These papers are of very large interest as showing the feeling and impression at the end of three or more years of life in Canada. A few have been selected, and are here printed. These are from men who went into the township of Otonabee, within the years 1821 and 1825.

A Report From Otonabee

This is the report from John Stewart, a settler in the township of Otonabee, District of Newcastle, Upper Canada, as precisely stayed in his hand-writing. Mr. Stewart was the original pioneer in the now well-known "Stewart Settlement." Answering the questions, he writes:

"I came from Renfrewshire, Scotland, in 1820. A weaver. Had Two Hundred pounds and a moderate supply of clothing. Once independent of any public assistance. Had left when he reached Otonabee One Hundred and Sixty pounds. He now had a comfortable log house, a small barn and some out-houses, twenty-five acres of his land cleared and planted, one bull, two yoke of oxen, six milch cows, seven young cattle, ten sheep and nine hogs. The family consisted of himself, (43 years), his wife, a son of ten years and three daughters. Nine had died, and in general all were pretty healthy.

In the last year, (previous to writing) he had produced ample for all needs and had sold twenty-five pounds worth of young cattle. Asked as to what the family lived on, the reply was on pork and beef in moderate quantity, flour, butter and cheese, and potatoes, and adds, the last but not least. Was he pleased with his situation in Canada and said much better than what he had in Scotland. That the comfort and happiness of the family had been increased by coming to his Canadian home, and would he advise others to come? Decidedly so, any or all could do much better than at home and better conditions.

"The question was put to him, as follows: suppose the Government had furnished you and your family with a passage out, paid your expenses to your lands, given you 100 acres, free of expense, provisions for one year, free, and the necessary farming utensils and a cow, on the condition that you should repay, after an interval of five years, the sum advanced, in annual instalments of five pounds, would you have been able to make these payments? He replied, "I think I would have repaid it in the ten equal instalments, or otherwise (I might pay more) particularly if I could have paid, as was suggested, in produce." Asked if he would think it advisable for the head of a family in Ireland, who is now poor, and lacking steady employment, to accept of such terms, said: "Most undoubtedly, and without hesitation."

The date of the above reply sheet is that of May 21st, 1828.

Views of Another Otonabee Man

Here is the report from Alexander McNevan, a settler in the township of Otonabee, District of Newcastle, Upper Canada, and who came from Perthshire, Scotland, in June of 1823.

Wrote that he was a shoemaker, by trade, had saved forty-one pounds in money and had a good supply of clothing. Came out entirely at his own expense. When he took up his land in the spring of 1824, he had one cow, fifteen pounds in cash, and provisions for one year. At date of writing he had a small house (a cabin), a good barn in progression, eight acres of good land cleared, fenced and under cultivation, 2 cows, a yoke of young oxen, 3 young cattle, 4 sheep and 3 hogs. In family, himself (40 years of age), wife and two small children. All had been confined to house by a fever the summer of 1827.

He had not disposed of any produce, requiring such for family use and stock. The family lived on pork, flour, butter, milk, and not forgetting potatoes. Said he was tolerably well pleased with his position and his comfort and happiness had been considerably increased over that afforded by conditions in Scotland. He thought, though not ready to advise, that those coming would very much better their condition.

Replying to the question, (suppose the Government) as noted in report from Mr. Stewart, he wrote: "Upon the supposition that I had possessed no means of my own and but little clothing, and had an advance of sixty pounds for my passage, etc., I think that commencing at the end of five years after my location I could and would have repaid the whole amount in the ten years as specified, making fifteen years after I had gotten to work."

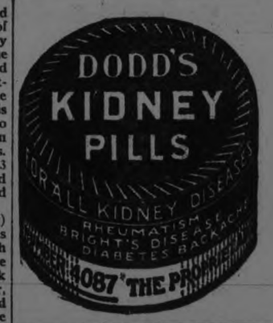
The Immigration of 1831

While, on the whole, the tenor of such reports was favorable, a renewal of emigration from Britain, under Government auspices and assistance was not immediately carried out. It was nearly four years afterwards, in 1831, when a number of immigrants arrived at Quebec, 150 of whom were sent out by the Marquis of Bath, 100 were commuted pensioners and their families, and 1700 were immigrants who had come to Canada at their own charge. The group was made up of persons from nearly every part of the United Kingdom. These were forwarded from one point to another until they reached Peterborough, where Capt. Chas. Rubidge, R.N., who acted as Immigration Agent, took prompt steps to locate them on lands as yet unoccupied. A goodly number were located in the township of Dummer, forming the first settlements in that township, while the remainder were distributed over unoccupied lands in the older townships, east and west of Peterborough. It is interesting to learn of the mode of settlement, the particulars of which are noted in a report made by Capt. Rubidge.

"Guides were sent out with them to examine the lands, and on the selection being made a location ticket was issued by the Agent, entitling the possessor to 100 acres on the fulfilment of certain conditions, in after years. A small sum of money, varying from one dollar and a half to four dollars, and by means of this and often aided by one another, a shanty was put up on the land, and the family moved in. A condition was that after the expiration of four years an annual payment of one shilling per acre during each of the second four years, so that at the end of eight years of actual residence and payment of about $80.00 they would receive a full title to the land. Considerable leniency was, however, permitted, and the amounts were seldom paid in the time specified.

During their passage through the country, and for a time on location provisions were supplied by the Provincial Government. Between the 17th of May and 29th September (1831), 87,000 pounds of flour, 24,608 pounds of pork and 366 axes were thus distributed.

In settling many of these immigrants the road which we now call the Warsaw Road, was blazed and partially opened. It was a "forced road," winding in and out, having been diverted along the route to reach this or that location, both in Douro and further in Dummer. In 1824-35 a saw and grist mill was erected on the Indian River, at what was named Warsaw, built by Hon. Zaccheus Burnham. This proved a great advantage to the settlers and quite a village grew up around the location. A Mr. Hartwell ran and managed the mills, and opened a store, a boon to the neighbourhood.



A THOUGHT

They have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind.—Hos. 8:7.

Consequences are unpitying. Our deeds carry their terrible consequences, quite apart from any fluctuations that went before—consequences that are hardly ever confined to ourselves.—George Elliot.

BEFORE MY BABY CAME

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenham, Ont. —"I took your medicine before my baby was born, and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I had started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will help others take it."—Mrs. HARVEY MILLIGAN, Sydenham, Ontario.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, run-down condition, when it is essential to the mother, as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

Chevrolet now rated as Class "A" Insurance Risk

Less than a dozen motor cars—all much higher in price—have similar insurance rating, which is the lowest possible.

THE sound construction of Chevrolet Superior Models has again been proved by the fact that the Underwriters have given to Chevrolet Class "A" Insurance Rating. This means that the Chevrolet owner gets the lowest possible rate of insurance on his car.

Less than a dozen other cars so low, and they are all cars of much higher price.

This new ruling is further evidence of the attention to detail which Chevrolet engineers have given to the design and production of the Chevrolet Car.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry has made him her Dream Prince.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife is in love with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian,

Eustace Naslo, a wealthy Greek, meets Miles and Terry at Monte Carlo, and recognizes in the supposed Million Dollar Doll, Terry Desmond whom he had met back in New York. In love with the girl, himself, he is relieved to learn that Miles' conduct toward Terry has been most chivalrous.

Mrs. Harkness, Miles' old servant, takes care of Terry on board the yacht.

Miss Caroline Sheridan, meeting the couple at Monte Carlo, endeavors to dissuade Miles from his disgraceful project. She writes to Betty of Terry's beauty and charm.

Miles, dining in Algiers with Terry, whom he does not recognize as the little girl he befriended so long ago, see Paul de Salvano with a group of strangers.

On the way to Bousaada, Miles realizes that he loves "Juliet Divine."

Miles asks the girl if she is capable of love.

In Bousaade Miles tells Terry of his love for her.

Sheridan receives an amazing telegram from the captain of the yacht.

CHAPTER LXV

Word From Aunt Caroline

If Betty Sheridan had been addicted to prayer (which she was not) she would have thanked heaven the day that "Silverwood" steamed out to sea with Miles and Juliet Divine on board.

Instead of praying, she was in a mood to dance, for she had had worries, and now she hoped that they might pass.

Paolo had been so hyper-chivalrous, so anxious to "put people off the track," that he had got himself talked about with a girl. Of course it was a flirtation,—mere "camouflage," but Betty hadn't liked hearing her friends (cats) say it was a "case" with Salvano and Rose Callahan, and how wonderful it was for both of them: Rose to marry a prince, Paolo to marry an heiress.

Rose was horribly rich—at least her father was, Samuel Callahan, of California, who had made millions in the war. Rose wasn't bad-looking, though Betty thought her a lump. The two had come to New York, to wriggle into the right set on the strength of their money.

But now Miles had gone with Juliet Divine, and the news of his escapade would burst like a bomb, in New York. Betty would "consult her lawyer" and the divorce, with alimony which would make her rich (though not as rich as Rose, even with her own small fortune left by Mrs. Parmalee) was practically in her pocket. Without that alimony Paolo couldn't marry her. He must have a rich wife.

Thank goodness the track was clear! Betty could go full speed ahead.

She telephoned to the furnished apartment where she had spent some happy hours with Paolo, before he had begun to be—so prudent. Salvano's Chinese servant answered—an invaluable man, for more reasons than one. His master was ill—suffering, and could not answer madame. No, madame must not come. The Prince had grippe—not dangerous, but contagious. Madame must have patience for a few days. When the Prince was better, he would call her up.

Betty rang off. She was disappointed—and she wondered. Was it grippe, or—certain memories crept back. Sometimes Paolo took cocaine—oh, he wasn't a slave to it, but he knew the raptures it could give, and he had brought them to her, in happier days. What an adventure it had been to learn, with him!

She had sworn off now. People had told her she looked ill, and the thing she feared most was the loss of her beauty. To save that she'd slam the door of paradise. But Paolo?

She wrote a long letter, containing the news: Miles going, and all it would mean for both. At the bottom of the last page were a dozen crosses.

Three days passed, and then came a written answer. Paolo's love and thanks and congratulations. He was better, but the doctor had ordered him away at once. In fact, the doctor was going with him, into the country. There was no chance of a meeting till he should return. It might be gone for ten days or two weeks. But later they would make up for lost time. He would telephone the moment he got back to New York.

Betty waited. Happiness died down, like a failing spring. She longed for a sniff of the "snow," but she would not yield. She was looking so much better since she'd "reformed." And she must be beautiful, for Paolo.

The ten days, the two weeks, passed. There was no word from Paolo, no answer when she telephoned or wrote. A week's more grace she gave, and then, wearing a thick veil, she went in a taxi to the house where his apartment was. "When are you expecting the Prince?" she enquired of the hall porter.

"We are not expecting him, Madam," said the man. "The Prince has sub-let the apartment."

"Since when?" Betty stammered.

"I couldn't tell you just when, Madam," was the answer, "for the new people are friends of the Prince's. But he's been gone three weeks, moved in yesterday.

Hardly knowing what she meant to do, Betty taxied on to the hotel. There she asked for the Callahans. They had given up their suite. It was understood that they had gone abroad.

If only Betty had been going about, she would have heard the news sooner! But on Paolo's suggestion she had kept very quiet; the meek, deserted wife!

Now, she was afraid to ask people who might know, what had become of the Callahans, or to drop some hint which might bring up the name of Paul di Salvano.

There seemed to be a conspiracy of silence. Nobody spoke the two names which were of importance to her. At last she could bear the strain no longer and asked questions of Rose Callahan's friends. But Rose and her father had gone without a word. If they had sailed for Europe, they had contrived to escape reporters. Yet the idea seemed to be that they had gone to Europe. Funny, that Salvano had disappeared from New York at the same time! Oh, in the country, getting over grippe, was he? Well dear Betty ought to know. She had been one of his best friends, and had stood for him always.

Italy! What if the party of three had gone to Italy—to Rome, where Callahan could have a look at the family palazzo, and see if it was worth the money. One or two people had heard—and passed on the gossip that, although the old man had been keen on the Prince at first, he had heard stories, and had not been so cordial towards the last. This ought to have been cheering. But Betty was past the stage of being cheered. She went home, her heart like lead, for it knew what her head tried not to believe; Salvano had ceased to care if he had ever cared. He had gone after the heiress, a young, unmarried girl, whom he could marry without displeasing his father, the Duke d'Almarra.

On the hall table in her own house, as she crept in like a shadow she saw two letters with foreign stamps. Her pulses leaped, but neither envelope had Paolo's writing on it. One was addressed in a hand she didn't know. The other was adorned by the stiff Victorian penmanship of Miss Caroline Sheridan.

SO WITH MUSIC

John Milton poet statesman and musician was admittedly one of the greatest constructive minds of history. From epic heights he divined great human truths which have ever since been a guide to the race. Yet he was first of all an educator. His writings upon education revealed his characteristic penetrative insight. In discussing the acquisition of many languages he pointed out that the mere ability to think in different terms was not thought itself. His fear was that students by learning to speak many tongues ancient and modern might not learn the real meaning and essentials of human wisdom in their efforts to get a linguistic technic. In the education of an older day there can be no doubt that this was the case. The substance was forgotten for the form.

So it was with music. Anyone can remember the small minded teacher of yesterday who made an open brag that no pupil of hers was ever permitted to have anything but scales and finger exercises for at least one year. That was her first confession of musical virtue.

To-day the music teacher tries in every imaginable manner to capture the beginner's real musical interest. In doing this there can be no question that teachers and some books and system makers have run amuck. So much pandering is there to interest that the whole work is delayed to the point of tedium that exhausts the patience of the child and makes the adult indignant.

Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs~Most Satisfactory for Re-Roofing

YOU will get the greatest possible satisfaction from your re-roofing job if you use Vulcanite Hexagon Slab Shingles or Vulcanite Roll Roofing. Vulcanite Roofing lays readily right over the old shingles.

Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs are easy and economical to apply because of their extra width and because they space automatically, saving time and money. Their patented design makes the roof double thick everywhere—giving absolute protection and a pleasing, tile-like appearance.

Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs or Vulcanite Roll Roofing make a solid, fire-resisting roof for years and years. Beautifully surfaced in red or green crushed slate.

Vulcanite Roofing of the same high quality also comes in individual shingles, four-in-one slab shingles and in rolls, both slate surface and smooth finish—for home, farm and industrial buildings. You can identify the genuine by the Vulcanite name and the Beaver trademark.

These Tests Prove Vulcanite Quality

1. Lay the sample on a hot radiator for 12 hours—see if it will melt or dry out.
2. Lay the sample on ice for 12 hours—then pour boiling water on it. See if the sudden extremes of temperature affect it in any way.
3. Soak the sample in water for 12 hours—see if its weight shows any absorption.
4. Immerse the sample in nitric, sulphuric, muriatic or other ordinary acid—see if it is affected.
5. Lay a glowing hot coal of fire on the sample—see if it sets fire to the sample.

Pure Reading Matter — by Jack Lait

CHORUS GIRLS are generally written as to their origin, their synthetic gin, their shortcomings and their proclivities for upsetting the orderly and Christian routine of the tired business man. But few professional scribblers have the courage to picture the poor jane who really thinks $35 a week—some weeks—is a lot of money, and who is boob enough to enter chorus life in good faith for just what it claims to offer.

Nevertheless, road shows are alive with and Broadway shows have cases of pretty dearies who break their ways into the ranks of the merry-merries because the pay is more attractive than the stipend for selling enamelware in a basement or parceling out the items on the greasy menu of a beanery.

Oh, yes; there are still girls whose idea of making a living is to work for it, and who prefer to display the allurements nature gave them to hoisting wheat cakes or feeding a rotary press. They should be taken aside and informed that they are taking advantage of a specialty profession which owes its recruiting punch to the storied potentialities of the heavy sugar daddy's soft heart, but they do go on jimmying their way into choruses and pushing girls with the true instinct of furnishing bizarre apartments and ordering chauffeurs about, out of a dishonest living.

"Yes—but the outside money—the married business men?"

Betty Fitzallen (nee Bertha Fitzpatrick) was one of the few. In all her pre-theatrical existence her whole family had never accumulated more than eleven dollars at any known time, and when a neighbor girl, who wasn't the pride of the mothers in that ward, whispered to Betty that she was knocking out the Actors' Equity scale of $35 per week, with one-eighth extra weekly on the road in the States where Sunday shows were countenanced, Betty pricked up her ears. Why, her father, who punched trade-marks in cakes of soap, didn't earn as much.

She had the neighborhood scandal take her downtown and introduce her to a hard-visaged bird, who sized her up like a market buyer assesses a pound of fish, and she was hired.

And why shouldn't she be? Betty sprang of healthy, rounded, physically perfect stock. Her ancestors had never known enough or had enough to damage the line. Strong men and vigorous, robust, apple-cheeked women had been her forebears. And the ex-stagehand who picked the peaches that established the owner of the show as a shark on beauty gave her the east and west, the up and over and the all around, and growled that she'd do.

Within a few days she got the call. The temple of the arts summoned her to appear at 9:30 a. m. and bring "practice clothes," the same meaning an old shirtwaist and a pair of bloomers. The director put her through the multifarious and nefarious gyrations that went with the numerous numbers, the other girls wised her under their breaths, and Betty—humble Betty of the district where lived the "middle classes"—became one of those that belonged to the newspapers, the loose-talking "sports" in front, and the wise commentators on things Broadway.

Betty went through the ramifications of learning the rudiments of the business. But she successfully ducked the famous temptations, because girls who are born and meant to beat that game do, no matter where they penetrate, as girls destined to maintain the mathematical average of feminine cussedness keep on outnumbering them.

She went home each night to her home in Flatbush tired, uninspired, sleepy, and still encased in muslin underthings. It didn't take her long to learn—and understand—that most of the cuties who served with her in the ranks had other ideas and ideals of life. They all dressed in the same big room, and the intimacies there would have made a stevedore shudder. But Betty had her own notions of what she wanted, what she thought and what she believed. And while she held nothing against the other girls who had ethics diametrically different from her own, she kept her own books and lived her own life.

No one molested her much. Tales to the contrary notwithstanding, a good girl can wend her pacific way along the Great Alley without being bothered a great deal. Now and again some overreaching John or some misguided scene-shifter will "office" her, but the same Providence that gave the gnu her horns and the jackass her kick gave the girl her instinct for dulling the edge of the unwelcome attack and standing off the persistent he-vamp who isn't convinced with one "No!"

The other girls, taking in even those who are the most "liberal" in their views, are the first to help rather than to fight a girl who seems to sincerely desire to be let alone. The dyed-in-the-silk chorus girl has a hot hatred and a cold contempt for the pretender; but when she meets a genuinely and sincerely circumspect girl, she beholds her, first in doubt, next in wonder, and finally in admiration. And that girl she will defend and support in her resolutions. That is the rule of the sisterhood, rarely challenged.

Betty, therefore, after a solid season of continuous endeavor in one of the niftiest musicals on The Street, was the same unsullied, sweet kid she had been before, except that she had worked hard and faithfully, was a bit tired, and had some three or four hundred dollars laid away in a savings bank account.

When the show closed for the Summer, as most theatrical enterprises do, she thought of a vacation. And she picked a farm not far away, in New Jersey. It offered no advertisable inducements beyond fresh milk, fresh air, fresh yokels and kerosene lamps. That just about summed up Broadway Betty's estimate of a glorious interlude between the hard season in Manhattan and the forthcoming tour of the principal cities, and she journeyed forthwith to the mosquito-bitten acres where boarders in the hot months paid the taxes for all the dreary ones.

And she liked the place. The cow interested her, the smelly barn was a never-wearying novelty, the beets and the bees and the growing fruits and the weedy pond all appealed to her.

And, most of all, she was taken with Pete.

Pete looked as though he had stepped out of a rural satire. It didn't seem possible that, so near New York, there could be a freckle-faced youth in overalls, a rough straw hat with huge brim, a front tooth out, and worms for bait in a tomato can.

Betty had heard of such things and seen them in the phony movies. But here was the cat's own whiskers in what the know-it-alls of Times Square would call a "type." And a "type" means a sort of person that exists only in plays. The makers of plays meet "types" in real life, but say "there ain't no such animal." Then they put them into "pieces" and think they have invented something.

But it took more than a tinpan rote-writer to invent Pete. Only a sudden whim of nature could have the magnificent bravado to present him and dare all-comers to demand an accounting.

Pete was fourteen, raised on a turnip patch, educated in a wooden crossroads school house, sophisticated by the grocery-store loafers, corrupted by the second-run village movies, a smart Alec, a perfect sap, and model material for the sort that runs away to the city to make his fortune and become in time head shipping clerk in a beaver-board plant.

He gazed upon Betty with awe and misgivings. When he learned that she was a chorus girl—and he had seen the movies and read the boiler-plate, mind you—he knew that he had been right in the first place. When she evinced more interest in him than she did in the eggplants, he felt his verdict verified; this good-looking sorceress from the most corrupt school of metropolitan perdition was set to undo him.

Yet Pete, being only human, was fascinated. In the dark hours of his own councils he admitted it to himself—he was badly hit; yes, bo, he was mightily and helplessly in love!

He wouldn't have admitted it to anyone, least of all to Betty. But his heart was nicked. He knew how the hairy-chested sailors had felt when they heard the song of the Lorelei and saw her combing her golden tresses with a golden comb on a bleak boulder that meant destruction, but beckoned on. He understood now what Antony had seen in Cleopatra and what Samson had found in Delilah.

He had met city gals before, and hadn't trusted any of them very far. But here was a chorus girl, and all that he had seen, heard and dreamt. That she talked to him about the every-day things on the farm never fooled him; she was just getting his confidence; that she treated him as a kid didn't pull any wool over his vision—she was disarming him.

No one about had mentioned it to him, except that he had heard the school teacher and the auto accessories salesman, the other boarders, discuss her, and state unequivocally that a chorus girl was a chorus girl—no matter what she pretended.

He didn't need any tips from strangers. He was no rube, even though he was a rube. He guessed he knew what a Broadway chorus doll meant, all right, all right. And he was rent between his mad temptation to be her fool-there-was (which he shared with bigger and older and wiser men) and to resist (which he shared with fewer but better men).

He found that he couldn't keep away from her. He knew so much about the things about which she knew so little, and she seemed so eager to know this and that; and, after all, he was the son of the landlord, and he deluded himself into believing that he really believed he ought to be hospitable and helpful as possible for the goodwill of the shabby, scraggly estate.

So he guided her when she wanted to wade or angle for the unemotional sunfish in the nearby brook, or hike through the scrub woods, or feed the pigs, or look for eggs. She scared him, she thrilled him, she drew him on and she warned him off, but he became her constant escort, her devoted knight.

It didn't require a Pete for this situation. Bankers, lawyers, authors, murderers, artists, senators, champions, chauffeurs, stars, professors, pickpockets and other important men had worn the path smooth through all the walks of history.

He looked up into her eyes and down at her pretty calves and all around her young, trim, trained figure—and he sighed and writhed and tried to appear nonchalant.

But he was getting in deeper and deeper, and before Betty was on the farm a fortnight Pete wasn't sleeping nights or 'lighting days.

Betty, poor innocent, who had read insidious mash notes from millionaires and too-honest impassioned letters from explosive youths without more than a yawn, never saw any of the frightened, fascinated, fearsome worship in the eyes or the expressions of the country lad. To her he was just a growing child, willing and obliging, whom she would never see again after she left the place.

She never imagined that he had planned to marry her, to kill her, to kiss her, to neglect her, to break her heart, to break her arms, to write her a letter that would rattle her back teeth, to write her poetry, to throw himself at her feet, to throw something at her head. It would have all caused her to lift her brows and disbelieve.

But to Pete it was an adventure growing hourly. He was a fatalist who was ready to accept the dictums of destiny which sent Betty to that farm, of all places, not an accident, but a visitation.

He had made up his mind a dozen times to propose marriage to her; to tell her he was not the sort of man who would encourage her ways—oh, he knew what life in the chorus meant!—but that he would forgive her and afford her the protection of his honest name if she would foreswear the wicked paths of her past and be thereafter a decent, gossip-fearing, Christian wife in a country where he would never be forgiven for marrying her, but where she might in time, by good deeds and steady church-going, break into society.

Again he would scorn the thought; but that was always followed by stock-taking of his own feelings, with the result that he realized he adored this speckled pheasant with all he knew about the virtues of wholesome barnyard hens. It was his first love, and he was man enough to know that he loved her, as most men do love, because he shouldn't — and that was a powerful and strangling passion, far beyond that which his mundane father had ever given his worn-out mother or the farmhand across the road lavished on the village telegraph operatrix.

He realized that, though he should put up to her the chance of marrying him and becoming a good woman in New Jersey, she would probably have a longing for the old life—the wild old life; she would become restless, she would yearn for the lights and the wine. Would he then sternly bid her go, or shut his eyes while she sneaked away? No; his love was too elastic. If she craved the scarlet highways and the drab byways of the modern Nineveh, he would put on his Sunday suit and go with her. In his heart he had always wanted to see New York and take in the Hippodrome, anyway.

He even secretly loved her the more because he was sure of this. Yes, he knew all the girls in the village and on the adjoining farms — even the pretty school teacher—and he had never found more than a passing allure in any of them. Why? Because they lacked that romance, that forbidden, that siren charm that led rough men across the deadlines put up and barbed by conventional men. It must be that there was a strain of the adventurer in him—maybe from some remote ancestor; he had heard his uncle talk of a great-grandparent who was a scallywag and a knife-trading Sabbath breaker.

Down in his heart he knew that he loved her not despite what she was, but because of what she was.

He had been flaing with her at the edge of the foolish stream, drinking in her inane observations, finding hidden significances in her most meaningless miens. She had waded in and he had gone beside her, steering her punctiliously past every snag and every stone he knew so well. The sun had gone up mercilessly and Betty had retired to the shade of an old tree on the bank to read—she had brought with her a book.

Pete was busying himself about, circling her, doing handsprings, pointing out to her various manifestations of nature such as it flouished on that flat, forlorn farm. Betty, who liked the youngster, tried to be receptive, and even responsive, but she was interested in the book.

"What ye reading?" asked Pete.

"Oh, a book I brought along."

"Yeh? 'Black Oxes?'"

"No," said Betty. "Nothing about cows. This is about a girl."

"Aw, don't josh me," said Pete. "Them are notorious books—I read what the papers said about 'em, an' I seen 'The Sheik' in the movies—with Valentino. You seen it, too; don't deny it."

"I never did. I don't get much chance to go to movies—with shows and rehearsals and my sewing and——"

"Sewing? Ain't you got a colored maid?"

"Don't make me split my lip."

"I bet you have. Say—I ain't no boob, even if I do live out here."

"I didn't say you were a boob. You're a nice boy—only don't be so wise. Those books you talk about may be considered very peppy down here, but up in town I never heard of them. The gang I run with around home don't read much, and the crowd I mingle with in the theatre don't read at all. I got this book from my aunt—for Christmas—a whole set."

"Your aunt? Is she an actress?"

"Good Lord, no; she's a cashier in a cafeteria."

"Well, why don't you get her a home and servants and a car—she's your own flesh and blood, ain't she?"

"With what? I make $35 a week—when I work."

"Yes. But the outside money—the married business men——"

"I don't know any. Say—who's been telling you all that hokum? I'm a respectable girl, Pete, I am, and don't you go around with any such simp bunk in your mind. I go home every night straight from the theatre, I give most of my pay to my mother, and I'm engaged to marry a clean, ambitious, grand boy—he's a street car conductor now, but he's studying nights to be a mechanical draughtsman."

Pete staggered, caught himself, looked to see whether she was laughing.

"Say," he chocked at last, "what's that you're reading?"

"This? Oh, one of a series about a girl named Elsie—they call the set the Elsie books. You see, I——"

Giants Take Third Game of the Series by Score of 1-0

STENGEL WINS SECOND GAME IN THREE DAYS FOR THE GIANTS WITH HOME RUN BLOW INTO BLEACHERS

Decided the Third Game of World's Series As He Had Won the First—Back Into Limelight Again, Almost Forgotten By the Fickle Crowd.

PITCHERS' BATTLE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Cast permanently, it would seem, in heroic mold, Casey Stengel — "Casey the Immortal"—smashed the New York Giants to victory with a home run drive this afternoon for the second time in three days of record breaking World's Series strife with the Yankees.

Lashed into the right field bleachers of the Yankee Stadium in the seventh inning, Stengel's blow broke up a tense, thrilling hurling duel between Art Nehf, southpaw star of the Giants, and "Sad Ham" Jones, of the Yanks, and gave the world's champions their solitary, but sufficient margin, in a brilliant 1 to 0 triumph.

The greatest throng that ever paid its way into a baseball arena— 65,000 frenzied fans who were massed into the gigantic enclosure — while 30,000 more swirled about the entrance outside, saw Stengel deliver the blow that gave John McGraw and his warriors a two to one advantage in the most stirring baseball drama of all time.

Record Crowd.

All World's Series records for attendance and gate receipts were shattered by that vast gathering in baseball's greatest amphitheatre. The actual paid attendance was 62,430, besides 3,000 more who did not go through the turnstiles, while the total receipts were $201,072, putting the three game figures beyond $500,000 and practically assuring for 1923 the first million-dollar championship in history.

The paid attendance broke the former record of 60,331, established during a double-header at the Stadium late in the regular season, while the gathering as a whole has but one superior in size, that of approximately 70,000 that witnessed the dedication of the big structure last spring.

For a day, Stengel had stepped out of the limelight, while Babe Ruth rose to the pinnacle of fame with two circuit clouts that swept the Yankees to victory in the second game of the third successive title struggle between these Gotham rivals. But to-day "Old Casey," bowlegged but lion-hearted, knew again the call to glory that was his when his ninth-inning home run gave the Giants their first triumph — and again he answered its summons.

Stengels' Feat Unequalled.

Perhaps the setting to-day was not as dramatic as in the first game, but that mattered not to Casey, for the result was just as effective and gave to the veteran a record that has no equal in World's Series annals—the feat of winning two games with home runs in a single championship. Its nearest approach is the work of "Home Run" Baker, who won two games for the old Athletics with circuit blows, but in separate series—1911 and 1913.

And so, stripping to its essentials the classic of 1923 in which the home run punch so far has played a monumental role, the score stands:

Stengel—Two victories.
Ruth—One.

Jones Brilliant.

It was a heart-breaking setback for Jones, melancholy moundsman of the Yankees, who pitched even more brilliantly than did his southpaw rival, Nehf in triumph. And so, it was doubly disastrous for the Yankee machine, for with defeat, they lost also, at least temporarily, the services of their star first baseman, Wally Pipp, who weakened again his wrenched ankle in sliding to second in the seventh inning and was forced to leave the game.

Just how serious is Pipp's injury could not be determined to-night, but the general belief prevailed that it might cost the Yankees his services for the remainder of the series, and thereby jeopardize the chances of the American League champions. His ankle swathed in bandages, Pipp was able to hobble about after the game. He declared he would be ready to go back into the line-up tomorrow, but Miller Huggins, mite manager of the club, shook his head pessimistically.

Put Ruth at First.

"I can't tell until to-morrow whether Pipp will be able to go back into the game or not," declared Huggins. "His ankle is swollen and giving him much pain, of course, but it may be possible to work it around into condition to-morrow. In the event he is unable to go in, I will switch Ruth to first base, where he finished to-day's game, and probably use Harvey Hendrick or Elmer Smith in right. I may send in 'Hinky' Haines, who took the Babe's regular post for the last few innings this afternoon."

For eight innings Jones, the hero of a no-hit performance this season, baffled the Giants, save Stengel, with a marvellous change of pace and superb control, yielding but four scattered hits, while Nehf was being found for six. Except for Stengel, but one Giant got as far as second base, but that mighty wallop of Casey's wrecked the Yankee twirler's masterpiece just when it seemed close to completion. Coming back in the eighth inning after that crushing blow, Jones displayed his metal by striking out Bancroft and Groh in succession, but he was withdrawn in favor of a pinch hitter in the Yankee half of that inning when Huggins directed his last desperate, but futile attack.

Joe Bush, victim of Stengel's homer in the first game, held the Giants hitless in the ninth.

Ruth Was Passed.

Facing the first real crisis of the series, John McGraw played his ace, Nehf, and the nervy little southpaw came through with flying colors. His work was but slightly less effective than that of Jones. Three times he faced serious threats by the Yanks and on each occasion he rose to the emergency and turned back his foe. In only one inning, the fifth, did the Yankees gather more than one hit off Nehf.

He issued three passes, two of them purposely to Babe Ruth, and each time the strategy, unpopular though it was to the crowd that wanted to see the Babe "bust 'em," was vindicated.

For to-day, the elementary encounter betwjeen "Brute Force" and "The Master Mind," typified by Babe Ruth and Manager McGraw, was in the background. It was McGraw's turn to apply the punch again with Stengel to decide a pulse-throbbing duel, but the Babe, hero of yesterday, was largely eliminated from the picture, though not of his own choosing. Ruth was ready to carry on where he left off in the second game, but he was given scant opportunity.

McGraw Played Safe.

Such of McGraw's strategy as came to the surface to-day was designed to eliminate Ruth from the danger zone and it was done by Nehf with neatness and dispatch. Twice the Babe came to the bat with prospective runs on the bases, once in the fourth when Joe Dugan started the inning with a double, and again in the 8th, with Dugan again on base. But, knowing what one devastating clout might do to a game such as Nehf and Jones were twirling, McGraw ordered the Babe passed intentionally and both times Bob Meusel fell down miserably in the emergency.

In the fourth Meusel drove into a double play, eliminating Ruth and himself while advancing Dugan to third, but Pipp was an easy victim for Frisch and Kelly for the third out.

Again in the eighth, with two out and Dugan on first by virtue of a force out of Whitey Witt, Ruth was walked, and again, with two men on base, Mesul failed. This time he flied out to Stengel to end the inning.

Groh's Fine Play.

The inning before, the seventh, saw the most dangerous rally of the Yankees, a sortie that was checked by a sparkling play by Heinie Groh, the most brilliant bit of defensive work of the game. With Meusel out, Pipp walked, but on Ward's shot to Bancroft, the first sacker was forced at second, the play in which he twisted the ankle which had kept him out of the game for ten days prior to the series. After a delay in which his ankle was bandaged and he limped from the field, Schang sent Ward to second with a sharp single to left.

Scott caught one of Nehf's curves for a wicked smash down the third base line. Groh dived, somehow clutched the ball and then lunged forward. Fielder and runner reached the bagged simultaneously it seemed ,but Groh was there first by just the fraction of a second necessary to make the put-out and end the inning.

Ruth's only hit, a single to centre, went to waste in the first inning while two bingles by the Yankees counted for nought in the fifth. Ward opened the latter inning with a hit to left. He was forced by Schang, who advanced a bag on Scott's infield single, but a Giant double play again nipped the rally, Jones hitting to Frisch, who completed the two-ply killing by way of Bancroft and Kelly.

Yankees Were Helpless.

Except for these few spurts, the Yankees were helpless before Nehf's sweping curvs. Four were retired on striks, Jones and Witt fanning in succession in the third, Ruth letting a third strike cut in sharply on him in the sixth, while Ward was whiffed in the ninth.

The story of the Giant attack is the story of Stengel's home run. But two hits were garnered off Jones in the first six innings; but five got to first altogether. Bancroft walked and Frisch singled in the sixth, but the rally was short-lived.

No one was prepared for Stengel's mighty stroke in the seventh, except perhaps Casey himself. Fans seemed to have forgotten his feat of two days before, while to Jones and the Yankees he was just another Giant to mow down. But Jones took one chance too many and when he shot an in-curve down Stengel's groove, there was a crack, a roar and Casey, in his uncontrollable glee, danced rather than trotted about the bases with the run that won the game. Where he had won a race with throwing arm and ball in his first great victory, he had a triumphal procession to-day.

Victor In Third Game

Art Nehf, Giants' lefthander, blanked the Huggins entry in Friday's game, letting them down with six hits.

VARSITY MEETS M'GILL TODAY

The Toronto Team Expect Victory in Montreal.

MONTREAL, October 12. — The University of Toronto intercollegiate Rugby players arrived in the city this evening for their game with the McGill squad at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium to-morrow afternoon, and in the wake of the Blue and White warriors came a host of supporters of both teams—the annual McGill-Varsity game being the traditional classic of the local Collegian's home season, and the struggle that invariably brings back the graduates from nearby cities and towns.

The invading players were reported in the best of condition by the officials of the team and led by the sturdy Captain Westman and that stellar back field player Warren Snyder, the Blue and White appeared a formidable aggregation to the local supporters who welcomed them at the station and at the hotel where they have taken up their headquarters.

While the loss of Al. Young, their promising half back, who was put out of the game for the season with a broken bone in his leg on Thursday, was a severe blow to the growing optimism in Coach Coryell's camp, yet the Blue and White players and supporters anticipate a victory against the Red and White on Saturday. With a young team this season they do not look for anything like the simple task they had here last year, but expect to be forced to the limit to jump into the running for intercollegiate honors in their first big battle of the year.

Shawkey And Scott Are Next

NEW YORK, October 12. — Jack Scott and Bob Shawkey are expected to take the mound in alternate half innings to-morrow, when the Giants and Yanks meet in the fourth game of the world's series at the Polo Grounds. In the event McGraw finds Scott unready, Rosey Ryan appears the likely substitute. Waite Hoyt who was batted out of the box in the first game will be ready to serve them up, should Shawkey fail Manager Huggin's expectations.

BELMONTS WIN IN LAKEFIELD

Played Exhibition Softball With Picked Team From the Town League.

LAKEEIELD Oct. 13.—A scratch team from the local softball league played the visiting Belmont Club from Peterboro last night in an exhibition game in the rink before quite a large crowd. The Belmont players performed like professionals and won by the score of 20 to 8. Lakefield put up a good game considering their comparative experience in this sport.

The teams were:

Belmont—Holyman, p; Haskell, c; Lowe, 1b; Stuart, 2b; Williamson, 3b; Batten and Cunningham, ss; Fanning and Heckman, outfielders.

Lakefield—Grier, p; Connell, c; Marling, 1b; Northey, 2b; Hull, 3b; Sherin and Rev. Mr. White, ss; Clarke and Tanner, outfield.

DAINTY AND TYSON AT WORLD'S SERIES

Bringing Back a "Nifty" Pitcher, Probably Bob Shawkey.

Dainty and Tyson, the Oshawa Central League team's battery, are doing the Wallingford stuff, shuttling between the Polo Grounds and the Yankee Stadium this week in a Cadillac limousine as guests of the General Motors Corporation. "Al" Tyson rubbed his Alladin's lamp a couple of weeks ago and has been visiting friends in Brooklyn, but Dainty didn't get away until Tuesday.

They will be treated as royal guests by the world's largest motor manufacturers says the Oshawa Telegram. When the "Duke" was approached by the Telegram just before he left on Tuesday, he stated that he was simply leaving on his holidays and that his firm were showing he and Ty. a good time while attending the series.

When asekd about next year's the clever pitcher?

"Just as soon as my three weeks holidays are up," replied Mr. Dainty. The pitcher went on to say that if President Dedman and Secretary Nott had treated the locals the way they should have, the entire team would have possibly made the trip to see the Yankees and Giants play.

When asked about next years team Dainty stated that several new faces would bolster up the local team. "Three are here now and are working" continued the mainstay of the locals and while I'm away I'm after two others of first class calibre. "One of the niftiest little right-handers who ever pitched a ball," stated Dainty.

The "Duke" then told the Telegram that by January 1, 1924, the sweetest team that ever wore an Oshawa uniform will be in readiness for the next season's work. When approached about Oshawa going into the T.A.B.A. withdrawing from the Central League a remark was passed to the effect that Dedman-Nott and Co. would not catch Oshawa Centrals asleep another year and that he thought a general shakeup of league officials was the only hope of salvation for the league. With Kingston as the latest to get the "dirty stick" from the O.B.A. Mr. Dainty says several clubs of the Central League would withdraw at the annual meeting, and apply for entrance into the T.A.B.A. This move would no doubt be greatly increasing the strength of the Toronto organization as well as giving the individual clubs better satisfaction than they are receiving from the hand of the O.B.A. and its lesser bodies.

FABER WINS FIRST WHITE SOX GAME

Defeated Cubs in Chicago Post-Season Series.

CHICAGO, October 12 — Urban Faber, star spit-ball artist, and hero of the 1917 World Series, hurled the American League team to its first victory over the National Leaguers in the city series here to-day. Faber downed the Cubs 4 to 2, being afforded fine support, and displaying the old cunning which marked him as the leading pitcher of the league in former years. Score:

Billy Evans Says

Mack Satisfied With Athletics' Showing.
Blames Slump on Lack of Pitching.
Hopes to Finish Fourth Next Season.

In a sense the big disappointment of 1923 was the mid-season slump of the Athletics, after a start that caused the experts to pick a first division berth for Mack's team. However, the person most concerned in the success of the Athletics is not at all discouraged over the failure of the team in the first division. I have reference to Connie Mack.

Unquestionably Mack has the ideal temperament for a major league leader. Few managers could have stood the strain of finishing in last place for seven years after having been accustomed to direct pennant winners. That was Mack's portion from 1914, the year he broke up his club, until 1922 when he broke the ice and landed in seventh place.

In June the Athletics were in second place, a dozen games better than .500, and regarded as a logical contender for the pennant. Sitting on the bench of the Athletics prior to the start of a game, I commented on how well Mack's team was going. He agreed with me and said while he hoped for the best, he didn't expect so young a team to maintain such a fast clip throughout the season.

Connie Mack is a thinker. When he speaks there is much logic back of his words. In this respect I vividly recall his comment at that time which was as follows: "If I continue to get good pitching my club will make plenty of trouble. If the pitching fails me it will raise havoc with my club." That afternoon Pitcher Naylor, the league's leading pitcher at the time, was injured and from then on the Athletics suffered from lack of pitching. The slump was on.

From second place in June, the club within a few months had dropped to seventh, and was in dire danger of slipping into last place at several stages of the race. It would seem that such a tough break would spoil the disposition of the most-even-tempered manager. Not so with Connie Mack. No doubt most baseball enthusiasts look on the showing of the Athletics of 1923 as a failure, but not Mack. Here is the way he figures it:

"In June I hoped to finish in the first division, fourth place being my goal. In August I realized that such a hope was out of the question. My thought then was to win more games than we did last year. This we have accomplished, so that I feel the Athletics of 1923 have made a better showing than the Athletics of last year. I regard that as an improvement. That is the aim of every manager. I have an improved ball club and it's going to be even better next year. I feel that we would have finished fourth this year had it not been for a run of hard luck and that is the position I will be shooting at next year. I seek to improve each year, and feel that inside of three years my club will have considerable to say about who is going to win the pennant."

DOMINIONS TO

sions of gratitude from overseas have been numerous since Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame announced that the Government had been converted to partial preference, there is no indication that Australia and New Zealand will be satisfied until meat is included in the list of preferred articles. For this reason the free traders throughout the country are actively preparing to repel the protectionists' attacks.

Appeal to Women.

One of the first steps they have taken along this line is to put their side of the issue before the British housewife, who, they urge, would be forced to pay increased prices for foodstuffs under the preferential policy. The executive officers of the Women's National Liberal Federation have passed a resolution declaring that organization viewed with alarm the signs of a protectionist campaign, and urging all Liberal women to reaffirm their faith in free trade.

Government officials, however, point out that the Liberal alarm is being fostered largely for fall political campaign material as the Government forces, as well as the avowed free traders, realize that the adoption of any general preferential scheme while the people are in their present state of mind concerning the prices of foodstuffs would be likely to prove suicidal to themselves.

CHEAP CUTS IN MEATS

Much has been said the last few years about the cheap cuts of meat. It is perfectly true that some cuts of meat are less expensive per pound than others. But if more fuel must be used in cooking the "cheap cut," if there is less edible meat in the whole and if more pounds must be purchase for a meal, the merit of the cheap cut as such is nil.

However, if housekeepers will plan to cook these cuts that require long cooking while the oven is going for baking, the cost of fuel is decreased.

The waste is made up in the delicious flavor of the dish. Casserole dishes combine vegetables with meat in such a way that all juices are preserved.

By using all the meat the housewife makes it possible for the butcher to sell the choice cuts at a more reasonable rate. If women demand porterhouse exclusively the butcher finds roasts on his hands to such an extent that he must charge a seemingly exorbitant price for the meat he does sell to make up for what he can't market.

Saturday morning when the oven is hot for baking put in this rolled flank of beef. Then at dinner time reheat the oven for an hour and bake the extra vegetable or pudding while the meat is finishing.

The meat will cook some in its own heat and the heat of the cooling oven in the morning so an hour at dinner time is plenty of time to thoroughly cook the dish.

Rolled Flank Steak

The steak should be scored by the butcher or at home before preparing for the oven.

Make a paste of ½ teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar and 3 tablespoons vinegar. Spread meat with paste, cover with stuffing, roll and tie. Dredge with flour and bake as suggested for two hours in a slow oven.

Stuffing—One and one-half cups stale coarse bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon minced onion, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, hot water.

Mix salt, pepper and onion with bread crumbs. Add melted butter and mix well with a fork. Add hot water carefully, mixing with the hands. The dressing should be just moist enough to hold together, but not sticky or pasty.

Do not roll the meat too tightly. Bind securely with cord. When ready to serve cut the cord and remove from roll.

Casserole of Meat

One cup diced carrots, 1 cup diced potatoes, ¼ cup diced turnip, 1 large onion, salt and pepper.

Spread steak with paste as in preceding recipe. Cut meat to fit the casserole. Oil casserole well with bacon fat. If the steak is cut in three pieces put a third of the vegetables in the casserole. Arrange them in layers, slicing the onion through them. Season with salt and pepper and add a piece of meat. Continue layer for layer of meat and vegetables until all is used. Add one cup boiling water, cover and bake an hour and a half in the morning and an hour at dinner time. Serve from casserole.

Flank steak is also spread with the paste, "smothered" in thinly sliced onions and baked in a frying pan with one-half cup of hot water in a slow oven for an hour and a half or two hours.

The long cooking and the vinegar break down the tough tissues of the meat and leave it very palatable and nourishing.

SPEEDY PLAY IN SOFT BALL GAMES

Bowlers Defeated Rotary by 7 to 3—Dragoons Won From Triple Links.

Last evening two very fast and exciting games of soft ball were played in the armouries. For the third time the K. of C. failed to show up and lost by default the game being awarded to the L.O.L. 50, 9-0.

In the other two contests between the Bowlers and Rotary, and the Triple Link and the Dragoons, the fastest play in the armouries this year, was seen. In the first game between the Bowlers and Rotary some very spectacular plays were made by McPherson, Goodfellow and Chief Gimblett, who started a triple play which was quite successful. The Bowlers won by the score of 7 to 3, which however, does not indicate the closeness of the play. The teams lined up as follows:

Bowlers—Carr, lf; Gillum 2b; Freman rf; Gimblett c; McCarther 3b; Martin, ss; Dick 1b; Ross ss; Fox, p.

Rotary—McPherson ss; Abbot 3b; Primeau, p; Laurie 1b; Graham c; Kenneally rf; McHardy ss; Turner lf; Goodfellow 2b.

Score by innings:
Rotary.... .. ....000300000—3
Bowlers .. .. 02001031x—7

The next game was contended by the Triple Link and the Dragoons, the latter winning by 15 to 6. These teams were tied 6 to 6 at the end of the seventh. But in the eighth when the Dragoons came to bat they hit everything Pierrie offered. The Triple Link tried hard but could not score in the ninth and had to take the short end of the count.

The teams lined up as follows:

Dragoons'— Sloane c; Cooper 2b; W. Miller, ss; Ecobischon 1b; Hill, rf; and Bierne; Sheahy ss; Murray p; R. Miller 2b; Nicholls lf.

Score:
Triple Link . . .. 140001000— 6
Dragoons .. .. .. .12001029x—15

LAWN TENNIS

Bowness and Jackson are Champions

Bowness and Jackson are the champion men's doubles tennis team for 1923. They beat Dr. Scott and Gale in a hard four-set match yesterday afternoon at the Peterborough Tennis Club courts and came through as worthy champions.

Weather conditions were ideal and the play was fast all the way through. Dr. Scott and Gale were brilliant in spots, but the sustained steadiness of Jackson and the good net play of Bowness eventually prevailed and their margin of superiority is just about indicated by the scores: 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

The winners started slowly and were outgeneralled in the first set, but when they found their stride they were invincible. Jackson covered a lot of ground in the back court, while Bowness tucked away everything he could reach at the net.

The finals in the mixed between Mr. and Mrs. Langley and Dr. McPherson and Miss Young is the only remaining event in this year's tournament.

and his desire was to test the speed without warning teachers or pupils. This school will be visited in the near future.

Queen Alexandra School.

In Queen Alexandra School the system of fire drill is good, the 380 pupils marching out of the building in 56 seconds.

King George School.

Best marshalled, probably, of the Public School pupils, the children at King George School walked out in well arranged order. There are 400 pupils, who left the building in 1 minute 51-2 seconds.

The Principal here has adopted the plan occasionally of blocking one of the entrances and diverting the children through another door, thus providing for the eventuality of an entrance being rendered impassable. The boiler room was very clean and free from rubbish.

Big boys in this school have been detailed to go through the cloak rooms to see that all the children are out, and arrangements are made to carry cripples from the building.

The Principal has adopted the plan of holding four or five drills during the first month of the school session and one each month thereafter.

Immaculate Conception School.

There are two buildings to house the pupils at Immaculate Conception Separate School, where a hand bell furnishes the only fire alarm. There are 235 pupils in the two buildings, which were cleared in 44 3-4 seconds. Chief Gimblett asked the teachers to keep the children at a walk.

Central School.

A locked door at Central School caused some confusion when the alarm was sounded. It was explained that in winter there is an icy pavement at this door, and the Principal does not care to have the children become accustomed to using the door in summer. There are 320 pupils in the school, and they were clear of the building in 60 seconds.

Comparison Impossible.

Comparison of the times taken to clear the different schools, Chief Gimblet said, would be unfair in view of the varying facilities. Some of the schools have much narrower doorways and corridors than others; some have three floors, while others have only two, and the ease of descent depends largely on the class of stairway.

The following tabulation will be of interest to school Principals and parents, however, in showing what the dierent schools are able to do:

King Edward, 497 pupils—1 min. 6 1-4 secs.

Queen Mary, 475 pupils—52 secs.

Prince of Wales, 650 pupils—58 1-4 secs.

Collegiate Institute—No system.

South Central—No system.

Queen Alexandra, 380 pupils—56 secs.

Queen Alexandra, 380 pupils—56 secs.

Central School, 320 pupils — 60 secs.

St. Peter's Separate, 450 pupils—1 min. 47 secs.

St. Peter's Convent, 220 pupils — 40 1-2 secs.

Immaculate Conception Separate, 235 pupils—44 3-4 secs.

Sacred Heart Separate — Not tested.

Normal School—Not open.

Steady Pace is Best.

Fire Chief Gimblett told the Principals of the schools that a steady pace is better than a rush in getting out. It is better he said, to take a few seconds longer and eliminate the danger of accident.

PREDICTS AUTOS ON STREETS WITH RADIO

Dr. De Forest Has Patent Pending For Linking Up These Agencies.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Be prepared to see automobiles travelling through the streets with radio as regular equipment.

This, in view of a prediction made by Dr. Lee De Forest, popularly known as the father of radio broadcasting and one of the most prominent radio engineers in the country.

"For several years," says De Forest, "I have had a patent pending that links up the automobile and the radio.

"It calls for a horizontal loop built into the top of a limousine, with a little receiving set and a loud speaker inside the car so that the motorists can tune into any broadcasting station and listen while the car is in motion.

"There are two points about this that will interest the motorist.

"One is that he can get entertainment at any time, no matter where he is or where he is going. The other has to do with solving an annoyance that has been the experience of probably every owner of a limousine.

At the Opera

Suppose, Mr. Car-Owner is attending the Metropolitan Opera. After the opera, he wants his car and the chauffeur's call number is flashed on the electric sign board. But, as it always happens, the chauffeur is around the corner or any place except the spot where he can see his number.

"If the car is equipped with a receiving set, the opera house or theater can announce the call number and the chauffeur will get it, no matter where he happens to be, in sight or out of sight.

"This applies equally well to department stores who use carriage calls for their wealthy women shoppers.

"Of course, there is a good deal of preliminary work to be done before such an idea can come into general use.

Other Places, Too

"Places of amusement, stores, clubs and all such institutions which are patronized by wealthy folk, will have to install small broadcasting stations of sufficient power to be able to call the drivers of the limousines. Their range need not exceed one mile, and their wave-length will be much shorter, or much longer, than those reserved for ordinary broadcasting.

"Motor-car manufacturers will have to be assured that such stations exist before they will build receiving equipment into the cars. The Jewett-Paige automobile companies are already interested in this idea of car-radio equipment.

"Nevertheless, it is a pleasant contemplation of a luxurious use to which radio will be put and it is far from being merely a dream. It will not take so very long, either, to realize it, for now adays in radio, progress is advancing almost with the speed of the waves we utilize."

NICOTINE

Prohibition of tobacco was discussed privately and earnestly by many of the delegates to the Anti-Alcoholic Congress in Denmark.

The rising generation will witness a big campaign for the suppression of Lady Nicotine. The idea of tobacco prohibition may seem impossible of attainment. That was the way the public viewed the fight against Demon Rum in its early days.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

With a great deal of pardonable pride the Capitol theatre announces that Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, the feature attractions will be William Fox's super picturization of A. S. M. Hutchinson's world-read novel, "If Winter Comes." Like the explosion of a bomb came the crashing verdict of another truly remarkable production, following the Broadway engagement of "If Winter Comes" last Spring in New York where this photoplay was presented at $2 prices Harry Millarde, who made "Over the Hill", directed "If Winter Comes" and has succeeded in putting on the screen the great characters of Mark Sabre and Nona with remarkable realism. The success of the production is undoubtedly due to the fidelity with which the director has followed the story as told in the book. The incidents and the characters are those created by Hutchinson in writing "If Winter Comes" and so the tremendous and startling power of the story is shown on the screen with all its mighty action and gripping intensity. Peterboro theatre-goers will recall "Over the Hill" as one of the finest pictures they have seen but in offering "If Winter Comes" the Capitol presents an attraction that is even greater than "Over the Hill." This is proven by the fact that wherever shown "If Winter Comes" has played to greater crowds than "Over the Hill" thus proving its superior qualities as an entertainment that is bound to please everybody. "If Winter Comes" as a novel sold many million of copies the first year it was out and its broad appeal to all clases of people assures it being 100 per cent. entertainment as a picture. Capitol patrons are requested to be seated as early as possible as "If Winter Comes" is a ten reel production and requires a full two hours for showing. The last three days of next week another big program will be offered comprising the official Dempsey-Firpo fight picturs showing in fast and slow motion the details of the great fight in ring-annals. Larry Semon in his latest comedy "The Gown Shop" will provide the laughs while the feature will be Jack Holt in "A Gentleman of Leisure."

AT THE REGENT.

Charles Jones, the William Fox actor, who combines such exceptional qualities as acrobatic skill and histrionic personality, will be seen at the Regent Theatre in his latest William Fox vehicle "Skid Proof," from Monday to Wednesday. He is supported by Lura Anson.

Judging by the reports that come from cities where this picture has been shown, "Skid Proof" provides Mr. Jones with the most flexible and varied role of his career. Laid in New York, at the time of the Transcontinental Auto Race, the scenes dash boldly from thrill to thrill in a wonderful series of kaliedoscopic views.

The story involves a strong conflict of emotions, a headlong case of love-at-first-sight yet all is treated with that zippy, airy, delightful touch that characterizes all of Scott Dunlap's directorial efforts.

Charles Jones is concerned in the tale as Jack Darwin, the youth who wins cups for his ability in driving racing cars. The Transcontinental Auto Race has among its entrants, one Hardy Zeeker, driver of the Dorado. He is a mercenary fellow, taking no pride in his victories. Dutton Hardmere, owner of the Dorado, is observing the progress of the race from an airplane. He sees his driver, Zeeker, pull up his car and stop, just after he had gained a great lead and was certain of victory. Hardmere descends, furious with the driver, certain now that he had been bribed to give up the race.

Hardmere makes Zeeker drive to a garage, where he meets Jack Darwin, played by Jones. Darwin attempts to finish the race in the Dorado. He fails as a result of the obstacles set in his path by Rufus Tyler who bribed Zeeker. But he meets Nadine.

His subsequent trials at the hands of Tyler form a continuous chain of rapid-fire events that bolt from the screen with the force of a maddened bull. His great daring doesn't even shrink from crossing a burning bridge.

AT THE ROYAL.

ROYAL CROWDED TO THE DOORS LAST NIGHT.

"The Face in the Barroom Floor" proved itself a winner last night when the Royal was sold out at 8 o'clock and many turned away. The Leonard-Tendler fight pictures no doubt had something to do with the immense crowd. Both attractions are up to the standard maintained by the Royal, and patrons are advised to get-in early Saturday night.

TOM MIX AND FAMOUS HORSE TONY AT ROYAL MONDAY.

In his latest picture, "Stepping Fast," Tom Mix exchanges his famous Stetson for the small white hat of a sailor during part of the action, in which the star plays the role of a young ranchman who inadvertently gets mixed up with a gang of international crooks. Then the fun and the momentum begins and "Stepping Fast" is Tom's middle name.

He works his way to China as a stoker on a tramp steamer to get the treasure map from the crooks. There he meets and saves the life of the girl whose father entrusted him with the stolen secret. Then they race back across the Pacific in hot pursuit of the crooks.

Once on good old American soil, Tom and the girl, who is none other than Claire Adams, fling themselves into Tom's racer. With cutout open and engine roaring like a young cyclone, they speed across the desert to the site where the treasure is buried.

There a novel, yet terrific, battle takes place. Tom mauls a couple of the crooks, but the third one escapes with the treasure on horseback. Tom, nothing daunted, leaps into his racer and gives a demonstration of fast trick riding that is guaranteed to make your heart pound on the double-quick. He heads off the horseman at every turn, and finally, standing up in the racer, leaps atop the rider, dragging him to the ground. This picture will be shown at the Royal Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

CAMPBELL MORGAN.

Question 6.

If mankind are delivered from death, for what purpose are they given life again? This is an important and far-reaching question, and demands earnest consideration. The full ransom price being paid by Jesus for the release of man from death which is the penalty for sin in this present life; it is easily seen that if man after his release goes down into death again, it will be on account of not turning from sin to righteousness in the age to come, for Jesus has made full satisfaction to justice for sin of man in this age. God has appointed a day in which He will judge the world in righteousness. That judgment or trial day will have reference to man's course of action, after receiving life again. All will then be judged, except the chosen few, the elect, who will have had their judgment or trial in this life, and proved themselves worthy of eternal life. Rev. xiv., 4, 5. That this judgment day will be a day of hope and blessing to man is evident on account of it being a day of rejoicing and gladness. Psalms xcvi., 12, 13. (To be continued). 1d

Society

Mr. and Mrs. I. Skolnick, 66 Pine Crest road, announce the engagement of their daughter Beck, to Jack C. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith, of Peterboro, Ontario.—Toronto Star.

An enjoyable afternoon tea was held on Thursday of this week in the parlor of the George Street Methodist Church, under the auspices of one of the committees in charge of the Christmas Fair. A musical programme was provided by Mrs. Renwick in which vocal solos were given by Mrs. I. Clark, Miss Murray and Miss McBain, and instrumental selections by Miss Nugent and Miss Gardiner. Miss Phillips acted as accompanist.

Miss May Perry left yesterday for New York, where she will attend Miss Theodore Irwin's School of Acting on Riverside Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Medd are spending the week-end in Toronto.

Ladies from Anglican Churches of the city who attended the meeting in Campbellford yesterday of the W.M.S. Auxiliary to the Deanery of Peterborough included the following: Mrs. R. C. Blagrave, Mrs. J. J. Howden, Mrs G. Evans, Mrs. H. E. Connolly, Mrs. E. Beatty, Mrs. Harris, and Miss Amy Halliday.

Mrs. R. H .Guy, of Ocean City, N.J., is the guest of the Misses Thompson, Smith Street.

The field day luncheon held by the ladies of the Reception Committee of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club at the Clubhouse on Thursday of this week was well attended. The pretty living-room at the Club was made attractive by decorations of autumn leaves and flowers, and the lighting of the fireplace. Two competitions, in charge of Mrs. H. W. Cressman, preceded the luncheon. Miss Rosamond Huycke winning the putting contest and the golf ball donated by Mrs. A. H. Stratton and Miss Helen Davidson winning the 18-hole tombstone competition. Among those present were Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Mrs. Edward Wood, Mrs. P. Bond, Mrs. A. E. Coulthard, Mrs. R. Grant, Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mrs. R. H. Turner, Mrs. H. W. Cressman, Mrs. R. B. Boucher of Toronto, Mrs. D. Lawrie, Mrs. F. D Kerr, Mrs. J. W. McDermid, Mrs. Geale, Mrs. Donald Edwards and Miss Marion Edwards of Toronto, Misses Edwards, Kingan, H. Davidson, R. Huycke, G. A NEW YORK PREACHER GEORGE STREET SUNDAY

Dr. R. W. Sockman Will Speak at Both Services—Special Music.

To-morrow is Anniversary Day at the George street church, and is to be observed as a special day of Thanksgiving for the blessings of God showered upon the church during its long history. The preacher of the day will be Rev. Dr. R. W. Sockman of New York City. Mr. Sockman is pastor of one of the most important Methodist churches in New York, the Madison avenue church, situated on Madison avenue, at 60th street. Dr. Sockman is well known both as a preache: and a writer and comands a great influence in the councils of Methodism. His career has been a meteoric one, having led him to great prominence in a very few years, and his brilliance and ability are beyond question. He will preach at eleven o'clock and seven, the evening subject being "Suburbs of Christianity."

The choir has prepared an unusually inspiring programme of music, and splendid services are certain. Pewholders are requested to be in their places as early as possible, both morning and eevning.

Stomach and Liver Trouble.

Mr. Milton J. Wentzel of Kutztown, Pa., writing under date of April 23, 1923, says:

"I have suffered with stomach and liver trouble since I was nineteen years old — I am now fifty-three.

"I have consulted many medical doctors and have followed their advice. I would get temporary relief at first, but after I had used their medicine a while, the old symptoms would return and I had to try something else for relief.

"I was finally convinced to try Chiropractic. I consulted with our local chiropractor, who told me that I had a chance to enjoy better health, so I began taking Chiropractic adjustments. I noticed improvements soon after I began taking the adjustments.

"Now I can enjoy my meals, and it is not so difficult for my wife to prepare meals for me. I sleep well, a thing I very rarely did before taking adjustments. The heavy congested feeling in my head has left; I can think more clearly and I have more pep now than I have enjoyed for years. I feel like another man.

"To those who suffer I wish to recommend that they try Chiropractic, for it does remove the cause of disease. I have written this testimonial in order that sufferers may be convinced and benefited through Chiropractic adjustments."

MANY PEOPLE ARE OUTSIDE CITY OF GOD

Commuting Is Common But True Christian Abides in God's Word Declares a New York Preacher.

MAKE A SURVEY

"How does a man know when he passes the line into the Kingdom of God?" asked Rev. R. W. Sockman, of New York City, in the course of his sermon in George Street Methodist Church last night, based on Mark xii., 34: "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God." The occasion was Anniversary Sunday, and the day was observed in thanksgiving for the success of the church in its long history. Special music was presented by the choir, and the building was well filled.

"There is at all times a need for Christians to make a survey to find where this line of division lies," the speaker said, "but it is especially necessary at this time. We in the Christian Church have been leaving much to the imagination, we have not been drawing the line between the sheep and the goats. There is a want of definitiveness about what is Christian and what is not."

One of the many current beliefs is that it does not matter what a man believes so long as he does what is right, Dr. Sockman said. "That is one of the seeming puncture-proof statements that weak minds carry around to save themselves thinking." Each man draws the boundary line of the kingdom of God according to his own blue-prints. Jesus, however, drew very definite boundary lines on four occasions.

Some Are Commuters.

The first boundary line is, "If ye abide in My word then are ye truly My servants." "Some men," declared the speaker, "just commute in and out of Christ's word. There are many men who will accept Jesus' teaching when it sounds reasonable to them and declare Him a dreamer in other things."

The second dividing line is, "If ye have love one to another." This is brotherliness. "We all have our moods when we feel brotherly, as after a good dinner. It is easy to be brotherly when all the senses are under an opiate of ease.

"We have our fields of brotherliness, too, and neglect those outside. But Jesus did not limit His brotherliness. He loved republicans and sinners. We must create love between individuals, between industrial classes, and between nations."

"That ye bear much fruit" is the third indication of God's kingdom. The Christian must be a better workman, a better thinker and a better character than the unchristian man. "There are men and women," said the speaker, "who are making their money in a society that the Church stabilizes and who are rearing their children in the society that the Church protects, and yet they themselves are doing nothing for the Church. These people share no burdens—they live in the suburbs of the City of God."

The fourth line of demarkation is found in "Let him take up his cross and follow me." Many people think their family troubles and duties are a cross. "The cross is a voluntary burden that a man assumes; it is a load he carries for a neighbor, for his city, his country, when he might lie down under it. That is the mark of a Christian."

Revival Possible.

"When I see the number of people who are so close to the Kingdom of God and yet outside it, who accept part of the teaching of Christ, who desire to produce fruit and yet lack the fineness that is Christian, the people who are manfully carrying these post-war burdens and are close to the kingdom and yet not quite in it, when I see all these people then I think that America has the making of a great revival. If we of the pulpit can so advertise to the world what is in the Kingdom of God that those who are outside shall see the life and light that abides there they will move in."

Arrest Four Men For Making Drink That Killed Five

PANA, Ill., Oct. 15.—John Tokoly, proprietor of a soft drink parlor, his two sons, Paul and Stephen, and Robert A. Smith, a chemist, were ordered held without bond on charges of murder by a coroner's jury which investigated the deaths of five men presumably from poisonous whisky, here on Thursday. The jury returned a verdict that the men died as a result of drinking fusel oil in whisky sold them by John Tokoly.

Tokoly, with his son Stephen, is under arrest at a hospital where they are suffering from the effects of drinking the beverage. Paul has not been apprehended and Smith left the city on Friday afternoon, telling his wife he was going to Pekin, Ill.

Three more men were taken to the hospital on Friday suffering from the effects of the poisonous liquor, bringing to six the number of persons who are in a critical condition as a result of drinking the beverage.

Doctors hold out little hope for their recovery.

TRADE HORSES SAYS CITIZEN

Ottawa Paper Thinks Meighen May Be Displaced.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press).—It may sound absurb, but opinion is being expressed even with in the ranks of the Conservative Party that Premier Howard Ferguson may be the next Premier of Canada," says the Ottawa "Citizen" editorial to-day. "More than the purchase of ice cream for Little Quebecers will be required of Mr. Ferguson before he can break the solid phalanx of sixty-five members who sit together on what is claimed the Liberal side of the House. But it is quite possible that with assistance of Robert Rogers and memorizing of one speech in French language he might commend himself as a likely winner to the commisariat department of Conservative party in Montreal "Sir Arthur gives no hint of being ambitious to lead party cohosts with wooden sword in the cardboard battle of politics." The editorial continues: "the schemers who are hunting to discover a new leader to groom for the Dominion Premership, would perhaps be really of use to Canada if they were to relieve Mr. Meighen of his present position. As the Conservative party leader he is lost to the country. He has talents and courage that would be of great service to Canadian people if he were once freed from the impossible task of trying to interest reactionaries in something more than plans for their own aggrandisement. There would be greater public confidence in Mr. Meighen as a national leader, however, if he were to make a break with the reaction himself, rather than wait until schemers displace him."

TRAPPED BY FIRE BURNED TO DEATH

Woman Also Severely Injured in Leaping From Window.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Six persons were trapped in an attic and burned to death, and the seventh, a woman, suffered grave injuries in leaping from the flames from a fire which early to-day destroyed the three-story frame dwelling in the Bensonhurst section of Brooklyn.

The dead are Mrs. Lillian Andrews, her son Charles and daughter Margaret, George Kyne playwright, Francis Poncho Fowler and Miss Roberta Wigert.

Mrs. Anna Andrews, who was trapped with the others in the attic of the building, leaped through the window, sustaining internal injuries which may prove fatal.

PRESIDENT SAYS BABIES WANTED TO SAVE NATION

France's Decline in Birth Rate Both a Grave and Tragic Problem These Days.

GERMANY FEARED

PARIS, October 15. (United Press) —"France must have babies, and make men of them," declared President Millerand, when he donned the Sunday mantle of Premire Poincare on his provincial tour of speechmaking on the German situation, saying that France's declining birthrate was both a grave and a tragic problem. The president told the people of Euvre that increase in the birth rate was a pressing governmental problem.

Birth Rate Alarming.

"Babies tie up with the German situation here, for France is genuinely worried over the alarming drop in the birth rate which has followed the war. Reports of large families in Germany add to the fears that France may be dominated by the bulk of the German population alone."

Praised Poincare.

Discussing the Ruhr situation, Millerand praised Poincare's firm and tenacious foreign policy, saying that it would bear fruit at an early date, and thus permit France to take up problems of assuring internal stability.

Praises Nation's League.

"The League, for which France furnished the idea centuries ago, has not only promised greater results, but has justified its existence by accomplishment, in spite of the blows against it," Millerand said.

The president confirmed Premier Poincare's attitude by stating that France would hold her guarantees until Germany had paid, and he defended the French position as "generous" in view of Germans attitude.

Honest to a Man.

"The French nation is honest to a man," he said. "This can be proved by our attitude both inside and outside our frontiers since the war.

"French law is based on respect for the treaties. Thus after three years of waiting our action which was based on the Treaty of Versailles can be considered generous in princouple.

SAYS A CLEAVAGE EXISTS IN RANKS

Irish Free State Army Said to be Scene of New Outbreak.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press).—An anonymous Irish correspondent of the Morning Post alleges that dangerous crisis exists in Free State army. He says that for months past, there has been an absolute cleavage in army from top to bottom, but that some of principal officers are to be or have been court-martialled, having come out in open insubordination against the government. The correspondent asserts that the Minister of Home Affairs O'Higgins insists upon extreme measures and the removal of mutinous officers. The Morning Post is strongly Unionist and is hostile to the Free State Government.

PROVINCIAL OFFICERS BET AT RACE TRACK

And Action Hinges On The Validity of Jockey Club's Charter.

TORONTO, October 15. Canadian Press. — Hon. W. F. Nickle, the Attorney General, announced this morning that the Belleville charter, under which the London Jockey Club of Niagara held its first race meet near Niagara Falls on Saturady, will be investigated, in addition to the charter issued to the London Club some time ago.

Mr. Nickle was asked whether immediate action would be taken in vie wof the fact that provincial officers placed bets at the track on Saturday.

"That hinges on the validity of the charter," replied the Attoreny General.

YANKS COME FROM BEHIND IN EIGHTH SCORE FIVE COUNTERS

Home Run By Ruth in First Only Run Scored Off Giant Southpaw in First Seven Innings of Today's Game.

SNYDER'S HOMER

POLO GROUNDS, New York. Oct. 15.— (Canadian Press.)—Gates to the Polo Grounds were opened three hours before the sixth game of the World's series was scheduled to start to-day, but there were only three hundred or more in line awaiting to enter.

Rain, which fell in steadiness all morning up until noon, shooed away the early risers and fellows with $1.10 had no trouble getting a good seat in the bleachers at one o'clock.

The drizzle was damaging to the size of the early crowd, but it didn't seriously injure the diamond. When the tarpaulins were pecled off the infield, the turf looked soft but playable, and after a critical examination had been conducted by a squad of experts on loam it was decided to play to-day. By one o'clock the sun was breaking through the clouds and there was a promise of a clear afternoon. Giants trickled out on the field to loosen up tight muscles that, with Yankee pitching, have bound them into the most critical situation either of the teams have faced in the series.

Jovial, smiling and dashing, the squad of Yankees soon followed the National leaguers on to the field. The American leaguers were gay and went to work with an air of gleeful abandon.

The teams lined up as follows:

Yanks—Witt, c.f.; Dugan, 3b.; Ruth, r.f.; R. Meusel, l.f.; Pipp, 1b.; Ward, 2b.; Schang, c.; Scott, s.s.; Pennock, p.

Giants—Bancroft, s.s.; Groh, 3b.; Frisch, 2b.; Young, r.f.; E. Meusel, l.f.fli Cunningham, c.f.; Kelly, 1b.; Snyder, c.; Nehf, p.

First Innings.

Yankees—Witt sent up a high fly to Groh. Frisch tossed out Dugan. Ruth scored on a home run into the upper right field stands. Meusel struck out. One run, one hit, no errors.

Giants — Bancroft flied out to Witt. Groh singled into left. Frisch got a single off Pennock's leg, Groh going to second. Groh scored on Young's single to centre and Frisch was thrown out at third, Witt to Dugan. Meusel fanned. One run, three hits, no errors.

Second Innings.

Yankees —Nehf threw out Pipp.

FIFTH FLOOD OF YEAR FOR CITY

Canadian River Runs Rampant to a New Record.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press)—Oklahoma City's fifth flood of year already has inundated virtually the same territory covered last June, and the swift moving North Canadian River is rushing onward to the inevitable record flood crest. By to-morrow the river will have an additional five feet to its present stage of 14 feet it is predicted. The stream is now an irresistible force from one half to seven miles wide.

DOMINION BANK SOLID AS A ROCK IN EVERY WAY

And All Reserves and Investments in Excellent Condition Says Statement from Head Office.

RUMORS REFUTED

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press).—That the Dominion Bank of Canada is absolutely sound, with all reserves and investments in good condition, was the substance of a statement issued this afternoon from the head office of the institution here.

The statement followed an unprecedented withdrawal of deposits on Saturday, and to-day at the head office and some of the local branches of the bank, particularly in the savings departments. Offices of the Dominion Bank, particularly in the foreign quarters of this city, were beseiged by thousands of anxious depositors. Several policemen were required to keep the lines in order. All marked cheques and deposit withdrawal cheques, when duly marked, were promptly cashed.

Started By Foreigner.

The rush for withdrawals was said to have started from the fact that a foreigner presented a cheque after closing hours on Friday afternoon, and payment being declined, he assumed that the bank was in trouble. Rumors spread rapidly, and in a short Saturday morning business of the bank there were very heavy withdrawals. Rumors persisted all day Saturday and Sunday without denial or the issuance of any official statement. It was not till this afternoon that the bank authorities thought it advisable to make a statement.

On the Stock Exchange here the Dominion Bank stock was the strongest bank stock in the market. Nearly 500 shares were bought this morning at 185, an advance of one-half since Friday.

TO FIX WAGES OF FEMALE WORKERS

Wage Board to Strike Rate For Women in Electrical Trade.

On October 16th, 1923, at 8 p.m. the Minimum Wage Board of the Province of Ontario will hold a public hearing for the discussion of the proposed decree fixing minimum wage rates for female workers engaged in the manufacture of electrical supplies throughout the Porvince.

The Board proposes to impose the same regulations upon this group of trades as were generally imposed upon the fatcory trades. Thus, the minimum wage for an experienced woman worker in Toronto is to be $12.50 per week. In the other larger cities of the province it is to be $11.50 per week. In cities and towns of population ranging from 5,000 to 30,000 it is to be $11.00 per week. Throughout the rest of the province it is to be $11.00 per week. Lower rates will be permitted for apprentices. Special permits may be issued for any workers who are handicapped by reason of accident, ill health or old age.

Anyone may attend this public hearing and present any criticism or comment whatsoever. It is the custom of the Minimum Wage Board to hold this public hearing in connection with the issuing of each of its orders. These orders are never issued until after a thorough investigation of the wages paid in the trades concerned, which is later followed by a discussion of the Minimum Wage levels suggested with groups of employers and employees. In every case the decisions reached by the Board have been approved by these representatives of employers and employees. The last step in the deliberations of the Minimum Wage Board is this public hearing which affords a chance for anyone whatever to make any statement he may wish regarding the order that is soon to be enforced as law.

A Warning to The Joker Who Sends In False Fire Alarms

One of the comic strips a few weeks ago told the story of a joker who sent in a false alarm to the fire department. He was in Peterborough on Saturday night.

An alarm was turned in from Box 31, on Park street, and on arrival of the fire trucks no one was at the box, nor was there any sign of a fire.

The peculiar thing about these false alarms, which are frequent, is that no one ever sees the perpetrator. "If we could only catch one," the Assistant Fire Chief said, "it would stop the whole business." It would at least take the smile out of the joke for that particular person.

Sometimes one of these people who jeopardizes the property and lives of citizens by calling the department to the outskirts of the city on a false alarm, will be caught, and the heavy punishment provided by law will be imposed.

SIX MEN LOST NEAR DETROIT

Rowboat Struck By a Steamer and Only One Man Saved.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Six foreigners in a row boat, being smuggled across the Detroit river at Ecorse, twelve miles down the river, were drowned early this morning, when a lake steamer hit the boat and upset it. Aledes Godessian, aged 40, said to be an Armenian, was the only one saved.

The lake steamer was moving down the accident happened. The rowboat was travelling without lights and was invisible in the dense fog that hung over the water. The steamer struck the boat and hurled its occupants into the river. It kept on its course, apparently unaware of the accident.

Aledes Goddessan was pulled from the river by Mike West, a resident of a houseboat on the United States' side of the river, who heard frantic cries of the floundering persons.

The dead are: Elmas, aged 22; Ozisanma, aged 18 and Hosgart, aged 18, children of Abdes Godessian, and Haig, aged 14, and Vageney, aged 16. Children of Godessian's brother and an unidentified Canadian pilot. Government immigration authorities and Ecorse police expressed the belief that the Armenians were being smuggled into the United States from Canada. This belief was strengthened when it was learned that the Armenians had made application to be admitted into this country four weeks ago, but due to the Armenian quota being filled their application was refused.

ALLOCATION TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Numerous Projects In Britain Are Now Under Discussion by Heads of Nation.

LONDON, October 15. (Special.) —It is authoritatively reported that the speech on Tuesday of Sir Montague Barlow, the Minister of Labor will deal with the Cabinet's proposals to ameliorate the condition of Britain's unemployed two millions.

Numerous projects for the absorption of the unemployed group into industry, are under consideration, and it is reported that the government is considering the allocation of 20,000,000 pounds ($91,000,000) at present exchange, for elaborate public works, roads and reclamation projects wherein the men could be

PUBLIC MARKET STORMED BY A STARVING MOB

Leipzig Unemployed Also March in Great Crowds Through City, Breaking Into Food Stores.

TROUBLE IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Oct. 15. — (Special). — The unemployed stormed the public markets of Leipzig this morning and marched in great crowds throughout the city, breaking into stores wherever they could get past the cordons of police. Many stores have bolted and barred their doors in an attempt to protect their dwindling supplies from the plunderers.

All available police have been called out to disperse the crowds by splitting them into small groups, so they can be more easily handled and prevented from engaging in fatal clashes.

Several Wounded.

Several persons were wounded in a midnight attack on the Mayence Town Hall, according to Berlin despatches to the Exchange Telegraph.

The police repulsed the attack after sharp fighting.

Berlin messages report that the Minister of Transport had ordered railway men in the occupied areas to resume work on Wednesday.

Ordered to Work.

Minister of Communications Oeser has issued a manifesto to railwaymen in the Ruhr occupied territory instructing them to work for the Franco-Belgian railway administration and take the required oath, which has only disciplinary significance.

A STRUGGLE IN WHICH HUMAN LIVES AT STAKE

LONDON, Ont. Oct 15.—Crowded corridors and jostling, pushing mass of curious people, have no place in the plans of the Crown authorities at the trial of Sydney Murrell and Jack "Slim" Williams, for the murder of Russell Campbell at Melbourne in April, 1921, which opens to-day before Assizes here.

The County buildings will be strictly guarded and attendance at the trial curtailed as much as possible. T. J. Rigney of Toronto who will represent the Crown in prosecution of prisoners, arrived from Toronto yesterday. J. M. Donohue of this city, who appears for the defence, had his final conference with Williams and Murrell this morning and both sides are now ready for the struggle in which human lives are staked. It is expected that considerable time will be taken up in selection of a jury.

PUPILS AND THEIR PRINCIPAL PRAISED

Remarkable Achievement By Young Folks of the Central School.

(Contributed.)

The Home and School Society of the Central School held a very enjoyable open meeting, when a large number of the parents and friends of the graduating class assembled to see them presented with their Entrance certificates.

A. A. Fowler, chairman of the Board of Education, very ably presided, and made a few appropriate remarks on the success of Mr. Downey in the teaching profession and of the achievement of his pupils in the Entrance Examinations, 100 p.c. having passed. He also spoke of the friendly feeling which the Board of Education had for the home school associations, and of their desire to co-operate with them in the great work of educating "The Child."

The following programme was acceptably rendered:

Piano solo, Miss Helen Burns.
Reading, Miss Margaret Reid.
Vocal solo, Mrs. T. Curvin.
Reading, Miss Evelyn Miller.
Duet, Miss and Mr. Allen.
Piano solo, Miss Alda Bartlett.
Reading, Miss Ina Terrace.
Duet, Messrs. Allen and Howden.

Successful Pupils.

Certificates were presented to the following pupils:

Alda Bartlett, Helen Bonney, Nellie Boorman, Helen Burns, Florence Bush, Aileen Clark, Jeanette Connal, Fred Dewhurst, Stanley Elliot, Gordon Freeman, Dorothy Graham, Helen Harrison, Murray Hartley, Harry Long, Charles MacPhail, Violet McIntyre, Loraine Middleton, Evelyn Miller, Florence Muir, Tom Perks, Joe Rogow, Maretta Sanderson, Clarence Tennyson, Margaret Vincent, Cliffard Warde, Earl Welbourn, Henry Zacks.

R. F. Downey, former principal of the school, presented the certificates and in a few well chosen words congratulated the pupils and wished them every success in life. He referred to the cordial relations which had existed between him and the home and school association of Central School, and asked that the new principal be accorded the same assistance from the association as he had.

K. Wightman gave a brief talk on the work of the school and the progress made in sports. He asked the parents to visit the school and talk over any difficulties with him.

The president, Mrs. F. Miller, on behalf of the Home and School Association, congratulated R. F. Downey and his pupils, and extended a hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Wightman. She also thanked all those who had taken part in the programme and announced that the next meeting would be on November 9th, when Mrs. J. Kendry would give a talk.

Dainty refreshments were then served under the direction of Mrs. W. Stenson, by the girls of the graduating class, and a social half hour was spent.

FOR SALE

Second hand box stoves, cook stoves, heaters, rubber belting, rope, blocks, pulleys, pipe, and 2 show cases.

We also have a limited quantity of nut and pea coal for sale.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

This cake recipe might well be named "three in one" cake. But there are even more than three ways of varying the rule, and with remarkable results.

The whites and yolks of eggs may be used, or just the yolks, saving the whites for frosting. When eggs are scarce this is a decided economy and the cake itself is a delicious yellow cake.

If two tablespoons cocoa are added the cake develops into a fluffy devil's food without the effort of grating and melting chocolate. Here is a saving of time in both the grating and dish washiog. By the addition of spices a tender soft spice cake, requiring no icing, results.

Or a layer cake with a custard filling and chocolate icing can be made when eggs are more plentiful and there are guests "to tea."

Half the rule can be used, saving the white of the egg for a Washington cream pie. This is an excellent "emergency dessert." Jam or custard can be used for filling and the egg white well beaten with two tablespoons of sugar piled over the top.

Cake Recipe

One and one-half cups sugar, ½ cup butter and lard mixed (scant), 1 cup sour milk, 2 cups flour, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening and sugar. Add yolks of eggs well beaten. Mix and sift flour, cream of tartar and salt. Add to first mixture and mix perfectly smooth. Dissolve soda in sour milk and stir into mixture. If whites of eggs are used add, beaten until stiff and dry, the last thing before baking. Turn into an oiled and floured cake pan or two layer-cake pans and bake in a moderate oven.

To measure shortening: Fill measuring cup half full of water, add enough butter and lard mixed to almost fill the cup. The water of course will rise to the top of the cup. The cup should be more than seven-eighths full, but not level full. Pour off water and shortening is ready to use. Lard and butter are quite as good for a spice or chocolate cake as all butter. Lard making the cake more tender and fluffy than all butter.

White or Yellow

If a delicate white or yellow cake is desired all butter gives a richer, better flavor.

To make a chocolate cake add two tablespoons of cocoa with flour, using one tablespoon less of flour as cocoa will slightly thicken the cake. The whole eggs or just the yolks are used. One white can be used for a loaf cake and one white used for icing.

To make a spice cake omit vanilla from original cake rule and add one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half teaspoon allspice.

To make a cream pie use half of all ingredients, putting the yolk of one egg in the batter and saving the white for the top.

To measure one-half teaspoon fill teaspoon level full of soda or cream of tartar or whatever is to be measured, divide in half the long way of the spoon, using a thin-bladed knife.

TWO PARKING POINTERS.

When finding it necessary to leave articles of value in the car after parking it place them in the front compartment rather than the rear. Professional thieves invariably open the rear door of a car first, as that is where they are most likely to find loose articles worth stealing. As they seldom take a chance on opening the front door after finding nothing in the rear the owner is reasonably sure that his property will not be disturbed.

Make a habit of pulling out your watch and noting the exact time when leaving your car. Do this in full view of any persons who might be standing along the street. If an officer sees you in this act he will be assured that you intend watching your time so as not to overstep the parking limit. If, on the other hand, you are tagged unfairly you may be lucky enough to find someone who witnessed you leave the car and who will agree with you as to the exact time. It may save a trip to court.

LITTLE WELSHMAN IS NOW IN THE STATES

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 15 —David Lloyd George and his party arrived here at 7.30 a.m. from Winnipeg. A small crowd was at the depot, but the official reception is not planned until 9 a.m. and the British Ex-Premier will not be disturbed until that hour. Then a Welsh delegation and Twin Cities officials will welcome him.

A drive around the city just before noon will end at the civic and commerce luncheon at the Raddison Hotel. Then the party will motor to St. Paul, where dinner will be had just before leaving for St. Charles, Ills.

LLOYD GEORGE THANKS CANADA IN PARTING SPEECH AT WINNIPEG

CANADA'S GIRLS ARE AVERSE TO SERVANT WORK

Even Highest Wages Fail to Lure Them Into Domestic Employment.

LIKE OFFICE JOBS.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 15.—(Canadian girls will seldom take work as domestics if there is any chance of finding places in offices or factories, according to J. C. Spencer, superintendent of government employment service in western Ontario. Mr. Spencer may have his ideas of the reason for this feeling, but he has not expressed them. He says, however, that "it is almost impossible, even by offering the highest wages, to get girls, born in the Dominion, to take up work in private homes."

Regarding the labor situation among men, Mr. Spencer says that despite the number who have returned from the harvest fields in the Canadian west, there are few out of employment in this district. There is still much outdoor work and as long as the weather continues favorable this of course will be proceeded with.

Husky laborers who apply for work here are sent to the northern part of Ontario where there is a demand for such in railway and power construction work. The lumber companies are still calling for more men and there is a demand for help on the farms.

Concerning reports emanating from Toronto that the employment office there is being pestered with a large number of professional loafers, Mr. Spencer says that he is not troubled with many of this class. He points out that Toronto being a more or less cosmopolitan city, naturally many loafers and tramps, in search of any easy living, journey there.

"We don't let any man out of work hang around our office longer than is necessary," he says. "We keep them moving."

BRITISH GOVERNMENT AGREES TO BELGIAN REPARATIONS PLAN GOING TO ALLIED COMMISSION

Will Be Discussed As Possible Basis of Settlement of the Question of German Payments — Fixes the Minimum Indemnity at Fifty Billion Gold Marks

ALLIES IN GENERAL ACCORD.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The British Government's acceptance of the suggestion of the Belgian Foreign Office for a reference of the Belgian reparations plan to the Inter-Allied Reparation Commission as the basis of a concrete plan in the impending negotiations for a settlement of the question of German reparations, was received at the Foreign Office to-day.

This completes the general accord by all the Allies— Italy having given her assent to the proposal Saturday—and the Reparation Commission will proceed officially to study the Belgian plan with a view to ascertaining whether it can be used as the basis for a solution of the problem of reparations when the negotiations concerning them are resumed.

The Belgian document, which was an outgrowth of many months of investigation by Belgian technical and financial experts in Germany has been unofficially before the Reparation Commission for some weeks. The French, British and Italian members of the Commission have been conversant with its contents, but up to the present there has been no official discussion or an exchange of views on it.

Minimum Indemnity.

The broad outline of the plan provides for a minimum of fifty billion gold marks as Germany's indemnity, to which is added eighty-two billion marks in "C" bonds. The plan notes that the first figure is recognized as being moderate: that it has been adopted by all the Allies, and even admitted as fair by the last International Socialist Congress, held in Hamburg.

The plan gives 3,000,000,000 gold marks as the amount in yearly payments Germany can make. It gives figures as arrived at, together with all technical documents. By re-organization of the German railroads along the lines elaborated, according to the plan, they could be made to yield one billion gold marks alone, while other monopolies, such as tobacco, wines, beer, mineral waters, sugar, salt, matches and coal if managed as the experts advise, would provide an additional 1,500,000,000 gold marks. To these figures the plan asserts, may be added 500,000,000 gold marks as the fruits of eventual participation by the Allies in German industrial enterprises.

Call Conference.

The Belgian Government further suggests that as soon as the Reparation Commission has taken full official cognizance of its plan, a conference of the heads of the Allied Governments be called.

French official circles deprecate the suggestion made in some quarters that Belgium's latest reparation move is not meeting with favor at the French Foreign Office and that it is an attempt by the Brussels Government to inaugurate a policy of its own. It was stated here today that the Belgian proposal meets with the full and complete assent of the French Government, which was the first of the Allies to send an affirmative reply to Brussels. It was added that while the French Government is unwilling to negotiate with Germany until Germany has proved her good faith ,it is always ready and anxious to discuss with its Allies all questions at issue.

The British and French Governments are said not to be perturbed over the letter of Chancellor Stresemann to Hugo Stinnes, published in Berlin, in which the Chancellor says the Reich Government is unable to undertake to guarantee payment of the German industrialists for deliveries in kind they agree to make to the Allies. It is pointed out that an accord already has been reached with several firms in the Ruhr, namely the Phoenix and the Stahlwerke Mines, which are prepared to resume deliveries without the contingency of payment having been discussed.

Wait German Reply.

The official repeal of the Berlin decree forbidding railway men to work for the French Railway Administration was the cause of some satisfaction to the French Government. In some circles the feeling prevails that normal conditions in the occupied area will obtain in a few weeks if the unemployed question is arranged. The kalescopedic changes in the Berlin situation, however, are causing a policy of watchful waiting toward Germany. The Government is still awaiting Germany's proposal on the entire repaartions question, which Premier Poincare has informed Leopold Von Hoesch, the German Charge D'Affaires, is an essential condition to a resumption of verbal negotiations between France and Germany.

GREATEST FIRE CATASTROPHE IN GALT'S HISTORY

Two Big Manufacturing Plants Were Wiped Out By Flames During Sunday Night.

VERY HEAVY LOSS

GALT, Ont., Oct. 15. — Canadian Press. — The greatest fire catastrophe Galt has probably ever known the large sash and door factory, with great stocks of timber, of P. W. Gardiner & Sons, were practically wiped out during the night, and the plant of the R. McDougall Co'y, adjoining it, was almost competely destroyed.

The blaze broke out in the lumber plant about ten thirty, and when the firemen arrived the building was a regular inferno.

The fire attracted thousansd of spectators, hundreds motoring to the scene from neighboring towns and villages. It was still burning early this morning. The loss is not yet known but it will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

ENGINE ROLLED OVER 8 GIRLS NONE INJURED

But Girl Guides' Captain Lost Her Life in Heroic Attempt at Rescue.

ON RAIL BRIDGE

OTTAWA, October 15. Canadian Press. — In a heroic effort to rescue eight Girl Guides, who were trapped on a railway bridge when an engine suddenly appeared around a curve about a mile from the outskirts of Ottawa, Mrs. Ellen Campbell, aged 44, secretary of the Hintonburg Branch of the Y.W.C.A., gave her life late Saturday afternoon.

A C.P.R. engine came rumbling along toward her, and she fell over the narrow structure into the shallow water of the Rideau River, 40 feet below.

Her body was recovered in two feet of water shortly afterwards with her head fractured in two places.

While Mrs. Campbell tried to save the girls, the girls under Miss Eunice Parker, captain of a number of the Ottawa troop, showed marvellous presence of mind by lying down flat on the sleepers in the narrow space between the rails and the stringers, and escaped unhurt while the engine rolled above them.

OCEAN VESSEL FOR GRAIN TRANSPORT

Forsakes the Frozen Meat Trade For High Rates on the Lakes.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 14. —Originally in the frozen meat trade betwen Bueno, Aires and the United States, and now under American registry operating coastal service chiefly, the steamer Itororo, in command of Captain J. Hoogerwerf and a crew of nineteen, among whom are several Spaniards, arrived in the harbor Saturday morning.

Her owners, the Southgate Marine Corporation of Norfolk, Virginia, attracted by the high rates being paid for transporting grain whom this port to Buffalo, have departed from their usual ocean operations and the Itororo is now in fresh water for the first time.

IS CHARGED WITH INTENT TO KILL

Windsor Man Arrested at Chatham Said to Have Fired on Police.

CHATHAM Oct. Oct. 14.—John Schofield of Windsor, has been arrested by local police officers charged with shooting with intent to kill Thomas Weller, a railway detective. He is also charged with being connected with the alleged twenty thousand dollar theft of freight from Wabash box cars near Windsor, Provincial Officer Low and Detective Weller lay ambushed near the railway in the hope of arresting the thieves. Two of the suspects of whom Schofield was one, appeared on the track and when they saw the officers it is claimed they opened fire from their revolvers. Neither of the officers was hit. Schofield denied the charge in police court yesterday afternoon and was remanded to jail for trial.

THE WORST FLOOD YET IN WESTERN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct 15. —(Canadian Press).—Western Oklahoma with hundreds of acres along the North Canadian and South Canadian river are inundated, and the higher ground sweeping in mud and dotted with pools of water, was in the midst of the state's worst flood, according to the reports received here last night.

Bridges along the Cimmarron and Red Rivers were also being threatened. Communication with nearly thirty northwestern Oklahoma and western towns has been cut telephone officials stated.

Woodward and Blair, Okla., are completely isolated, and other towns are without telephone facilities. Some of them have been without train service for more than three days. An airplane mail service to Blair has been authorized.

BOOTLEGGERS ON BORDER EVADE THE INCOME TAX

Deposit Their Profits in Banks Across the Line Beyond the Government

CHECK-UP SYSTEM.

BRIDGEBURG, Ont., Oct. 15. — An effort is to be made by income tax officials, with the assistance of the Department of Customs and Excise, to collect taxes from those bootleggers who have paid none in the last several years, and to get more income tax from those bootleggers who have not paid what they should.

As bootlegging has been going on for a considerable period, and huge sums of money have changed hands in the constant traffic going on over the international boundary line the natural conclusion would be that a large sum of money has been collected by the income tax office, but such seems not to be the case.

The income tax department has therefore created a zone. The zone is that district adjacent to the Niagara and St. Clair Rivers, where bootlegging is known to be going on continuously, but which industry is conspicuous by its labsence among businesses on which the tax has been collected.

Under the Dominion law, it is legal to export liquor, and the law requires that exports be filed on all shipments of liquor. These exports are filed with the department of customs and excise — or rather should be. It is suspected that for every one filed, possibly ten or a score, are never filed; but on the other hand, the excise department has another way of going after bootleggers through excise collected at distilleries on liquor shipped.

It is through co-operation between the income and excise departments that some authoritative check-up of the operations of the bootlegging fraternity is to be made.

Border bootleggers, however, are laughing laughs of merry scorn, for most of them bank across the river, it is whispered.

LOOK INTO FACTS RE HOME BANK

Premier Ferguson Says He Will Not Be "Stampeded" Into Any Action.

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Premier Ferguson on Saturday stated that the Ontario Government would make inquiries into the Home bank disclosures.

It is likely the Premier will have a conference with Attorney General Nickle when the latter returns to the city to-day and action will then be decided upon. Auditors are now going through the Home bank books for the Attorney General, their instructions being to probe right back to the beginning of the bank in 1906. Whether this audit will now be concentrated on the years between 1914 and 1918, or 1919 which have now been given prominence will be one of the matters taken up by the Queen's Park authorities.

"We are not going to be stampeded into anything," the Premier said. "We will look into this, and if the facts are substantiated we will take immediately any action that seems warranted."

FARMER SUFFERS HEAVY FIRE LOSS

One of Most Destructive Fires in the History of Rodden Township.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 15. — (Special).—What is considered the most destructive fire in the history of the district on Saturday evening swept the farm of G. F. Spencer, second concession of Rodden township near Hoard's station. Dwelling house, barns, machine shop, garage, pig pens, tool house, sheds and building were wiped out with their contents of grain, hay, furnishings and a number of hogs.

The fire which is supposed to have been caused by an overheated wind mill in the centre of the barn yard, spread with such rapidity that with the exception of a few articles of household furniture, everything was lost. The flames were so intense that even the fences adjoining the roadway were consumed, and neighbours worked strenously to prevent the fire spreading through the brush and dry grass.

It is understood that Mr. [illegible] carried $12,000 insur[illegible] only partly co[illegible] cluded the er[illegible] grain and hay.

EMPIRE'S GREATNESS IS ONLY BEGINNING SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

Thanked Canadians For Their Cordial Reception—Final Speech in Canada at Winnipeg on Saturday

CAN'T GO TO COAST.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press.) — David Lloyd George, in his last Canadian address, gave to the Canadian people a message of pride in the country's past and confidence in her future. Addressing five thousand people here Saturday night in the Olympic Rink the man who guided the empire's destinies through the war's crucial years aroused his audience to heights of enthusiasm as eloquently he spoke of the achievements in France and Flanders of the Canadian army and of what the Dominion and the Empire should expect to accomplish in the future.

"You have a land," he said, "which develops the manliest qualities. Canada is not a soft job for anyone and those who look for soft jobs in life are fit only for soft jobs. You have a land that rewards labor adequately, handsomely. Requited toil develops virility in a race. That is what Canada gives her sons."

Thanks to Canadians.

Mr. Lloyd George said in opening that he wanted to thank the people of Canada in his last address in the Dominion, for the warmth and kindness with which they had received him, his wife and his daughter, and he regretted deeply that he could not go farther west. Winnipeg and Manitoba had developed enormously since his previous visit 24 years ago.

"You have in Canada," he went on "a country of vast treasure and resource. You are just on the threshhold of your greatness; when you think that at the beginning of the last century the United States had a little more than one half of the population you have to-day, and probably not more than one-tenth of your wealth to-day, you see some indication of your possibilities. The only country in Europe which I could take as a comparison would be Scotland, and on the basis of Scotland Canada is capable of maintaining a sturdy population of six hundred million people.'

Opportunity is Now.

"You have an opportunity in Europe such as probably no new country has received in cycles. The United States had its great opportunity in Europe through the Napleonic wars. The same condition prevails in Europe to-day, even to a greater degree. The war was the most terrible ever waged in this world. There will be millions of people looking towards the west—the land of hope, the land of abundance, the land of assured peace—as a home for themselves and their children's children. It depends upon Canada whether she makes as good use of these conditions in Europe as the United States did a century ago.

Empire's Future.

"There is a great future for the British Empire, just as it has a great past. It has a record of great achievements for humanity. Four times it has saved the liberties of Europe, but its greatness is only beginning. In the Empire we have every variety of climate and every resource of wealth and riches. Presently the old country may have a number of great, sturdy, giant sons—but it will still be the same Old Country; a small land which you could put into Lake Ontario. But there are things you never could submerge — the splendour of her great literature, the grandeur of her great traditions, the story of how through the ages she fought and bled and suffered for the freedom of speech and institutions and international right. No; the Old Land will live forever and the young nations who are creating traditions. These powerful, virile young peoples and the aged Old Land will work together for the Empire, for the millions under the old flag, for human right and liberty, to raise mankind to a higher level."

Second Meeting.

Proceeding immediately to the Board of Trade Building, Mr. Lloyd George addressed a second audience of 3,000 people along a similar line of thought. "You have in Canada a great heritage," he said. "Be worthy of it, and with the traditions you have, and the quality of your people this dominion will write its name deeply in the story of the human race, and generations of men will thank God that Canada stood by the flag of liberty."

Mr. Lloyd George closed his visit to Winnipeg and Canada late this afternoon when he left for Minneapolis. Arriving here at 2:30 p.m. Saturday he was greeted by official representatives and by a crowd notable for the warmth of its enthusiasm. A formal welcome was tendered the distinguished guest at the city hall, and Mr. Lloyd George a few minutes later, deposited at the base of the cenotaph a wreath bearing the words "With Reverent Homage to the Supreme Sacrifice They Made for the British Empire and for Humanity."

Mr. Lloyd George was the guest at Government House of Sir James Aikins during his stay, and spent the day there quietly with no public functions.

NEVER has a policyholder suffered loss through the failure of a regular life assurance company operating under charter from the Dominion of Canada. Can as much be said of any other class of business?

The soundness of each Canadian life company is rigorously tested, and the renewal of its license each year depends upon the result of an examination into its affairs by inspectors from the Government Insurance Department. Where else are trust funds so carefully guarded?

To guarantee the fulfilment of policy contracts, the Dominion Government has fixed a minimum standard of reserves to which every company is obliged to conform. The Imperial Life maintains reserves greatly in excess of the Government standard.

Every regular life assurance company in Canada must at all times provide security of an amount at least equal to its liabilities to policyholders. The Imperial Life provides security of more than $130 for every $100 of liability to its policyholders.

A deposit is required to be made with the Receiver-General by each regular life assurance company doing business in Canada. The Government deposit maintained by The Imperial Life is more than four times the amount required by law.

Just write your name and address on the coupon below and mail it to us. Then we'll send you a free copy of our booklet, "A Few Facts." This outlines many distinguishing features of The Imperial Life—features which ensure absolute security and liberal profits for Imperial policyholders.

INTERESTING FIGURES.

The Experimental Farm at Ottawa has published some very interesting figures that go to confirm the complaint of the farmers that their industry is a precarious one and that conditions are not always encouraging.

The Experimental Farm reports that it cost 31.3 cents to produce a bushel of oats, and the yield, which was unusually high, was 70 bushels.

The profit on an acre was estimated at $7.33.

In regard to hay, it was shown that this crop cost $7.55 per ton, and that it averaged 2.8 tons to the acre, with a profit of $11.21 per acre.

On the other hand, the cost of producing mangels was $2.57 per ton, and the yield was 24.4 tons, making their cost $62.63 per acre, while the market value was only $38.80, a loss per acre of $23.83.

That would mean that the loss on one acre of mangels would come very close to wiping out the profit on an acre of hay and two acres of oats.

Figures of this kind, carefully worked out and absolutely correct, are of great value.

If the average farmer could follow the example of the Experimental Farm and could figure just where they stand in regard to different articles they produce, it would be of decided advantage to them in their business.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Congratulations will be extended by the citizens of Peterborough, both by those who are active followers of the game and by those who do not come under that category, to the members of the Canadian General Electric Company baseball team upon their success in capturing for the second year in succession the Intermediate championship of Ontario.

Their victory means that four Peterborough teams in their respective classes have achieved the rare distinction of winning Provincial honours this season, a record that perhaps never before has been equalled.

The exploits of these splendid teams merits more than the usual demonstration, and the city fathers in arranging for a function in honour of the young athletes who have brought much fame to their home city will simply be transforming into action the wishes of large numbers of citizens who feel that the occasion is worthy of proper recognition.

The publicity secured for Peterborough by reason of the noteworthy success of her baseball teams is not to be despised.

It has earned for this city the reputation of being a live town athletically, and fame of that kind is not without its value even from a business standpoint.

Manufacturers as a rule are glad to locate in such a town, for they feel confident that their employees will be satisfied and thus continuity in working staffs will be assured.

The managers and players of the victorious teams have done much for Peterborough, and it is but justified that their records should be recognized by the city for whom they gave their best.

NEARLY FIVE YEARS AGO.

Toronto is being forcefully reminded of the days of the Great War, says the Toronto Star. The visit of Britain's war Premier turned back the pages of memory to those never-to-be-forgotten chapters of history. The sessions of a commission which is enquiring into losses sustained by Germany's submarine activity is another reminder of the perilous days when the menace was ever present upon the high seas. Next month the fifth anniversary of the Armistice will be celebrated.

But years blur the vision. The mountain peaks of war experience—some fadeless glory, some breathless suspense, some fathomless sorrow—these still stand out, for all who have suffered and who have known, clear and distinct above the mists of time. But the details of the picture fade. Other events are crowding them into the background. The tension has gone. Life in Canada has resumed its normal course.

But all Europe is still strewn with the wreckage of war. And a visit like that of Lloyd George carries even the people of a peaceful and prosperous Dominion back to the days when a struggling world was bathed in blood. Those were days of sorrow, but they were rich with the greatness of sacrifice. The lesson of the blessedness of unselfishness and sacrifice is one which must not be forgotten, whatever else may fade as time goes on.

GETTING AFTER THE TOURISTS.

Several articles have appeared in these columns from time to time emphasizing the value of the tourist traffic to the people of this Province and calling attention to the necessity of greater publiciyt for Ontario better accommodation for visitors and other steps that would tend to increase the number of tourists.

Ontario cannot very well afford to slumber in regard to this matter.

Our sister Province of Quebec, believing that the millions of dollars that are being spent by the army of tourists each year can be easily doubled if the attractions of the Province are more widely advertised and if there is adequate accommodation for visitors, has formed the Province of Quebec Tourist Association, which has been successfully launched and which has a representative list of officers.

The programme upon which the new organization will work aims at more hotels operated at strategic points where tourists could get food and accommodation, the formation of wayside camps by municipalities who would see to the supply of water and other necessities, the inspection of hotels and boarding-houses by officers of the association who would give an "approved sign" to those that came up to the standard set and the distribution of accurate information as to the best routes for tourists to travel.

These are all steps that will do much to increase the tourist traffic to Quebec, and if we in Ontario are to hold our own it will be necessary to increase our efforts along the lines suggested.

Quebec seems to be setting the pace, and we cannot afford to sit with idle hands while the traffic that means so much is being diverted elsewhere.

CHICAGO THE OUTLAW.

Cities like men are sometimes afflicted with the characteristic qualities that mark the outlaw. They are overbearing, selfish, law-defying, determined to have their own way at whatever cost to their neighbors. Obviously enough outlaw cities are usually big cities, because whatever dubious success they enjoy is the result of overwhelming and ill-directed strength. But while one may say that most outlaw cities are big cities, it would be manifestly unfair to suggest that most big cities are outlaws. Such a thought is inconceivable in connection with London or Paris or Rome, New York, Philadelphia or Boston, Montreal or Toronto, or any one of a score of other great communities. We are afraid it is not inconceivable in the case of Chicago.

Chicago possesses many of the qualities that have made famous that remarkable personage Edward Wellington Backus. Each has revealed extraordinary enterprise, well directed no doubt insofar as their own interests were concerned, but singularly lacking in consideration for the interests of others. Each has shown, on occasions, the same masterful contempt for the rules of conduct that govern most law-abiding towns and individuals. Each has trodden relentlessly upon the corns of a neighbor, rather than forego some personal advantage. The comparison of these two particular cases is almost inevitable, because Canada has been their common victim. And they have one other quality in common. Both are so curiously thick-skinned that, after doing this country very serious injury, they have not hesitated to come over and try to persuade Canadians that the jury was really a blessing in disguise. We have suggested that they were thick-skinned. There is another alternative. They may have thought we were thick-headed.

* * *

The situation at Chicago is so vitally important to Canada that it is worth while to set forth the facts, not quite as they were presented by the committee of the Sanitary District that visited Toronto and Montreal for the purpose of converting the business men of those communities, but rather as they appear in the official records.

* * *

As long ago as 1889 the city of Chicago was authorized by the Illinois Legislature to construct and operate the Chicago drainage canal. Two years later the U. S. Secretary of War granted a permit to divert 4,167 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan. The State had no power whatever to authorize the diversion, though the State authorities pretended to dispute the exclusive right of the Washington Government. And it is by no means certain that the Secretary of War, or his Government, had any right to permit the diversion of water from Lake Michigan, and therefore from the system of the Great Lakes, into another watershed. At any rate, the Canadian Government has never consented, directly or indirectly, to the withdrawal of water from the Great Lakes, the Chicago authorities to the contrary notwithstanding.

Meanwhile, Chicago, not content with the 4,167 per second feet permitted by the Secretary of War, has actually been diverting from Lake Michigan for nearly a quarter of a century nearly 10,000 per second feet. The Washington Government through its officers has repeatedly drawn the attention of the Sanitary District to this unauthorized diversion, but without avail. It finally took legal proceedings, and secured an injunction restraining Chicago from diverting more than 4,167 second feet. Nevertheless there is good reason for believing that much more than that amount is still going down the drainage canal into the Illinois River and ultimately into the Mississippi. What can you do with such a town? Chicago might have some excuse for its outlaw conduct if there were any truth in its plea that it needs 10,000 second feet of water to dispose of its sewage. But even to make such a plea argues either consummate ignorance on the part of Chicago, or the assumption on their part that those to whom their plea is addressed are hopeless idiots. Chicago need not look farther than the neighboring city of Milwaukee to find a very efficient and upto-date system of sewage disposal that does not involve the diversion of a single foot of water from Lake Michigan.

* * *

Canada's position has been clear and consistent from the outset. We have never admitted the right of the United States to authorize the diversion of any water from the Great Lakes, and therefore from boundary waters, and we have protested vigorously and repeatedly against the actual diversion carried out by the Sanitary District. Not only the Canadian Government, but such organizations as the Shipping, Federation of Canada and the Dominion Marine Association, have made representations over and over again to the Government of the United States, only to be met with the reply that the Government had neither authorized and did not intend to authorize the amount of water Chicago was actually diverting. It is fair to add that Canadian interests have not stood alone in their protest, but have been strongly supported by Michigan, Wisconsin and other States bordering on the Great Lakes, and even by towns in Southern Illinois that have had to suffer the nuisance of Chicago's sewage. Both Canadian engineers and American engineers have demonstrated conclusively that the diversion of 10,000 second feet, and even the diversion of 4,167 second feet, had a very definite effect in lowering the levels of all the boundary waters from Lake Huron down to Montreal.

That effect means the loss of millions of dollars to this country, as well as to the United States, in reduced depths in harbors and river channels which, of course, must be made good in the interests of navigation.—Ottawa Journal.

CHICAGO, Oct 13—Downturns in the price of wheat to-day resulted more or less from new bearish estimates of the 1923 Canadian crop. Closing quotations were unsettled 5-8c to 1c net lower, with December $1.08 1-4c and 3-8, to $1.08 3-8 and Mat $1.12 3-4 to $1.12 7-8. Corn lost 1-8 and 1-4c to 1 3-4c and Oats 1-4c to 38c. In provisions the outcome varied from two cents decline to five cents advance.

At first the wheat market showed an upward tendeny, owing to somewhat higher prices at Liverpool, but the effect was soon more than offset by announcement that a fresh estimate from the Canadian Government confirmed last month's report, which put the yield at the huge total of 470,000,000 bushels, as against 400,000,000 bushels in 1922. The latest report indicated that the production in Canada had been three bushels an Bearish sentiment also was given impetus by opinions circulated that plans thus far suggested for farm aid had grown stale as market factors and that impending closure of new arrangements some recessions would be natural

Weakness which developed in the corn market exerted a further depressing influence on wheat despite somwhat better milling demand. The fact that Minneapolis had received some new corn from North Dakota and that cars of new corn had also been shipped to Chicago from South Dakota, was in part responsible for some declines in the value of corn. Besides, predictions of heavy frost to-night were by many traders construed as bearish, and there were reports from Omaha of slower demand from feeders

Corn, like wheat was slightly firmer early, but profit-taking sales found the market without any aggressive support, with buyers cautious, fearing a sharp break. Oats dropped with corn Provisions were upheld by firmness of hog values and by a fair cash trade with Europe.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press)—There was no change in the condition of the local market for cash grain Saturday. A good business prevailed in the flour market. The market for millfeed was active and the tone of the rolled oats market was steady. Prices for eggs were well-maintained. Total receipts from May 1 to date were 401,888 cases as against 355,255 cases for the same period of 1922. A remarkably steady feeling obtains in the butter market. Total receipts from May 1 to date have been 137,235 packages less than in the same period of 1922. A better feeling is showing in the cheese market. Total receipts from May 1 to date have been 84,716 boxes in excess of the same period of 1922.

DESERTED BY PALS M'MULLEN SQUEALS

Recaptured Convict Gave Valuable Information Regarding Friends Who Left Him.

KINGSTON, Oct. 13. — There is an interesting story in connection with the fact that McMullen, the recaptured convict, has given to the penitentiary officials valuable information in respect to the escape of convicts and all the plans and preparations leading to the escape. The story is this: That when McMullen was wounded while he was driving the car he lost a very considerable amount of blood, but pluckily kept on at the wheel. Then when the car was finally turned off the main road near Bell's swamp and just after McMullen had got out of the car he fainted. The most logical thing for his pals to have done was to have lifted him up and carried him a little farther to where (according to all reports) they were to find shelter and friends, but instead of doing so they coolly and cruelly deserted him and rushed off, concerned only as to their own safety, and leaving the wounde man to look after himself as best he could.

Naturally when McMullen was caught — and his fainting explains why it was that he was discovered so near the spot where the car turned off—he was highly indignant at his desertion by his former associates and thus it is that his indignation finally overcame his silence and he decided to tell all he knew and not spare any of the men who had deserted him.

It is believed, however, that if these men had even made an effort to help McMullen when he was wounded and fainting he would never have revealed the plot and plan of escape, but since they did not it is said he feels he is under no obligation to them to protect them.

YOUNG MEN'S SECTION WILL HOLD A MEETING

Mr. F. J. Overend, President of the Young Men's Section of the Chamber of Commerce, has informed the Examiner that the first meeting of the Section will be held next Wednesday night, October 17th in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms at 8 o'clock. Mr. D. R. Wren, Sales Manager of the DeLaval Company, will speak on Organization.

The aims and objects of the section are: for the encouragement of a broader knowledge on all matters pertaining to membership, and for the advancement of the commercial industrial, agricultural and civic interests in the City of Peterborough District.

All young men interested in the above named aims and objects, and members of the Chamber of Commerce, will be cordially welcomed by the Section at this meeting.

Special reference will be made at this meeting to the proposed citizens meeting to consider the establishment of a Community Chest for Social Service activities.

NOT OUT OF WOOD

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Cable).—In a speech at Birmingham yesterday, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer said it would be foolish to count on a remission of taxation in the near future and added: "We are not yet out of the wood. We have in front a weary and perhaps exhaustive struggle but I see some hope dawning in the future."

Being down in the mouth gets you up in the air.

In a Big Way

The future of Northern Ontario and Quebec in a mining way is developing much more rapidly than many good people realize. Funds for the development of promising properties are becoming available in a big way and the natural reflection of this is that the market in mining shares is beginning to do business in a big way.

The development of a broad market in mining shares holds attractive possibilities for trading and investing in these issues. We offer complete facilities to all who are engaged in transactions of this kind.

HOW TO MAKE WORLD HAPPIER THEME OF A TIMELY PAPER

Omemee Young People Turned Out in Strength to Attend the District League Meeting.

OMEMEE, Oct. 15.—A great number of young people attended the District League and Sunday School Convention of the Methodist Church held in Lindsay. The sessions throughout were full of inspiration and helpful suggestions for leaders in young people's work. Those attending from Omemee and Bethel were the Misses Eva and Lillian Race, Florence Rutherford, Pearl Widdis, Ida Shea, Beryl Hart, Eilene Johnson, Vivian Parsons, Verna Windrim, Reta Kennedy, Lila Parsons, Mrs. Bradburn, Mrs. Musgrove, Mrs. Fred. Parker, Misses Hilda Sanderson, Velma Lowes, Cora Switzer, Mrs. M. Ruth, Mr. Fred, Johnson, Messrs. Harry Deyell, Cecil Casey, Harry Jackson, Eugene Switzer, and Ira Switzer.

That the interest in the Young People's League contest is steadily growing was quite evident from the large gathering which attended the programme put on by the married women, under the able leadership of the 1st vice-president, Mrs. T. T. Boyd. The meeting, which was a consecration service, opened with one of the old familiar hymns, followed by several brief prayers offered by several of the ladies. Mrs. (Rev.) Rowland contributed a piano selection, which was much appreciated by all. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Bradburn. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Jeffrey Widdis and a consecration leaflet by Mrs. Bushnell. A rousing chorus was given by a number of ladies, the solo part being especially well rendered by Mrs. C. L. Morcombe. Mrs. R. Bradley read a touching little story, entitled "John 3-16," and after another hymn Mrs. Boyd read the following splendid paper on "How to Make this a Happier World."

Making World Happier.

Some one has said human happiness is the problem of human life. Many people have not solved that problem yet. In spite of our boasted civilization, in spite of our Christian institutions, there are still hearts in need of cherishing — sad souls in need of comfort—groping people in need of light.

Who can help make this world happier? If not we, who call ourselves Christians, and especially we who call ourselves Epworth Leaguers and Sunday School workers. We have found the true wisdom which makes for happiness. Better indeed is is than gold or silver or precious jewels.

There are some things which, if kept, deteriorate, and if shared, increase. Happiness is one of them. If we would continue happiness to ourselves, we must share it with others.

"All who joy would win must share it: happiness was born a twin."

Let us not try to keep our happiness to ourselves—happiness expressed in smiling faces and sunshining dispositions cannot but be contagious. If we would follow the plan of J. Whitcomb Riley when he wrote:

"The inner side of every cloud
Is bright and shining,
So I turn my clouds about,
And always wear them inside out
To see the lining."

A little street urchin in a large city was accidentally jostled by a lady who was passing. She at once stopped and sweetly begged the boy's pardon. He stood gazing after her as she went on her way, and then turning to his companion, said, "I'd let her push me in the mud and walk all over me to hear her speak like that again."

"I saw a smile, to a poor man 'twas given,
And he was old;
The sun broke forth: I saw
That smile in heaven,
Wrought into gold;
Wrought into gold; we that pass down life's hours.
So carelessly,
Might make the dusty way a path of flowers,
If we would try."

Then every gentle deed we've done or kind word given, wrought into gold, would make us wondrous rich in heaven.

Little Deeds of Every Day.

The little deeds of every day count for much. Our Lord when upon the earth brought sunshine to many darkened lives. He had learned the gentle art of making happy. And in the very heart of His teaching was embodied what we are pleased to call the Golden Rule: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." The little self-denials, the little acts of courtesy, the little sacrifices — these are the trifles that make happiness. Our young people's meeting and other churches services present opportunities for us to show friendliness to others, and especially to strangers. How much a kindly word of recognition and welcome means in such cases. By making our world a better world we make it happier.

The one great secret in the art of making others happy is to live in daily fellowship with Christ. To learn how to love is to learn how to live and living right we gain our reward. Let us be like the Apostle Paul, who kept it constantly before his mind and so planned for it that when the end came he could say, "I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course and now am looking forward to the life beyond and to gain that life we must seek those things which are above — set our affections on things above. If we expect to reach heaven we must make enquiry as to the way. When Philip said to Jesus, "We know not the way," Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh unto ther Father but by Me." Christ is the old way and the only way. We are living in a day of new things, new ideas, new theology, but there is no new way to the Father. God's word is still the traveller's guide to the next life of joy and peace.

Our Bibles do not tell us enough to satisfy our curiosity, but it tells enough to strengthen our faith. St. Paul speaks of it as a heavenly and happy country. St. John describes it as a place of indescribable beauty where there shall be no suffering, nor hunger, nor sorrow, but God shall wipe away all tears, and as Epworth League workers are we interested enough to make inquiry concerning this place? Can we hear the apostle say to us, "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God." Set your effection on things above and not on things on the earth.

After a few brief remarks from the pastor, the roll call was answered by a verse of Scripture, following which twelve new members were received into the League.

SKATING RINK AT WARSAW BURNED

Building Razed to The Ground—Incendiarism Is Suspected.

WARSAW, Oct. 15.—(Special.)—At 5 o'clock yesterday morning the Warsaw skating rink burned down. No apparent cause exists for the fire, which is believed by the villagers to be incendiary.

The building was about a year old, its predecessor having been destroyed in the same way. No insurance was carried.

Rev. S. C. Weir was the first to raise the alarm yesterday morning, and the fire was well in control of the building.

The remainder of the village was saved by rain, which kept the fire from spreading.

"MILLBANK"

THE QUALITY CIGARETTE

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Choir Was Entertained in St. Andrew's Church—Personals.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 15.—A very pleasant evening was spent in St. Andrew's Church when the wives of the members of the Session and Board of Managers entertained the choir, Session, and Managers at a social in the Sunday School Room. After the usual weekly practice the choir were invited downstairs, where tables loaded with good things were laid for about sixty guests.

After all had done justice to the good things, C. L. Owen was called to the chair, and the following programme was rendered:

Song, Mr. Rollo.
Reading, Mrs. R. W. Scott.
Address, Rev. C. F. McIntosh.
Solo, Mr. Jamieson.
Address, Dr. Longmore.
Address, J. D. Cumming.
Solo, Mr. Jamieson.

All the speakers expressed appreciation of the services of the choir and of the choir leader and organist, Fred Wigglesworth. The latter, in a brief address, thanked the members of the choir for their hearty co-operation, and on behalf of the choir thanked the ladies for the entertainment wich they had provided. After a few minutes of community singing the guests left for home, feeling that the evening had been well and happily spent.

Among the guests of the evening organist, and Mesdames Rollo, E. Henson, Roy Connor, and Wigglesworth.

Personals.

The fine weather induced many Campbellford people to attend the last fair of the season, that of Roseneath. Among those noticed were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stillman, Mr. and Mrs. R. McKelvie, Mr. and Mrs. B. Nelson, Misses Taylor and Dunan, Messrs. D. W. Douglas, Linton, Beavis, Southworth, Ferris, Doric, Abernethy, and Leeson.

Mrs. D. W. Douglas visited friends in Tweed.

Mrs. C. H. Davidson and family spent Sunday with friends in Peterborough.

Earl Williams autoed to Peterborough on Saturday to attend the ball game, returning on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dolman spent Friday in Belleville.

CAMPBELLFORD LOST A PIONEER CITIZEN

Robert Linton Who Located in Town in 1858 Called By Death On Saturday.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 15.—In the passing of Robert Linton, at the age of 87 years and 9 months whose death occurred at six o'clock on Saturday evening, Campbellford loses one of its highly esteemed pioneer citizens.

Born in Blinkboney, Canonbie, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, on 12th January, 1836, he came to New Brunswick in 1857, when it took sailing vessels two months to cross the ocean. He located in Campbellford in 1858, where he has since resided.

Mr. Linton had the distinction of being the oldest member and a charter member of Golden Link Lodge, having attended for the past sixty-three years.

He took a keen interest in public affairs and was a member of the Town Council in the early days. In politics he was a staunch Conservative, and in religion an Anglican.

He is survived by his widow, four sons and two daughters. They are: Adam T. of Calgary, Fred and John A. of Campbellford, and Frank of Peterborough, Mrs. Noel Gill of Port Hope, and Mrs. Stanley Neale of Campbellford.

The funeral, which will be under Masonic auspices, will take place on Tuesday, 16th October, at 2.30, Rev. C. E. Clarke, M.A., of Christ Church, Belleville, officiating. Interment will be in the English Church Cemetery, Campbellford.

Miss Pearl Herlihey has returned home after spending a few days the guest of her sister, Mrs. Patrick Perdue.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr and Miss Madeline Winn, of Peterborough, called on friends here on Friday evening.

Miss Marguerite O'Neill, who has been in Toronto for the last few weeks, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Perdue and family and Miss Ruby Perdue spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Maloney in Ennismore.

The schools here, Nos. 15 and 6, are closed for a few days while the teachers, Misses Ruby Perdue and Lillian Condon, are attending the convention in Peterborough.

Miss Gertrude O'Neill, teacher at Verulam School, is at present attending the Teachers' Convention in Lindsay.

FIRE WIPES OUT A PRIVATE DWELLING

Home Between Ops And Emily Was Completely Destroyed.

KING'S WHARF, Oct. 15. (Special.) — Fire, believed to have originated in the stove pipes, completely wiped out the residence of Edward Zeland, on the boundary between Ops and Emily townships, on Saturday evening.

Mr. Zeland was in Lindsay at the time of the fire and only his children were at home.

The house had just been completed at a cost of $4,000, and nothing was saved from the fire. It was covered by insurance.

Only the good work of the neighbors saved a second house, across the road, from destruction.

TWO FRAME BARNS DESTROYED BY FIRE

P. Y. Crowley of King's Wharf Suffers a Heavy Loss.

KING'S WHARF, October 15. — (Special.) — Two frame barns owned by P. Y. Crowley, were burned to the ground at 8 o'clock last night with their contents of grain, implements and some live stock.

The fire is supposed to have originated in overheated hay, and spread so quickly that there was barely time to save the valuable horses. One pig and a number of hens perished.

The season's grain and hay and a new manure spreader, were among the contents of the barn, which were partly covered by insurance. The loss is conservatively estimated at $2,000.

CARBON MONOXIDE STEALTHY ENEMY

Increase in Peril to Motorists Comes With Cold Weather.

Serious illness or death may result from allowing the automobile engine to run in a closed garage while the owner is making adjustments, or driving closely behind a closed body truck or bus, is the warning given by Dr. L. S. Colter, vice-president of the American Automobile Association. Dr. Colter cites the narrow escape from death resulting from carbon monoxide gas poisoning of two young men who were piloting an automobile float in a recent civic parade in Cincinnati. The parade was moving slowly and in close formation and the young men were enclosed in a specially built cab. The carbon monoxide gas fumes from the exhausts of the cars and trucks ahead resulted in both young men being hurried to the hospital for emergency treatment. Women on the float were affected by the gas to a milder degree.

"Poisoning from carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of the automobile engine is more prevalent than the average automobile owner appreciates," said Dr. Colter. "Often motorists are affected, and do not recognize that the symptoms of fatigue, headache, shortness of breath, dizziness and possible nausea result from carbon monoxide gas poisoning. 'The American Medical Journal' quoted a report from the Ohio State Department of Health showing eighty-one cases of poisoning from the deadly gas, from automobile exhausts with thirty-four deaths, during the first ten weeks of last winter.

"Not only is it dangerous to run the engine in a closed garage, but considerable risk is incurred in trailing too closely a truck with a large body which prevents the gas thrown off from spreading out.

"With cool days approaching, the motorist will do well to avoid getting in too close contact with the confined fumes from the exhaust of an automobile engine."

SAYS NOISE WILL BE FACTOR IN NEXT WAR

The Chinese, before the white man began selling rifles to them, used to amuse us by wearing false faces and making frightful racket, especially with brass gongs, to scare their enemies in battle.

But maybe the Chinese knew what they were doing, after all. Professor A. M. Low, English scientist, predicts that noises will play an important part in future warfare.

"Noise," says Low, "has a very curious effect on human beings. The more civilized they become, the more noise affects them. Lots of people in the last war were sent into a serious condition by the nerve-racking effect of noise. I can imagine the aggressive use of selected noises to undermine the morale of population and the development of all sorts of anti-noise devices."

Were you ever in a keyed-up nervous condition where even slight noises made you jump? The rasp of a file, the squeak of new shoes, the monotonous drumming of fingers or shrill whistling by a boy—these are described by nervous people as "enough to drive one crazy."

Noise, even in a condition of healthy nerves, is shocking to the nervous system. It's a marvel that people in civilization are as sane as they are, considering the thousands of blows or shocks that reach their nerves daily in the form of noises.

Later, as cities become larger and noisier, there'll be campaigns against the more annoying sounds, just as there's now a "silence zone" near every hospital.

Fortunately, nature is quick to protect us. The miller gets so he ignores or doesn't hear the rumble of his mill-wheels. So, too, we get so the fearful din of civilization passes in one ear and out the other without our noticing it. This is because the power of receiving a sensation becomes more or less paralyzed by repetition.

STYLES FOR MEN

(By MARIAN HALE)

PARIS, Oct. —In the midst of all this talk about styles for women, it is well not to neglect styles for men, because in Paris the careful Romeo sees to it that his costume complements Juliet's or at least that it does not introduce a jarring note.

It is quite customary for a woman to announce to her suitor what type of frock she is going to wear on a certain occasion, so that his choice of colors may conform to hers, instead of starting an argument.

If she is going in a gray costume, he sees to it that his hat band and his necktie are as near the same shade of her frock as it is possible to get them.

Just an Accessory

If she is wearing gay colors, he properly brings her gayety into relief by dressing very soberly himself.

In other words, the gallant Frenchman regards himself as an accessory, and dresses accordingly.

In Deauville, where the fashionable women of the world are vieing with each other to create a picturesque effect, it is said women are choosing their escorts more for their pictorial value than for the charm of their society.

The blonde, for instance, who wishes to emphasize the blue of her eyes and the gold of her hair, appears at the Casino or the races only with a dark-haired man, so that his appearance may offer a contrast to her own, and the woman with the sable locks and midnight eyes selects the most perfect Saxon of all her acquaintances to promenade with.

Has a Waist

Left to his own devices, the Frenchman dresses with much more imagination than the Englishman or American. At the present time his coat buttons with only one button, directly at the waistline, bringing the coat very tightly about the waist and suggesting that the stays abandoned by women have been adopted by men.

Shirts are highly colored and violently figured and neckties are hectic enough, when there is no woman's costume to be considered. Shoes of all colors and combinations of color are tolerated and some Frenchmen actually outdo women in the number of finger rings worn.

Roman Meal? I should say so! I never refuse Roman Meal. Its delicious and keeps me happy, peppy and fit.

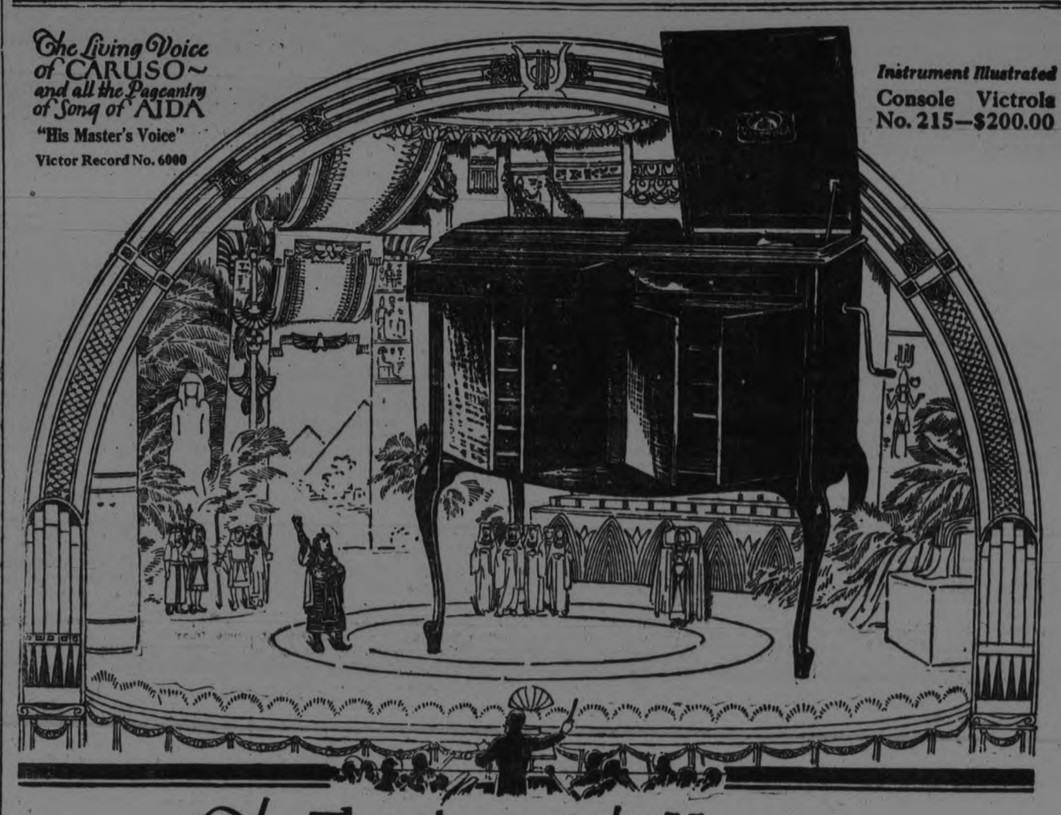
The Living Voice of CARUSO ~ and all the Pageantry of Song of AIDA

"His Master's Voice"

Victor Record No. 6000



Instrument Illustrated
Console Victrola
No. 215—$200.00

"The Theatre of the Home"

The stage is set, the performers ready. Your mood this evening calls for the inspiring strains of Verdi. Suddenly you hear Caruso singing "Celeste Aida"—(Heavenly Aida)—clear, sweet, vibrant, real as life itself. For the moment you sit in an orchestra seat at the opera—with all its pomp and pageantry.

Then perhaps you long for the sweet strains of "The Last Rose of Summer"—and as the soft clear notes of Elman's violin sound in your ears, you can all but see him draw his bow across the magic strings.

But whether it be Caruso, or Elman, or the boom of Sousa's band, or the latest happy-go-lucky dance hit,—"HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola and "HIS MASTER'S VOICE"-VICTOR Records prove their superiority by making you forget the man-made reproduction and remember only the sensation of having living artists and real musical instruments—a few feet beyond the chair in which you sit.

And by virtue of such masterly performance "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola is the standard by which all instruments are judged. Often this causes many to refer to all instruments as Victrolas but for your own best interests as well as ours, remember there is only one real genuine Victrola—and that bears our famous trade-mark "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" under the lid. Be very careful to see that it is on the instrument you buy.

VICTROLA "GOOSE-NECK"

Why "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" VICTROLA dominates!

The Victrola goose-neck supports the sound box, allowing it full play. It takes the weight off the needle point, making for flexibility and consequently produces that unequalled exactness of tone for which "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola is pre-eminent; at the same time preserving the record from wear because of the very light weight pressure upon the needle. This is but one of the many features that combine to make "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola—incomparably best.

Genuine "His Master's Voice" Victrolas from $37.50 to $615.00

Richard Hall & Son Limited

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Oct. 15.—Mr. Wil loughby Brewster, K.C. and wife Brantford, motored down to visit the old home at Centerton, where they were guests of his brother, Mr. J. J. Brewster, over the week end. Mr. Norris Gleeson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brewster and their guests motored to Havelock to visit another brother, Mr. Charles Brewster, and so it was a happy family reunion all round. The past week has been ideal for motoring and the traffic on all Provincial and County roads has been about up to the summer standard.

Association Incorporated

The Cobourg Child's Welfare Association is now slated as an incorporated institution, with W. J. Maher, ex mayor of Cobourg, Mrs. Ella Grace Spragge, Mr. H. Fullerton, Councillor, Mr. J. W. Bickle of the Department of Inland Revenue, and Mrs. Jessie Eliza beth Greer as provisional directors. The work is a good one, and has already resulted in benefit to little children in town. A host of friends and well wishers hope for its success.

Automobile Stolen

Theft of automobiles seems to be very common of late. In fact it is almost an every day occurrence. The garage at Sedbrook, the beautiful country home here of Mr. W. L. Abbott of Pittsburg, was entered last Saturday night and his seven passenger Stude baker Sedan stolen. Chief Ruse was notified and at once notified the police of all neighboring towns and the first response was a telephone call from Brockville that the car had been re covered there. It appears that the party who took the car to Brockville went into a restaurant there. Closing the door of the car not knowing probably that they locked automatically, he was surprised upon coming back to it to find that he could not open the door. He went to a garage to secure help and upon returning found the police in charge of the car, so made a hurried departure, stealing, it is stated, a large seven passenger Hudson in order to make a getaway. 'It would appear that this joy rider's taste runs to seven passenger Sedans, but possibly also these were the easiest available. The opinion is expressed here that he is probably the same man who stole the Arlie Marks car at Campbellford last week, although grounds for the belief are not stated. Mr. Abbott's fine car was not damaged to any extent, the only thing missing, it is stated, being a tire pump.

Accidental Death

At the adjourned inquest to inquire into the cause of the death of Gordon McIvor, the twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George McIvor of this town, who died from effects of an accident on Monday, Oct. 11, when he was struck by a car near the G.T.R. station driven by Leonard Fardella of this town, the verdict was accidental death. Coroner G. M. Ferris presided, Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., represented the Crown.

Gordon, with a number of other boys was returning home from the Public School at noon on the day that the fatality occurred. Some of these, including Alex. Hall, 11 years old, and Jack Erskine, 8 years old, told what they knew of the occurrence, stating they did not see the car until it was pretty close, all ran to get out of the way and Gordon was struck by it. One said he thought that the car was going to go to the south of the flower bed near the depot.

Gerald Holnbeck said he saw the car knock Gordon down and it stopped in a little way.

Dr. E. W. Hayden said the boy was brought to his office in Leonard Fardella's car. He was crying and moaning. His face was scratched and bruised and he complained of pains in his stomach, although he was apparently not sore to the touch. He appeared to have been scraped rather than run over. His forehead and face were bruised and his lower teeth pulled away from the gums. Fardella told him he hit the boy with the car in trying to avoid hitting others of the boys. Dr. Hayden attended to the boy's injuries, fixing up his face and then Mr. McIvor came and took his son home. As he appeared to be suffering the doctor gave him a hypo dermic. Going to the home half an hour later he found the boy dead. He attributed the cause of death to the shock and accident.

Patrick McGlynn employed at the Canadian National did not see the accident, but saw the injured lad lying on the ground after it. He asked Leon ard Fardella how he came to do it, and the latter said he could not help it.

Joseph Andrews and Thomas And rews, who picked the boy up, gave evidence as to where the car stopped.

Murray Davidson, who was with Leonard Fardella in the car, said the boys were on the south side of the flower bed about 40 feet from the car when Fardella blew the horn. The latter intended to take the track south when the boys turned on the south side, he turned north. Gordon McIvor was about fifteen feet from the car when he started to run north and was then too close to stop the car.

Leonard Fardella, driver of the car, said he slowed down as he reached the C.P.R. track and at the bend blew his horn. Some of the boys ran straight across and some with the car. Gordon McIvor kind of stopped and turned as he hit him. He had thrown the car north so as to avoid hitting a bunch of them and turned towards the flower bed. He had lots of room to pass if they had not turned. He was going twelve to fifteen miles an hour, was sure it was not over fifteen and did not expect to hit them. He slammed the brakes on when he saw the boys scatter. At ten miles an hour he could stop the car in two lengths, at fifteen miles an hour in two and a half lengths and at twenty miles an hour at three lengths.

The jury rendered the following verdict:

We, your coroner's jury, find that Gordon McIvor came to his death on Oct. 1, 1923, as the result of an accident that took place at or about a point 53 feet east of the west sidewalk on George St., sixty feet west of the west border of the flower bed, and twenty one feet south of the platform of the Canadian National Railway, by being struck with a McLaughlin automobile, driven by Leonard Fardella, of the town of Cobourg. We are of the opinion that under the existing circumstances, the accident was unavoidable.

LORD RENFREW SENT REPLY TO FIELDING

OTTAWA, October 15 (Canadian Press). — A short farewell massage to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, on the eve of his departure on Sunday from Quebec, was sent by the Hon. W. S. Fielding, Acting Premier, on behalf of the Government.

Mr. Fielding yesterday received the following reply, dated from Father Point:

"I greatly appreciate the good wishes you sent me on behalf of the Government. I need not tell you again how much I have enjoyed my visit, and only regret it was so short. Au revoir. (Signed).—Edward."

YOU CAN PUT ON DOG BY RENTING CANINE

It's an Industry, in Gotham, Hiring Out the Beasts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Next time you see a stunning girl sporting a swagger cane, wearing King Tut sandals and carrying a blue-blooded Chow or Pekinese or mayhap an aristocratic wolfhound tugging at leash as she strolls of an afternoon down the drive or up the avenue, don't jump to the conclusion that she owns the mutt. Not on your life.

Very likely she is paying for the privilege of giving Towser or Pooh Pooh a constitutional at the rate of 50 cents or $1 an hour. What she pays depends on the size and pedigree of the pup.

In this city famed for its eccentric business enterprises, one of the oddest industries imaginable has flourished for years up in 103rd street. On the roof of a modern apartment house there is a man who earns his living by renting dogs by the hour to flappers and dames who like to put on "dog."

The girls for blocks around go to Monsieur Dogrenter to get the finishing touch for their promenade costumes. Many find that the stroll would be a failure without the "tone," "eclat," or whatever it is that fashionable dogs lend, is to arrange in advance for the hire of their favorite dog.

Frequently some young women is disappointed on a bright sunny afternoon to find the house sold out.

On an average each dog brings its owner a revenue of a couple of dollars a day. Some of the dogs are fed dainties. High-priced veterinarians and dog specialists give them careful attention.

The dogs are bathed daily and are well trained in the fine points of etiquette.

Some cranky, shriveled old misogynists and their female equivalents openly declare that many of the girls take the dogs out for the same reason they wear slinky gowns, flesh-colored hosiery, mascaroed eyebrows and enormous jade earrings, and not because of a genuine love of nature and animals. Well, anyway, a dog's life isn't so bad on 103rd street.

HIS NAME STANDS HIGH IN ACADEMIC ANNALS OF CAMPBELLFORD TOWN

Under Supervision of A. G. Knight Community Has Been Noted For Its High Standard of Secondary Education Maintained Since The Late Seventies.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 15.—The name of A. G. Knight stands high in the academic annals of Campbellford and this town has for years been noted for the standard of the secondary education it has maintained since the late seventies when the High School was first opened. Ask some of the leading professional and business men of Campbellford to what teacher they owe most, put the same question to Judge Huycke and Rev. James Rollins of Peterborough, or to scores of other prominent and successful men in various walks of life throughout Ontario and it is safe to assume that the name of A. G. Knight will be unanimously mentioned. He was the second High School teacher to take up High School work here, he gave his pupils 13 years of faithful service, and among those who were fortunate enough to attend his classes his memory is still cherished with affectionate regard.

Those of his former pupils who have lost touch with him will be pleased to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Knight are spending the evening of life in well earned ease and comfort in their home in Picton. Mr. Knight is still living in the academic atmosphere in which he moved for so many years as his residence is within sight of the Picton High School, of which his granddaughter is one of the most distinguished grad uates, passing the junior matriculation examination with a record that has never been excelled in Ontario.

The building of a new High School in Campbellford, which it is hoped will be ready for occupancy by the first of the year, marks another chapter in the history of the town, always creditable especially in the record that from the beginning has marked the progress of that institution. An Examiner representative made a special trip to Picton to talk with Mr. Knight over the days which he spent here early in his professional career and spent with him and Mrs. Knight an interesting two hours in which both recalled reminiscences of what were the pioneer days in secondary educa tion.

Campbellford's first High School was a stone building which stood behind the present public school for which it had been originally built. When it outgrew the needs of the growing town a new public school was erected and in the old building Mr. Knight took charge of the 18 pupils who con stituted the class. He was not the first High School teacher of the town, another having opened the institution, but the history of the school dates from his coming. Mr. Knight was a grad uate of the old Victoria College at Cobourg, a classmate of Rev. Dr. Workman, who rose to a professorship in his alma mater and who afterwards became famous by reason of advanced theological views which he entertained and did not hesitate to promulgate.

Campbellford's First Graduates

It was in 1877 that Mr. Knight came to Campbellford and the following year he sent a class of six to write at the old intermediate examinations, in those days equivalent to the non professional second class teachers' examination. Any student who passed this examination was considered to have matriculated in medicine.

Of that class all six passed, three taking Grade A, and three Grade B. To pass 100 per cent. of a class was an exceptional record in those days and from that time the fame of the Campbellford High School was firmly established. The feat was all the more remarkable when it is recalled that Mr. Knight was the only teacher in the school and was required to be specialist in English, Mathematics and Classics, something that entailed an enormous amount of work in the way of preparation.

Some of the Students

Mr. Knight was 13 years in Camp bellford and in that time turned out altogether 280 graduates, who took up the various professions. It is im possible for any man to recall the names of more than a fraction of those who passed through his hands, but of a number of these he has clear and affectionate remembrance. He regards Judge Huycke as one of the manliest and most promising youths whom he ever taught, apt and diligent in his studies, straightforward and manly in his deportment. Another of his students who now resides in Peter borough was Rev. James Rollins of St. Andrew's church, whom he recalls as a diligent worker, loyal to his teacher and a peacemaker among his class mates. One of Mr. Knight's most pleasant meetings with a former pupil in after life was the occasion on which he heard Mr. Rollins preach once when both were on a visit to Cobourg.

Some of the leading professional men in Campbellford were students of Mr. Knight. These include three of the leading physicians, Dr. A. Haig, Dr. John Macoun and Dr. E. F. Free. After his intimate acquaintance with these men when they were boys it has never surprised Mr. Knight that all three have attained prominence in the medical profession. They were clever, ambitious and always loyal to their teacher. Some of the students of those days walked between five and six miles to school every day, returning on foot to their homes at night, and this sturdy exercise seemed to have the effect of making them more enthusiastic in the pursuit of knowledge.

Another student of Dr. Knight's who won honor in the medical profession was E. F. McGrath, who settled in Peterborough where he died a few years ago. Of all the young men who passed through his hands Mr. Knight says none was perhaps more brilliant, nor gave greater promise for the future than the late Dr. McGrath.

To Judge Huycke belongs the honor of being the first assistant in the Campbellford High School. Acting as monitor, he lent valuable aid to Mr. Knight, teaching the junior classes.

A Few of the Pioneers

Here are the names of some of his old students whom Mr. Knight recalls: J. M. Arnold of Campbellford, a member of the present Board of Education; S. J. Abernethy, Chairman of the town Water and Light Commission; Rev. A. Govan, of Williamstown; Rev. Archie Graham, formerly of Lancaster; Dr. Allan McCall, of Belleville (deceased); Dr. George Ferris of Cobourg; Dr. Henry Meiklejohn of Winnipeg; Dr. T. Johnston and Dr. John Brown of New York; Dr. John Berry of Kingston; Rev. F. Stillman of Vancouver; Isaac Brooks, attorney of Winnipeg; Dr. James Third of Kingston; Adam Linton of Campbellford; William Carnahan of Toronto; Dr. Darling of Edmonton; Mrs. Sam West; Miss Martha Emma Gothard; Dr. T. Carlow (deceased) cousin of Dr. E. J. Free; Crozier Moore, late principal of Campbellford school; Phillip Fairman, principal of Trenton Public School; David Cornell, late teacher in Cornwall Public School; Dr. George Macoun; Dr. Perry Goldsmith of Toronto; Alonzo Knight, teacher; John Parker, principal of school in California; T. Curles, C.P.R. solicitor; Col. George Ogilvie, Kingston; Arthur Colville, formerly of town, now a prominent solicitor in Montreal; Mrs. Charles Macoun (Mollie Doxall).

Old School Was Burned

The old public school in Campbellford was destroyed by fire in the late eighties and Dr. Knight's High School, too, went up in the flames. The High School, which by this time had over 80 students, attracted from all parts of the district by the fame which the institution had won. The present High School was built in 1887 and when it was opened Mr. Knight was given three assistants. That school, an architectural model in its day and perfect in every detail when erected, designed as it was for four teachers, became too small as the town grew and the staff was increased to six, so that after a long controversy, the present structure was decided upon. When the new building is opened and all citizens realize that they have a structure that is a credit to the town and in keeping with its educational reputation, all differences of opinion with regard to the wisdom of the outlay will disappear.

Went To Deseronto

Mr. Knight remained in Campbellford until 1890, when he resigned to become principal of the Deseronto High School. After seven years of successful service there he taught five years in Cornwall, when he retired on account of failing health.

His two sons, both of whom received their secondary education from their father, are successful professional men, T. F. being a dentist in Picton, and W. D. a doctor in Cornwall.

A Matter of Heredity

Mr. Knight's granddaughter, Marion, daughter of Dr. Knight of Picton, although only 16 has already made a reputation for herself in scholarship. When 12 years old she passed the entrance examination in that town, making the highest average stand ever attained by a pupil in that town. At every examination she stood highest in her class while at High School and last summer she rounded out her career by passing the junior matriculation with first class honors in every subject, and winning the gold medal awarded the student taking the best stand in Prince Edward County. The marks won by candidates at this examination are not given out but it has been learned that Miss Knight made over 90 per cent. on every paper.

Why Mr. Knight Succeeded

Mr. Knight frequently receives letters from his former students in Campbellford, thanking him for the interest he always took in their welfare and praising his proficiency as a teacher. To all of these he has practically the same answer. He says that his success as a teacher here was due to the high intellectual endowment of his students, to their devotion to study and their unwavering loyalty to their teacher.

Grants Exceeded Salary

While Mr. Knight was in Campbellford the Government grants were base on the results of the examinations. For several years the school's revenue from this source exceeded the salary paid the teacher. And speaking of salary, when Mr. Knight went to Campbellford he was paid $800 a year, and when he left 13 years later he was in receipt of $1050. The members of his first school board were the late J. M. Ferris and William Archer, G. Kennedy, Mr. Callahan and Rev. Father Casey.

"I suppose," said Mr. Knight to the Examiner representative, at the close of an interesting interview, "that every teacher holds the memory of some one pupil in special regard. I can never forget Dr. E. J. Free of Campbellford. He was one of the finest boys who ever attended my classes anywhere and it never surprised me to learn that he became an honor to his town both professionally and as a private citizen.

Tribute From Dr. Macoun

One of the most ardent admirers of Mr. Knight, both as a man and a teacher, is Dr. John Macoun of Campbellford.

"Mr. Knight," said the doctor, to the Examiner, "thought of other things for his students than merely coaching them for an examination, earnest and successful as he was in that. He sought to develop the good that is in the makeup of every youth. As a hard worker he was phenomenal as all the branches had to be taught by him. In those days the High School Inspectors were the late J. A. McLellan specialist in mathematics; the late S. Arthur Marling, specialist in classics, and the late J. M. Buchan, who excelled in English. They visited the schools once every half year and each put the students through a grilling test in the inspector's favorite subject. Mr. Knight's boys and girls always managed to come through with flying colors. I recall on one occasion when Dr. McLellan visited the school and gave the class one of his test problems in Algebra. The majority solved it and the inspector said it was the best showing made by any school he had visited in Ontario."

Mr. Knight modestly disclaimed to the Examiner, any expert knowledge of mathematics, but the teacher who could successfully pilot his students around the pitfalls and man traps that the late Dr. McLellan delighted to dig and set for the unwary, was certainly no novice in that branch of learning.

Will Be Invited Here

A few months ago when Campbellford was planning an old home week—a project finally abandoned for a year—one of the items of the programme suggested by Dr. O. C. Watson was to have Mr. Knight here to hold a session of the High School with a number of his former students.

It is expected that an invitation will be sent to Mr. Knight to attend the opening of the new High School, on which occasion he would meet many of his old boys and girls.

These six students wrote at the old intermediate examination in 1878, and all passed, three taking Grade A and three Grade B. The reputation of teacher and school dates from that achievement, an unusual record in those days, especially for a school with only one teacher.

TROUBLES OF SPAIN RESULT OF TOO FREQUENT CHANGES

Since Year 1909 There Have Been No Fewer Than Fifteen Governments — Old Problems Yet Unsolved.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—"The inconsistencies of the numerous political, military, economic, and social programmes of Spain have often proved a mystery to English readers, and the present despatch is intended to explain the reasons for them," says the Telegraph's Spanish correspondent. "I shall show how it is that Spain is always confronted by the same problems as those of the day before, and always seems unable to solve them. When a Government or an authority has studied a problem and adopted a programme, another Government, or authority takes its place, the result being that every problem remains definitely in the preparatory stage.

Fifteen Governments

"Since the year 1909 the date of the first events at Melilla, Spain has had no fewer than fifteen Governments, namely, those of Maura, Moret, Canalejas, Garcia Prieto, Dato, Maura, Romanones, Sanchez Toca, Al lendesalazar, Sanchez Guerra, and Garcio Pietro. Since the same date there have been the following Ministers of War:—Linares, Luque, Echague, Primo de Rivera, Marina, Tovar Aguilera, Villalba, Munoz Cobos, Cierva, Berenguer, Vixconde de Ezra, Olaquer Feliu, Cierva, Alcala Zamora, and Aizpuru. The following have commanded in Africa during the same time:—Generals Marina Alfau, Jordana, Berenguer, and Burguette, until the high military com mand was transformed into a civilian o ffice, and Don Luis Silvela was app ointed High Commissioner.

After 25 Years

"During these years many generals have been in command at Larache, Ceuta, and Melilla, the final result of it all being that the programme of each of the Governments, each of the High Commissioners, Ministers of War, and Commanders-in-Chief was to do precisely the opposite to what was accomplished by the preceding one.

"This is the reason why, after a quarter of a century, Spain is still confronted by the same problems, and to such an extent is this true that newspaper articles published in 1900 could be republished today and still be topical. So far as Morocco is concerned thes newspaper literature of 1909 is precisely the same as that of the present moment. There are the same criticisms, the same deficiencies and lack of organization in the services, just as if time had stood still since July, 1909, when the first events at Melilla took place. A journalist who had made a thorough study of Morocco affairs said on one occasion that Spanish politicians had lost more time in making and unmaking programmes for Morocco than Penelope in weaving and unweaving her celebrated cloth.

Nobody Understands

"Nobody in Spain can understand why it seems to be impossible, with more than 150,000 soldiers, to dominate a relatively small zone, less in size than the province of Badajoz; but nobody holds the army responsible for the failure, which is attributed to the lack of a programme, and, above all, to utter disorganization, for the army has always gained the objectives which have been set before it. As a matter of fact, the disaster of Melilla was due to the absence of a programme, because, if there had been a carefully though out plan after the taking of Abarran, Anual, Iqueriben, and Sidi-Dris, it would have been impossible for a few irregular guerillas to drive a European army from its positions. But the advance was made without food, without water, without munitions, without anything except the bravery of the men, and in war something more than bravery is required.

As in 1921

"At the present time Spain is in the same situation as she was in 1921, having to maintain a line of positions which begins at Melilla and ends at Tizzi-Azzza—positions to which there has to be taken even the wood for cooking the men's meals, as the country consists of nothing but rocks and barren earth.

"The procession of Governments is not finished, and already it is being said that there will be a new Government in October, and therefore a new Minister of War and a new High Commissioner. This and nothing else is the secret of so many misfortunes; this the reason why, Spain is not what she ought to be—a great nation."

KISS INVITING WORDS DELETED

American Universities Would Bar Soup, Pie and Pickles From Girls' Vocabulary.

"Soup, pie, pickles" have been deleted from the vocabularies of young ladies while dining in company with gentlemen, say three United States Universities — Northwestern, Barnard and Columbia. It is claimed there is a kiss-inviting pucker behind such words when they are said slowly with a stress on the final sound.

Several Peterborough girls in uptown offices interviewed on the subject, refused to treat it seriously, but one or two promised to give the proposition a test. "It didn't work" on, reported yesterday, sorrowfully it appeared.

"That's a good idea," one young lady declared, evidently looking more toward the possible development of the signals than to the eradication of what the Universities look on as a pernicious practice. During the banquet season which is now opening it is to be expected that "soup pie, and pickles" will be frequent subjects of conversation. There is something sweet about "pie"; "pickles" is full of spice, and "soup" is especially sloppy.

Whatever the varsity faddists have succeeded in doing they have given the girls three new ways of saying "kiss me."

The Hostess's Friend

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry has made him her Dream Prince.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife is in love with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian,

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meets Miles and Terry at Monte Carlo, and recognizes in the supposed Million Dollar Doll, Terry Desmond whom he had met back in New York. In love with the girl, himself, he is relieved to learn that Miles' conduct toward Terry has been most chivalrous.

Mrs. Harkness, Miles' old servant, takes care of Terry on board the yacht.

Miss Caroline Sheridan, meeting the couple at Monte Carlo, endeavors to dissuade Miles from his disgraceful project. She writes to Betty of Terry's beauty and charm.

Miles, dining in Algiers with Terry, whom he does not recognize as the little girl he befriended so long ago, see Paul de Salvano with a group of strangers.

On the way to Bousaada, Miles realizes that he loves "Juliet Divine."

Miles asks the girl if she is capable of love.

In Bousaade Miles tells Terry of his love for her.

Sheridan receives an amazing telegram from the captain of the yacht.

Betty Sheridan in New York is worried because she has not heard from Paulo. She receives two letters.

CHAPTER LXVI

Betty went draggingly to her boudoir. Since the letters were not from Paulo, they were worthless! She was tired. Nothing seemed of importance. Her heart had been rather "queer" now and then, since she had begun dosing herself with that acid stuff, for reducing fat. She flung herself on a sofa, and opened old Caroline's letter mechanically. It was dated from Mentone. Perhaps Miles had arrived there, and met his maiden aunt.

As Betty's eyes travelled along the spidery lines, her lips curved in a sarcastic smile. "Juliet Divine too attractive in appearance," indeed—"Modest manner"—ha, ha—"Miles treating her chivalrously." What a scream! These pious, interfering old maids were too funny!

Betty had never seen Miss Sheridan, but Miles had described his aunt—if with a sense of humor. Now the reader of these closely written pages visualized the faded spinster who thought she had only to beckon, and the repentant wife would crawl half across the world to reclaim her husband. As for the suggestion that Miles, unless snatched from the burning, would marry a creature like Juliet Divine, it was absurd. In fact each paragraph of old Carry's letter was more ridiculous than the last, when she had read to the end, Betty was amused.

The allusion to Juliet's youth was a slap. "This girl is much younger than you my dear," emphasized Miss Sheridan, "as well as a rival in beauty to the loveliest. And you, who have been married for years, know even better than I do what men are."

"Old hag" thought Betty. "She might have minded her own business instead of giving herself this trouble. What a cat to tell me that Juliet Divine is younger and prettier than I am. Old maid's spite. I've heard of the Million Dollar Doll for years. I remember her being pointed out to me when she was a show girl in some revue—so long ago I've forgotten what it was. I don't suppose she's anything to look at these days without her war paint. But that old witch is such a damn fool."

It was nothing to be twenty-eight. When Betty was feeling her best she looked a girl. Just now—and she jumped up to examine herself in a silver framed "Psyche" mirror—she was not at her best, thanks to Paulo's cruelty. But men were like that. Cruel—cruel as beautiful, satin skinned panthers. This panther cruelty was part of their attraction. How they could make love—and make you love. After all, it wasn't certain that Paulo was with Rose. His mysterious absence might be part of a cautious plan. She might hear from him any day. There was no cause for despair.

Miss Sheridan's letter lay on the floor, where its reader had tossed it. Betty stooped to retrieve the two sheets of thin foreign paper, meaning to throw them on the fire of driftwood which burned in the grate. She wouldn't risk having the stuff fall into a servant's hands. Beside the loose sheets and the torn envelope lay another envelope, unopened. Betty had forgotten it, but realized not that had slipped from her lap with Caroline's missive. The hand writing looked like that of a man; and the stamp bore the head of the Prince of Monaco.

"More news about Miles, from some other well wisher" she sneered, tearing the other envelope.

The thick paper within had "Hotel de Paris" engraved at the top of the first page. "Dear Mrs. Sheridan," Betty read, and stilled to recognize the writing. She had turned the letter over and had just found the signature when the telephone bell rang.

"Eustace Nazlo—Eustace Nazlo" she repeated, as she reached out from the cushiony sofa to lift a full skirted Louis Quinze doll off the receiver.

"Do I know Eustace Nazlo? Where did I meet him?" she wondered as she lifted the receiver—

"Hello, old bean, it's Lil," came the voice of Lillian Leslie, the pretty actress who was now Mrs. John Anderson, and loved by Betty because she had first introduced Paulo.

"Yes," Betty answered. "Just come in—rather a wreck. How are you?"

"In bed with a beast of a cold," replied the other. "If I could get out, I'd whiz round and see you. But I felt I must ring you up. Have you heard from our friend the Prince lately?"

"Not lately?" Betty admitted, with a pang in heart and pride. "Why?"

"A pal of Rose tells me the Callahans have sailed for Algiers, on one of those big ships that make Mediterranean tours, and Paulo's following a quicker way. Cherbourg, Marseilles and so on. I hate to tell you this, darling, but you ought to know at once. Kathleen thinks Rose was secretly married to Paulo—as legally as you can be married to a foreigner in New York—before they sailed. If not, she's anyhow determined to have him. Pop was rather off the Prince at last accounts, partly because of his flirtations with a certain little married lady. But Rose is bound to win out in the end."

"I can't believe Paulo would marry Rose Callahan," Betty choked. "She's so common. She—"

"Precious, it's sickening, but he was out for big boodle. I'm sure he liked you lots better than Rose; you're so much smarter and prettier—though, of course, she's a girl, which is an attraction to some men. And Rose will be so disgustingly rich how could he resist?"

Betty could not answer. She felt as if she were dying. Hastily she hung up the receiver, knowing that Lil would understand, and flung herself face down on the sofa.

There was no hope then. It was all true. She had lost Paulo. He was a traitor. She didn't know how to bear it.

Everyone would laugh at her, as she had laughed at others, and when the scandal about Miles and Juliet Divine came out—a useless scandal now—people would say that she couldn't even keep a husband.

It was too horrible. She was a deserted woman—she, Betty Sheen, Betty Sheridan, who had always been such a success. She writhed as she thought of the future, and shuddering away from the picture, she remembered the letter from Eustace Nazlo.

(To Be Continued.)

FISHY FLAVOR IN BUTTER

Usually the Result of Using Unclean and Rust Cream or Shipping Cans

The fishy flavor and odor in butter has, in some isolated cases, been found to be due to the cows pasturing in marshes which are periodically flooded by the tide and on the grasses of which small crabs and dried or decayed remnants of shell fish and of other fish are found. Bacteriologists have reported also the existence of certain species of bacteria capable of developing in milk, cream, and butter a fishy flavor. It is further possible for butter to become tainted with a fishy flavor when it is kept in close proximity to fish, in which case the butter absorbs the odor.

Each of the above cited causes of fishiness is quite possible, but with the conditions under which this butter becomes fishy it is not very probable.

By far the most common causes of fishiness in commercial butter are unclean and rusty cream shipping cans, churning cream with a relatively high acidity, an acidity above about .35% and holding the cream in a forewarmer or in a vat, in which the copper lining and coils are not properly covered with tin, for a considerable length of time.

One may prevent, with a certainty, the recurrence of fishy flavor in butter by paying close attention to the following suggestions:

1. Eliminate rusty cans and return to the farmer cans only that are thoroughly cleaned, rinsed, steamed, and dried.

Keep the copper surfaces in forewarmers, vats, and coolers well tinned. Do not permit exposed copper surfaces to become coated with verdigris. Wash all forewarmers, pumps, and pasteurizers, coolers, vats and conduits thoroughly each day after use and flush them out again with hot water immediately before use the next day. If the coils and lining in the cream vats show any exposed copper, do not hold the cream in them over night.

3. If the cream arrives at the creamery sour, neutralize it to.2 5% acid or below. Do not churn cream that has an acidity of .35% or higher.

4. If you pasteurize by the flash method, heat the cream to a temperature of 180 to 185° F. If you use the holding method of pasteurization, heat to 146° F. and hold for thirty minutes. —Hoard's Dairyman.

CRIMINALS INCREASE AS RESULT OF BIG WAR

By JOHN O'BRIEN

PARIS, Oct. 15 (United Press).—Juvenile criminality has increased to such an extent in France since the war that efforts to combat it will probably be discussed in parliament when the chamber is convened after the vacation period.

In 1913, the number of child delinquents who appeared in the special courts was 1,924. In 1918, it had risen to nearly 4,000 and in 1922 to 5,800. Meanwhile the population has been decreasing. If this increase is not stopped the next generation of Frenchmen will be 50 per cent. apaches.

"When there is no home-life there is no morality," said Dr. Roger Dupouy, assistant director of the department of mental hygiene at the St. Anne Hospital, in explaining the causes of this phenomenon. "During the war the father was at the front, the mother was in the munitions factories, the children were in the streets. Those children, and especially the children born in that frightful period, growing up in the midst of lamentations, cries of despair, listening to tales of slaughter, acquired a sense of the little ness of human life.

Familiar With Death

"They watched death in all its forms and grew familiar with it. Life has lost for them its pre-war value. Moreover, a wind of immorality swept through the nation in consequence of the family disorder into which the war plunged us. As happens after all great cataclysms, the national organism remains profoundly upset. There is a general commotion, one of the results of which is a general breaking down of moral forces, a weakening of the moral fibre."

Moral education in the schools, the suppression of the disastrous influence of example and the treatment of children as children and not as young men and women are the remedies recommended by Dr. Dupouy.

RUM

"When he gets drunk, he forgets he is divorced and comes home at night," complains a woman in Bangor, Me., swearing out a warrant for the arrest of her recently divorced husband.

This will amaze many women, who have come to believe that it works the other way, John Barleycorn inclining men to forget they are married.

Alcohol paralyzes the intellect more than it stimulates. Drunken genius, for instance, does its best work despite its jags rather than as a result of them.

PUZZLING

A church conference in Indiana adopts this resolution: "It is further recommended that we urge our colleges and seminary to make plain to our young people that there is no conflict between the truths of science and the truths of revelation, and to this end we recommend the dismissal of any member of the faculty of any of our institutions who teaches materialistic evolution."

This man who worded this resolution missed his calling. He should be a lawyer.

DANGEROUS

The mark drops in value so fast that it's impossible for German workers to keep their wages rising as rapidly as the cost of living. So wages throughout Germany have been put on a gold basis "ONE-THIRD LESS THAN IN PRE-WAR DAYS."

That will be interesting competition for other countries, also on a gold-wage basis but with wages higher than pre-war. Cheap German labor is going to be our biggest foreign trade problem as soon as allied restrictions are removed and Germany has a 50-50 chance in world markets.

WRONG

In industrial life 54 million Americans, in farming 51 millions. This is the picture of America taken home by Augusto Setti, attorney general at Rome, Italy.

He thinks we'd be more prosperous if the figures were reversed and more of us engaged in farming. It would, indeed, be a fine thing for the nation's health if every family grew a part of its food. But several branches of farming now are the victims of overproduction. In other words, too many on the land instead of not enough.

PREDICTION

Conditions are "favorable to a continuation of good business," report experts of Guaranty Trust Co. of N. Y. They predict the usual seasonal business pick-up this fall, and believe that drops in wholesale prices and securities have "prepared the way for more nearly stable and normal business."

The chief thing needed is for the public to be confident of its ability to "keep things moving."

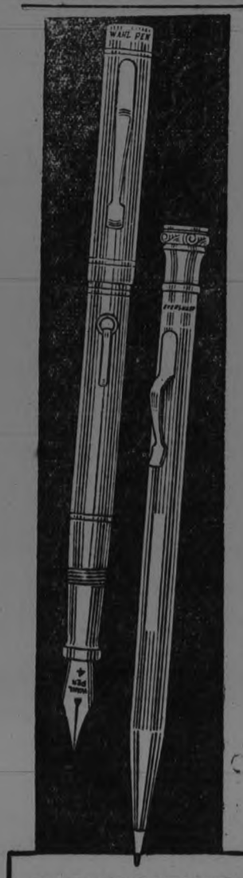
FEATHERS FOR HATS

Feather trimmings are the most popular ones for hats now, and frequently the entire brim is composed of them. On the panne velvet shapes, the "stick-up" of ostrich fancy is almost inevitable.



EVERSHARP is matched by WAHL PEN and nothing else!

Eversharp is a basically correct mechanical pencil. Its construction is simple. There is no complex mechanism to get out of order. Therefore, it works perfectly. Carry two—one filled with the new colored lead.

No other pencil can give you Eversharp service—for Eversharp features can't be copied. The exclusive rifled tip prevents the lead from wobbling. The automatic index tells the length of lead in the barrel. Pull off the cap, and you find an eraser; unscrew the cap, and there is a magazine well filled with leads—an ingenious arrangement.

The worthy companion of Eversharp is the all-metal Wahl Pen. It is a great fountain pen improvement. It can neither crack nor break. It will not wear out in a lifetime. And it holds considerably more ink.

Eversharp and Wahl Pen are matched in exquisite designs, and are made in gold and silver. Wahl Pen, $4 to $10; Eversharp, $1 to $10—higher, of course, for solid gold. Buy both, and look for the name on each. See also the Wahl rubber pens—$2.75 up.

Alberta Referendum On Liquor Regulation Nov. 5

Preefrential Ballot With Four Alternatives Will Be Laid Before Electors—Province Has Had Seven Years' Experience of Varying Degrees of Prohibition—Old System Was Ended July 1, 1916.

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 15 (Canadian Press).—Through a preferential ballot with four alternatives electors of Alberta on November 5 will decide whether there is to be a change in the provincial liquor laws. On the result the government will base its legislation, whether the people call for a system of government shops or for the continuation and development of the present system of prohibition.

Alberta has had seven years' experience with varying degrees of prohibition legislation.

The change from the old liquor license system came into effect in Alberta on July 1, 1916. On July 23 of the previous year a referendum had been held on a liquor act submitted under the provisions of the direct legislation law by the Temperance and Moral Reform association. It carried by a vote of 58,295 to 37,509.

The direct legislation law provided that in case of an affirmative vote the legislature should at the next session enact the proposed measure without substantial alterations and this was done. The sale of liquor within the province as a beverage was prohibited and a doctor's prescription was required for the purchase of liquor for medicinal purposes.

Under the act, as it was passed, the fact that a person had on his premises more liquor than was reasonably required for himself or his family, "not exceeding one quart of spirits and two gallons of malt liquor," was to be deemed prima facie evidence of unlawful sale. In March, 1917, after this clause had been variously interpreted, the legislature altered it to read that "no person within the province shall have or keep in his private dwelling-house a quantity of liquor exceeding one quart of spirituous liquor and two gallons of malt liquor."

Ended Import

The right to import from other provinces was put an end to by federal order-in-council; under the war measures act on April 1, 1918, but was restored when this order was revoked on January 1, 1920. On October 25 of that year the federal referendum on the question of whether this importation should be again stopped was taken and the vote stood 62,772 for and 44,176 against. On this occasion women voted, whereas they had not obtained the franchise when the vote of 1915 was taken.

During 1922 what was entitled "The Temperance Act" was drafted and a petition circulated asking the legislature to submit it under the direct legislation law. It provided for hotel and wholesale licenses for the sale of beer. When the legislature met, early in 1923, a special committee was appointed to scrutinize the petition and reported that it met the requirements of the direction legislation act. Some members alleged that there were irregularities in connection with the petition, but on March 14, the House adopted the committee's report by a vote of 49 to 7.

Alternative Offered

It was then argued that, seeing that the province was thus required to incur the expanse of a referendum, more than the question of whether the "temperance act" should come into effect should be submitted. Various methods of obtaining a more complete expression of public opinion were urged upon the government and on April 16 Premier Greenfield outlined the course which he proposed to follow. He would move a resolution calling for the submission of the "temperance act." If this carried, he would submit a second resolution which would read that it was "desirable that alternate questions based on other forms of liquor legislation should be submitted by plebiscite at the same time as the referendum on the proposed temperance." This resolution, however, should not, the premier declared, be construed as embodying the policy of the government. It was "entirely concerned in obtaining the opinion of the House on this question." Should the second resolution pass, he would move a third, calling for the appointment of a committee of five members, representing all sections of the House, to be named by himself, which would recommend alternative questions to be submitted to the electors.

The first resolution met with no opposition. The second was carried by 42 votes to 15, four Liberals, an Independent and ten farmer members constituting the minority. The third resolution was passed by 36 to 16, all the Liberals, one Independent and four U. F. O. members voting against it. Mr. Boyle, the liberal leader, declared that as the second motion did not mean anything, he had voted for it. But he opposed the third because it was the duty of the government to make up the questions to be submitted and he did not think that private members should be expected to do so. No Liberal, he said, would act on the proposed committee.

Mr. Greenfield named as members of the committee a U.F.A. representative, a Labor representative, and Independent, a Conservative and a Liberal. The first four consented to act, but the last declined.

The committee's report was the subject of a lively debate during the last two days of the session. The form of ballot which it recommended was finally adopted with slight changes and the electors are to be asked on November 5 to express their preference, in accordance with the principles of the single transferable preferential ballot, as between the following:

(a) Prohibition—Meaning thereby continuation and development of the present legislation; that is, the abolition of the sale of all liquors other than for medicinal, sacramental, manufacturing and scientific purposes.

(b) Licensed sale of beer—Meaning thereby the sale of beer in licensed hotels and other premises, as provided in the proposed Temperance Act.

(c) Government sale of beer—Meaning thereby the sale of beer by or through government vendors for consumption in private residences under government control and regulations.

(d) Government sale of all liquors—meaning thereby the sale of all liquors by or through government vendors—beer to be consumed on licensed premises and in private residences—wines and spirits to be purchased in limited quantities under permit issued by the government, under government control and legulation.

The Moderation League has urged that the first vote be cast for (d) and the second and third respectively for (c) and (b). It has stated that it is emphatically opposed to the return of the bar and that the latter will not be brought back by the adoption of (d). This has been challenged by the prohibition forces, which have called upon the electors to "vote (a) and prevent the return of the bar."

Unsolved Mysteries

TRAITOR OR PATRIOT?

Probably the most dramatic figure in American history Aaron Burr was small of status but possessed of a magnetism which both men and women found almost irresistable. Adding to this the fact that he was endowed with a dauntless determination and a calm self-possession which never seemed to fail him even in the greatest extremities it is not hard to see how he possessed a fascination for all whom he set out to please—nor how he succeeded in making implacable enemies of those who attempted to interfere with his plans.

At the age of 19 Burr performed such feats of bravery during the Revolutionary War that he was rewarded with the rank of Major in Washington's army and at 35 he was United States senator from New York. Ten years later he was vice-president of the United States and it was while he held that office that he killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel, a tragedy which put an end to his political aspirations.

According to the majority of historians whose works are used in schoolrooms Burr after retiring from the vice-presidency embarked upon a number of enterprises which savored strongly of treason and treachery. The principal charge against him was that he was accused of gathering together a body of fearless pioneers with the idea of establishing a Latin-American monarchy of which he was to be the head, at the same time inducing a number of the western states to break away from the Union and join his government, the seat of which was to be at New Orleans. It was this project which President Jefferson is supposed to have frustrated and which led to Burr's sensational trial for treason at Richmond Va.—a trial which lasted for six months and at which the former vice-president was acquitted.

But other and more painstaking chroniclers of American history see in the events which led up to Burr's trial more of an indictment of Jefferson than of the man who faced his accusers at Richmond. Burr they claim was extremely popular with the people and the intimation is that Jefferson fearing that his plans for a second term would be frustrated by Burr determined to drive his principal rival out of politics. The latter appears to have made no secret of his purpose to conquer Texas and establish himself as President there, but a scheme of this kind did not involve the slightest suspicion of treason nor did it as was clearly shown at his trial include an intention of inducing some of the states to secede from the Union. In this connection it is a significant fact that Jefferson's principal witness was a General James Wilkinson, an adventurer who after serving an apprenticeship under Benedict Arnold, had been a paid spy of Spain during the time that he also held a high rank in the American army.

Acting upon what are supposed to have been Jefferson's orders Wilkinson terrorized the residents of New Orleans into the belief that Burr was on his way toward the city at the head of an army of ruffians who intended to rob the banks plunder the people and seize all the shipping at the wharves. Martial law was proclaimed and a general panic ensued but the more sensible portion of the New Orleans population realized the falsity of Wilkinson's statements and secured an injunction against him which Wilkinson with his customary contempt for law disregarded. He was arrested for contempt but the court found itself unable to enforce its decree and in disgust the presiding judge resigned. It was in connection with this incident that John Randolph of Roanoke declared that Wilkinson had "out-Heroded Herod."

Finally when Burr was apprehended several hundred miles from New Orleans his "army" was discovered to consist of sixty men armed solely with farm implements and headed toward Texas. He was arrested and in spite of the fact that the Grand Jury refused flatly to return an indictment against him he was re-arrested and taken to Richmond. In the meantime his property had been confiscated and Burr found himself in utter poverty—a circumstance which did not for a moment deter Henry Clay one of the most famous lawyers of his time from acting as attorney for the accused man.

After the trial had dragged along for months and the evidence against Burr had been supported by every questionable means at the disposal of his political opponents Burr was finally acquitted but his career was at an end. The irony of the situation was not however apparent until some thirty years later Sam Houston used precisely the methods which Burr had planned in securing the independence of Texas and the establishment of a separate republic there. In spite of this history is still divided as to the real character of Aaron Burr—some historians claiming that he was a traitor to the Government which he had served so well and others with far greater weight of evidence upon their side taking the position that he was the victim of political animosity and petty spite.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

FRISKY COLT AND APPLES

And the Ground Was Covered With Windfall Apples, Much to His Delight.

Frisky Colt looked around curiously. He had been left all alone in Squealy-Moo Land for the first time, and he didn't like it.

His mother had been driven off to town by Mrs. Brown to do some marketing and the other horses were hauling in logs for the winter.

Frisky played with Crazy Calf for a while, but soon tired and quit, for Crazy's name should have been Fraidy, for no matter what happened he kept running to his mother and telling tales.

So Frisky wandered around and looked at everything with great curious eyes and thought what a queer world it was.

"Oh, Shucks," he thought. "I guess I'll go over and watch the pigs. Perhaps I'll get an idea.

So he trotted over on his legs to the place where the pigs were, and stuck his nose over the fence.

As usual Twisty Tail and Piggy Wig and Saucy Snout were discussing things to eat.

Piggy Wig stuck out for sour milk and Twisty Tail put in a good word for sweet clover, but Saucy Snut said that of all things in this fine world he loved apples the best.

"Oh, my," he sighed with a loud grunt. "If only I wasn't so fat I could squeeze through that narrow place in the fence and get into the orchard, and I'd eat all the apples on the ground."

"There, I knew I'd get an idea," nodded Frisky. "I'm tall and thin and I certainly can squeeze through the opening. Funny I never thought of it before. I love apples, too. I've tasted them several times."

Off he trotted, and just as he expected, he got through the opening without a mite of trouble. And the ground was covered with windfall apples much to his delight.

So he started to eat, and he ate and he ate and he ate until he thought he would burst.

"My goodness," he said suddenly. "The sun's going down and I'd better go home. And I'm thirsty, too. I'll stop at the horse trough and take a big drink.

All of which he did.

That night he started to swell. And he kept on swelling till he looked like a barrel almost.

And such a pain. Poor Frisky whinnied until he woke Mister Dodger and the Twins, asleep in their cornishock house in the corn field.

I don't know what they gave him, but whatever it was, it cured him. One thing I do know, however, Frisky got a good lecture and he won't touch sweet apples and water again in a hurry. Or anything else he doesn't know about.

TEACHERS AS AIDS TO WORLD PEACE

In the October "Our World," Augustus O. Thomas writes of the recent World Conference on Education and discusses how the proper teaching of vital facts in the schoolrooms of the world will eliminate the causes of hatred and misunderstanding between nations. He says in his article, "World Unity Through Education":

"Diplomacy has failed to keep the peace of the world. International agreements have been ruthlessly brushed aside by ill-tempered nations and treaties have becomes scraps of paper, business and commerce instead of cooling the temper have added to the heat where selfish policy and program have held sway. Every war in history is the story of diplomatic failure and of treaty-making powers, while many wars are the direct clash of vast commercial and business interests.

"Education alone can hurdle the barriers built up by generations of ignorance, prejudice and false ideals purposefully encouraged. Education to become potent in national understanding must be of the heart as well as the head. The cradle of today will either keep the peace or fill the trenches of tomorrow and it will be just as we say. No great reform was ever brought about through one adult generation. It has required long years and long generations to produce the momentum necessary to change well-established customs. If it were possible to formulate specific ideals, to set up a program, and to define processes and give this gospel into the llands of the teachers of the world who with unified purpose and technical skill should teach the world's children the lessons involved it would be possible for the future to realize the ideals and standards taught. There must be a love and appreciation which come from a knowledge of national traits, ideals and forces and the conditions which have produced them and have made our national neighbors what they are."

Of the World Conference on Education, he says:

"The men and women who came from the uttermost parts of the earth sat down and broke bread together, they communed and reasoned together and came to the conclusions together—they were happy as they greeted each other and happy as they returned to their home countries. That Conference is destined to become the beginning of a new epoch in the world's history. It was significant that the open meetings of the Conference were attended by ten to eighteen thousand persons interested in the movement which is bound to become a salient factor in the world's progress.

"Although there were many important achievements of the World Conference and many far-reaching movements set on foot the crowning act was the formation of a world-wide Federation of Education Associations. A constitution was adopted and a quota of officers selected. The plan calls for a biennial meeting of the General Federation and three regional meetings during the alternating years. The regional meetings are: one for Asia and the Pacific, one for the Americas, and one for Europe and Africa. The direct objectives of the Federation as set forth in the constitution are: to secure international cooperation in educational enterprises; to foster the dissemination of information concerning education in all its forms and among all peoples; to cultivate international good will, and to promote the cause of peace throughout the world."

SIMPLE

Industrial engineers in the east are launching a movement to simplify spelling. Roosevelt had the same idea, and it's a sensible one. Stenographers alone waste thousands of hours of time by needless typing of such things as "ph" where "f" would serve as well. Or "cigarette" for "cigaret" and "catalogue" for "catalog."

The supply of time and energy available for each of us is limited. Why waste any of it with useless effort?

MOTHER

In 25 years 24 children have been born to Mme. Marie Michel Grasset of France. She gets the government gold medal for the largest French family.

Why the gold medal? If every mother had as many children, the earth in a few generations would be so crowded with inhabitants that humanity would be one dense mob packed together like sardines. And think of Father's job, supporting them

ROAD OF REMEMBRANCE FOR THE LATE PRESIDENT

LIMA, Ohio, Oct. 15 (United Press).—The honor of startling the first memorial, a road of remembrance, for Warren G. Harding goes to this (Allen) County, says a statement received here from Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association at Washington, D. C. The work has been inaugurated by a local newspaper and Lynn B. Timmerman of Lima, who will provide six thousand trees for lining the Harding Highway a distance of 26 miles.

Van Wert County and Hardin County will continue the highway planting to Marion, according to present plans. Six thousand school children of Allen County will do the planting under the direction of the Lima Automobile Club, which will provide the transportation for the school children and the tools. Mrs. Warren G. Harding will be invited to plant the first tree. If the other counties do their planting at the same time as Allen County, the project will be completed to the Indiana line.

"On the day set for the tree planting," says the message from Pack, "the country will see the beginning of one of the most unusual tree plantings and the start of the first Road of Remembrance in honor of the late President. It is fitting that Orleans should take the lead in this work.

"Tree planters of Pennsylvania have registered thousands of trees and the individual tree planting will run into the thousands, for Fall tree planting is now in full swing, reports to the association show. The Nature Study Club of Indiana is again planting trees throughout the State."

CHILD HEALTH WORKERS TO CONVENE IN DETROIT

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (Associated Press).—Many phases of child health work will be discussed by national authorities when the American Child Health Association holds its annual meeting at Detroit, October 15 to 17.

With Herbert Hoover, president of the Association, at their head, the delegates will strive to make even more effective the efforts expended since the organization came into being last winter, according to Courtenay Dinwiddle, its general executive. The association was formed by the merging of the American Child Hygiene Association of America.

Among the subjects to be taken up are "Problems of State and City Child Health Officials," "Community Programs for Child Health," and "The Workers in Health Education; What They Should Do." The efforts of the doctor, the teacher, the nutritionist and the nurse will be discussed by leaders in these respective professions.

Dr. Arnold Gesell, of Yale University, will preside at one of the second-day sessions of the meeting, when there will be an address on "The Psychological Background of Health Teaching." Among other discussions under the general head of "Practical Methods of Teaching Health to Children" will be one dealing with habit formation, one on teaching health to younger children, and one on teaching health to older children. The question of lowering the present infant mortality rate also will be discussed.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

When cleaning the breaker points, adjusting them or just cleaning around them be careful not to strain the spring of the breaker arm. A bad plan is to pull it way back and let it snap to its original position as a means of testing its strength, but this usually paves the way for a broken spring a few miles later on.

That click so often heard when just starting off, forward or backward, is either a loose key in a rear axle or a key temporarily strained by letting in the clutch too suddenly. The odds are against the former, in view of the known disposition of drivers to start off like a cannon ball If the rear wheels seem to creak when letting in the clutch try tightening the nut which holds each wheel to the tapered end of its axle. This trouble is confined to cars equipped with semi-floating rear axles, and three-quarters floating as a few types are still designated.

Teeth Beauty

Adds a premier charm
It comes by combating film

You who love beauty should learn this way to prettier teeth, if you don't know it now. That is one great beauty item.

Millions now use this method. You see the results today wherever you look. Now see them on your own teeth. Make this delightful test.

Film mars beauty

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it now. Under old-way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. Teeth thus lose their beauty and luster.

Film also holds food subetance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old methods, those film-caused troubles became almost universal.

Then dental science found two ways to fight film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it, largely by dental advice.

A constant fight

Then Pepsodent creates a constant fight on acids and starch deposits. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. Thus it gives manifold power to these great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth.

The result is a new dental era. Men, women and children, all the world over, are enjoying it today.

You'll be surprised

The results of Pepsodent will amaze and delight you. They are quick and apparent, and you will realize what they mean to you and yours.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Do this in justice to yourself. Cut out the coupon now.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

"Conversation Circulation"

IN the days when Conversation Circulation" statements were the basis on which the advertiser bought space, the advertising solicitor who put up his story in the most pleasing manner generally got the business.

In case the advertiser questioned the figures he might possibly go to the newspaper office and look over the circulation records with his own auditors. But neither he nor his auditors knew the intricacies of newspaper circulation records or the possibilities for juggling figures.

Circulation differences and arguments caused bitter battles between many newspapers. Ingenious schemes were used by unscrupulous publishers to put up the appearance of a larger circulation than they had. The prevalence of these practices brought out the necessity for a reputable agency to audit and report on circulation matters.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations was started eight years ago by a nucleus of the leading advertisers, agents, newspaper, magazine, farm papers, and trade paper publishers. Today it has a membership of 1800. The purpose of the bureau is to make fair and impartial audits of circulation records and it is now accepted as the Standard Authority among space buyers throughout the United States and Canada.

Every Publisher-Member of the Bureau is required to make semi-annual statements setting forth the actual net paid circulation. Once a year the Bureau sends an auditor to the office of each publisher to check and if necessary correct his circulations statements.

Study the A.B.C. reports of the publications you are considering and it will not be necessary to argue about competitive circulation.

The Examiner is a member of the A.B.C. and would be pleased to submit a copy of the latest circulation report

IS UNCLE SAM FOMENTING A NEW WAR?

Enrique Gil, a distinguished member of the Argentine Bar, asserts that a dangerous situation exists in South America due to the failure of the United States to secure the limitation of armaments at the Fifty Pan-American Conference. In an article, "Is Uncle Sam Fomenting a New War," in the October issue of "Our World," he writes:

"Everyone in Argentina and Brazil, without distinction as to creed or political color, agrees that there are no pending conflicts to be settled between the two countries; that there are no boundary lines yet to be defined; that neither of them is in need of territorial expansion; that there is no commercial competition; and finally, that there is no tradition of war hatred fanning a national aversion or dislike. Yet the fact remains that today there is being instilled into the hearts of the two peoples the poison of doubt, jealousy and suspicion; and that a policy of armed peace seems likely to be adopted by Argentina and Brazil, laying the foundation for a future war.

"That the United States should not hold itself aloof from this incipient conflict, that it has a certain responsibility for its present acuteness; and that likewise it has in its hands, and legitimately, the power and sufficient moral authority to avert it, or to stop its further development is undeniable and soon will be seen.

"A few hours before President Pessoa of Brazil received the Ambassadors from almost every nation of the world, on the occasion of Brazil's Centennial in September of last year, he signed a decree authorizing the fortification of over ten ports, the purchase of warships, submarines, and the like, together with war material for the army on a scale heretofore unknown in the South Atlantic.

"The significance of this gesture and its inopportunity were lost amid the din of the hosannas and the pro-peace speech making of the occasion.

"But when the exhilaration and the diplomatic raptures of the first moments were over, and when a training commission formed of able men of the American Navy arrived in Rio at the invitation of Brazil and the Itimarty Government instructed its representatives at Washington and Santiago to the effect that the problem of reduction of Armament (its discussion had been suggested by Chile) should be "taboo" from the program of the impending Fifth Pan-American Conference, restlessness began to grow in Argentina and Brazil.

"Under normal conditions, the arrival of such a military mission in Brazil would not have been a cause of interest in Argentina.

"But coupled with the arrival of the mission in Brazil were the recollections of the intransigent attitude of Brazil in the discussions of the Disarmament Committee of the League over which M. Viviani presided, the signing by President Pessoa of a bill providing for the formidable increase of the naval and coast defenses, and the reluctance of Brazil to accept Chile's proposal that the disarmament question be included in the program of the Santiago Conference. The impression made in Argentina by this last event cannot be wondered at. It is here and at this juncture that the moral authority and the undeniable influence of the United States can and should be used to advantage; namely, as a guarantor that the peace of America will not be disturbed."

CHARLES R. CRANE ON GETTING THROUGH RUSSIA

Charles R. Crane, former American Minister to China, had great difficulty in securing vises in Soviet Russia when returning through Russia to America, he writes in "Our World" for October. He tells of one long delay which was finally overcome by direct contact with Ludvig Martens, the former Bolshevist representative in the United States.

"When I made my request for a permit to cross the frontier at Moscow, the man who had charge of granting permits said to me in East-Side-New-York English, 'Say, Mr. Crane, where have you been in the last three weeks? We have lost all track of you.' He had been Martens' secretary when he was trying to represent the Bolshevist government in New York. It was perfectly true that they had been totally unable to follow me, though they would have been glad enough to do so. But their characteristic incompetence enabled me to make my journey without their knowing where I was. At the same time, I was seeing many people lived in my car at the railway station in Moscow and would return there every day after my visits.

"I continued to press for my passports. They said, "Well, Mr. Crane, you haven't any passports and you haven't any papers, and we don't see what we are going to do about it.' I left my two husky secretaries to stand all this horseplay, and kept on talking daily with a great variety of people. Finally, I said to Weinstein, the secretary of the Anglo-American Bureau: 'You can fix up my papers for the frontier or you can intern me. Do whatever you want, but make up your mind quickly.' That disturbed him a little. Martens, the Secretary of Industry, was sending once or twice a day all this time to learn why I had not come to see him. At last I thought it was time for me to see him, and I went around. He had schemes for establishing relationships with the United States, and he wanted to tell me about his plan. I sat on the other side of the table and listened to his ideas about dealing with the United States for about an hour. I let him tell his own story. Then I said:

" 'Well, Mr. Martens, this is a very interesting scheme you are evolving here, but how do you expect to get away with it when you treat travelers as I am being treated?'

" 'What do you mean?' he inquired.

"Then I told him of my dealings with Weinstein, his former secretary. Martens got him on the telephone, talked rather harshly to the man who thought he was amusing himself with my party, and the next day my papers were prepared to pass the Western Frontier."

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

Charles Jones, apearing this week at the Regent Theatre, in "Skid Proof," his latest William Fox production, is one of the few actors of the screen, who in working at his profession, simultaneously works at all of the other occupations he was engaged in prior to taking up the latter work. Born in Vincennes, Indiana, and educated at Indianapolis, he has been a world-renowned trick horse back rider for circuses. He has been a cowpuncher, an aviator and an automobile mechanic. In "Skid Proof," as in most of his former productions, each of these professions contribute toward his scope of action.

AT THE CAPITOL.

liam Fox's super-picturization of the world-read novel by A. M. S. Hutchinson, "If Winter Comes." A well filled house greeted the matinee showing and sat astounded at the gripping realism of this wonderful picture. Ten reels in length — ten thousand feet of tense and gripping action—is this product that has set new records wherever shown. Harry Millarde, famous as the director of "Over the Hill,' a picture that will always be remembered, has made an even greater photoplay of "If Winter Comes." The terrific court-room scene in which the relentl. s wheels of justice slowly crush the heart of Mark Sabre, left the audience thrilled to the soul; tortured by the racking accusation of pitiless prosecution — innocent of any crime, but with overwhelming evidence against him—only the love of a noble hearted woman salvages his soul. The mightiest climax of the most soul-stirring drama of the day achieved on the screen. To welcome the presentation of "If Winter Comes," the following local merchants have placed special displays in their windows: Whites' Hardware, Payne's drugstore, and the Crescent Clothes Shop.

SPECIAL CAR SERVICE FOR CAPITOL PATRONS.

Due to the exceptional length of "If Winter Comes," which is in ten full length reels, and the fact that the usual Capitol policy of never reducing the quality of its show, allows the showing of a two reel comedy Capitol News and other short subjects the Capitol management has made special arrangements with the street car company to have special cars for the convenience of Capitol patrons after the show, to-night, Tuesday and Wednesday. Patrons are requested to come early and thus make certain of securing good seats.

AT THE ROYAL.

TOM MIX AND TONY AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT, ALSO SPECIAL COMEDY, 'WINTER HAS CAME.'

In "Stepping Fast," the latest William Fox picture which stars Tom Mix, the action starts in the ruins of the cliff-dwellers who formerly lived in the Arizona desert. Mix plays the role of a young cowboy who goes to the aid of a scientist when he is attacked by three men. After driving away the attackers, the stranger tells the ranchman that he holds the secret of a hidden gold mine which a band of international criminals are trying to locate. The scientist dies and wills the cowboy a half interest in the mine and tells him that his daughter in China is to own the other shares.

This incident starts a series of thrilling adventures which carry the rancher across the Pacific to Hong Kong and back again to the Arizona mine. Claire Adams plays the leading feminine role. The others in the cast are: Donald McDonald, Hector Sarno, Geo. Seigmann, Edward Peil, Tom S. Guise, Minna Redman, Edward Jobson and Ethel Wales.

Besides the Mix feature a special comedy featuring Dorothy De Vore, entitled "Winter Has Came," Neil Hart is a half-hour Western featurette, a See Canada First Scenic and other novelties have been added.

"SQUIBS WINS THE CALCUTTA SWEEP."

The Funniest of English Comedies.

The English comedy, 'Squibs Wins the Calcutta Sweep,' which opens at the Royal Theatre on Thursday, is a sequel to that other famous English hit, "Me and My Gal."

The cast includes Betty Balfour, England's foremost comedienne, that delightful and droll actress who has taken Canada by storm, and Hugh E. Wright, the funnest bloke in all England. Hugh E. Wright is one of the greatest comedians of all time, and now in England has a bigger renutation than even Harold Lloyd or Charlie Chaplin. Hugh E. Wright had his first important role in "The Better 'Ole," where he took the part of Alf, one of the three leading characters. After his performance in this role he became popular throughout all England, and it was not until he took the part of Sam 'Opkins in the famous comedy, "Me and My Gal," that his popularity reached such a great bound, and now once more taking the part of Sam 'Opkins in "Squibs Wins the Calcutta Sweep," this time as the famous London blokes who became rich by winning the famous Calcutta sweepstake, value sixty thousand pounds, and here we see him in "Riles Rices," country 'houses, and —voilà! we find him on the boulevards of gay Paree.

"Squibs Wins the Calcutta Sweep" went over to unprecedented business in England, even greater than that of "Me and My Gal," and now over there the pub'ic are clamoring once more to see Betty Balfour and Hugh E. Wright.

THREE GAMES IN INDOOR LEAGUE

Industrial Section Teams Show some Snappy Ball

Saturday evening in the Armouries before a large crowd of fans, three snappy games of soft ball were played. In the first game between the Canadian Woollens and the Porcelain it was a rather one-sided affair, the Woollens winning by the score of 17 to 3. Although the Porcelains were far behind they never gave up hope and fought hard until the last man was out.

The teams lined up as follows:

Canadian Woollens—A. Legros c; Anthony, p; Martin, rf; H. Legros, 1b; Stiles ss; Goodfellow, 2b; Hillier ss; Brunton 3b and Venette lf.

Porcelain— Murphy 1b; O'Dette, 3b; Paquette, ss; Meagher 2b; Dyer c; Nichol, p;; McKim ss; G. Richmond rf; C. Richmond lf.

Score by innings:

Porcelain ....010101—3
Woollens ....401543—17

In the second game between the Lock Works and the De Lavals, the latter team won by the score of 15 to 10 at the end of five snappy innings. This was by far the faster game of the evening. Both teams did a lot of heavy hitting and good fielding.

The teams lined up as follows:

De Laval—Ward c; McIntyre ss; Perks p; Frick 1b; Grant ss; MacFarlane rf; Bullied 3b; Fowler 2b; Stiles lf.

Lock Works — MacDougal ss; Nicholls 3b; Taylor c; Thorndyke, p and lf; G. Connors 2b; Westbrook rf; Guerin lf and p; Black 1b; J. Connors, ss.

Score:

Lock Works .. .. ..210160—10
De Laval ....21273x—15

In the third game between the Brass Department of the C.G.E. and the C.N.R., the Brass won by the score of 24 to 12. This is the second time these teams have clashed this season. In the first game the C.N.R. won by the score of 8 to 6, but in Saturday's fixture they were badly outclassed by the Brass.

The teams lined up as follows:

Brass—Bennett, c; Pacey p; Killenbeck 1b; O'Toole s; Adamson 2b; ahood ss; Williams 3b; Batley lf; O'Hern rf; O'Donnel rf.

C.N.R.—A. Delehaye c; H. Delehaye p and 2b; Bradley 3b; McLaren p and 2b; Howard 1b; Morden ss; Boyd rf; Houlihan lf; Buchanan ss; Turnbull ss.

Score by innings:

Brass .... 2385042—24
C.N.R. .. ..0130170—12

BOWLING NEWS.

The Y.M.C.A. Bowling League is in the process of formation. Six teams are already assured and an invitation is extended to others who wish to compete for the beautiful trophy put up for competition by the League last spring. The trophy is one of the finest to be found in the city and should be an attractive addition to trophies on display in any club. The trophy will be held by the winning team for the following year after it has been won. The names of the successful players will be engraved on a shield on the base of the trophy. Any club or group of players desiring to enter the Y.M.C.A. League is asked to notify the Y.M.C.A. Office at once.

DAYLIGHT BURGLAR ADMITS 40 THEFTS

Used His Afternoons Off To Visit Back Doors of Houses.

DETROIT, Oct. 15.—Three weeks ago Anthony Tomala, 27 years old, was a telephone operator in a downtown warehouse earning $25 a week.

To-day he is hailed as Detroit's most daring daylight burglar. The police say he has admitted 40 thefts which netted him $500. Mrs. Rose Tomala, his girl wife, is also held by the police because of the pretty necklace given her last week for her wedding anniversary. Tomala told his wife he won the necklace in a card game, but the beads were stolen, the police allege.

For three weeks Tomala has terrorized the housewives in the north-western section of the city, where quantities of valuable clothing and money disappeared from their bedrooms and dining rooms while the women sat on their front porches in the afternoon, officers assert.

Many telephone calls came to the Lawton Police Station each afternoon beginning about 2 o'clock and continuing until time for the housewives to get dinner. The thefts continued each day until Friday when Tomala reached the record of 15 burglaries in one block.

Used Afternoons Off.

Tomala worked at his regular job part of the time so his wife knew nothing of his activities. Then, he admitted he got afternoons off, and the police telephones were kept busy.

He drove his car down the residential streets of the north-west section. Where the housewives were sitting on the front porch, he drove his automobile in the alley. Then he robbed the houses by cutting the screen doors and gaining admittance to the kitchen. Because of the pleasant weather, few women remained indoors. This made his work easy and he could visit several homes without moving his automobile. Money, jewellery and silverware were included in his thefts.

On Friday afternoon Detectives Robert Burrell and Theodore O'Day caught the man as he was about to jump into his car and drive away after robbing seven houses in a row on Maplewood Avenue.

"I just got discouraged with the $25 a week I earned at my trade," Tomala said. "I played cards with a lot of fellows who told me how easy it was to get money this way. I wanted my wife to have pretty things, she is such a pretty girl. Don't blame her, she knew nothing of this."

OVERCOAT MYSTERY HAS BEEN SOLVED

THOROLD, October 15 (Canadian Press). — The mystery of the overcoat found floating in the old Welland Canal a week ago was solved last evening when the body of T. Willett, an employee of the Peter Lyall Construction Camp living at Montgomery's Camp, was taken from the old waterway near Keefer's Bridge.

The discovery was made following search for a week for the unknown victim, as Willett had not been missing.

He came from Oshawa, where his wife is still living.

Suzanne, Queen Of Net Courts

While 1923 may have been the year of big busts for champions, several headliners of sports have successfully survived the test of the year and will be back next year defending their titles.

Foremost, perhaps, of the super champions who have passed the 1923 test safely, is Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the queen of the world's tennis court.

The great French girl, who says she has completely recovered her health, ran away so far with the championship at Wimbledon that her game encouraged the tennis expert of Sporting Life, London, to write:

"If anything, Suzanne is better than she ever was. Can she improve? If she does, what hope is there of recovering the championship for perhaps another fifteen years?"

Enthusiastic Over Suzanne

Enthusiasm over the form shown by the French girl, the ease with which she walked through the tournament, and the possible dearth of material in England may have aroused enthusiasm to the point of exaggeration in estimating the length of Suzanne's reign as queen of the courts.

Age and increasing years do not exact the penalty among tennis players with the same severity suffered by other athletes. Brooks remained a star until he was an "old man," and several of the star women players of the United States "carry on" long past the age where the average athlete could have been counted on as having passed the peak.

Disregarding the promise shown by Miss Helen Wills, the California girl star, it is only logical to figure that Mlle. Lenglen is not a champion for an indefinite period.

Lacks Staying Quality

The French girl, regardless of what was said about her heart when she retired at Forest Hills two years ago, is none too strong and she has had a very strenuous career on the courts. She may retain her strokes and her technique, but her physical resources cannot go on forever.

Little Helen Wills is building a strong game of distinctive masculine style, due to the fact that she learned the game and developed it against male opposition. She is developing great strength and unless the experts are all wrong, the time in years can be counted on one hand when she becomes the champion.

England Feels Loss

England, beyond doubt, feels chagrined at the loss of national tennis prestige in a sport that is almost as distinctively British as golf.

Victories of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen and that great little American sports man, Bill Johnston, in the singles at Wimbledon, took away again both the British titles and they caused it to be asked with some concern: "What is the matter with British tennis?"

MURDERED MAN VISITED HERE

W. H. Ray Well Known In Lindsay and District

LINDSAY, October 15. — The news of the murder of W. H. Ray, formerly of Lindsay, at Bay Minette, Alabama, on Sunday, 7th October, came in the nature of a shock to his relatives and friends here.

The deceased was a son of the late Thomas Ray, who was one of the best-known farmers in this district. He visited Lindsay and at the old homestead for a few days around Labour Day, and also visited Toronto, where his infant son is living, his wife having died a few years ago.

The late Mr. Ray was a hardware merchant in May Minette, and according to information received from that city, was shot to death in front of his residence by Mrs. Emma Drath. He went South shortly after his wife's death, and was proprietor of a restaurant before embarking in the hardware business.

The authorities at Bay Minette claim that Mrs. Drath forced sums of money on Ray to be put in the hardware business, and later pressed for the return of the money.

At one of the meetings of the Kiwanis Club in that city Mrs. Drath, it is alleged, entered the hall and attempted to assault Ray, but was ejected. She had made threats on his life on several occasions.

After the murder the woman disappeared, but was arrested on 12th October about ten miles from Bay Minette, in a pitiable condition.

She is of German extraction, and conducts a farm not far from the city. Her mind is believed to be unbalanced as the result of worry over money matters.

GALT FIRE LOSS IS EXCEEDINGLY BIG

F. W. Gardiner & Sons Loss Between $200,000 And $300,000.

Galt, October 15, Canadian Press. —At noon to-day, Ald. J. E. Gardiner, general manager of F. W. Gardiner & Sons, whose plant was the scene of a disastrous blaze last night stated that their loss would be between $200,000 and $300,000, covered by insurance.

The lumber is still burning, and the firemen have never left the scene but they did good work and saved the machine shop, the most important section of the plant, which will resume operations to-morrow.

The cause of the fire, which has been determined, started in the garage of Ralph Curtis, who lives south of the lumber yard, but its origin is unknown. Two cars and the garage were destroyed, and the flames then caught on to the fence between the two properties.

The fire then spread to the lumber sheds and then to the big store house, which was filled with unfinished doors and sashes, and here the heaviest loss was incurred.

MONAGHAN HOME WAS TOTAL LOSS

Mayor W. H. Taylor Instructed Firemen Not To Turn Out.

Fire this morning struck the home of Lloyd Redmond, street car employee, with disastrous results, leaving him, he said, with just his clothes. Redmond lived in North Monaghan, and the fire started about 6 o'clock. The house was totally destroyed, even the walls falling in on the ruins, and only the untiring efforts of residents in the district saved adjoining houses.

About 6.30 the Assistant Fire Chief, James Ward, called Mayor W. H. Taylor to tell him of the fire, and the Mayor instructed the Brigade not to turn out, as, in the absence of water, there was nothing they could do. Later, a resident in North Monaghan called the Mayor, followed by Reeve H. B. Rye. Mayor Taylor explained the uselessness of the Fire Department going so far when they could not do anything for lack of water. If the township wanted the use of the Fire Department, he said, they should make arrangements with the city. Reeve Rye replied that they could not come to an arrangement since they had not passed the Suburban Areas Bill last year.

It is believed that Redmond carried $1,000 insurance, but this does not nearly cover his loss.

AN EXPLANATION.

Re pipe fire at 788 Water Street, a few days ago, it was stated that the residence belonged to a niece of the late owner. It was left by will to four nieces, and said legatees do not hold the mortgage on same. And with reference to his 300 acre farm, here is not and never was a mortgage on said farm. In justice to myself, I am forced to make this statement.—Catherine Crowley, 788 Water Street.

AN OPEN MEETING AT KING GEORGE'S

Certificates Presented To Successful Entrance Pupils — Musical Programme.

An open meeting of the King George Home and School Association was held on Friday evening, with a good attendance. Certificates were presented to this year's successful Entrance pupils, followed by a musical programme, and the service of light refreshments. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion with vines and cut flowers. Mrs. Arthur Stevenson occupied the chair.

Presentation of certificates was made by Mr. R. Denne, who gave a short address on the aims and necessity of education, and the excellent work done by Home and School Associations.

Mrs. Stevenson's talk was along the same lines.

The musical programme included vocal numbers by the Misses Doyle, Gardiner, Oldham, an instrumental duet by Mrs. W. Smith and Miss L. Scott, instrumental selections by the Misses Lucille Doris, Velma Scott and Velma Strong, violin solos by Miss Margaret Doris, accompanied by Miss Lucille Doris, and by Arnold Spencer, accompanied by Miss McFadden, readings by Miss Irene Breckenridge, and a much enjoyed vaudeville programme of ukulele music, interspersed with jokes, by four members of the Peterborough Ukulele Club, Messrs. Thurston, Ballard, McCarthy and Dunlop.

At the conclusion of the programme Mrs. A. Stevenson was presented with a bouquet of carnations by little Margaret Grierson, and the principal of the school, Mr. J. E. R. Munro, gave a few well chosen remarks. The service of refreshments followed.

Second Intermediate O.B.A.A. Championship For the C.G.E.

ELECTRICIANS WIELD WILLOW IN WELLAND AND CLINCH PENNANT

Won Second and Deciding Game in Final Round By 10-6 — Hall and Rose Starred at Bat For Peterboro.

Fourth Championship.

For the second year in succession the Canadian General Electric company's team won the Intermediate Baseball Championship of Ontario on Saturday bringing the fourth provincial pennant to Peterboro this season.

Harry McFadden's champions of 1922 retained and renewed their title in Welland in the second and deciding game of the final round with Empire Cotton's team by the score of 10-6, making the count in the two games 13-7.

It was Bun Frost's second victory in four days over the western contenders. Last Wednesday he held them to two hits here while C.G.E. got five off Garner, and Saturday Welland collected eight hits to the C.G.E. eleven, the totals for the round being 16 to 10.

The game in Welland was featured by heavy hitting and fast fielding by both teams, Jimmie Hall with a double and two singles in three times up and Ray Rose with a home run and a pair of singles in five chances led the Electricians' offensive while Upper with a home run and a double wielded a dangerous club for the Cotton crew.

Field Was Fast.

The game was played on the Empire Cotton Mills field on which a blade of grass is a novelty. The field is of the consistency of concrete and several freak hits were caused by high bounding balls. A stiff west wind raised great clouds of dust and several times the game was held up until these settled.

Outside of the fifth and sixth innings when they got five runs and six hits the Cotton workers were unable to solve Bun Frost's pitching with any success while the Electricians spread their hits over six innings. Dennis was the home teams pitching selection in place of George Garner who worked in Peterboro. His straight overhand delivery had the champions baffled for two innings after which they had no difficulty in connecting. Garner showed great form at shortstop handling seven difficult chances with only error.

Unassisted Double.

The fielding feature of the game was Dugan's unassisted double play in the second. Upper first up singled and Jones was walked. Each runner took a long lead off and started with the crack of the bat. Degraw, however, had lined over first and Dugan made a great catch, touched first doubling Jones and threw to Rose apparently getting Upper for a triple play. Umpire Elliott, however, didn't see it that way calling the runner safe.

Barrie made a sparkling catch on G. Garner's Texas Leaguer in the fourth and Rose made a great throw against the wind from deep short to beat McKay at first. The wind made the judging of high flies difficult but nice catches were made by Ross, Jackson and Elsworth.

About 25 Peterboro fans motored to Welland for the game and several old Peterboro boys from the surrounding district were on hand to root for the old home town.

First Innings

C.G.E.— Barrie, grounded to G. Garner, McCarney was passed. Dennis picked McCarney off first, Dugan grounded to Garner. Dennis deflecting the hit. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Welland—Ellsworth grounded to frost McKay grounded to Barrie. J. Garner was hit and stole second, G. Garner struck out. No runs, hits or errors.

Second Innings.

C.G.E. — Rose rolled to Dennis. Ross lifted to Ellsworth a fine catch, in a tricky wind. Macpherson grounded to Short. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Welland — Upper walked. Jones singled past third. Degraw lined to Dugan, who doubled. Jones to Brassford fouled to Ross. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Third Innings.

C.G.E. — Jackson got a single on a slow tap to third. Hall singled over second, and reached third, when Brassford let the ball go past, Jackson scoring. Frost grounded to Dennis, Hall being held at third. Barrie struck out. McCarney grounded to McKay. One run, 2 hits, 1 error.

Welland — Dennis flied to Rose. Ellsworth struck out. McKay grounded to Jackson. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Innings.

C.G.E. — Dugan walked. Rose flied to G. Garner. Dugan took second on a passed ball. Ross rolled to third, and Dugan was run down, Ross taking second. Macpherson rolled to Ellsworth. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Welland—J. Garner rolled to Frost. Barrie made a spectacular catch of G. Garner's Texas Leaguer Upper flied to Hall. No runs, hits or errors.

Fifth Inning.

C.G.E.—Jackson grounded to G. Garner Dennis passed Hall and struck out Frost. Barrie hit over second for two bases scoring Hall and going home himself on McCarney's double past third base. A passed ball and wild pitch on two successive throws scored McCarney. Dugan lined to McKay. Three runs, two hits, one error.

Welland—Jones was safe on Barrie's fumble. Degraw struck out and Bassford was passed, Dennis singled to centre scoring Jones but Bassford was caught between third and the plate on McCarneys good throw, Dennis taking second on the play. Ellsworth singled and both runners scored when McCarney let McKay's single go through, the batter taking second. J. Garner rolled to Rose for the third out. Three runs, three hits, two errors.

Sixth Innig.

C.G.E.—Rose hit a hot grounder down the right field foul line for the circuit. Ross walked. MacPherson struck out Jackson forced Ross, Ellsworth to McKay. Jackson stole second and scored when Hall bounced a hard liner off Jones' shins. Frost struck out. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Welland—G. Garner singled past third. Upper doubled over Hall's head, Garner being held at third. Jones grounded to Frost the runners holding their bases. Degraw rolled to Jackson and G. Garner was run down, Rose making the putout. Bassford singled scoring Upper and Degraw. Dennis lifted to McCarney, a fine running catch back of short. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning.

C.G.E.—Barrie singled and stole second while McCarney was striking out. Dugan grounded to Dennis. Rose bounced at hit over Dennis' head scoring Barrie. Ross fouled to Ellsworth. One run, two hits, no errors.

Welland — Ellsworth lifted to Jackson. Rose made a fine stop of McKays grasscutter and threw the runner out from deep short. J. Garner lined to Dugan. No runs, hits or errors.

Eighth Inning.

C.G.E. — MacPherson was hit. Jackson struck out Hall doubled to left, McPherson going to third. Both runners. Both runners were given a base because an excited fan threw the ball in to J. Garner. Frost hit to Garner whose throw pulled Jones off the bag, Hall scoring. Frost moved up on Barries' infield out and scored on McCarney's single. Dugan rolled to Dennis. Three runs, two hits, one error.

Welland—G. Garner flied to Hall. Upper's Texas Leaguer bounced over Halls head for a home run. Jones rolled to Jackson and Ross took Degraws high foul. One run, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning.

C.G.E.—Rose singled. Ross sacrificed him to second. Upper threw out MacPherson on his tap in front of the plate. Jackson lifted to Ellsworth. One hit.

Welland—Bassford rolled to Dugan. Denni flied to McCarney and Frost ended the series by striking out Ellsworth. No runs, hits or errors.

OTTAWA UPSET TIGERS' HOPES

Hamilton Team Decisively Defeated in the Capital.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press)—The Ottawa rugby team scored a decisive victory over Hamilton Tigers here yesterday in an Inter-Provincial Union fixture, defeating the visitors, 29 to 11. After the first period, in which Tigers secured a touch in the early moments, the issue was never in doubt, the locals playing with an aggressiveness and determination that frustrated the efforts of the Yellow and Black squad.

The game was peppery from start to finish. There was no love lost on the part of the players, and a couple of weak decisions by the officials let them in for an unmerciful panning from the spectators, Joe O'Brien being made the particular object of their attack. Early in the fourth period, Gibb booted to Harding, who was stopped by two Tiger tacklers on Ottawa's 40. With the ball apparently dead, it was punched out of his hands and Burton ran forty yards unmolested for a touch. The local players made no attempt to stop him, thinking the play had been completed. O'Brien allowed the score, however, despite vigorous protests. However, it had no effect on the final result. The Ottawa team came back with a vengeance and more than made up for their defeats by M.A.A.A. and Argonauts The backs out-kicked the Hamilton rear-guard; the line smashed and held the Tiger front rank in turn; and the tackling was all that could have been desired. Only one fumble marred the backs' work, but both teams were guilty of several loose plays on the line.

THREE PLAYERS WERE INJURED

In Soccer Match Between Luton and Exeter City — Cardiff Unbeaten.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Saturday's football produced no change in the league leaderships. The continued success of the teams who began well is a notable feature of the season's play.

In this respect four teams stand out conspicuously, Cardiff City and Notts County in the first league. South Shields in the second and Swansea in the southern section of the third league. Cardiff City is now the only unbeaten team as the Tranmere Rovers lost to New Brighton at home yesterday. Cardiff, however suffered a check yesterday for Chelsea held the leaders down to a draw.

Yesterday's result clearly shows Liverpool has deteriorated which is not surprising after the strain of winning the championship two years in succession.

Bolton, the cupholders are showing consistent form while Preston North End are the outstanding failure. Four goals were scored against them yesterday by Sheffield United.

Manchester United made a successful experiment in Vanguard Bain the young centre forward who was brought from the reserves to lead an attack. He scored both goals for his team against the Oldham Athletics.

There was an unpleasant game at Luton where Exeter City were the visitors. When these teams met on the previous Saturday seven players were injured and yesterday three were hurt and two others were ordered off the field. The result appears to be an argument against return games being played on a succeeding Saturday when any bad blood has not had time to cool.

General scoring was again heavy yesterday the forty-four matches yielding 106 goals of which home teams secured 64. Twenty games were won on home grounds, eleven away and thirteen were draw.. The highest score by any team was four.

YANKS OUT IN FRONT WITH TWO VICTORIES OVER WEEK END

BATS AND BRAINS OF YANKEES TURNED TIDE AGAINST THE GIANTS

McGraw Used Four Pitchers in Sunday's Game, While Joe Bush Let the Giants Down to Three Hits and One Run.

TURNED 50,000 AWAY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — Sweeping forward with irresistible power on the high tide of triumph, the New York Yankees battered the world's champion Giants into subjection yesterday for the second successive time and took a formidable lead of three games to two in the 1923 struggle for diamond supremacy.

Baffled at every turn by the marvelous, almost flawless mound work of "Bullet" Joe Bush, reeling under the terrific force of the Yankee bombardment, the Giants were submerged by a score of eight to one, put to a rout as complete as it was devastating.

Bush—he of the red flannel shirt and puzzling fork-ball—held the Giants at bay with three hits, all of which were made by "Irish" Meusel, whose triple in the second inning led to his team's only score. Except for this brief flurry, Bush was invincible, dominating the game with his masterful flinging, while the Yankees, swinging their big guns into action without delay, won the battle with a barrage of seven runs in the first two innings. Two of McGraw's ace, Jack Bentley and Jack Scott, were shelled into retirement in less than three innings, and two others were called into the fray before the echoes of the last fusillade died away.

An Immense Crowd.

Another record crowd, a mighty gathering of 66,000 that filled the Yankee Stadium to overflowing, while 50,000 more fought in vain to gain entrance, witnessed the Giant debacle and the Yankee star at its greatest point of ascendancy.

The paid attendance of 62,817, eclipsed by nearly 400, the previous record, set in the third game of the series at the Stadium, two days ago, while the receipts, passing the $200,000 mark for the second time, brought the total "gate" of the series to within $75,000 of the million dollar mark.

Yankees Inspired.

Realizing that they have their first world's title within their grasp, the Yanks played like champions and as though inspired to wipe out the memory of two bitter defeats at the hands of the Giants. Behind the wonderful box work of Bush, the team displayed all the dash and power of attack that carried it to record-breaking victory in the American League.

For two days, John McGraw, silent, grey leader of the Giants, has thrown in reinforcements without avail. Five of his moundsmen were bombarded Saturday and four were rushed in without effect yesterday. He has found that brilliant strategy, the generalship of the "Master Mind" cannot withstand, without effective pitching, the onslaughts of "Brute Force," fortified, on the other hand by sterling sharp-shooting. Yesterday's triumph must be set down to the credit of "Brute Force," but even so, the theory that this monumental classic of 1923 is a struggle between power and tactics alone must now be cast aside, shattered by the remorseless facts of the last two days of Yankee triumph.

For yesterday, the clan of Miller Huggins not only applied sufficient "brute force" to beat down the Giants, but outplayed and outgeneralled the champions at their own game. The "smartest team in baseball" was outsmarted, outplayed in the field and outthought in the pinches. The mental lapses and mechanical defects of the Giant machine yesterday played almost as great a part in its downfall as the utter collapse of its twirling staff.

Only Nehf Left.

Last night, only the slight, yet formidable figure of Arthur Nehf, southpaw ace of McGraw's club, stands in the way of a smashing victory for the Yankees, unless all the signs and portents of the diamond are at fault. Nehf, who shut out the Yankees, 1 to 0, in the third game of the series, is the only regular among the Giant boxmen, who has not been pounded into submission. Alone, he stands out as the last hope of the champions, and McGraw will send him to the ramparts today in a desperate effort to stem the tide of the remorseless Yankee machine.

But even if Nehf is returned victorious in his second appearance the odds will be all in favor of the American League champions. McGraw will have no resources left, granting he wins with his ace, while Huggins is strongly entrenched with Sam Jones, who lost to Nehf, although he outpitched his rival; Herb Pennock, southpaw star, who won the second game and saved Saturday's when Shawkey weakened; and Waite Hoyt, victim of the Giants in the first game, who is confident he can come back and win.

Bush in Rare Form.

Bush's performance yesterday stood out in high relief against the ineffectiveness of McGraw's twirlers, who were bombarded from the hill almost as quickly as they went in. "Bullet Joe" had everything, blinding speed, deceptive curves and marvellous control of his fork-ball. Only 32 men faced him, and except Meusel none got the semblance of a hit. He walked two, struck out three and turned back his opposition in rapid-fire order in six of the nine innings.

Meusel's triple and Casey Stengel's out combined to give the Giants their only run, in the second inning. In the fourth, Young walked and Meusel got a double, with two out, but Stengel was easy for Bush and Pipp. Meusel singled for his third straight safe blow in the seventh and got to second when Kelly walked, but Gowdy hit weakly to Ward and Kelly was forced at second for the third out. Those few sorties tell the story of the completeness with which the Giants were held in check.

Bush seemed to grow stronger as the game progressed, or perhaps it was that the Giants lost heart, and in the eighth "Bullet Joe" received an ovation when he struck out Jimmy O'Connell, $75,000 beauty, and Dave Bancroft in succession.

Slashing Attack.

Led by "Jumping Joe" Dugan, who adding batting glory to his already marvelous fielding record for the series, and "Bob" Meusel, the Yanks concentrated their attack in the first two innings. Thereafter, with a formidable lead behind Bush, they let down in their offensive.

Dugan gathered four hits, including a home run inside the park in the second innings, and scored three runs, while Meusel slugged out three safe blows, including a triple. Fourteen safe hits in all were collected off the Giant moundsmen and every player except Pipp added to his batting record.

Jack Bentley, $65,000 southpaw, started the game for the Giants but was driven to cover under a fusillade in the second inning. Jack Scott, who had been knocked out in less than two innings yesterday, attempted a come-back, but lasted only until the fourth, when he was replaced by Virgil Barnes. Barnes stopped further scoring but was relieved for a pinch hitter in the eight and Claude Jonnard retired the Yankees in order in their last time at bat.

How Runs Were Scored.

Two hits, a base on balls and a sacrifice fly gave the Yanks their initial trio of runs. With Witt out, Dugan singled to right and Ruth walked. This strategy, which failed Saturday, went awry again today, for Meusel clubbed out a three-bagger to left center, tallying Dugan and Ruth. Pipp drove a liner toward the right field bleachers that Young caught with a jumping one-hand stab after a hard run, but Meusel trotted home after the catch, Young's brilliant play, however, prevented possibly further damage, for Ward singled and stole second, but was stranded when Schang struck out.

Three hits, another walk and two errors gave the Yanks four more runs in the second. Bush singled, with one out, Witt walked and both scored on Dugan's home run, a drive that bounded between Stengel and Young Bentley was waving distress signals but he, was kept in until Ruth hit a sharp grounder to Kelly that the first baseman failed to handle. The Babe got to first on the error and Bentely was derricked. Meusel greeted Scott's first pitch with a wallop to right. Ruth sprinted to third on the hit and scored when Frisch threw wildly to the plate on Pipp's blow. Ward lined to Bancroft, who tossed to Frisch, forcing Meusel to complete a double play and end the inning.

Successive hits by Dugan, Ruth and Meusel resulted in the eighth run in the fourth inning and when Scott walked Pipp he was taken out in favor of Barnes, who quickly stopped the rally.

CHICAGO TEAMS TIED.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press)—More than 45,000 fans, the greatest crowd that ever attended a Chicago city series, saw the White Sox beat the Cubs, 5 to 3, in the fourth game of the series yesterday. The victory even the series at two wins each.

A home run by Earl Sheely with Hooper on first base broke up the game in the ninth inning: Score:

Cubs	000030000	3	5 2
Sox	201000002	5	11 0

Alexander, Kaufmann and Hartnett; Cvengros, Thurston and Schalk.

CORNWALL DEFEATED.

CORNWALL, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press)—New Edinburghs, of Ottawa, defeated the local intermediate I.R.F.U. team here Saturday by a score of 17 to 11. It was the local's third consecutive defeat. Cornwall established an early lead and held it until the third quarter when a touch put the visitors in front. New Edinburghs secured another touch in the last period.

TRIS SPEAKER AND 'ALL STARS' DELIGHT FANS

Crowd of Several Thousand Saw Major Leaguers at Riverside — No Disappointments.

TRIS AS PITCHER.

The exhibition game at Riverside Park on Saturday between Tris Speaker's All-Stars and the Toronto Wellingtons in aid of the Marmora and Deloro branch of the Great War Veterans' Association was a huge success, financially and artistically.

The All-Stars of course, won easily, 10 to 3, but nobody cared very much about the score. The 2,000 fans on the ground were there to see Tris Speaker and his associates perform, and they got what they came for without any argument.

They saw Speaker himself demonstrate the hitting ability that has made his name a household one wherever baseball is known; they saw him pitch five innings, and make a good job of it; and they saw him do something that a big league crowd never had a chance to watch him do, play shortstop.

In addition, they watched three innings of classy pitching by Jim Edwards, the promising young Cleveland southpaw; saw Roger Peckinpaugh, Washington shortstop and former captain of the New York Yankees, do some fine hitting; watched Les Nunamaker, veteran catcher, perform behind the bat; and last, but not least, they witnessed some sensational fielding by Babe Dye, the Toronto boy who seems destined to break into the big show before long.

Life of the Party.

Speaker was the life of the party. The grey-haired Indian pilot entered into the spirit of the occasion from his first appearance on the field, and he had more "pep" than the youngest player out there. He always had a kidding remark for his team mates or a bright bit of repartee for the crowd, and his good spirits and engaging smile made him a prime favourite, while he was a popular hero with the youngsters, by whom he was surrounded whenever there was an opportunity.

Speaker showed why he finished his American League season with a mark of .380, a percentage only beaten in his own league by Harry Heilman and Babe Ruth and in the National by Rogers Hornsby.

The first time up he drove the ball on a line to right field for three bases. On his second appearance at the plate he boomed his longest drive of the day high and far into right centre, but the strong south wind held it back, and Hill, playing at the edge of the playing field, was under the ball when it finally came down. On his third trip, Speaker singled through short, and his fourth and last visit to the plate was marked by a long triple, this time to left centre, the ball almost rolling into the river. It would have been a home run on almost any other field but Riverside Park.

In addition to his hitting, "Spoke" gave the crowd another thrill in the first inning when he tore for the plate on O'Connell's windup, and had a clean steal of home when Freeman, who was batting, singled to centre. The manner in which the Indians' leader slid into the plate would have won him the decision had the batter missed.

Dye's Work Spectacular.

Next to Speaker, Babe Dye was the big noise of the day, the ex-Hillcrest star being in the limelight by reason of his wonderful fielding. Early in the game he galloped far over into foul territory to absorb a long foul, getting over so speedily that he made the play look easy. That was nothing alongside of the pair of catches that followed. Andy Kyle, first up for the Wellingtons in the sixth caught one of Speaker's fast ones on the nose, and it rode out toward deep left field on a line, labelled all over a double at least. Dye was in motion at the crack of the bat, however, and running out at full speed, made a spectacular back-handed catch with his gloved hand. His play on Hill in the next innings was executed in precisely the same manner, and if anything, was more sensational than the first one.

Dye did not get in any of his long distance drives, although he cracked out two clean singles and showed quick thinking and speed by scoring from first on a single.

Edwards, the Cleveland left-hander, who made the trip over to Canada merely to pitch in the two games in aid of the War Veterans, worked the first three innings for the All-Stars, and showed a bunch of speed and a quick breaking curve. He blanked the opposition for the three frames, and allowed only one scratch hit.

"Peck" Had It Easy.

Peckinpaugh, one of the best shortstops in the American League, did not get much chance to demonstrate his worth on the defence, but he had a big day at the bat, with three hits in four times up.

Nunamaker caught in finished style, and the manner in which he threw the ball around delighted the fans.

Jack Beattie, the London manager, played a very useful game at first base for the All-Stars, and the Toronto semi-pros who completed the team gave a good account of themselves.

The Wellingtons did some nice fielding behind Les O'Connell, but the latter was hit hard and often, while his team mates did little with the willow, having only four scattered singles to their credit. Eagleson, the Wellington shortstop, got a big hand in the fourth when he leaped high in the air and speared Beattie's torrid liner with one hand, while Acting Manager Donahue accepted six chances at second in fine style.

Speaker Tripled.

The All-Stars started out in the first inning with two runs. After Dye had rolled out to Donahue, Peckinpaugh walked. Benns flied to Pennock, but Speaker tripled to right, scoring Peck. Hewer pulled the hidden ball trick on "Spoke" at this stage, but Umpire Solomon was looking the wrong way. Speaker then made his break for home, and Freeman singled to centre as the American League star tore in.

Beattie singled to right, sending Freeman to third, but in attempting a double steal Freeman was out at plate.

Edwards blanked the Wellingtons with Speaker pitching in the fourth the three innings he worked, but the Toronto crew tied the score. Beaune started with a walk and Pennock singled through short. Kyle sacrificed the pair along, and Lamond walked, filling the bases. Freeman let O'Connell's roller get away, and Beaune and Pennock scored, but Lamond was out trying to reach third.

The All-Stars got the lead back with two out in their half. Nunamaker exploded a long double to the fence in left, and L. Pennock walked. Dye's single to right scored Nunamaker, and the batter went to second on the throw-in. Peckinpaugh's single scored Pennock and Dye. "Peck" died stealing.

The Wellingtons got their last run in the fifth. Donahue singled to right, but was forced at second on Hewer's tap to Peckinpaugh. Hill rolled to Speaker. Lamond's miss of Beaune's roller sent Hewer in, after which Pennock flied out to centre.

The Speaker outfit bagged two more. Benns beat out a tap to first and Speaker singled to short. Freeman singled over short, scoring Benns. Beattie rapped one to Donahue, who touched second, forcing Freeman, and then got the batter at first. Speaker reached third on the play and scored when Burns singled through short.

Hit and Run Play.

In the sixth Dye led off with a single to right. On a perfectly executed hit and run play, Peckinpaugh hit through behind Dye as the latter tore for second. Dye raced to third, and when he saw that Pennock was going to throw to second crept on to the plate and scored easily. Peck was doubled off first on Pennock's good catch of Benns' drive.

Speaker started the seventh with a triple to left centre, and after Freeman had popped out to Donahue, scored on Eagleson's fumble of to right scored Beattie with the last Beattie's grounder . Burns' double run of the game.

Peckinpaugh pitched the last inning for the All-Stars ,and escaped without a score against him.

Mr. H. R. Pearce of the Marmora G.W.V.A., who was responsible for the game is to be congratulated upon the success scored. All the Stars were there as advertised, and it was a real treat for the fans of the district.

Before the game, Mayor Taylor, supported by G. N .Gordon, M.P., and W. H. Bradburn ,M.P.P., welcomed the big league stars in a short address Then the teams were photographed, and the battle got under way.

LITTLE WANT ADS.

At this time of the year there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not quite happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think, if you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad. Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

VETS' REVENGE ON WOOLLENS

Woollens Had Two - Goal Lead, Then Fell Away—Score 5 to 3.

Ideal weather prevailed on Saturday afternoon for the scheduled league game between Canadian Woollens and G.W.V.A. The game was minus real soccer through the lack of an official referee. Chambers accomplished the hat trick, while Hillman gave a startling exhibition of goal-keeping. The win for the Vets makes the league standing even between Thistles and Vets, which will necessitate a play-off next Saturday.

In the opening minutes both goals were raided, but the defences prevailed until Shaw caught Blowers napping and put across to Chambers, who turned it goalwards for Griffine to make a clever clearance. Monks accepted the pass on the right, went down the wing to give Wade a grand opportunity to score, but Hillman picked up his parting shot easily. Then Sharman got a corner, which was placed to Wade, who headed into Hillman's hands. Griffin (Woollen's) left wing player, was adjudged offsides at the other end to the charm of the others. Crowe returned to Monks who kept Perry and Cridland busy in their own area. Chambers accepted the pass to compel Hillman to save. Monkman transferred the play into Vets' territory along with Chambers, but referee awarded offsides.

Chambers Opened Scoring.

A throw-in by Warman to Monkman, let the centre half shoot the ball across to Mitchell on the right wing, who sent forward a long pass into Chambers' foot. He beat Crowe on the run and to put an oblique shot past Griffine. Immediately afterwards Shaw left the defence standing again but he finished by shooting into Vets' goalkeepers' hands when a goal looked positive. Roberts repeated the same performance a few minutes afterwards.

Wade's Hard Luck.

At this reverse of play the Vets came back into the picture through the energetic work of Wade. He sent Sharman down the wing, but he missed the upright, then the centre forward got the better of the argument with Monkman and sending in a stinging shot that was diverted past the upright by Cridland. Play ran from end to end with nothing of interest until half-time arrived. Woollens 1, Vets 0.

HALF TIME.

The exchanges for a time in the second half were not productive of much out of the common, but a dilatory move on the part of Perry let Chambers (Vets) give Hillman a fright when he tipped the ball over the cross bar for an unproductive corner.

Woollens' Two Goal Lead.

Afterwards offsides decisions interrupted play somewhat, Chambers at least making ground when he outwitted Crowe in a tackle and a run for goal. Griffine came out of goal to meet him, but the ball was through like a flash. With two goal lead the Woollens took things easy, which ultimately brought disaster to them. Sharman made progress on the left, shot across the goal where Cridland and Wade were waiting. Vets' man tipped ball forward, then lashed the ball past Hillman with a low ground shot.

Vets Equalize.

Again the Vets came away to the attack, while Woollens were claiming offsides, Hurle landed the ball into Woollens' defence where Perry thought it was offsides, but to his surprise he witnessed Dyer take the ball and register the equalizer, all within ten minutes. For a time it was raid after raid on each goal, with the defence holding the forwards in check, until a mis-kick in front of the Woollen's goal by Cridland let the ball go to Sharman's foot who simply tapped it past Hillman for the lead. They did not hold it long, as Chambers, who was the best player on the field, manouevred around the Vets' defence to have them guessing, even Griffine running out of goal to stop the on-coming forward, they met in full body charge while the ball rolled into the goal.

Two Goals in Six Minutes.

Excitement ran high for a while around the goal, and in this respect Hillman was the saver of a heavy score against his team mates, because he was stopping all kinds of shots, eventually he had to admit defeat from the well-taken goals administered through Chambers and Wade. The last goal was scored as the final whistle blew. Vets 5, Woollens 3.

Goal scorers—Vets: Wade 2, Sharman, Dyer and Chambers. Woollens: Chambers 3—the hat trick.

G.W.V.A.—Griffine, goal; Crowe and Blowers, full-backs; Burrows, Hurle and Bestard, half-backs; Burrows, Hurle and Bestard, half-backs; Monk, Chambers, Wade, and Sharman, forwards.

—Hillman, goal; Cridperry, full-backs; Read, and Warman half-backs; haw, Chambers, Roberts forwards.

BALL PLAYERS CITY'S GUESTS

Tris Speaker Said He Would Be Glad to Play Here Again Next Fall.

Official recognition of the visit of Tris Speaker, and his party, to Peterboro, was given on Saturday evening, when the City Council entertained "Spoke," and his associates, and the members of the Toronto Wellingtons, at a very enjoyable dinner at the Empress. It was marked by a short and snappy programme, as Speaker and his pals were anxious to get away to their Rice Lake retreat, and Roger Peckinpaugh had to motor back to Crowe Lake, where he is enjoying a holiday.

Mayor Taylor presided, and before proposing the toast to the King, expressed appreciation of the visit of the big league stars, and referred to the interest taken by the people of Peterboro in baseball.

The toast to the King was then honoured, after which Ald. Holloway in honor of the American visitors, proposed the health of the President of the United States, referring to the most friendly relations that existed between the two countries.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., offered the next toast, that to "Our American Visitors." He expressed the appreciation of the people of Peterboro at the kindness of the American League stars in coming to this city nad playing for the benefit of the war veterans. The Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons assured Mr. Speaker and his associates that their exploits were followed as closely on this side of the line as in their own country, and that just as much interest was taken in baseball. They were public men serving a public purpose, for he was sure that it was just as necessary for the people of the United States and Canada to have healthy recreation, and hours for relaxation, as it was for them to have hours for work and toil.

Not a Speaker.

Tris Speaker, in replying to the toast, declared that he was a Speaker in name only. He wished to say, however, that he and his associates had only been too glad to take part in the game here in aid of the men who had made this continent safe to live on, and he would promise to do his best to have another game next year. "Just call on us," he added in conclusion.

Ald. Nagle Phelan proposed a toast to "Baseball in Canada," telling a story that illustrated the great interest taken in baseball on this side of the line.

Acting Manager Bert Donahue, of the Wellingtons, said that it was a pleasure to have played here, and an honour to have participated in a game with such a star as Tris Speaker. The Wellingtons would be only too glad to give their services again if needed.

Toast to Veterans.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M. P., in proposing the toast to the Great War Veterans' Association, said it was the duty of every citizen to do what he could for the men who fought, and thanked the visiting players for their kindness in making the game possible.

Mr. H. R. Pearce, of the Marmora G.W.V.A., in reply said that it was the end of a perfect day. He expressed the hearty thanks of the Marmora Branch to the American League players, and the Wellingtons, for their services, to the Peterboro G.W.V.A. for allowing the game to be played in their territory, to the Peterboro Ball Club, for the use of their grounds, bats, etc., to the city council for the banquet, and to everybody else who assisted in the game.

The Company.

Mr. W. H. Barry presided at the piano and among those present were Mayor Taylor, Ald. Phelan, Holloway, Maher and Stocker, G. N. Gordon, M.P., W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Tris Speaker, Les Nunamaker, Roger Peckenpaugh, Messrs. Halford, Miller, Folger and Cunningham, members of Speaker's party, Babe Dye, Jack Beattie, Bert Donahue, E. Hewer, I. Eagleson, A. Lamond, L. Pennock, A. Pennock, Andy Kylie, H. Freeman, E. Beaume, M. Hill, Les O'Connell, T. H. Hooper, Alex Kay, Frank Convery and C. G. Graham.

NEW RECORD CROWD AT WORLD'S SERIES

Total Gate Receipts Will Pass the Million Mark.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Another new record for attendance was set to-day for World's Series, when 62,817 persons paid their way into Yankee Stadium for the fifth game. This number was 387 greater than the previous record, established Columbus Day at the third game of the series in Yankee Stadium.

It is now certain that all records for receipts and attendance for any other series will be broken when the figures of to-morrow's game are known. The total attendance will be more than 300,000 and the receipts more than $1,000,000.

To-day's figures:
Attendance — 62,817.
Receipts—$201,459.
Advisory Council's share, $30,218.85
Each Club's share —$85,620.07.
(Players' share in first four games only.

Figures for five games:
Attendance—267,258.
Receipts—$924,563.
Advisory Council—$144,684.45.
Each Club—$208,547.76.

M'GILL FADED IN FINAL QUARTER

Varsity Ran Up Score of 22 to 9 After An Early Lead.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.— University of Toronto's rugby squad loomed up as serious contenders for the inter-collegiate title at present held by Queen's when they defeated the scrappy little McGill team at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon 22 to 9. It was a terrific battle fought doggedly for the greater part of the first three quarters, but with Varsity having a definite edge in the final twenty minutes against the fast tiring Red and White warriors.

For fast, open football, the game has had no equal locally this season and it was one of the most hard, though cleanly fought battles that these two traditional rivals of the gridiron have staged at the stadium since 1920. It was an uphill struggle for McGill. She was forced to battle fiercely to overcome an early lead gained by the Blue and White in the first two minutes of play and to finally assume command early in the third quarter when the Red and White scored the only earned touchdown of the game. Seeing the tide turning against them, Varsity started to rush against their lighter rivals that could not be withtsood and two field goals by Hughie Plaxton again put the U. of T. in front near the end of the third quarter, and incidentally slowed up the fighting of the McGill team which was heartbroken at the reverse that took away a lead so dearly won.

Brilliant running through open fields, spectacular punting drop kicking, the successful manipulation of several on-side kicks, fast end runs, heavy line-plunging, the game ran the gamut of rugby with plenty of fumbles and loose play evident, as was to be expected from newly built teams that took plenty of chances and provided a real battle.

On the play the score should have been closer, but Varsity fully deserved its victory. The Blue and White fielded a team for its first league contest which had been made over from last year. Warren Snyder and Bartlett were the only backfield players who had previously figured against McGill, while the front rank contained many new faces to Red and White followers — something that has not been the case for many years past insofar as these two teams are concerned. But the squad, though apparently lacking the finish of former teams that have worn the Blue and White, showed among its personnel players of the greatest promise and from the game they showed, should learn enough to bring them to a condition where they should give Queen's a terrific battle when the tri-color visits Toronto on Saturday.

MINOR LEAGUERS DREW BIG CROWD

About 25,000 Saw Kansas City Defeat Baltimore.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 14. — Jimmy Zinn pitced a one-hit, one-run game here to-day against Baltimore, while the Kansas City Blue, champions of the American Association, touched Parnham and Thomas, Oriole pitchers, for ten hits to win, 7 to 1. The victory gives Kansas City a one-game lead in the series, with the International League champions, the count now standing two to one in favor of Kansas City.

The game was played before what probably was the largest crowd that ever witnessed a minor league game. Club officials estimated that about 25,000 persons were in the stands.

Zinn faced just 28 batters in the nine innings he worked. He probably would have scored a shut-out if he had not followed the only hit of the game, a double by Porter in the second inning, with a wild pitch.

Parnham, who started for Baltimore, held the Blues powerless for three innings.

Good, Kansas City manager, who led off in the fourth, scored the Blues' first hit with a triple to centre. Parnham retired Armstrong on strikes, but Becker, who followed, lifted a long sacrifice fly to left field, scoring Good and tying the count.

Parnham's grief came in the fifth when Porter fumbled Wright's grounder. Branom and Hammond doubled, scoring two runs. Skiff grounded to Boley and Parnham hit Zinn with a pitched ball.

Good doubled, scoring Hammond and Zinn, and Parnham was replaced by Thomas. Armstrong greeted Thomas with a single which scored Good, but Becker ended the inning by hitting into a double play. Hammond singled in the eighth and scored the Blues' last run on a long single by Skiff, after stealing second.

The third game of the series, postponed Saturday because of a soggy diamond, will be played to-morrow. Schupp, who beat Baltimore in the first game, is scheduled to work for Kansas City, while Groves, who held Kansas City to four hits in the second game, will probably work for Baltimore. Chief Bender is the Orioles' alternate choice.

TIME

Jack Dempsey got a form letter among his mail. It started: "The average man's time is worth $1.20 an hour, so we are inclosing a check for 4 cents to cover the minutes it will take you to read this letter."

Jack doesn't belong to this particular mailing list.

A lot of people who didn't get a copy of the letter will examine their pocketbooks and wonder how the ad writer arrived at his average of $1.20 an hour. He probably can prove his figures. Mathematics belongs to the rubber family.

GALT DEFEATED TORONTO TEAM

In Senior O.B.A.A. Final--The Game May Be Protested.

QUELPH, Oct. 13.—In a slow and listless game with the exception of the ninth inning when the Royals rallied and scored four runs, the Galt terriers by the score of 8 to 6 defeated the Toronto Royals in the final game for the O.B.A.A. Senior championship, winning the pennant for the second consecutive time.

Eight thousand, believed to be a new record for amateur baseball attendance, came from all parts of Ontario to see the game.

Heavy hitting at opportune times, and fine pitching by Graham together with almost perfect work in the field were the two most important factors in the victory of the Terriers. Faulty work in the field and the failure of three of the Royals' pitchers, Morris, Drysdale and Ramsay, to stem the tide of hits also contributed in no small manner to the win of the Galt team. The Toronto nine were plainly outhit and outplayed until their last ininng when a determied rally which netted four hits and as many runs brought the thousands to their feet in a frenzy of excitement, and which, had it not been for slow base running on the Royals' part and quick fielding on part of the terrier outfield might have ended in disaster for the Galt nine. When Re burn flew out to Grove and Spring struck out, with Thorne, who had tripled on base, a mighty cheer went up from the Galt fans.

The Royals began the game with Morris pitching. He was wild and nervous, and was chased in the second. Drysdale replaced him but he too went to the showers in the same frame. Ramsay was then called on and while hit hard, he finished the game. He did fine work with the batter. The Terriers scored one in the first, two in each the second and third, one in the fourth and two in the fifth. The Royals scored one in the fourth, one in the seventh, and four in the fourth.

It is probable that the Royals will protest the game owing to a decision in the fifth inning when Watts went into the crowd to get the long fly hit by Ramsay. Dickson had been on first and went to second, Watts returned the ball to Evans at first, and a double play was called by the umpires, the Royals continued under protest. It took two and a half hours to play the game which was delayed for a time in the sixth, when Ramsay and Terry collided when both went after Kress' pop fly. They were injured and were given medical attention on the field. Sheppard at the plate and Hallinan on the bases gave good satisfaction with the exception of the decision in the sixth.

PUTTING HIS FOOT IN IT

Johnny, having reached his teens, was invited out to dinner without his parents. An anxious mother told him to be careful about his manners and to speak in complimentary terms of the food served him. After he had tasted the soup he remarked: "This is pretty good soup, what there is of it."

He was greatly disconcerted to observe a frown on the face of his hostess, and he hastened to repair his blunder by remarking: "And there's plenty of it—such as it is."—St. Paul Dispatch.

DEVELOP MUSCLES FOR PERFECT BODY

You Can't Make Strong Anatomy By Waving a Fan.

(By NIELS BIKH)

You can't make a strong body waving a fan.

The trouble with most of us is that we are strong in spots. We tend to develop only those muscles that we use in our daily occupations. The blacksmith has a powerful forearm. The stevedore a strong back, and so on.

The chief points of weakness are the abdomen, the foreside of the biceps and the calf. And until these defects are corrected, the perfect body is an impossibility.

With a uniformly strong body, specialization may then be attempted with greater success.

The exercise illustrated in this article is particularly designed for strengthening the abdomen, the calves of the legs, and the back muscles.

Two people are necessary, or it may be performed alone by hooking the toes under some solid support, such as an attached ladder.

When two people are doing it, the toes are hooked under the calves of the other person's leg. One lies flat on the back, arms extended straight back. The other bends forward, with the hands extended straight ahead.

Then as the one leaning forward bends backward, the other is drawn forward and up. Repeat this rapidly bends backward, the other is drawn

Another exercise of particular benefit to the legs is this:

The two people face each other and clasp hands, standing with the heels together.

Then sink on the left leg, bending it at the knee, and at the same time thrust the other leg violently to the right. Meanwhile pull against the other person. Return to the upright position snappily.

Repeat, bending the right knee and thrusting with the left leg.

HASTINGS PRINCIPAL TEACHERS' PRESIDENT

T. W. Chaplain Unanimous Choice of Northumberland and Durham Institute at Session in Brighton.

BRIGHTON, Oct. 15.—T. W. Chaplain, principal of the Hastings Public School, was unanimously elected president of the Teachers' Institute, No. 3, Northumberlnd and Durham Counties at the last session here a signal honor for so young a teacher. Mr. Chaplain was born in Campebllford 23 years ago and is a graduate of the High School in that town. He taught two years near Campbellford and for the past two years has been principal in Hastings. His work has been successful as shown by the result of each entrance examination, when it is nothing unusual for him to pass his entire class of candidates.

The other officers elected were:
Honorary President — P. S. Inspector R. Boyes of Campbellford.
Vice-President —G. F. Cracknell of Castleton.
Secretary-treasurer— C. S. Haig of Campbellford.
Delegates to O.E.A. —President Chaplain and Miss H. Warner, Wooler.
Executive Committee — Miss G. Peebles of Colborne, G. S. Langdon of Brighton, M. Smith of Warkworth, Mrs. Nellie G. Mutton and Miss Helen Brady.

It was decided to hold the next convention in Warkworth.

Resolution Adopted

A resolution setting the time at which teachers may be superannuated at 25 instead of 40 years was unanimously adopted and a copy of this will be sent to the O.E.A. for action at the next meeting.

It was the sentiment of the members that 40 years is too large a period of service before a teacher is eligible for a full pension under the new superannuation scheme.

How to Manage a Section

C. L. Jones of Carrying Place delivered an address on the above subject. He believes that it is part of the duty of teachers to show the people that they can do something beside teaching school and with this end in view they should get acquainted with the residents of their section. They should visit the people whether they have children at school or not. Mr. Jones advised his fellow teachers to avoid entanglements with political parties or factions of any kind. Once when he was asked to preside at a Liberal meeting he side-slipped the honor and compromised by proposing for the position, the man who had brought up his name. Even when there is a child born in the section, Mr. Jones does not hesitate to poy a visit for the purpose of congratulating the parents.

Teachers, he says, should join in the play and social functions of the community.

Other Papers Friday.

Other papers read Friday were as follows: "Our Year in Saskatchewan," by Mr Smith, of Warkworth; "Some Common Functions of Plants," by Inspector Dandeno of Toronto; "The Hot Lunch in Schools" by Miss Kidd of Brighton, and "My Trip to New Ontario," by T. W. Chaplain of Hastings, the new president.

Very Few Billets.

The teachers in No. 3 Inspectorate believe in paying their way and only four availed themselves of the hospitality of the billeting system. Instead of becoming guests of private citizens for the two days of the convention over 80 members of the Institute put up at the Claredon hotel and Landlord Harrison, a veteran of the business, says in all his experience he never entertained a finer lot of ladies and gentlemen.

Easy Street, Financially.

Fred Wigglesworth, organist and choir leader of St. Andrew's church, and lady members of the Campbellford Public school staff, furnished a number of musical selections at the concert given by the Teachers' Institute. The opening number was a piano duet by Mr. Wigglesworth and Miss Bessie Locke. Other numbers by well known soloists of Campbellford, were: Solo, "My Laddie," by Miss Hazel Atkinson; comic song, "Muldoon's Ball," by Mr. Wigglesworth; solo, "A Japanese Love Song," by Miss Kathleen Connor; duet, "No, John, No," by Mr. Wigglesworth and Miss Atkinson; solo, "They Can't Catch Me," by Mr. Wigglesworth, and another solo, "And So We Go On and On," by the same gentleman.

Other numbers on the programme were: Reading, "Melinda's Veil," by Mrs. Wellington Lapp, of Brighton; two selections by the Brighton Masonic Quartette; reading, "The Last Autumn Leaf," by Mrs. Wellington-Lapp; solo, "My Alice Blue Gown," by little Bernadine Brintell of Brighton, and a violin selection by C. L. Jones of Carrying Place, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Wigglesworth. Every number on the programme was heartily encored.

The proceeds on the concert amounted to $60 and this, with the $46 paid in annual fees to Secretary-Treasurer Haig by 92 of the 93 teachers in the Inspectorate, puts the Institute on Easy street for another year.

MURPHY BRINGS TWO TO SAFETY

City Employee Has Now Snatched Twelve From Grasping Otonabee.

John Murphy, previously credited with saving ten from drowning in the Otonabee, yesterday brought two more to shore when they were drifting in a leaky punt.

While Murphy was returning home yesterday by the C.P.R. trestle, he saw two boys drifting from shore in an old punt, half filled with water and stones.

Two little girls were standing on the shore shrieking.

With Frank Atchison, of the C. P.R., Murphy ran to a boat house, secured a canoe, and paddled out to the rescue.

He succeeded in bringing the frightened boys to shore.

"My motto," Murphy said to-day. "is, get them out before they drown, not after. We had a quarter-mile run to get the canoe out, and a hard job to bring the boys ashore. This is the twelfth I have got out of the Otonabee."

Mr. Murphy did not know the names of the boys he rescued.

SEVEN DAYS JAIL FOR JAS. SIMMONS

Member for East Peterboro Figured in Car Accident.

James Simmons was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley in City Police Court this morning with driving an automobile while intoxicated and on conviction was sentenced to seven days imprisonment without the option of a fine.

Evidence this morning disclosed that while Simmons was driving south on Water street at 7.40 on Saturday night, he struck a car travelling in the opposite direction by Ernest Gordon Johnston of Otonabee. Edward Simmons accompanied his brother in the first car and Col. T. Dalton Johnston, M.P.P., and Margaret Johnston were passengers in the second car. Miss Johnston was the only one injured, sustaining slight bruises to her arm.

Chief Constable S. Newhall conducted the prosecution and John R. Corkery appeared for the accused.

Detective Carey, Chief Newhall, Sergeant Deannard, Detective Sergeant Meagher, and Constable Naples all testified that the accused was intoxicated immediately after the accident and when in the police cell, where he was confined all of Saturday night. Ernest Johnston told of the accident, saying Simmons' automobile turned straight into his from a distance of fifteen feet, without any apparent reason.

Simmons' car turned completely around and fell on its side. In lifting the car, the witness came close to the accused and smelled liquor. Witness was travelling at less than 10 miles an hour.

Cross-examined by Mr. Corkery, Johntson said he judged the prisoner was intoxicated by the odour from his breath.

Supported by Constable

Col. Thomas Dalton Johnston corroborated the evidence of his cousin, saying the car in which they were travelling was only going at 5 or 6 miles a hour, while the prisoner's car appeared to be moving quite fast. Col. Johnston was in the police station when Simmons entered, and he said the constable appeared to be supporting the prisoner as though he were hurt or intoxicated.

Answering cross-examination by Mr. Corkery, witness said he did not smell liquor as he had a severe cold. "I have not a very sharp sense of smell anyway," he added.

Forgot the Accident

Chief Newhall in the stand testified that he arrived very shortly after the accident and heard the accused using bad language. Accused said the accident was caused by the driver of the Johnston car.

When in the police station, Simmons called the Chief. "He was talking about everything under the sun", Chief Newhall declared. "He said he hadn't been in an accident at all. His speech was mixed up, and he wanted out. His breath smelled bad of liquor—it smelled like moonshine to me. I saw him a number of times between then and twelve o'clock. He was just as drunk at 12 as when he was brought in—in fact worse." Both cars were damaged on the left side, the Chief said.

Accused Denied Drinking

Examined by Mr. Corkery, the prisoner said he was out hunting on Saturday with four other men. "I was not intoxicated", he declared with a smile. "I didn't drink any liquor that day. I was stunned by the accident." Under cross-examination by Chief Newhall the witness admitted that he had appeared in court on two previous occasions charged with drunk offences. He met the Chief's questions as to his language with a categorical denial of all Chief Newhall's allegations.

Sid Pellow, Samuel Bridger, Joseph Dineen and Edward Simmons all testified that they were with James Simmons on Saturday afternoon, that there was no liquor in their possession, and that the accused was absolutely sober while in their company.

INTERESTING TRIP BRITISH COLUMBIA

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Bell Finish Hiking Tour To Far West.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Bell, who left the city on a hiking tour on 4th June of this year, reached their destination near Vancouver, B.C., on 3rd October, and report a very interesting trip, which was made partly on foot, partly by water, to Port McNicholl, and partly by motor whenever a lift was offered.

Mr. Bell has a small ranch near Vancouver, where he will reside for the next seven or eight months.

During their hike, Mr. and Mrs. Bell spent some time in Saskatchewan, at the ranch of the former's brother, visited Winnipeg and Calgary and Banff, where they swam in the waters of the sulphur springs, at 94 degrees, and encountered a small black bear during one of their mountain-climbing trips. They visited a Doukhobor settlement in British Columbia, where they spent a night with the school teacher, who lives alone in the schoolhouse. The Doukhobors were friendly to the tourists, who visited some of their homes, large buildings, where whole communities live, one family to a room.

NEWSPAPER OFFICES TARGET FOR BOMBS

MILAN, Oct. 15—(United Press) Police have made a number of arrests following the throwing of four bombs at newspaper offices here Sunday.

Three of the bombs were hurled at the "Corriere Della Sera" two falling harmlessly into the nearby canal and the third breaking a window, but doing no other damage. The fourth bomb, thrown in at the "Avanti" offices exploded harmlessly.

CANADIAN CATTLE WIN HIGH HONORS

Won Three Out of Four Firsts at Stock Congress

Canada made a remarkable showing in the World's Live Stock Congress held at Syracuse a few days ago. Out of four State herd prizes, Canada captured three. In these classes any state or province is allowed to select the ten best animals of any class. The first prize in each case is five hundred dollars. In the Jersey and Holstein classes, Ontario won two firsts and Quebec won a first prize for Ayrshires, making a total of three out of four firsts for Canada. Thirty-three nations were represented.

YANKS COME FROM

Giants— Cunningham flied out to Witt. Kelly fouled to Schang, who ran to the Giant bench to make the catch. Snyder up. Snyder whiffed. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Innings.

Yankees —Nehf threw out Scott. Nehft also threw out Pennock. Witt flied out to Meusel. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants— Nehf struck out. Dugan threw out Bancroft. Groh sent a long liner to Meusel. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Innings.

Yankees—Frisch robbed Dugan of a hit by a remarkable running catch. Ruth got a base on balls. Giants protested. Bancroft threw out Meusel at first, Ruth going to second. Pipp up. Bancroft threw out Pipp at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants — The crowd cheered Frisch. Frisch beat out a bunt. Ward threw out Young, Frich sliding safely into second. Meusel flied out to Witt. Frisch scored on Cunningham's single to right. Ward threw out Kelly. One run, two hits, no errors.

Fifth Innings.

Yankees — Ward went out, Bancroft to Kelly. Frisch threw out Schang, robbing him of a hit. Frisch tossed out Scott. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants—Snyder got a homer into the left field stands. It was his first hit of the series. Nehf was a strike-out victim. Scott got Bancroft at first. Groh sent a fly out to Ruth. One run, one hit, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Yankees — Pennock struck out. Nehf took Witt's chopper and got him at first. Dugan was thrown out at first, Groh to Kelly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants—Frisch got a long hit into left field for three bases. Ward threw out Young at first, Frisch holding third. Frisch scored on Meusel's single past Ward. Cunningham went out to Pipp unassisted, Meusel going to second. Kelly struck out. One run, two hits, no errors.

Seventh Innings.

Yankees—Ruth struck out. Groh took Meusel's grounder and got him at first. Bancroft tossed out Pipp at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Neft was pitching a superb game. His curves were breaking sharply and he had a bewildering change of pace.

Giants— Snyder sent a liner into left for a single. Nehf struck out. Bancroft was thrown out on a grounder that bounced from Pennock's gloved hand toward Ward. Who made a quick throw to first. Snyder went to second. Groh went out, Scott to Pipp. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eigth Innings.

Yankees — Ward's fly fell into Kelly's mitt. Schang pushed a hit into left for a single. Scott high into right for a single, Schang going to third. Hoffman batted for Pennock. Hoffman walked and the bases were filled. Haines ran for Hoffman. Bush batted for Witt. Bush walked and Schang scored. Nehf was taken out of the box. Johnson ran for Bush. Ryan went into the box for the Giants. Dugan walked and Scott scored. Ruth up and the stands were in a turmoil. Ruth struck out. Haines and Johnson scored on Meusel's single to centre and Dugan scored when Cuningham threw wildly to the grandstand. Meusel going to third Frisch threw out Pipp at first. Five runs, three hits, one error.

Giants— Haines went into centre field for the Yanks, and Jones went into the box. Ward took Frisch's hot smash and threw him out. Young singled through the box. Meusel forced Young, Ward to Scott. Stengel batted for Cunningham. Stengel sent a high fly to Dugan. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Yankees—Stengel went into centre field for the Giants. Bancroft threw out Ward at first. Game was delayed by conference at the plate to determine correct Yankee batting order. Frsich tossed out Schang. Bancroft robbed Scott of a hit and threw him out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants—Kelly sent up a high fly to Pipp. Jones threw out Snyder. Bentley batted for Ryan. Ward took Bentley's grounder and threw him out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

SLUGGISH TRADING

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(United Press).—The developments over the week-end had about the same general characteristics as have featured the news since the start of the current period of narrow, sluggish trading on the stock exchange.

Foreign despatches furnished no hope of early improvement in the Reparations tangle, while items bearing on the domestic business situation demonstrated that conditions were unchanged, price movements were without significance in the early dealings with fluctuations in the active stocks about equally divided between losses and gains.

Stocks experienced a sudden reversal of form after the early dealings and the speculative leaders had sharp recoveries, running from one to three points, no outside developments took place which might have accounted for this abrupt change of trend, it simply represented a recoil from the bearishness that had become altogether too general in the financial community. As J. S. Bach, and Company points out the market could execute a turning movement and go up for a while based wholly on technical and psychological premises. Stocks have declined for eight successive days, the previous support levels of August and September have been broken, the main body of stocks is approximately at the lowest of the year.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of my dear husband, Mr. William Edward Scully, who died Oct. 14th, 19200:

The midnight stars are gloaming
On a lone and silent grave,
Beneath sleeps one we dearly love,
But who we could not save.
His weary hours and days of pain,
His troubled nights are past,
His ever patient worn out frame,
Has found sweet rest at last.
The happy hours we once enjoyed
How sweet their memory still!
But Death has left a vacant place
The world can never fill.

TAYLOR.—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister Myrtle, who departed this life at Eston, Sask., October 15, 1922.

No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have lost can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one we loved so well.

NOTHING TO INDICATE THAT AIR FORCE HAS SUPERCEDED THE NAVY

Supreme Unit of British Defence is Still Her Fleet, and the Dominating Weapon is The Gun, in Opinion Of Imperial Conference.

A NEW NAVAL BASE

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—The gigantic problem of defence of the far-flung British Empire has been taken up by the Imperial Conference.

With Premier Baldwin presiding over the meeting, discussion of defence began Monday. The Marquis of Salisbury made the opening statement on the question.

The Policies Outlined.

Members of the conference have decided that speeches will not be made public, but recent statements of officials participating in the conference indicate that policies outlined will be roughly as follows:

1. The supreme unit of British defence is still the navy, but the supreme weapon of defence is still the gun. There is nothing to indicate that aircraft have superceded battleships in fighting value.

2. The submarine has developed faster as a defensive weapon than as an offensive weapon.

3. The air force is not an alternative to the navy as an arm of the service, it is a complementary arm.

4. As regards aircraft, Britain must be in a position to repel attacks by the strongest air force within striking distance.

5. Aircraft don't constitute the sole defensive weapon against naval attack, hence an inadequate navy would mean starvation for Britain in the event of war.

Increase Air Forces.

6. Increase in air forces is a most important item of home defence. (It was recently announced that 34 additional squadrons will be provided.)

7. The creation of the projected naval base at Singapore is most important in the scheme of Imperial defence, despite the fact that the Japanese earthquake has largely eliminated Japan from the competitive field in Eastern armaments. Unless the Singapore base is established the entire navy would be paralyzed in Far Eastern operations in the event of war.

8. The Government would welcome a conference for the limitation of aerial armaments, but it is futile to call such a conference until Europe settles down, and particularly until French fears are dissipated.

CROWDS CLAMORED AT COURT HOUSE

But Were Not Admitted To Hear Murder Trial At London.

LONDON, Ont., October 16. Oct. 16. Canadian Press. — With the sixth witness of the day, and the eleventh since it began, the trial of Sydney Murrell and Slim Williams for the murder of Russell Campbell, was resumed at 1:45 this afternoon.

Mrs. Murrell, his mother, and two of her children, took seats near the dock.

The two prisoners came up from the cells, dragging their chains, and appeared calm as they took their positions in the dock surrounded by guards.

Hundreds clamored at the court house door for admittance, but were refused by the police.

In the morning the crown began its probe into the murder. Erna Wright, the ledger keeper in the bank, was first called. He testified to the entrance of the four men, and their departure from the Home Bank simultaneously. Roy McCandless, the manager of the bank, told of the assault upon him by the bandits, of the number of shots that were fired, and of seeing Russell Campbell, the victim, lying face downward in the alley. He said that he had seen Sydney Murrell rush out into the alley, a short time previously.

John Little, a mail carrier, declared that he saw Murrell in the alleyway, carrying a revolver; then he saw him rush out, while two other men grappled with him.

Ruthven McIntyre testified that he attempted to grab Murrell as he rushed out of the alley, but missed him. He saw Robert Campbell, Burley Robinson and Stuart Campbell grapple with Murrell.

Duncan Williams said that he saw Williams standing guard at the bank, and saw Murrell captured after dashing out of the alley.

London Physician Warns The Public Of Insulin's Limits

LONDON, October 16 (Canadian Press Cable) — The wonderful qualities with which insulin is being credited by the newspapers generally, has inspired Dr. Otto Leyton, physician to the London Hospital, to utter a warning note to the public.

Dr. Leyton is one of the leading diabetic specialists of London.

While lecturing to doctors and medical students in London yesterday, he said the advent of insulin had been announced with such a fanfare of trumpets that firtion writers were trading on the ignorance of their readers, and making extravagant claims

Insulin, he asserted, is of immense value, but not of unlimited value in the treatment of diabetes.

A PROBLEM FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Where to Buy Her Fruit and Vegetables as Prices Vary in This City's Stores.

An interesting problem for the housewife this week is where to buy her fruit and vegetables, there being considerable difference in price in the several stores. Apples are the stand-by in most stores, and some were completely cleared of peaches. Sweet potatoes are in demand at 2 pounds for 25 cents in one store and 3 for 25 in another.

Duchess pears number 1 are quoted at $1.25 a basket and number 2 at $1. Pumpkins, soon to be in demand for Hallowe'en are 15 cents to 25, and squash are the same price. Cauliflower is offered at 15 to 30 cents, with some very large specimens at 35 cents.

Apples range from 50 to 70 cents a peck. Quotations are: Greenings 60 and 70 cents a peck; number 1 Greenings $6 a barrel, domestic $5.50 and number 3 $5. Kings, $5.50 Peewaukees, 50 cents a peck, same as Greenings by the barrel; Snows, 65 cents a peck, $7 a barrel; Tolman Sweets scarce at 70 cents a peck. Crab apples and Alexanders are hard to obtain.

Blue Concord grapes are from 45 to 50 cents for six quart basket.

Potatoes range from $1.50 to $1.65 a bag and by the peck 25 cents.

Onions are quoted in one store at 70 cents a peck, while in another store the price is 4 pounds for 25 cents for Yellow Danvers and 3 pounds for 25 cents for Spanish.

At the provision counters storage eggs are offered at 42 cents a dozen and strictly fresh eggs at 45 cents. The latter are scarce.

Dairy butter is 38 cents; storage finnan haddie can be bought for 25 cents and cod at 20 cents.

Sugar is now firm at a wholesale price of $11 and $12.

QUEEN'S ROOTERS TO PAY FULL RAIL FAIR

Railway Commissioners Refuse Request For Excursion Rates.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.— (Canadian Press.)—Application of Queen's University for fare and a third on excursion tickets from Kingston to Montreal and Toronto was refused by the Board of Railway Commissioners to-day. Decision was given by Assistant Chief Commissioner McLean without leaving the bench and was concurred in by Commissioners Boyce and Lawrence, who heard the case with him. Assistant Chief Commissioner McLean based his decision on the ground that there had been no affirmative showing of unjust discrimination.

The purpose of the application was stated to be to permit "rooters" of Queen's University football team to follow the games at as favorable rates as those paid by Toronto and McGill enthusiasts in coming to Kingston.

GOLDEN RULE IS DIFFICULT TO PRACTICE

As Hard to Manipulate as a Surveyor's Chain in Our Complicated Social System.

REV. R. W. SOCKMAN

"Who are the Educated?" was the subject of the address given by Rev. R. W. Sockman, of New York City, yesterday afternoon, at the first open meeting of this season of the Women's Canadian Club, held in the hall at the Public Library, and attended by a large number of men and women. The president of the club, Miss A. Lancaster, occupied the chair and introduced the speaker.

Rev. Mr. Sockman, whose polished, rhetorical form of address was delivered in slow, pleasant fashion, with a clipped enunciation that rounded his frequent periods in decisive fashion, based his discourse on a quotation from John Milton: "I call that a generous and complete education which fits a man to perform justly, skilfully and magnanimously all the duties, either public or private, of peace and war."

A "Just" Education.

Taking the performance of duties "justly," as his first heading, the speaker said that the blindfold should be taken from the eyes of justice, as represented in statuary. Modern methods of jurisprudence had decided that more than a jury of twelve good men and true was necessary to decide the fate of a prisoner at the bar, and that minute investigation should be made into the antecedents of that prisoner, in an effort to discover the facts of life that had been tatooed by education and environment across his mind. "The Golden Rule, simple as it sounds, is about as difficult to manipulate as a surveyor's chain in our complicated social system, because if I wish to do to another as I would wish to be done by, I must know what life looks like to him, and that is a difficult thing in our stratified society, where there is no mingling of the rich and the poor, where misunderstanding between the classes is typical of the chasms that rend the world to-day, where there is cleavage between nation and nation, between race and race, between class and class. To perform his duties justly, the education is required that is able to determine what life looks like to the Frenchman in the Ruhr, to the Greek looking toward Ltaly, to the Pole, to the ragged follower of Ghandi in India, to the Chinaman in that vast empire which is just beginning to yawn and stretch itself awake, to the colored man in the States, to the employer of labor and the employee alike. I must know what life looks like in the soggy, heavy atmosphere at the bottom of society, in the thin air at the peaks, and in the middle levels alike."

A "Skilled" Performance.

"To fit a man to perform his duties skilfully: In America, in my country, we have a distrust of experts in certain lines. Over there, it is quite probable that a man who has made a fortune raising wheat in Iowa will make up his mind that he would make a good ambassador to the Court of St. James, and he will probably land there too, just the same as the man who makes a fortune building automobiles in Detroit thinks he would make a good president, and may possibly land that job. We need skill in the handling of personal forces. A child or a youth at the adolescent stage is awkward, because there is as yet no coordination in its members. We in America are in the adolescent stage, morally speaking, and this may interpret my country's slowness in doing some of the things that you in Canada would have us do. I believe that one of the great weaknesses in our society is this, that we have been hearing idealists preaching to us for the last five years. From press and pulpit we have been preached at. Even our magazine 'Life' itself, preaches at us in its editorials. But we have not yet drilled ourselves by discipline of our characters, and wills, to the point where we have mastered the art of living. What we need in our countries to-day is not more idealism and preaching, but more drilling and discipline in local drill-grounds, and as yet, only three of these have been discovered: the church, the home and the school. Organizations such as yours should see to it that these drill-grounds are kept intact and unimpaired."

As an example of the lack of drilling in the virtue of honesty among children, the speaker cited the instance of the private school in one of the States where ten children were sent out with fifty cents apiece and told to buy an article which the teachers knew would cost about thirty-five cents with the instructions, "If there is any change, bring it back." Seven children out

HONEY IS REPLACING SUGAR FOR SWEETENING PURPOSES

Product of The Bees Better For Little Folks—One Local Woman Has Preserved All Her Fruit With Honey.

Honey is taking the place of sugar for sweetening purposes, a local dealer said to-day. Mixed honey is cheaper pound for pound, and is considered better for children.

A comparison shows that sugar costs $1 for nine pounds, whereas honey can be obtained at $1 for ten pounds. For this reason many housewives are now using honey for all sweetening purposes where sugar was used before, and one lady reported having preserved all her fruit with honey.

As a substitute for jam, this mixed honey is considered superior, and is cheaper, jam costing 90c for four pounds.

The mixed variety consists of about 50 per cent. buckwheat and 50 per cent. clover, and a dealer in the city has disposed of nearly five tons in a short time.

INVOLVES THE RIGHT SEARCH

The Bootlegging Issue to Come Before Imperial Conference.

LONDON, October 16 (Canadian Press). — The question of bootlegging on the American Coast will shortly come before a commission of the Imperial Conference, on which Premier Mackenzie-King will represent Canada.

The problem arises from the United States' request that it shall be permitted to have the right to search British vessels within the twelve-mile limit along its shores.

Britain, so far, has declined to accede to the request, but has promised to submit the question to the Imperial Conference for consideration.

IMPROVEMENTS BY C. N. R. LOCALLY

Install Compressed Air Turn-Table To Carry Largest Locomotive.

Among the improvements made on the local Canadian National Railway line during the past summer, was the installation of a large compressed-air operated turn-table. This was designed to carry the largest engines now in use on this section, and obviate the use of the "Y" at the C.G.E. plant. That the turn-table is intended for extensive use is indicated by the laying of heavy rails in its approach. These rails weigh 100 lbs. to the yard, almost double the weight of some on the Port Hope branch.

Another advance was made in the building of a cement and steel bridge where the creek parallels the track a few hundred feet from the Bethune street curve at a point which has always been recognized as dangerous. Three freight cars overturned here a few months ago with considerable loss in grain and rolling stock.

All bridges in this section have been repaired, and workmen are now busy on the swing bridge south of the city.

ACCOUNTS ARE BACK IN BANK

Newspapers Performed a Very Useful Service to The Dominion Bank.

TORONTO, October 16 (Canadian Press). — Business conditions were again about normal this morning at the head office and the various branches of the Dominion Bank, following the heavy pressure of yesterday when the offices were thronged with depositors making withdrawals.

The statement given out by the bank's general manager yesterday afternoon, and published in the newspapers evidently had a reassuring effect on the depositors, many of whom returned to-day and redeposited the money they withdrew yesterday.

Some of them admitted that they had spent a sleepless night guarding their cash, in fear that robbers might make it the objective of a visit.

CANADIAN LAND FOR BRITISH GOVERNMENT

To Encourage Settlement In British Columbia in Relief of Unemployed.

LONDON, Oct. 16.— (Canadain Press Cable.)—Taking over by the British government of some of the wealthy but undeveloped portions of the Dominions as a means of remedying the unemployment in Britain was urged by A. Somerville, M.P., in a speech at Ascot last night.

Mr Sommerville said he had just returned from a trip to British Columbia, where Premier Oliver was ready to place sixty million acres of suitable land at the disposal of the British government for settlement purposes. If the people from this country settled in British Columbia, Mr. Sommerville said, it would not only relieve the unemployment situation here, but would help home industries.

What's Home Without a Snake ?

Edmund Papineau, 18 months, of Toledo, O., has no use for dolls and rubber toys. His most precious pet is the six-foot Mexican bull snake shown in the picture, which Edmund's papa, who's a "yarb" doctor, uses in his medicine shows. The little leather horse at the left has been discarded for an intimate embrace with the reptile.

THE DOMINION IN PETERBORO HAD NO PANIC

John Crane, Local Manager, is Absolutely Certain of Bank's Sound Position — Only a Few Withdrawals.

RUMORS FALSE

Some depositors in the Dominion Bank branch in Peterboro appeared yesterday afternoon and drew their deposits, John Crane told the Examiner this morning. There were not many in this class, and the calls on the bank did not nearly approach a run, in this respect, indicating a steadiness on the part of depositors that was not shown in other centres.

"We do not argue with people who wish to draw their deposits," the manager of the local branch said. "We are absolutely sure of the bank's standing. The Dominion has been and still is one of the most conservative banks in Canada."

Bank is Sound.

Mr. Crane drew attention to a statement issued yesterday afternoon by Sir Edmund B. Osler, president: C. A. Bogert, general manager, and G. T. Clarkson, auditor, in which depositors are reassured as to the standing of the Dominion Bank. "Within the last few days," the statement says, "certain rumors have been circulated respecting the standing of the Dominion Bank. We desire to state that these rumors are wholly unfounded and false, and that the Dominion Bank is at the present time in a stronger position than at any time in its history. It has no loans or transactions on its books that are causing the directors or officials any concern, and the bank is in a position to meet all demands that may be made upon it."

Week-End Rumor.

These rumors evidently originated on Friday and were ripe for dissemination on Sunday, with the result that many people appeared yesterday at various branches to remove their savings to the safety of the family tea-pot. Sunday is well-known as a day of rumor, and it is believed that if similar stories had originated nearer the beginning of the week they would have been killed before apprehension was aroused in the minds of depositors.

As it is, the only indication of uneasiness in Peterboro, Mr. Crane said, is an unusual number of withdrawals, and these are free from signs of panic.

PETERBOROUGH IN WHO'S WHO

Sons of This City Who Have Written Their Names With The Country's Great Men.

WILLIAM HALL TAYLOR.

William Hall Taylor was born in Peterboro on September 3, 1877, the son of William and Isabella Taylor, both of Peterborough. He was educated in the public schools and Collegiate Institute here and the Ontario Agricultural College, becoming an Asociate of the College in 1895. From 1896 to 1905 he farmed 270 acres in Douro township, being one of the largest farmers in Peterboro' County.

In 1908 he became a partner in the Canadian Chicle Co.; from 1910 to 1915 he represented Davies Thompson Co. becoming sole partner in Insurance in the latter year.

William Taylor has been prominent in all branches of civic administration, being Alderman from 1917 to 1919; Chairman of the Finance Committee in 1918 and 1919; Chairman of the Municipal Fuel Yard in 1919 and Mayor of the City in 1922 and 1923.

On June 6, 1900 he married Anna Elizabeth Savigny, daughter of John Savigny of the township of Otonabee.

Mayor Taylor is a member of the Peterboro Club and the Peterboro Curling Club; the A.F. and A.M., I.O.O.F. and W.O.W. He is prominent in sports, having been awarded all of the honors in this district for curling. In 1895 he won the championship for the standing broad jump, 100 yards and ¼ mile at O.A.C., and he has taken many other honors in sports He is a Liberal and a Presbyterian.

DISTRICT ROTARIANS GUESTS OF PETERBORO AT SPLENDID MEETING

Port Hope, Lindsay, Oshawa and Cobourg Very Largely Represented at Dinner at Which Closer Rotary Entente is Established.

A FINE PROGRAMME

The inter-city meeting held under the auspices of the Peterboro Rotary Club, at the Empress last evening, was a most gratifying and enjoyable success, bringing together, as it did Rotarians from all over the district.

The Lindsay club sent a delegation of 24. Port Hope had the same number out of a total membership of 29. Oshawa contributed 18; there were 15 Rotarians present from the the Cobourg club, and as the local club was represented by a large turnout, it was the largest Rotary gathering yet held here.

As for the programme, there was not a dull moment anywhere, and the addresses and music were thoroughly enjoyed. The Rotary spirit was rampant, old friendships were renewed and new ones made, and the five clubs were brought into a closer entente as a result of the meeting, for the success of which Rotarian Reg. Turner, chairman of the Inter-City Relationships Committee, and his associates, deserve thanks.

President V. J. McElderry of the local club, presided, and ran through the meeting in snappy style.

The first item, after the enjoyable dinner had been effectively attacked, was the introduction of the visiting Presidents, Dr. Edgar Haydon, of Cobourg; Wesley Staples of Lindsay, Jim Whattam of Oshawa, and Ed. Thurber, of Port Hope. Then the members of the visiting delegations were called upon to stand up so they could be looked over, and attention was called to the fact that the Port Hope club, with a total on the roll of 29, had 24 members present, a statement that was greeted with applause. Later on in the evening it was announced that the Port Hope Club would be presented with an appropriate pennant in recognition of its fine representation at the meeting.

The Visiting Presidents.

President Thurber of Port Hope, called on for a speech, expressed the thanks of his club for the invitation to be present. It was no particularly noteworthy thing to have so many members on hand, he declared, for the folks in a small town were always glad to have a chance to see the bright lights of a bigger centre... a statement that was greeted with laughter, and an invitation from Edgar Haydon to come to Cobourg.

President Whattam of Oshawa on behalf of his club, voiced the thanks of his organization for the opportunity to meet the Rotarians of the district.

President Staples, Lindsay, expressed the appreciation of the Lindsay Club of the services of Rotarian W. R. Widdess, of Peterboro, in bringing Rotary before the people of Lindsay, and thus being responsible for the launching of the club. Rotarian Staples then delivered a most eloquent address upon the ideals of Rotary, his address being warmly appreciated.

President Haydon of Cobourg, thanked the Peterboro club for their invitation, and for their general kindness to Cobourg. The latter club had never called on Peterboro in vain, he declared, and then told the meeting of the campaign to secure four 100 per cent. meetings of his club.

Mr. Anthony Thorpe, of the R.C.H.A. Band, Kingston, and formerly of the British Symphony Orchestra, was heard to splendid advantage in a trombone solo, in which he demonstrated his absolute mastery of his difficult instrument, and his masterly playing was so enthusiastically applauded that an encore had to be given.

Amputated Limb of Nurse While Pinned Beneath Street Car

NEW YORK, October 16 (Canadian Press). — In the glare of a powerful Fire Department searchlight, two Knickerbocker Hospital physicians last night crawled under the street car at the corner of 115th Street and Broadway, and amputated the leg of Miss Alice O'Conner, a trained nurse, who, pinned beneath the front truck, was bleeding to death.

As the doctors worked, a priest administered the last rites of the Catholic Church, fearing the victim would not survive the ordeal.

Miss O'Conner, however, was taken to the hospital alive.

POLICE SUBDUE HUNGRY CROWD

Rioting in Berlin Suppressed Without Bloodshed — Shopkeepers in Leipzig Give Away Food

BERLIN, Oct. 16.— (United Press.)— Food riots brought frequent clashes between mobs and the police throughout the country today. Shots fired over the heads of a hundred hungry unemployed in the northern section of Berlin dispersed them without bloodshed in the suburb of Schoenberg.

The police had their bayonets prepared to charge when five hundred unemployed menaced the city hall in their demand for advance payments of the unemployed dole. Crowds broke into bakeries in Weisenstrasse, Thomasstrasse, and Hermanstrasse and looted them for bread.

The police in Hardt, according to despatches received here, were helpless against the hungry, pressing crowds and occupation troops had to be called out, using clubs and firing warning shots to clear the streets.

Police Were Menaced.

Timely arrest of the leaders prevented serious consequences from food riots in Koenigsborg, where police cordons were menaced. Frankford grain exchange closed after threats had been made against the grain operators.

As an example to the country President Ebert notified the treasurer he would relinquish all his expense money for October. His salary for this month was fixed at 150 millard marks, and his expenses were to be about four millard marks. His renunciation is considered to be a great sacrifice, as despite the free rent and other perquisites allowed the president, his income barely covers his needs.

Rioting is Renewed.

The demonstration in Berlin, authorities say, was led by Communistic agitators. Renewed food riots are reported from numerous points in Germany. A serious clash occurred in Mannheim, where one police sergeant and one demonstrator were killed. Leipsic continues to be a scene of renewed riotings and many of the shopkeepers chose to give away bread and oleomargarine in preference to having their premises looted.

LOCAL VETERANS TO HOLD A RALLY

Important rally meeting of G.W.V.A. will be held in the War Veterans' Hall on Friday evening, when W. D. Sharpe, Dominion president of the G.W.V.A. and C. G. MacNeill, Dominion Secretary-Treasurer of the G.W.V.A. will address the meeting.

All returned men of the city and district are urged to be present as this meeting is important.

STEAMER MAPLEBROOKE STRANDED ON A ROCK

PRESCOTT, Ont., Oct. 16.—The steamer Maplebrooke, a package freighter of the Canada Steamship lines, en route from Fort William to Montreal, Captain Beatty, of St. Catharines, is stranded in Swift River, one mile west of Dickenson's Landing. The tug Sarnia City and the lighter barge Brighton have been summoned from Prescott to assist in releasing the steamer.

DISTRICT ROTARIANS

Miss Isabel Donnelly was a very clever accompanist.

Rotarian Jack Primeau of Peterboro, contributed a monologue — "Why People Sleep in Church," that convulsed the meeting.

Dr. Sockman's address.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. Dr. R. W. Sockman of New York, whose kindness in remaining over in Peterboro for the occasion, was thoroughly appreciated.

Dr. Sockman's subject was "Man Power versus Horse Power," and his eloquence, bright flashes o. wit, and clear reasoning made his message a memorable one.

In beginning he contrasted the conditions one hundred years ago with those existing to-day, and pointed out that although man moved at a 60 mile an hour rate now as compared with 12 miles an hour a century ago, it was doubtful if he was any better of, or any happier, because of that fact; in fact it was just a question whether he was as happy. The problem, as the speaker saw it, was of control, of getting the quicker and speedier system of today into the right channel. Just as the houses of the old days were better built, constructed of more durable and better timber, it was to be feared that we were building lives to-day of less sturdy moral fibre than our grandfathers did.

There was no lack of idealism, but the difficulty lay in properly applying that idealism to the problems of the day. That was the condition in the United States Dr. Sockman declared and while in regard to international responsibilities other nations might regard America as being slow, the trouble lay not in lack of ideals but in the lack of knowledge of how best to apply them to the solution of the problem.

The speaker in conclusion urged the Rotarians feel that each could exercise an influence that would be felt that the whole spirit of a community or of a nation could be changed by the influence of a small group of men. Forest fires were fought by making clearings here and there over which the fires could not pass. International hostility could be checked in exactly the same way if in every country there were little clearings in the shape of groups promoting international friendship and regard which would check the surging fires of warfare. In that way rather than in Leagues of Nations, Dr. Sockman felt the peace of the world could be assured.

A most enthusiastic vote of thanks was tendered the speaker.

Musical Programme

His address was followed by a musical programme each number of which was enthusiastically received. The numbers were as follows:

Solo—"The Road to Mandalay,"—Rotarian Dave Brown, Oshawa.

Solo—"If I were a Rose,"—Rotarian A. Kimmell, Port Hope.

Solo—"The Vagabond" — Rotarian Jim Mackie, Lindsay, who sang as an encore "Give a Man a Horse."

Solo—"Carry Me Back to Old Virginia,"—Rotarian R. A. Browne of Peterboro, with chorus by the gathering.

Trombone Solo—Mr. Anthony Thorpe.

Rotarian Reg. Turner, chairman of the Inter-City Relationships Committee of the Peterboro Club, expressed the hearty thanks of his committee to the visiting Rotarians for the manner in which they had cooperated in the success of the evening.

The singing of "O Canada" brought a most enjoyable meeting to a close.

OFFICERS ELECTED DISTRICT MEETING

Anglican Young People Met in Millbrook For District Meeting.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 16.—At the district meeting of the local Council of the Anglican Young People's Association, held in Millbrook, the following officers were elected for the current year:

Honorary president — Miss J. Horsefield, St. John's church, Peterboro; President (re-elected) Miss Blanche Graham, Lakefield 1st vice-president, John Bent, Omemee; 2nd vice-president, Heber Rogers, St. Luke's church, Peterboro, secretary Miss Agnes Stout All Saints' church, Peterboro; Treasurer, Miss Gertrude Grey, Millbrook; Publicity Secretary Hubert Sills, St. John's church, Peterboro; Chaplain, Rev. Mr. Weir, Omemee.

The meeting at Millbrook was well attended about 85 members from the district being present. A discussion was carried on regarding rules for debating contests thoughout the winter. It was decided to hold the next district meeting at Omeemee, on November 1st.

INNOCENT IGNORANCE IS PLEA OF HALIFAX COLLECTOR IN COURT

Independent Audit of the City's Finances Discloses Discrepancies in Tax Collector's Books.

LARGE SUM MISSING.

HALIFAX, Oct. 16.—There was a vacant pew in Kaye Street Methodist Church Sunday morning which had not been vacant, rain or shine, for a quarter of a century. The venerable figure of Robert S. Theakston, City Collector for Halifax, was missing, and behind the absence of the Collector and the emptiness of the pew stood an event which has shaken Halifax harder than it has ever been shaken before, save and except by the harbor explosion of 1917.

Cash Gone—How Much?

Friday night, in the Supreme Court of the Province, a jury, after nearly four hours' deliberation, brought in a verdict of "guilty" against Robert Theakston, on the charge of embezzling $34,000 from the city of Halifax. Mr. Theakston, white-haired, seventy-six years of age, and a pillar in his church and community, is the first Halifax civic official to face criminal prosecution so far, but the City Clerk has been dismissed in a night, with three months' salary in lieu of any notice, the Secretary of the Board of Health has been dismissed, and a Grand Jury has returned a True Bill against Thomas Hayes, until recently Secretary of the Halifax Housing Commission, charging him with the theft of funds from that body.

How much Halifax has lost is not known. It may never be known. The $34,000 in the case of the convicted City Collector was more or less nominal. Rumor says, as rumor is very apt to say, that the top has only been scratched, that the city has lost over $2,000,000, spread over a long period.

What is established is that an independent audit of the Collector's books showed certain discrepancies.

The records appeared to be so chaotic that only an investigation into the payments of taxes by every taxpayer for the last twenty-five years could show how much the city is "out."

Why City Clerk Went.

The City Clerk was let out by the Finance Committee for having received money for lots in Camp Hill Cemetery, owned by the city, and failing to turn it over to the City Treasurer or account for it until the independent audit of the City Collector's books was made. The City Clerk, who, like the Collector, has been a long time in office, may have had too much to do and may have had no wrong intentions in retaining the payments. That can be argued out at the Council meeting which will deal with the recommendation of dismissal made by the Finance Committee.

The System.

As for the City Collector's system, it was beautifully simple. There wasn't any. It was testified at the trial that everybody in the Collector's office except the office boy received payments. Why he was overlooked was not explained. Halifax has a City Treasurer and a City Auditor, but the Collector, Robert S. Theakston, was the real Chancellor of the Exchequer, to whom taxes, fees, licenses and so forth were paid. His bills and receipt books were never locked up, everybody had access to them. They were not even put in the vault at night, but remained loose in the office. Other books enjoyed the security of a basket in the vault, to which everybody had access. The cash was kept in a box in the office by day. At night it was put in a safe.

How City Was Robbed.

The Crown's theory of the defalcations was that the Collector would accept cheques from large taxpayers and hold them, without giving credit in his books, depositing them later to cover up the totals of smaller cheques or cash which had been taken in as payments from lesser taxpayers and not turned in. W. F. Page, whose tax payments ran into four figures per annum, was one of the witnesses for the prosecution and proved conclusively by receipts and cancelled cheques that his taxes had been paid year after year. No credit has yet been found for them in the City's books. There was a dramatic moment when Mayor Murphy confronted the Collector with the man who had paid his taxes.

"Mr. Mayor, there was an arrangement," began the collector.

"Mr. Mayor," returned the tax payer, "that is a d—d lie."

Counsel for Mr. Theakston has given notice of appeal. The defence in a nutshell, was innocent ignorance. If there were defalcations the collector knew nothing about them. He was merely the victim of a loose and overgrown system which gave anybody access to the whole works.

The jury thought otherwise.

Who Got the Money?

Supposing, as the jury did, that the venerable Robert Theakston did take the money, what did he do with it? That is what Halifax is asking, and asking without getting an answer. There were no indications of "guilty spelndour" in Robert Theakston's well ordered life. Bangtails and bootlegging were alike far from his routine. Either someone else got the money and cut the pages out of Mr. Theakston's books so cleverly that the city auditor could not see that they were missing or the money has been taken to save someone.

How the Upheaval Came.

It is one of the ironies of fate that the exposure and its results have been largely brought about by the Halifax Herald and the Halifax Mail, and that Robert Theakston, upon whom the blow falls, was a lifelong friend of the late Senator Dennis, proprietor of both papers, and of Mr. W. H. Dennis, who has succeeded the Senattor in their management and operation.

The storm had been brewing for years. Arrears of taxes in Halifax amounted to millions. Heavy taxpayers were reported to be years behind. Some of these taxpayers denied these reports vehemently. Statements from the city auditors did not clear up the matter. It seemed impossible to really get the searchlight turned on the mystery.

The paper kept hammering for an administration that would clean up the situation. They have an unwritten law in Halifax which provides an alternation of Protestant and Roman Catholic mayors, each of whom usually gets a second term practically unopposed. Last year it was the Roman Catholic's turn. Mayor Murphy was elected. It was argued that nothing but an independent audit of the city's books would show the facts or falsities regarding the alleged tax arrears. Naturally the influences "in the know" opposed a lifting of the lid by outside hands. The city auditor had found nothing wrong year after year, and the city auditor was good enough for them.

A motion for an independent audit was presented in the council. Eight aldermen voted for it. Eight voted against it. "I declare the motion carried," announced Mayor Murphy. He had the casting vote.

So the lid has been lifted. The honest and well meant findings of the city auditor or his lack of findings, proved no more effectual towards the salvation of the money of the taxpayers of Halifax than the operations of the Bank Act have proved effectual towards the salvation of the money of the depositors and shareholders of the Home Bank. If the Halifax earthquake goes no further it has at least vindicated the theory of outside inspection.

PORT HOPE HAS A REAL HOLDUP MAN

PORT HOPE, Oct. 16.— A man named Mitchell entered the Ontario house yesterday, threatened the proprietor with a revolver and as a result of the hold-up secured a sum of $25. The man then commandeered a car and compelled the driver to convey him to Howard's farm, on the Peterborough road. Chief of Police John Brown quickly followed and found Mitchell in a house. He fired at him through the door and the man fled through a back window and made for the bush. Provincial police are hot on his trail.

A SMALL BOY KILLED STRUCK BY A TROLLEY

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 16. — (Canadian Press). — Archibald Redman, three years old, was run over and instantly killed by a street car on Sunday afternoon. Strangely enough, the motorman in charge of the car had had his own little child killed by an automobile a few weeks ago.

TEN DAY BRIDE QUITS HUSBAND WED IN HASTE

She Discovered He Was An Ironworker Out of Work, Not Manufacturer.

HE WAS LONELY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—After ten days of married life, which began with a runaway wedding with a man she "had never considered as a possible husband," Mrs. William McKinley Weller, formerly Miss Stephene Tichy, 18 years old, returned yesterday to her parents' home at 1,838 Woodhaven Avenue, Woodhaven, Queens. She was accompanied by her mother and her sister, Miss Bertha Tichy, and came from Cleveland. She had summarily departed during her husband's absence from the hotel.

"I soon learned that he was not an iron manufacturer but an iron worker ,and out of employment, at that," she declared. "I don't know where he is now, but I will soon find out and sue for dissolution of the marriage.

Weller's pathetic, tearful declarations before the marriage that he was misunderstood and lonesome and that he loved her deeply aroused her sympathies, Mrs. Weller said, and, without making any preparations she went with him on the first available train to Buffalo. That was on Oct. 2.

Mrs. Weller, who was a stenographer in Manhattan, was walking along Broadway near her downtown office, she related, when she encountrede Weller that day.

"I'd seen him occasionalyy when he used to live here in Woodhaven," she said, "but never during the five years I knew him did I consider him as a possible husband. He asked me to take a taxicab ride with him, and I consented. In the machine he broke down and cried, declaring that no one understood him, and that his life was unbearbly lonesome and that only I could help him. Protesting his love, he urged me to elope with him immediately.

"What he told me touched me, and I consented to go with him. I had little money and, without even stopping to go home and pack a grip we went to the Grand Central Station where he bought tickets for Buffalo. We took the first train we could get, but arrived in Buffalo so late that night that we were unable to secure a marriage license. We engaged separate rooms at a hotel, and the ceremony was performed the next day by a Justice of the Peace."

The days following, Mrs. Weller said, were spent at Niagara Falls, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

"Before the end of the second day I began to regret what I had done," she said. "He refused to give me money for really necessary clothes, and I soon learned that he was not an iron manufacturer, but an iron worker out of employment. I decided right then and there that this was no life for me, so soon after we reached Cleveland I telegraphed mother to come and take me home. The next day, yesterday, my mother and sister arrived. Will was out for a walk, and we left the hotel before he returned. I have neither seen nor heard from him since. Where he lives also is unknown to me. We didn't leave any message for him at the hotel, either."

MOUNT PLEASANT MAN PASSED MEDICAL EXAM.

Lawyers on Strike Against Taxation

PALERMO, Sicily, Oct. 12. — The lawyers of Caltanissetta are on strike, and no cases are being heard before the Prefectural or other courts because of the lack of counsel.

The lawyers protested against taxation imposed upon them for the exercise of their profession, and went on strike when satisfaction was refused by Royal Commissioner Masi.

LLOYD GEORGE TO SEE WILSON

Will Also Visit President Coolidge and Chief Justice Taft.

WASHINGTON, October 15. — Arrangements have been made to have Mr. Lloyd George during his stay in Washington, October 25 and 26, call on President Coolidge and former President Wilson, and visit Arlington Cemetery and Mount Vernon.

Soon after his arrival the former British Premier will go to the White House, where he will be a luncheon guest. Afterwards he will go to the home of Mr. Wilson, an hour and a half having been set aside for his visit there, and a subsequent call on Chief Justice Taft.

Arriving here on the morning of October 25th, Mr. Lloyd George will be met at the Union Station by Butler Wright, Third Assistant Secretary of State, and Henryy G. Chilton, Charge d'Affaires of the British Embassy. In the forenoon he is expected to visit Secretary Hughes at the State Department, and he will be the guest of honor that night at a dinner given by Secretary and Mrs. Hughes.

The forenoon of the second day will be given over to visits to Arlington and Mount Vernon, after which Mr. Lloyd George will be a luncheon guest of civic and trade organizations, and the Southern Society. Later in the day, at his request, he will call on Secretaries Weeks and Denby. He is expected also to meet informally Welsh residents of Washington and Baltimore at his hotel. In the evening he will be a dinner guest of Secretary Melton.

Accompanied by his wife and daughter and Secretary Weeks, Mr. Lloyd George will go by automobile to Gettysburg, October 27th, returning here in the evening to be the dinner guest of the Overseas Writers.

The arrangement for Mr. Lloyd George's stay here have been under the direction of Secretary Davis.

While Mr. Lloyd George is at the Executive Mansion his wife and daughter will be luncheon guests of Mrs. Davis, and they will be received at the White House by Mrs. Coolidge, while the former Premier is at Mr. Wilson's home.

Mr. Lloyd George will come to Washington from Pittsburg, and will go from this city to Richmond, Va.

DEFEND KILLING SOCIALISTS

Japanese Police Say They had to Slay 14 to Preserve Order.

TOKIO, October 15. — The killing of fourteen labor leaders and Socialists by cavalry troops at the Kameido police station on September 3 and 4 was justifiable, according to official reports of the gendarmerie, and the metropolitan police.

The reports say that the labor leaders and Socialists after being arrested defied the martial law regulations and sang revolutionary songs, and that the soldiers were compelled to kill the men to restore order.

It was stated to-day that 400 persons were under arrest as a result of disorders following the earthquake.

STORY OF THE BANK HOLD-UP AND MURDER

Told Again in Court At Opening of the Trial of Murrell And Slim Williams.

PRISONERS CHAINED

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press).—To a courtroom crowded with spectators which included a lengthy list of rejected talesmen and members of the London Bar, the story of the Melbourne Bank holdup and the murder of Russell Campbell on April 11, 1921, was told again at the opening of the trial yesterday of Sidney Ernest Murrell and Henry Jack ('Slim') Williams, in the questioning and cross-questioning of the opposing lawyers of Sidney Ernest Murrell and Henry Jack ('Slim') Williams, otherwise known as William Henry Vaughan, in the initial fall sitting of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

It was a familiar and; in its way, a noted cast that rose to its feet as Supreme Court Justice W. H. Wright of Owen Sound, recently appointed jurist, briskly entered the courtroom at two o'clock to call to trial two men, one of whom especially has gained international fame through his participation in the Home Bank affair at Melbourne. It made too great a crowd nervous and restless, seemingly all out of place in that high ceilinged chamber flooded with streams of sunlight.

Before the bench, slightly to the right, sat T. C. Rigney, K.C., of Kingston, Crown Prosecutor, behind whom was seated Crown Attorney J. C. Elliott, K.C., assisting in the task of submitting the evidence which is calculated to prove that the prisoners are guilty of the capital crime of murder. Directly in front of the Judge was J. M. Donahue, who is conducting the case for the prisoners.

In the centre of the court-room in a small enclosure set aside for prisoners at the bar of justice, sat Murrell and his companion,Williams. They were handcuffed and chained together and surrounded on every hand with heavily armed constables entrusted with their safe keeping. The two men, each the direct opposite of the other so far as physical make-up is concerned, displayed considerable interest in the proceedings, but neither seem to feel their position as being in the shadow of the gallows.

Mute and Silent.

For hours they sat mute and silent, their eyes roving in the direction of the talesmen, from among whom a jury was finally chosen, and later their attention was directed to the testimony of witnesses, who told once more the events surrounding the shooting of Campbell.

Though Williams and Murrell were not the best of friends prior to the escape of the Murrell brothers from jail two years ago, old animosities were apparently forgotten, for they conversed in whispers while the evidence was being recorded.

Murrell seemed imbued with a spirit of courage probably imparted through the presence of his mother, who sat but a few feet away, and with whom he had converse for one-half hour before the commencement of the trial. Physically the larger of the two, Murrell looked a tower of strength beside his emaciated companion, Williams. His interest in the proceedings seemed intense. Twice after whispered conversations with Williams, he laughed. Williams on each occasion returned only a forlorn smile.

No time was lost in preliminaries. Both prisoners having been committed for trial in the Fall Assizes of 1921, the Grand Jury were not asked to again decide whether or not they should be placed on trial, and, after an address by the Judge, they were asked to make an inspection of the jail and county buildings.

J. M. Donahue, counsel for the accused, promptly asked for separate trials for the prisoners, quoting as a precedent the case of Hotrum and McPhadden in Toronto last year. T. C. Rigney, Crown Prosecutor, rose in opposition, stating that both prisoners were in the same legal status. Justice Wright did not decide upon the point but ordered the trial to proceed for the present.

Then the selection of the petit jury was begun. From among the 48 talesmen subpoened, five were absent. Of the remainder 10 jurors were selected, defence counsel challenging 15 on behalf of Murrell and 14 for Williams. The Crown challenged four. On the first roll call, nine jurors were selected, but one was added when the challenged veniremen were again called, the defence failing to challenge all which it had formerly rejected.

In the second panel 12 men were verbally summoned by the Sheriff, Donald Graham. Three only were left when the three remaining members of the jury had been chosen. The defence exhausted its allocation of 20 challenges for each of the prisoners, the Crown having already gone the limit before the first panel had been discharged.

Case For Crown.

The members of the jury had no sooner been sworn that T. C. Rigney opened the case for the Crown with an address to the 12 "Good and True" men assembled. He asserted that there would be evidence produced to prove that the prisoners at the bar of the court were guilty of the charge for which they stood in-

Married In Jail When Eridegroom Got Into Trouble

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.— (Canadian Press.)— When Detective Jean Tissot arrested Athaniase Beauchamp of Hull, yesterday morning, he unintentionally upset Beauchamp's marriage arrangements; but Beauchamp's fiancee, Miss Blanche Godin, decided that an obstacle such as her husband-to-be being in jail could easily be overcome, with the result that they were married yesterday afternoon.

Beauchamp was arrested on a charge of stealing bicycles and in court pleaded guilty. He was remanded a week for sentence.

He was, however, granted permission to go to the church under police escort, returning to the lock-up after the marital knot had been tied.

FOR PROPOSED COBALT LINES

Engineers Commence To Survey Trial Lines in The North.

COBALT, Ont., October 16. — This week engineers who have been engaged in survey work on the James Bay Railway, commenced the survey of trail lines for the proposed new railway to the South Lorrain camp from Cobalt.

It is understood construction of the line will be gone ahead with shortly after the survey has been completed. Three routes are under consideration, but the one favoured by mining men and engineers at the present time is by way of Cassidy Siding, south of Cobalt, following along the Montreal River, where a large area of a promising geological nature would be traversed.

Mr. George W. Lee, chairman of the T. and N. O. Railway Commission, gave out the following statement:

"The mining progress in the South Lorrain silver field has for some time engaged our attention, and we have kept the really remarkable developments there under close observation. Acting under instructions from the Hon. Mr. Ferguson, the Commission is surveying the field, so that it will have before it the best route, estimated costs and other information, should it be decided at any time to proceed with the construction of a railway branch to serve South Lorrain and the favourable country contiguous to Cobalt.

"Three routes leading from Cobalt Station will be surveyed, one from North Cobalt, following the general line of the motor road, one extending the Kerr Lake branch, and one leaving the main line at Cassidy, three miles south of Cobalt Station.

"Because of its engineering features and the geological formation of the country that would be traversed, the Commission is at this moment inclined to favour the route from Cobalt via Cassidy. But the whole subject will be thoroughly examined before a decision is made. No information respecting the construction of the railway branch, which would be between 20 and 21 miles long, can be given just yet."

It is estimated the line would cost some $700,000 to build, and the main purpose to be served is the development of the South Lorrain and the Gillies Limit silver fields, which would permit of the use of Cobalt mills for the treatment of milling ore from these fields.

THE PROVINCE WILL DEPOSIT OVER MILLION

As Evidence of Its Faith in the Dominion Bank — Statement From Montreal.

SAYS BANK SOUND

TORONTO, October 16 (Canadian Press). — As tangible evidence of its faith in the Dominion Bank, the Provincial Government is depositing a million and a half dollars of Provincial funds with that institution this morning.

The following brief statement was issued by Premier Ferguson on the subject late last night:

"We have every confidence in the soundness of the Dominion Bank and its ability to take care of the situation, and, as evidence of that, we propose to-morrow morning to place on deposit with the Dominion Bank a million and a half dollars."

The following statement was made last night by Sir Frederick Williams Taylor, of Montreal, the president of the Canadian Bankers' Association:

"The Canadian Bankers' Association feels satisfied that the Dominion Bank is in an absolutely sound and strong position, and able to meet without difficulty all demands likely to be made upon it, and I know that all the other banks comprising the Association would, without doubt, stand behind the Dominion Bank if it were necessary.

FLOGGER GETS TWO YEARS.

Alleged Texas Klansman Found Guilty of Whitecapping.

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 16.—T. W. Stanford, alleged Ku Klux Klansman, has been found guilty of a charge of whitecapping in connection with the recent flogging of E. T. McDonald here and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Defence counsel filed a motion for a new trial. The State charged that Stanford was the leader of a band of masked men who first ordered McDonald to leave Amarillo and later flogged him.

The verdict of guilty was based on the third count of the indictment, the jury reported. This involved the wearing of alleged Ku Klux Klan robes by the men, which, the jury held, constituted a threat within itself.

PRODUCE HERE HIGH GRADE OF DOMESTIC FUEL

Encouraging Progress As To Feasibility of Canadian-Made Coke For Anthracite Substitute.

EQUALS HARD COAL

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.— (Canadian Press.)— Encouraging progress has been made in the investigation regarding the feasibility of producing a high grade domestic fuel in Canada from by-product coke ovens, it was announced yesterday by Hon. Chas. Stewart, Minister of the Interior and of Mines. The investigation has been carried on during the past summer under the Dominion Fuel Board by J. L. Landt, a coke-oven expert with wide experience on the American continent.

Mr. Landt's survey was confined to the acute fuel area of Ontario and Quebec and a detailed investigation made of the possibilties at Port Colborne, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec. He states that it has

Miss Allen's TESTED RECIPES No. 5

Potatoes Sautees (Omelet Form)

(The recipe of Monsieur Filippini, former chef of Delmonico's, simplified for home use)

Peel six medium-sized potatoes, slice them into rather thin, equal slices. Heat in a frying pan one and a half tablespoons melted Crisco. Season with one teaspoon salt and two saltspoons white pepper. Gently toss the potatoes once in a while, cooking for seven minutes on a brisk fire, then give them an omelet form; cook them for four minutes longer, or until they obtain a good golden color. Dress on a hot dish and serve.

SHOULD BE CURBED.

The practical joker whose idea of fun is to send in a false alarm of fire is a rather dangerous individual, and it is to be hoped that Peterborough's representative in this class who has been operating recently will soon have a chance to explain to the Magistrate just where the humour comes in.

Calling out the Fire Department needlessly was never a joke. It was hard on the horses in the old days, and now that motor apparatus has largely succeeded "Old Dobbin," there is a greater element of danger in every run that the brigade has to take.

A huge motor truck travelling at 40 miles an hour is a constant threat to the safety of the public and the firemen themselves, for it is not difficult to imagine an accident occurring with a vehicle moving at that speed.

In the course of duty, answering a legitimate call the fire laddies cheerfully take their chances.

It's all in the day's work.

But they should not be expected to imperil their safety for a false alarm, a prank on the part of some misguided citizen who has a distorted conception of what constitutes fun.

The offender should stop and consider just what is involved in the sending in of a false alarm.

CANADA'S SUCCESS.

The success of Canada at the National Dairy Show at Syracuse, N. Y., is another evidence of the fact that the dairying industry in this country is experiencing a wonderful development.

With Ontario sweeping the boards in Jerseys and Holsteins and Quebec first in Ayrshires, the Canadian triumph across the line was well nigh complete, and the livestock of the Dominion will have a world reputation enhanced as a result of this remarkable showing.

Gone are the days in Canada when farmers kept herds that were of nondescript variety, many of the cows as a contemporary puts it, merely boarders whose production did not pay for their keep.

Dairying has made vast strides since then, and the farmers want stock that has breeding and can produce the required results.

That this stock is being obtained the victory won at Syracuse affords eloquent testimony.

That spectacular success will be a stimulus to the dairy farmers of the Dominion to be even more careful in their selection and breeding of stock, for it represents a milestone in the dairying industry in this country.

The significance of the feat will not be lost upon the farmers of Canada.

ELECTION DATES.

The annual question of holding municipal elections early in December instead of on New Year's Day is being discussed by a number of municipalities, some of whom propose to submit a bylaw to the ratepayers asking for their opinion of a change.

New Year's Day, which ought to be an ideal election day, has undoubtedly proved to be quite the reverse.

The idea that the electors on a holiday would have nothing to do but register their vote has not worked out at all, and there has been in most municipalities a very low percentage of votes polled on that day.

Whether a December date would produce any better results is problematical.

The cause of the apathy in regard to the use of the franchise apparently lies deeper than in a mere question of dates.

The indifference of the electors exists and is to be regretted, but the cure will have to be found elsewhere than along the lines that are being tried out.

Here in Peterborough we suffer from the same apathy that is to be found elsewhere, but there seems little reason to hope that the problem would be solved by the simple expedient of switching election day from New Year's to early in the preceeding month.

PROF. REYNOLDS' VIEW.

Prof. Reynolds, head of the O.A.C., was in London addressing the Kiwanis Club. The members liked the way he said things better than the things he said, for it is a fact that the Guelph man does not tell city men they are the salt of the earth. His business is agriculture, and it is the case of the farmer that he handles.

If one were to sift things down to a final analysis it would be found that Prof. Reynolds believes that the balance between city and farm working and trading conditions has been swung so far from an even break that the farmers must aim to make themselves more self-contained; that they must buy less and to a greater degree revert to semi-pioneer conditions. The effect will perhaps be to hurt town and city people who look to the farming community to keep them going by buying from them.

That, at least, is the impression gathered from Prof. Reynolds' talk. This business of making the farmer more self-contained will, in the end, force recognition of the fact that the farmer is at the bottom of our economic elation or depression, and when that is accomplished, he may be able to start his trading with city people on a larger scale, but on a more equitable basis.

The O.A.C. head has a way of teaching farm economics that is interesting because he puts to one side academic phrases and arguments. He speaks in terms of wheat, oats, butter and hay; this is the language of the farm, and the vocabulary of the city is written by him in seed drills, binders and plows.

He puts the whole thing not on the basis of dollars, but on the basis of trading pounds of butter for a manure spreader.

It takes as much feed, pasture, care and work to get the cream to make butter in 1923 as it did ten years ago. The farm and those on it have to put forth just as big a productive effort to make ten pounds of butter now as they did in 1914.

So on the basis of productive effort, which in one word means labor, Prof. Reynolds presents the claim that whereas a farmer in 1914 could trade 430 pounds of butter for a manure spreader, in 1921 he had to produce 840 pounds of butter for the same machine. In other words, in carrying out his end of the bargain he had to almost duplicate the drain on his energy and resources as compared to 1914.

Nor does he stop there—he takes hay, beef, potatoes, pork, wheat, oats, or anything else that represents the power of the farmer to buy.

Oats—A seed drill is used to plant the crop. In 1914 a farmer could trade 166 bushels for the machine; in 1921 it took 416 bushels.

Wheat—A binder is used to harvest it; in 1914 the farmer took to town 133 bushels and brought home the implement; in 1921 he had to take 200 bushels, and today a great deal more than that.

Pork—A plow is used to turn over the ground to grow feed. In 1914 he took to town 744 pounds of pork for a gang plow; in 1921 he had to part with 1,200 pounds.

Potatoes—In 1914 the farmer tied up 39 bags and he had a cultivator; in 1921 he had to part with 136 bags.

Beef—In 1914 700 pounds of beef from the farm enabled the farmer to have a mower; if he bought in 1921 he had to provide 1,550 pounds.

Hay—In 1914 if a farmer sold 3.6 tons he had a hay loader; in 1921 he would have had to sell eight tons.

Having established his ground, Prof. Reynolds says the farmer cannot keep on trading on this basis, and stay in business. Therefore he must pull more within his own shell, grow his own living, and in this way retain more of his labor effort in the way of cash return. Prof. Reynolds admits that he is open to be shown a better way out, and is also willing to own up that he is advancing a rather drastic doctrine. He believes, though, that the present situation in Ontario farming warrants the action, so that it may be demonstrated that farming is our basic industry. His theory has at least the value of being a positive suggestion.—London Advertiser.

THE PREFERENCE BATTLE IN BRITAIN.

It looks as if the British farmer were co-operating with the Australian Prime Minister in his policy of subsidies to agriculture. A strong delegation of farmers from all parts of Great Britain, called Premier Baldwin away from the conferences to tell him a tragic tale of the terrible fate awaiting British agriculture unless something was done for it at once. What they ask is "assistance"; and "assistance" probably means subsidies. This is precisely what Premier Bruce urges with an eye to getting help for some nascent enterprises in Australia.

Mr. Graham took the proper stand for Canada. He said that it would be very unfair to ask the burdened British taxpayers to subsidize Canadian agriculture. If the Canadian farmer had to be subsidized, we would do it ourselves. The only thing that could really help us would be tariff preferences, and tariff preferences on foodstuffs appear politically impossible in Great Britain.

The British Liberals have already seized upon the fragmentary and nebulous preferences proposed by the British Government as an excuse for raising the battle-torn flag of Free Trade. It gives them a cry which they have sadly lacked. Whether Free Trade has still sufficient vitality after the war—and in the face of what are facetiously called "peace conditions" in Europe—to win another electoral fight, may be dubious. Many a British industry will want protection against cheap Continental competition. There will no longer be the old industrial solidity behind Cobdenism. But the traditional battle-cry will put needed heart into the Liberals; and the powerful trading, transportation and financial interests of the Mother Country will line up in its support.

Certainly serious food taxes would have a hard time of it in Great Britain, even now. If some of the manufacturers want protection, they also want cheap food for their workmen. To tie protective industrial duties up to food taxes, is not to strengthen their appeal to the people; and if that is to be the tactics of the preferentialists, they may find that they have put a deadly weapon into the hands of their opponents.

* * * *

The principle of preferences has an attractive appearance. It looks as if a diversified Empire like ours might easily be made self-sustaining. But it will never win its way by trying to force upon any unit in the Empire a policy which its people regard as injurious. Each contribution to its construction must be wholly voluntary. That is the Canadian attitude; and it is the right attitude. We in Canada would never consent to the sacrifice of a single native industry in ordre that a British industry could enjoy our market.

The question whether a preference on Colonial foodstuffs would actually raise their prices in Great Britain has been long debated. Many insist that the Overseas supply would be so abundant that there would be no increase at all. But the British voter is the final judge of this question; and, unfortunately, he must give his judgment before he can see it in operation. So he is likely to be prejudiced against the argument of the preferentialists, especially with the Free Traders telling him every day that "his food will cost him more."

It would look at this distance, and with our experience in Canada, as if Protection would stand a better chance if presented to the British people, naked and unashamed. Then it could be argued that it was intended to keep work in Britain for the British mechanic, that this meant higher and steadier wages, and more money to buy food. It is much more effective to offer the people a positive benefit than to debate with them whether or not a proposed policy may inflict on them a loss.—Montreal Star.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 16. — The approaching lateness of the season probably is responsibue for the heavy run of cattle on the market yesterday. While the present prolonged spell of fine weather has been favourable for keeping cattle out to pasture the certainty that there must be a break to semi-winter conditions before very long, is a factor in deciding many farmers to market their cattle without further delay.

Almost any day now may see many farmers with stocks of unfinished cattle on their hands, with no stabling facilities for feeding them. Apparently these cattle are now being almost rushed to market.

The result was another heavy run of about 7,000 cattle for yesterday's market, including a large proportion of unfinished. For the well finished, good quality butcher steers and heifers, there was a good demand at prices steady to firm with last week.

There was a fair but limited demand for heavy finished steers for export beef trade, as well as for export on the hoof. Prices for heavy steers were steady around $7.35, a few extra choice at $7.50.

In the strictly butchers' section, prices ranged from $5.80 to $6.25, extra choice selected at $6.50. Fair to medium qualities around $5.00 to $5.50, but market slow. Common cattle about steady, but slow. Fat cows steady from $4.00 to $4.50, best, and $3.50 to $3.75 common.

Export bulls steady, calves easier, and lambs easier.

ENMITY KEEPS SOULS FROM GOD

Christians Should Help By Love to Promote Work of Christ Among Men.

SERMON AT ZION.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 15.—The anniversary services of the Zion Methodist church were held on Sunday afternoon and evening Rev. H. Wilkinson of Pontypool, preaching the sermons for the occasion, his thoughful discourses being much appreciated by the congregations. Mr. Wilkinson had charge of the morning service in the Methodist church, Millbrook, exchanging with Rev. Mr. Tucker who took the work on the Pontypool circuit for the day.

By request of the church officials the organist and some of the choir members from Millbrook furnished the music for the Zion anniversary, Miss Ethel Richardson presiding at the organ here in the evening in Miss Hetherington's absence and Rev. J. Wilks taking the service. The special numbers given by the choir included a solo and quartette, "The Beacon Light," by Mr. P. Stinson, Miss May Byam, Messrs. J. L. Byam and F. N. Alcorn, the latter taking the solo part, a solo, "Somebody's here with an aching heart" by Miss Phylis Richards, and two quartettes, "The Wonderful Story," and "The Story of the Cross", Miss Richards singing the obligato in the last selection. The choir, whose services were much appreciated, were warmly thanked by the trustees board of the church for their assistance, and were most hospitably entertained during the hours between the afternoon and evening services at the home of some of the leading members at the Zion appointment.

Good Neighbors.

Rev. Mr. Wilkinson choose as the subject for his first sermon, "The Need of Good Neighbors," taking his text from St. Mark 2:3, "Borne of four." Not the most important words in the verse but possibly the most practical, the speaker said, and urged his hearer, after giving a brief outline of the incident with which the text is connected, to try and realize that it was an event which actually happened, and not merely ancient history to be read about without being recognized as a living fact. The unseemly interruption which came as Christ was preaching the Word, possibly in Peter's house which was so crowded that "there was no room to receive them, no not so much as about the door", did not disturb the Master nor rouse in Him feelings of annoyance, unwelcome as a similar occurrence probably would be to most present day preachers. He came to respond to just such acts of faith as this, and as the roof was opened and God's sunlight streamed through to be immediately darkened again as the burden of suffering humanity was laid at His feet, there was an answering joy in Christ's heart as he looked up to catch the gleam of faith in the eyes of the four friends and down to see the inarticulate cry of need and pain upon the bed before Him. It is important to remember that there were Pharisees, scribes, and doctors of the law sitting by, and that this was the first time in His public ministry when Christ had plainly stated His mission and His message before the leading teachers of the nation. The tragedy of it all was that they hardened their hearts in unbelief, making indignant protest and criticism of His words and action, and there is always that danger that we refuse to recognize Truth when we see it.

Enmity A Barrier.

It actually happens that the need and healing of a soul today calls forth, too often, not feelings of loving helpfulness, but of harsh and unkindly criticism. The mystery of conversion is indeed unexplainable but is nevertheless a matter of absolute individual knowledge. The man of the story would have received healing neither of soul or body but for his good neighbors, and even their faith without determination would have failed of the coveted result. The church today suffers for lack of just such helpers the sad fact being the personal enmity on the part of church members, though they may be unconscious of the evil they are doing, is keeping some souls out of the Kingdom and out of the church. A slight act may hinder and a single kind word may help, and for the sake of God and His church, for the sake of sin-sick souls, who will never be brought to Christ unless His followers help Christians must crowd self out and swallow hard feelings. It is the greatest triumph of the power of Christ that He enables human nature to pass through wrongs, disappointments, and neglects without permitting them to harden the heart, or dim the shining of His love.

Personal Mention.

Mr. G. Bothwell, of the 7th Line, Cavan, was a recent visitor to Toronto bringing home with him an imported Welsh pony for the use of his children which the latter are finding a source of much pleasure as well as usefulness.

The many friends of Miss Annie Kells will regret to learn that while visiting at the home of her niece, Mrs. (Dr.) Brand, of Toronto, she was taken seriously ill and was obliged to undergo an operation at the General Hospital last Thursday. Miss Kells is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Miss Mary Kells is in Toronto with Mrs. Brand.

Mrs. E. W. Lamprey, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. T. B. Collins, Millbrook, and her brother, Mr. W. Collins, at Kitchener, during the past two months, left for her home in Vancouver, B.C. last week, her sister, Miss Mamie Collins, accompanying her as far as Toronto on her return journey.

Miss May O'Brian is visiting her cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Lugsdin and Miss M. O'Brian, at Buffalo, going on Monday.

A special meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church will be held at the home of Mrs. R. H. Edmund on Saturday evening, October 20, to complete arrangements for the same of home-made baking, candy, etc. which the Aid intends holding on Saturday, October 27, beginning at 3 p.m. The place has not yet been decided upon.

The anniversary services of the Methodist church, Millbrook, will be held on Sunday, October 21, Rev. Dr. S. W Fallis, of the Methodist Book and Publishing House, Toronto, being the preached for the day. The annual thankoffering will be taken up, the trustees this year making an appeal for $600. Special music will be furnished by the choir.

The many friends of Mr. Allen Pitt will be glad to learn that his is convalescng favorably after the operaton for appendcitis which he underwent at Dr. Turner's private hospital last week.

Mr. T. J. Lang has purchased Miss Faith Aiken's handsome and comfortable residence on King street east, and will take possession in the near future. Miss Aiken expects to spend the winter her cousin, Mrs. J. K. Moore, Peterboro, and with Mrs. Johnston at Manvers Station.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Darling, of Peterboro, were guests of Mrs. E. S. Burnham on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Watts, Peterboro were visitors in town on Saturday.

Mission Services.

In connection with the arrangements, now completed, for holding a mission in practically every parish in the Toronto diocese during this week, Rev. Canon Vernon, of Toronto, will be the speaker at St. Thomos church, Millbrook, the services being announced for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings with celebration of Holy Communion on Thursday morning. The services are open to the general public and will doubtless prove of deep spiritual significance to all who are privileged to attend. Rev. Canon Vernon will be the guest of Rev. Canon ond Mrs. Allen during his stay here. The mission services will be held at St. John's church, Ida, on Monday evening, and at Christ church, Bailieboro, on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

PETERBORO DISTRICT YOUNG FOLKS MEET IN VILLAGE MILLBROOK

Disappointment That Many Leagues Were Not Represented — Inspiring Address By the President and Musical Interludes.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 6. — The Young Peoples' League convention for Peterboro district was held in the Methodist church, Millbrook, on Friday, October 12, the afternoon session beginning at 2 p.m., Mr. J. Kennett, president of Trinity church League, Peterboro, and also district president, being in the chair. A number of delegates from Peterboro and other outside points were in attendance, though there was considerable disappointment that many Leagues were not represented. However, the president's mssage in his opening address, with its leading thoughts grouped round the word, "Concentrate," was most inspiring and could not fail to impress itself upon the gatehring speecially as the motto, in letters a foot high, was placed in a conspicious position at the front of the church and repeatedly referred to by the various speakers throughout the convention.

Mr .Kennett emphasized the fact that "as a gathering of earnest young people we are open for blessing, open for a fresh start in a new year, and open to be built up spiritually, with the interest of the Kingdom very close at heart."

Excellent Suggestions.

Many excellent suggestions in the different departments of League work were given in the ten-minute addresses which followed the devotional period, during which Rev. S. T. Tucker, pastor of the convention church, Rev. R. T. Richards, of Cavanville, and Mr. A. H. Monk, of Bethany led in prayer, Rev. E. Hibbard, of Chentu, China, who represented the district "on the firing-line" being particularly remembered in his work in connection with the Chinese Mission Press. Mr. F. N. Alcorn, Millbrook, spoke on the Christian Fellowship department, Miss Greta Giles, of Trinity League on "Missions in the League", Mr. Monk, of Bethany, on the Social and Literary Department. George Street League was responsible for the Citizenship Department but failed to send a representative.

An earnest and thoughtful address on, "Why are we here?" by Rev. R. M. Paterson, of Fraserville, gave the convention a good start, and the three minute reports from the Leagues which had delegates present were most encouraging. "It is required in stewards that a man be found faithful", is Paul's uncomprising statement, and this was splendidly exemplified by Rev. A. J. Langford, of Peterboro, in his address on the subject of "Stewardship" which occupied thirty minutes and could easily have been extended over a much longer period without wearying the listeners. The first thought which comes with the subject, the speaker said, is "Then I'm not my own boss", and immediately afterward, "God, Creator of the world, and of man", hence rightfully claiming ownership. "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein," and to His people He has said, "Occupy till I come."

Self, Substance, Service.

Mr. Langford developed his subject under the three headings of "Self, Substance, and Service", and gave illuminating instances of how God is actually robbed because His claims are not recognized. How many Christians ask themselves, "Do I repel others, or am I endeavoring to make my personality attractive for the sake of winning others for the glory of God?" "Present your bodies a living sacrifice", is a legitimate demand because, as Esekiel was instructed to make plain to Israel, "Behold, all souls are Mine," saith the Lord. Rather startling points were brought out under the heading, "Substance" which includes, property, income, wages, money; money alone is not the whole of what one owes to God, neither is it "filthy lucre"—if it is "better cleanse the filth out of it and have it baptized into a new service.." Money, wages fairly earned, are a stored-up part of the man himself, representing his brain, and blood, and muscle.

Perils beset the pathway. Use or lose entrusted possessions, is a stern truth, and justly works out in the terse statement, "Three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves." Embezzlement, misappropriation of trust funds—"can this be true of any of us?" Malachi's searching question, "Will a man rob God?" goes to the root of the matter. Less than two per cent of the income of Christian people is contributed toward the work of the Kingdom; does not this mean that there is a withholding of a part of the return we ought to make to the Master? Covetousness, "the sin we are afraid to mention", is included by Paul in a list of the most fearful crimes in which human nature is capable, and this is it which leads us to spend in self-indulgence what really belongs to God. It is one of the things wrong with the Christian church today for holiness which isn't practical isn't holiness at all.

Tithing, which is the proportion recognized in the Judaic church and by other outside peoples as well, will receive no blessing if the motive behind it is simply because of the rich reward promised to those who "honor the Lord with their substance." Systematic and proportionate giving from an unselfish motive, rather than the too prevalent hap-hazard method of financing the Lord's business, is the Scriptural way, "tithes and offerings" covering the Master's just claim.

Service is the practical outcome of recognizing God's demands, and there is grave danger that we fail Him here for service withheld means a failure in stewardship.

The round table conference which concluded the afternoon session brought out many excellent suggestions among them being the fact that stewardship, which has always been a part of the League's programme, is not being stressed as it should be by the young people. Rev. R. T. Richards dismissed the gathering with the benediction.

Tea Was Served.

Tea was served to all comers, in the basement of the church, by the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary and a pleasant social hour was spent before the hour for the opening evening session arrived. Promptly at 7.30 p.m. the chairman of the district, Rev. S. T. Tucker, took the chair and conducted the devotional exercises, after which Rev. R. M. Paterson, district secretary of Religious Education, read the report of the nominating committee which was as follows:

Resolved that the standard of stewardship be emphasized more in our Leagues in view of the excellent manner in which this subject has been set forth before the district Leaguers by Rev. A. J. Langford at this convention.

Resolved that the district Leagues remember their missionary, Rev. E. Hibbard, with a Christmas gift this year following the precedent set at the convention held in Peterboro one year ago.

Officers Elected.

The officers for the new year are: President, Mr. F. N. Alcorn, Millbrook, secretary, (appointed by Conference), Rev. R. M. Paterson, Fraserville; treasurer, Mrs. S. R. Nichols, Bailieboro; 1st vice-president, Miss Greta Giles, Peterboro; 2nd vice-president, Mrs A. H. Monk, Bethany; 3rd vice-president, Mr. E. Rowe, Peterboro; 4th vice-president, Mrs. S. E. Higgins, Lakefield; 5th vice-president (two departments), Superintendent of Girls' Work, Miss Pearl Burnham, Millbrook; Superintendent of Boys' Work, Mr. P. C. Brown, Bethany; Conference Representative, Mr. J. Kennet, Peterboro.

The new officers were called to the altar, introduced by the chairman of the district and a short consecration service held, brief addresses being made by the retiring president and the one just assuming office. Rev. Mr. Tucker led in prayer.

Young Folks Challenge.

A chorus by three boys Walter Sayles, Nelles and Lawrence Rowland, entitled, "Sowing", was followed by an address, "Canada's Challenge to her Young People," by Rev. R. T. Richards. That the time in which we are living make the challenge of tremendous importance, directing it toward the physical, intellectual and spiritual development of the young life of Canada today, demanding that they pattern after the Man of Nazareth if the nation is to be characterized by purity and strength, was clearly brought out as the speaker unfolded his subject from these three standpoints.

The burden of citizenship will fall shortly upon the young people being trained in our Leagues ,and kindred Societies, and a "strong mind in a strong body" is a valuable asset in rounding out the life to the completion of whatever God may lay upon it. The tendency of the age is for young people to burn the candle at both ends, to disregard the fact that too much recreation becomes a desecration of the human temple unfitting it for the duties of the day which follows. Conserve the physical—it is of far more value than the material resources of the Dominion.

Intellectual Urges.

The intellectual challenge urges the thought that over much reading tends to lessen the thinking processes—the danger to the national status is obvious. Again the tendency with young people is to covet a short cut to success—they want to reach the end of the ladder without the effort of climbing the rungs. God takes six months to grow a cabbage, and about three hundred years far an oak tree and we have a false estimation of life when, lured by the many advertisements promising and easy and abbreviated road to knowledge, and over estimating our own brain power, we grasp at an achievement of the impossible. True, all men do not achieve the things to which they are entitled, but growth accompanies the effort and results in an enriched manhood, and enriched nationhood.

Canada will signally fail as a nation unless her people learn to put the emphasis not on the material, and so be bound by the "tryanny of things," but where the Master put it when He said, "Seek first the Kingdom of God", and all other things will be added unto you." Attempting to add the Kingdom as a sort of appendix after the "things" have been given first place, is not God's plan and must end in failure.

Rev. W .E. Morgan.

A quartette, "The Wonderful Story," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mrs. Irwin Hatherly, Messrs. J. L Byam and F. N. Alcorn was enjoyed while the offering was being taken up and the chairman then introduced Rev. E. W. Morgan, of Foo Joo West China, who was given a hearty handclap as he came to the platform. Mr. Morgan's first request was that the Leaguers would take down the address of their missionary, Rev. E. Hibbard and make it a point to write him a Christmas letter. He knew from personal experience how much letters from friends at home are appreciated when "you are two thousand miles, and more, away." It helps the missionary to stand up to his task a little better and brings a choked feeling in the throat, "but people don't die of that, you know." As a boy, Mr. Morgan said he could remember his father teaming wheat from their home at Omemee to Millbrook and so felt he had more than a passing interest in this locality.

The bigness of the church's programme had impressed the speaker since his return to Canada, and the evident placing of the emphasis on the spiritual side so that, as the union is consummated, the people will be fused into a white heat of revival spirit. Mr. Morgan has an intense belief in the importance of missions "especially as we see the need of the masses written in blood every time we step out of our door. It drags on us." The real hope of the Empire lies in the young, educated, Chinese Christians who are a small but growing power, and the missionary enterprise is playing an immensely important part in giving direction to the happenings in China today. Truths vital to a true democracy are being taught and the speaker said his heart had been cheered by hearing a Chinese convert refer to "our Church" when addressing a large audience. A few years ago it was "the foreigner's church" and frequently the adjective, "detested" preceded the word foreigner. But the middle wall of national feeling breaks down when "you have broken bread about the Lord's Table together." The missionary is doing a big thing when he is interpreting the greatness and possibilities of those who live in the East to their brethern in the Western world, and he is doing a big thing when he is interpreting the teachings of our Lord to the Chinese—a changed world history will be the result.

But the cause is hampered more and more by lack of funds, and in conclusiou Mr. Morgan urged his hearers to contribute not because their fathers gave to missions but because the hope of the world lies in the spread of Christianity. "Forward is the watchword, but we are in trouble out there because money is curtailed. The work grows costlier all the time. Go over your objective this year. How will you put it over? Get a prayerful vision of world citizenship which includes a big outlook—myself, the other fellow, God."

Rev. Mr. Tucker conducted a brief but impressive consecration service at the conclusion of the addresses for the evening, Rev. A. J. Langford leading in the final prayer and dismissing the gathering with the benediction.

HUNTERS ASSURED SUCCESS.

It means much to prospective hunters, whether travelling in a party or alone, to be put in direct touch with the best location for their particular choice of game and with outfitters and guides at the going-in point, with whom satisfactory arrangements can be made beforehand. A hunting trip cannot be other than successful under these conditions. The Canadian Pacific Railway offers this service to anyone who contemplates a hunting trip anywhere, either in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, or in the Rockies for mountain game. Any of its Agents will gladly secure this information, or an inquiry addressed to W. Fulton, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, will be given immediate and careful attention. A folder, "Open Season for Hunting in Canada, 1923," will be also forwarded.

How to Keep a Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. W. E. Margeson, Centreville, N. S., and Mrs. Pratt, 45 Gillson Ave., Runnymede, Toronto, always keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin in the house, ready for use, and avoid many of the ills to which children are subject.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Laxative Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Laxative Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

The Bald Facts

He was a young lawyer who had just started practising in a small town, and he hung his sign outside his office door. It read: "A. Swindler."

A stranger who called to consult him saw the sign and said: "My goodness, man, look at that sign! Don't you see how it reads? Put in your first name—Alexander, Ambrose, or whatever it is."

"Oh, yes, I know," said the lawyer, resignedly, "but I don't like to do it."

"Why not?" asked the client. "It looks bad as it is. What is your first name?"

"Adam."—Exchange.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Canadian Made

As a health builder, Royal Yeast is gaining in popularity every day. It is a food - not a medicine. It supplies the vitamine which the diet may lack. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in cases where the system seems "run down". Royal Yeast is the richest known source of vitamines, and when taken into the system acts as a corrective agent. Royal Yeast Cakes are recommended for their purity and wholesomeness. It is the purest, the most convenient and economical yeast on the market.

Two to four Royal Yeast Cakes a day will work wonders. A full day's supply can easily be prepared at one time by using one glass luke warm water and teaspoon sugar to each yeast cake. Allow to stand over night in moderately warm room. In the morning stir well and pour off liquid. Place in refrigerator or other cool place and drink at intervals as desired throughout the day.

Send name and address for free booklet "Royal Yeast Cakes for Better Health."

How Some Get To Heaven

"Mamma," said little Elsie, "do men ever go to heaven?"

"Why, of course, dearie; what makes you ask that?"

"Cause, mamma, I never see any pictures of angels with whiskers."

"Well," answered her mother thouhtfully, "some men go to heaven, but they get there by a close shave, dear."

SUGGESTIONS FOR BULB GROWERS

Information Issued By Peterboro Horticultural Society to Members.

At the desire of a number of members the Society is making a special offering in fall bulbs, one selection of which will not only give a full return for one dollar, but also give membership in the Society.

5 Choice Named Hyacinths, 5 choice named daffodils. All suitable for winter flowering in the house.

25 first size named Tulips either mixed variety or one variety.

25 Darwin Tulips. Named varieties mixed.

50 Crocus, 5 colors mixed. Suitable either for indoor or outdoor.

25 Jonquils, suitable for either indoor or outside.

25 Double Tulips. Mixed varieties or all one color.

12 Paper Whit, Narcissus and 6 Double Tulips.

12 Named Breeder Tulips, the finest of all the Tulip family.

12 Poeticus Narcissus, 12 Scilla Siberia, 12 Jonquils. All suitable for permanent planting indoors.

In order that those growing bulbs may have success with their efforts the following suggestions are offered to insure good results.

Hyacinths, Daffodils, Narcissus and Tulips for house culture should be planted in soil in pots with the nose or top of the bulb only, protuding from the soil, the pots well watered and placed out of doors and covered to a depth of several inches with coal ashes, earth or leaves and left there for several weeks in fact until the pots are entirely filled with roots. In the case of Narcissus, these should be brought in after top growth has begun, if the weather is severe as they will not stand the frost as the others. If it is not convenient to treat the bulbs in this manner, a cool dark cellar will answer the same purpose but care must be taken that the pots do not dry out. These above directions apply to Options Nos 22 27 28 29. If it is desired to grow the Narcissus and Hyacinths in water, place the bulbs in any receptacle, so that the base of the bulb only touches the water, place in a cool dark place until the dish or vase is filled with roots then gradually place in full sunlight, always being careful that the bulb touches the water until the roots reach out for it themselves. Only first sized named bulbs should be used for his method. Options 23-24-25 26-27-29-30 are suggested for good results for planting in flower beds and may be planted any time up to the freezing of the ground. A safe rule as to depth of planting is about three or four times the size of the bulb, in other words the larger the bulb the deeper to plant. After the ground is frozen a light covering of leaves etc., may be placed on the beds, to be removed after warm weather has arrived in the spring.

He Must Have

The Board was visiting the school and the teacher was giving the pupils a public examination. She finally asked the question: "Who wrote Hamlet?" Nobody seemed to know. She asked again more sharply. "Who wrote Hamlet?" A little boy on the back seat said, "Please teacher, I didn't." "Ha! Ha!" said the Chairman of the Board, "The little skeezics, I believe he did."

DEPARTMENT STORE EJECTS OLD SOL FROM ITS DISPLAY WINDOWS.

Eliminates Reflections by Using High Intensity Illumination

One of the merchant's many causes for premature grey hair and shattered nerves (incidentally, flattened profits) has been the dazzling rays and reflections of the sun in display windows.

Everybody knows that at certain hours of the day it is difficult to see merchandise displayed in store windows. Reflected sunlight on the plate glass blinds the eye and seemingly throws everything in the window into gloom.

An illumination expert has tested the intensity of the offending daylight and devised a lighting system for the windows of department stores which affords an intensity of 2,000 foot candles, of about half again as much as that of average daylight.

observed. When lighted in the daytime, the artificial illumination dispelled all reflections and made the displayed merchandise stand out bright and clear while other windows were nearly useless. By exact checking and calculating returns it was found that these brightly illuminated windows stopped an additional 50 per cent of people even on bright sunshiny days.

The day is passed when merchandise may be thrown together in the display window in any old way and left to dim, inadequate illumination. Scientific retailing methods must be employed in order to get the most out of any business and it is safe to say that scientific window and store lighting is now receiving more and more attention from sales executives.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl, known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll, but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness, Miles did her in her childhood, Terry has made him her Dream Prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he does not recognize in her whom he knows as Juliet Divine, the little girl he befriended so long ago.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife is in love with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian fortune-hunter, who has deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, now travelling in Europe with her father.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek meeting Miles and the "Doll" at Monte Carlo, recognizes Terry Desmond whom he knew and loved in New York.

Miss Caroline She'an, Miles' aunt, also writes to Betty about Terry's beauty and charm.

Betty has just learned of Paul's desertion, and she is opening a letter from Nazlo.

CHAPTER LXVII.

Mrs. Miles Sheridan Forever

Betty opened the letter. There might be something in it about Paul or the Callahans!

As she read again the beginning, she recalled in a flash, the night in California when the Shoe King had sat next her at dinner. Paul di Salvano had taken her in, but she had turned now and then to throw a stray word to Nazlo. His heavy yet clever face came back to her.

"Dear Mrs. Sheridan,

You will be surprised to hear from me," Nazlo wrote. "I don't suppose you have thought of me since we met, but I have seen you since, here and there, at a distance. The memory of you has always been pleasant; a pretty, light-hearted lady with every thing in the world she wanted.

"I shouldn't venture to write, if I didn't fear that your happiness is threatened. As a respectful friend, I can't let you be threatened with the danger of undeserved scandal, without warning you of danger. When you know, you can act or not, as you choose.

"I happened to meet Mr. Sheridan today on the Casino terrace, at Monte Carlo, where I'm staying. He had a companion, and at first I took her to be a young woman whose name you may know: Juliet Divine. She is somewhat notorious, and her nickname is "The Million Dollar Doll."

"In a moment, however, I saw I was mistaken. The lady was not Miss Divine, though the resemblance was extraordinary. She was much younger than Juliet Divine, and though physically like (except for the softness of early youth) mentally and spiritually different.

"I happen to know a young girl very like Miss Divine, and—though I'm not sure—I believe the two are sisters. Surprised that this child should be with Mr. Sheridan, I learned that she was actually with him on his yacht, posing as Juliet Divine.

"Had the girl really been Miss Divine, it would not have been my affair, and I shouldn't trouble you with this letter. You would hear of them sooner or later, and if you wished to divorce your husband you'd have the right to do so. But as it is, in the blinding light that beats upon the divorce courts, the truth about this child's identity will surely come out. She is only seventeen, and was until a few months ago at school in a Long Island convent. She knows nothing of the world, and was innocent as a baby until some strange fate threw her into your husband's hands. What has happened since then I don't know. But the world will want to know that and a deal more, if the case is taken up.

"There must have been a plot, on the part of Juliet Divine herself, or that of the father, if the two are sisters. Mr. Sheridan may have been imposed upon (though that looks improbable) but he will certainly be made to appear a kidnapper. My personal opinion (if you'll forgive me) is that your husband must have met and become infatuated with the child, that he sought a way of freeing himself, and hit upon this one, taking it for granted that you would divorce him. A man must be almost insane to run such a risk, but we know that men in real life as in books, do lose their heads over women. I think that Mr. Sheridan will try to marry the girl eventually.

"It is not my place to offer you advice; but as no one knows the facts behind the story except myself, you may excuse this liberty, from a man of the world who wishes to be your friend.

"You may not forgive your husband for this breach of faith, but even so, why not join him to prevent the development of a scandal? Should you wish to free yourself later, you could do so in a far less disagreeable manner, which would repay you in the end for a delay; go to Reno.

"Again assuring you of my wish to help, I am,

"Yours sincerely,
"Eustace Nazlo."

"P. S.—A letter or telegram, should you care to send one, will be forwarded by cook at Monte Carlo. I may wander about the French and Italian Riviera, or go to Algiers, before returning to New York."

* * *

Betty's head whirled when she had read Nazlo's letter. She was furious with Miles, as indignant as if he had cruelly deceived a faithful wife. What he had done was monstrous! She had the impulse to write pouring out her opinion of him, and calling a spade a spade. She even found herself composing sentences. And suddenly, to her own great surprise, she began to cry.

Sobs tore her throat. She could hardly breathe. Tears streamed over her hot cheeks. Her first sobs over the loss of Paolo were childish, compared to these, for now she had lost everything.

As she wept, Betty remembered an old fable of which Mrs. Parmalee reminded her when she was greedy, as a child; the fable of the dog crossing the bridge who dropped his meat to snatch at its reflection in the water. Her mood changed from despair to frantic excitement. She had something to do that would distract her mind, and at the same time right the situation. She would go to Algiers and surprise Paul—no, she would wire first to Nazlo and ask him if he knew the route of "Silverwood." He was sure to know. Maybe Miles and the girl would be at Algiers also—how wonderful if they were!

She'd make sure first, before doing anything irrevocable, whether Paolo were really married. If not, and if he had a spark of love left for her, she'd win him back. Then she wouldn't care what scandals Miles brought upon his own head. But, if Paolo were married—she would punish him. She could ruin him with his father-in-law, and she would—she would! Also, she'd keep her husband for herself. She wouldn't divorce him, no matter what he had done. She would go on being Mrs. Miles Sheridan.

Her hands trembling, tears streaming down her face, she wrote a telegram to Nazlo. Then, she opened a secret drawer within another drawer of her desk. A faint perfume stole out—Paul di Salvano's favorite fragrance. She kept a ribbon tied packet of his love-letters steeped in it, like a mummy embalmed.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. BIEBER, 3939 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3227 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

Watch your step is perhaps the best known of all slogans that has been used since Safety First has been employed in safe-guarding the factory, business and home. To be sure of your footing and that the landing place is a safe support for your weight when alighting from a train, cab or any vehicle is one of the great precautionary means of avoiding accidents and sprains.

Also teach your children to look before they leap, in order to make sure that their feet may not slip or slide and endanger their ankles, knees, arms, fingers or toes to severe pains. These are sometimes worse than fractures and result in a permanently distorted or swollen condition of limbs or joints.

The result of a bad sprain may indeed be serious. The turning or twisting causes intense pain, so that if the sprain is part of your locomotion outfit, the strained member cannot perform its work properly. Swelling and discoloration, as in a severe bruise, adds to your discomfort. In the case of a slight sprain, the injured member should be given a complete rest and recovery usually occurs in a few days. No treatment is necessary, other than a hot application or soaking in hot water for 20 minutes or half hour, as soon after the accident as possible.

When a severe pain occurs the muscles and ligaments are so severely pulled, wrenched and twisted that they become highly inflamed, swollen and painful. Absolute rest is necessary. Be sure that the sprained member is slightly elevated and a dressing of cold water, witch hazel or soothing liniment applied. When the inflammation and acute pain have lessened you may use a soap or liniment or chloroform liniment to gently rub the sprained parts daily.

Move the injured member just a little each day until more freedom of movement is noticed. Do not attempt to walk or use a sprained arm or wrist without the carefully supporting dressings which are an absolute necessity in case of sprains.

MILK NOT TAINTED BY SWEET CLOVER

Controversy on Question Settled By Agricultural College Tests.

There has been considerable controversy in this district concerning the effect on milk of sweet clover, when eaten by cows, and some people contend that such a diet will give a sweet clover flavor to milk not at all palatable. However, this theory has been exploded by tests mades at the Ontario Agricultural College, and in fairness to all concerned the following extract on this question taken from the departments' bulletin is published:

Sweet Clover and Milk.

Altogether over two hundred acidity tests were made with samples obtained as follows:

1st—While the cows were confined to winter feed of corn silage, hay (free from sweet clover), mixed chopped grain, and mangels.

2nd—While the cows were on ordinary pasture free from sweet clover.

3rd—While the cows were confined entirely to sweet clover pasture.

No purpose would be served in tabulating the figures of these tests, for in no single case, either in samples of milk from individual cows or in the composite samples of the herd, was any variation from the normal acidity of the milk recorded. The acidity of each sample of milk remained constant throughout the entire period of investigation regardless of any change in the diet. Whilst the cows were confined entirely to sweet clover pasture for five weeks, the acidity of the milk showed no variation from the time they were confined to winter feed and ordinary pasture free from sweet clover.

The question of whether or not the organic acids of silage increase the acidity has been pretty thoroughly studied. The effect of inorganic acids has also been studied and investigators are agreed that the acidity of the milk cannot be increased by the acidity of the food.

Flavor Tests.

Flavor tests on samples of milk taken for acidity examination were made in two ways:

1st—By tasting the milk in the ordinary manner, and,

All the curds were made under uniform conditions, using standard quantities of milk and rennet, and coagulating at a definite temperature. The original object of making these curds was to find out if the feed including sweet clover affected the coagulation of milk with rennet. Interesting results were obtained and will be discussed in another publication. The curds proved very satisfactory for detecting a variation in the flavour of different samples of milk owing to the ease with which the curd was retained on the tongue while tasting. Although slight differences in flavor from individual cows were noted, in no single case could a taste or tain due to sweet clover be detected.

Opinions have been sought of investigators from various experiment stations in the United States, and all are of the opinion that under proper feeding conditions the flavor of the milk is not affected by sweet clover. It is quite possible, however, that exclusive feeding of any clover or other strong foods, such as turnips, containing volatile organic compounds, would affect the flavor of milk, especially if feeding takes place immediately before or during the process of milking. It is interesting to note that dairy stock on natural pasture feed sparingly when the milk cells of the udder become distended.

The exclusive feeding of one kind of clover or any other single food has never been advocated by practical stockmen. From the chemical standpoint there are few, if any, single feeds which provide a balanced ration. Natural pasture is composed of a variety of grasses and clovers, thus providing a balanced ration. It seems logical to suggest that sweet clover should not form the sole constituent of a diet for dairy stock any more than any other food. Providing sweet clover is varied with other foods and the main feed taken after, instead of immediately before or during milking, there should be no danger of so-called sweet-cloved in milk. It should be remembered that milk readily absorbs odours which affect the flavour when exposed to the atmosphere. During haying time there is often a strong odour of sweet clover pervading the atmosphere of the barn and the milk-house. Under such conditions milk left exposed would absorb a sweet clover flavour.

Saved From Pneumonia By Vicks

Nova Scotia Lady Secures Relief Overnight

Mrs. Charles Dernier, of 2 Ext. Queen Street, Amherst, Nova Scotia, writes: "I have had pneumonia for the last two winter and was on the verge of having it again when I thought I would try Vicks VapoRub. Before retiring for the night I rubbed it thoroughly on my chest and back and went to sleep, although I hadn't slept for three nights. In the morning I got up feeling like a new woman."

Dr. Osler says pneumonia has taken the place of tuberculosis as "Captain of the Men of Death," to use a phrase coined by old John Bunyan. And Influenza is not far behind. The germs of both of these diseases are constantly with us. The only reliable protection against them is the resisting power which comes from good health. To avoid these dangerous diseases in winter, don't let yourself get run down and above all never neglect a cold. Break it up in its early stages with Vicks VapoRub, the external vaporizing treatment for colds.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

RAILWAY COMMISSION WILL HOLD A MEETING

OTTAWA, Oct. 16. — (Canadian Press).—The Railway Commission will meet to-day at 10 a.m. to hear the application of Queen's University for a ruling which will extend to the University and to the City of Kingston, the same privileges in the matter of excursion rates on the railways in connection with annual football games as are enjoyed by Toronto, Montreal and other large cities. Associated with the University in this request are the Board of Trade and the Corporation of Kingston. Ottawa is one of the cities which enjoys the benefits of this reduced fare for their football clubs.

Zam-Buk is a Blessing in the Home

CHILD'S TERRIBLE BURNS.—Mr. A. Summers, Postmaster of Geldhow, Sask, writes:—"Zam-Buk performed wonderful healing in the case of my little two-year-old boy who fell from his chair against a red-hot heater! One side of his face and his ear were just frizzled. I dressed the burns liberally with this soothing Zam-Buk daily. In two weeks Zam-Buk grew beautiful new skin."

FROST-BITTEN EARS HEALED.—"While going to school one morning I got both my ears badly frozen," writes Miss Mary Herrington, of Harewood, N.B., "They were swollen twice normal size and pained intensely. Fortunately I had some Zam-Buk on hand and applied it immediately I got indoors. The relief Zam-Buk gave was wonderful. It stopped pain almost immediately, and quickly took out the inflammation and swelling."

"ECZEMA ON THE HANDS caused me three years awful suffering," writes Mr. Angus Josey, of Spry Harbor, Halifax, N.S., "The intense itching kept me awake at nights. I had tried ointments and lotions without result before I got Zam-Buk. This wonderful healer quickly removed every trace of disease."

ZAM-BUK is magical for troubles like ringworm, cold-sores, abscesses, poisoned wounds, chilblains, piles, ulcers, etc., also for healing cuts, scalds and other injuries. 50c. all dealers.

SPIT ROASTING NOW ELECTRIFIED

Cylinder Meat Roast Has Many Advantages

From earliest times it has been recognized that the best way to roast meat, so as to bring out the flavor and conserve the juice is on a spit before an open fire. From this idea came the "rotisserie"—the popular restaurant where you can watch your meat or fowl being roasted to a delicious brown before your eyes.

But now the electrical cylindrical roaster has arrives, the rotisserie will have to look to its laurels. One of these new roasters has just been installed on a British ship and one of its many advantages over other types of roasting lies in the fact that the roast or fowl can be subjected to a grilling heat from all sides at once. With this electrical roaster, regulated heat is assured, there is not a suspicion of fumes or smoke and heat is furnished by the mere pressure of a finger on a switch and is always at command, without effort, night or day.

This simple process, involving little culinary skill and equally little attention, may quite possible revolutionize the roasting of meats in public restaurants, hotels and ships, saving time, labor, and meat shrinkage into the bargain.

TOO TRUE

Getting a living is easy enough if you do not make it the main job. A living is the by-product of a life which counts for something in the general benefit. If it is made the principal object of life it sometimes becomes most difficult. But where doing one's work is the main thing the living just naturally happens, and not a poro one either. The men who get along best are usually interested in something more than "getting along." Everybody wants money and everybody needs money, but one of the secre5s about money is that when you turn your face in the right direction and help the world get what is needs, tye necessary money can't be kept away from you.—The Dearborn Independent.

RESOLUTIONS FOR ANNUAL MEETING OF TRADE BOARDS

Measures Adopted by the Local Executive Chamber of Commerce Fro Debate in Hamilton.

The following resolutions were adopted by the local executive council of the Chamber of Commerce for recommendation to the annual meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and the Chambers of Commerce to be held in Hamilton November 15 and 16.

Companies Acts.

Whereas, the existing Dominion Companies Act, and the Companies Act of the Province of Ontario, do not adequately provide reasonable protection for the public against stock-selling propositions of an undesirable character;

And whereas, because of the inadequancy of the said Acts many millions of dollars are annually lost to those unable to sustain such loss;

And whereas, an amendment to the existing Dominion and Ontario Companies Act so as to prevent as far as possible the fraudulent sale of worthless stock, would have the tendency of stimulating the confidence of the investing public in the promotion of sound propositions;

Therefore resolved, that we, the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, hereby petition that the Parliament of Canada and the Legislature of the Province of Ontario be petitioned to so amend the Companies Act as to afford the investor greater protection against fraudulent and impracticable promotions, and that there may be uniformity in such legislation, a Committee of each House be appointed to inquire into the whole subject of improper flotations and to make recommendations upon which may be founded for the further protection of investors.

Publicity Bureau.

Whereas, it is our belief that tourist traffic to Ontario is of considerable monetary importance, and tends to acquaint the visitor with the immense possibilities for development in Ontario.

And whereas, we have in Ontario summer playgrounds equal to any of its kind on the North American continent,

And whereas, millions of dollars have been spent on the improvement of highways in Ontario.

And whereas, other Provinces in the Dominion are doing all in their power to stimulate the tourist traffic,

Therefore resolved, that the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce hereby petitions the Ontario Government to do all in its power to advertise Ontario as a tourists' paradise, and to this end we respectfully suggest that the Ontario Government establish a permanent publicity bureau.

It was decided that the first general meeting of the association would be held in conjunction with the Manufacturers Association. Mr. R. N McCormick association manager of the Tariff Department will address the meeting on the application of the New Sales Tax which will come in force January 1st 1924.

Exit Jocelyn

COURTENAY BERTHEL DYKE yawned as he glanced up from the deck and saw that dear old blister, the Statue of Liberty. Lib was no novelty to him, coming or going.

Below, under decks, the sweating steerage immigrants looked through murky porthole glass or up from the narrow outdoor passages, and found the thrill of inspiration in the giantess who, though she no longer registers all that her sacred name once promised, still signifies a long, sweet jump from the slums of Barcelona, the pales of Poland, the Whitechapel of London and the back alleys of Naples.

But when C. B. Dyke's ancestors classed as immigrants there had been no Statue of Liberty. They had come in on the ground floor, when Manhattan Island acreage sold for a bottle of whiskey (and whiskey wasn't worth much then), and the Dykes hadn't thought of working or worrying for many generations.

Courtenay was a rather decent sort for a gold-plated loafer, with no visible means of support except deeds to rows of skyscrapers he had inherited and no end of securities, which a musty old trust company clipped for him and placed to his credit. He had never been in any notorious episodes with showgirls, had never beaten either of his wives, had never been a co-respondent or a sugar daddy as far as anyone was aware.

Once divorced by a tired gazelle, who found married life irksome, though Courtenay was away nine or eleven months a year, and once bereft by death, which can't read the blue-book, Dyke had been a widower several seasons, and had been abroad mostly, following lazily the urge of the succeeding periods of calendar and temperature.

He had gone to Europe because America bored him, and he returned to America now because Europe bored him worse.

Moreover, for some weeks now a tickling had been developing in Courtenay Berthel Dyke's inner machinery—a manifestation with which he was not unfamiliar, as love was no little stranger to C. B. D.

He had known for many years, and had watched grow up, and had seen again a few days before he sailed, the pretty daughter of his father's old friend, J. Bernard Hanleigh. The Hanleighs ranked with the Dykes socially, though not financially. J. B. had never been really rich, though he had been able to keep his family on a scale that saved them from humiliation as long as he had lived and was able to manipulate the prestige and credit that went with the name.

When he died, leaving his daughter, Jocelyn, and his widow in debt and without resources, it was because there was no man named Hanleigh to carry on. Jocelyn knew little of business and her mother knew nothing at all, and would have been shocked at a suggestion—even now—that she ever could.

Courtenay Dyke know nothing of all this. He had heard that old J. B. had passed away and had cabled condolences. That the surviving Hanleighs might be in money difficulties, not to say straits, had never dawned on him.

But he kept thinking back of how sweetly alluring Jocelyn had looked last time he saw her; how she must be growing every day into a riper and lovelier thing; how his own existence was an unending monotony of meaningless change from one suit of clothes into another, from one city into another, from one hour into another. And these thoughts all seemed to intertwine, as though Jocelyn might be the solution of his inane life.

In his own mind, though he had not ever directly said so to himself, he was quite certain that he would propose marriage to Jocelyn Hanleigh. Yes, he assuredly would, and he half hoped she would accept him, though he really dreaded to be again a husband.

Meanwhile, Jocelyn was being washed against the brick ramparts of journalism. As in other trades and professions she had tackled in her earnest attempt to swim the channel of competitive self-preservation, she was becoming convinced that she was unfit.

Born to the purple, reared with all that modern schooling could give and effete association could lend, she found that the children of the villages and the river wards, the turnouts of the little red schoolhouses in the weeds, and the big, confused free public schools in the slums, had sounder and surer equipment for the business of economic hand-over-hand progress than she had.

The newspaper game, apparently the easiest of them all, had quite shaken her; for here she found that even in a quasi-literary field, and one in which she had a specialty in her inside knowledge of society and its personnel and true secrets, she was a cub, a weak sister—in truth, a nuisance.

The field for feminine workers was sadly limited, to begin with. And she had horned in on a fluke and was falling behind with every day after so favorable a getaway.

Creditors were closing in. Only a few of the nobler houses still wrote courteously insistent letters. The new, brash business firms, with no respect for the aristocracy unless the aristocracy pays by the tenth of the succeeding month, were sending annoyingly efficient collectors, threatening to sue and attach, demanding past-due payments along lines developed to cope with deadbeats and "jumpers."

Jocelyn was dizzy with the hopeless problems and had a toothache in her heart. Herself, she would have moved to a hallroom, as so many about whom she had read (but never had met) had done. But—her mother! Mrs. Hanleigh was a snob of many strata, intrenched in traditions from which she could no more be divorced than she could train two right feet or develop new baby teeth.

Dispossession was imminent. Suits were on the very deadline of immediate probability, and with the first would come newspaper stories, for a tradesman's bill of particulars against the Hanleighs was front-page "copy"—Jocelyn was enough of a reporter to know that. Then the whole sickening secret would be out, and that would be the blow-off.

Her mother would die. Jocelyn knew the old widow too well to think she could do less in the face of sneers or offers of loans from the few whom she had accepted as equals and the many she had quite cut, even in contemplation.

The name which had stood these many decades as a quiet, solid pillar of superiority would be blasted and its pieces kicked about by the very gamins in the dirty streets.

Jocelyn was no holier-than-her, but she was still a Hanleigh, rich or broke.

She now realized with all the numb reaction of finality that the desperate, well-intended skirmishes to save the family honor by honest work were Quixotic. A Schmidt, a Levinsky or a Moriarity might do it; but a Hanleigh hadn't a chance. No one would believe her—and heaven help her if anyone did.

It had been a beautiful thought. Jocelyn still loved it in theory; the plucky orphan of the social storm fighting the elements with her bare, white, soft, blue-veined hands! Oh, what liars those motion pictures were. What hop-dreamers those 35-cent magazine romancers were. What wild guessers those low-born playwrights who loved to monkey with drawing-room dramas were.

Now—what was to be done?

Pack up and beat it? How? Her mother would never digest the idea. How could a Hanleigh be put out on a street forcibly, and why should a Hanleigh put herself out voluntarily?

Sell? Pawn? Jocelyn had peddled and pledged already everything movable and negotiable that wasn't screwed down or necessary for domestic routine.

Borrow? That would be as bad as shouting it from the rooftops. Only the intimate friends could be approached, and how they would pass the juicy little morsel along. They would lend, of course. But they would tell. And how much would they advance? Enough to stem the tide for a few months—a year—two years. Then, what—where—how?

Move to a village, get away and hide? Hanleighs couldn't disappear. That would be even a better story than a suit. It would be a "mystery"—and a peach, too. They would be missed whence they had gone and would be identified whither they sneaked.

Suicide? No, Jocelyn had still too much gumption for that, and she couldn't go without her mother, anyway. Of course, if they were both wiped out it would be a journalistic sensation, but they, the last of the line and name, would not be there to suffer its miserable toll. No, the name must not go out in a blaze of red ink and black scandal.

It must not. But! What should be the next move?

Jocelyn was drawing $50 a week on the "Eagle." For a tyro reporter, that was fair enough. She even realized that somewhere in its sum was a hand-out because she was a Hanleigh, though the brusque, blunt men in the editorial room had been too gallant to ever suggest such a possibility.

But what was $50 a week? Jocelyn hadn't seen a new dress in a year, she walked downtown and back because she couldn't afford taxis and wouldn't take subways, and home expenses had been cut to the bone. The bone cost five times her salary. It couldn't be trimmed any cleaner. One had to have at least three maids, or none. Without a maid her mother would shrivel up and wither away—she was used to nine. Less than three was impossible, as no self-respecting servant would stay in such a house, in such a locality, unless there were at the very minimum a cook, a chambermaid and a general waitress and parlor-girl, with scrubbing, cleaning, furnace-tending and sidewalk and step-sweeping done by day-helpers.

It had cost more than $100,000 a year to maintain the three Hanleighs when the family head was alive. That had been chiseled down to scarcely more than ten per cent. Further cargo and ballast to throw overboard there was none now.

Even were her newspaper position far more encouraging, it would be a long, long time before her logical or even extraordinary rise would bring a substantial increase in her earnings.

No, the earnest working-girl could not lift the mortgage off the old place by economy and industry.

Jocelyn was in the midst of such thoughts when Courtenay Berthel Dyke was announced.

She pouted and winced. Little comfort Dyke would be at such a time, coming to pay his belated respects and offer his delayed sympathies.

Jocelyn had always thought of Dyke, when she had thought of him at all, as a flat, negative, inconsequential row of zeroes at the end of a fat integer over the signature of a good name.

He was twice her age and had been twice married. He wasn't a business man, he wasn't a sportsman, he wasn't even a rounder. He was just a rich, well-born, phlegmatic hobo who toured in private cars instead of box cars.

He had to be received, however, of course. Jocelyn's life was so full of unpleasant and unwelcome have-tos that she could tolerate and survive one more.

In wafted Courtenay Berthel Dyke.

Mrs. Hanleigh greeted him pleasantly. He was one of the very limited few to whom she could address herself without tension, for the Dykes were Dykes. Jocelyn arose from her chair, where she had been sitting with her back to the room, and how-do'd him as graciously as was necessary.

Dyke was no child, no fool. He sensed that something was wrong before a word was spoken. The old butler was absent. The new maid wasn't all she should have been. A valuable statue which he had often appraised for its art had been replaced by a tabourette.

Dyke was not of the sort that might be described as "a man of few words." He was not often loquacious, and he drawled exasperatingly when he was. He could not speak his thoughts staccato. They did not come sharply and consecutively—nothing in his make-up or his get-up did.

But before he walked back to his waiting motor without he had penetrated into the family misfortunes and had imagined what he hadn't learned. So—the Hanleighs were woefully poverty-stricken. Not only was he in love with Jocelyn, but she and her mother must be saved.

Dyke Was No Child, No Fool. He Sensed That Something Was Wrong.

Next evening, after Jocelyn had worried through an unusually fruitless and bootless day of blind-alley reporting with resultant realization that she was a congenial dumbbell in the face of the tortured efforts of the city editor to apologize to her for her, Jocelyn was quite staggered at a second visit from Courtenay Berthel Dyke.

She had a sick headache, which even a Hanleigh could confess. And she whisked out of the room and left her mother at the mercy of the caller, alone.

That pleased Dyke as much as it did her. For he had come with a set purpose, to ask Mrs. Hanleigh for Jocelyn as a wife.

After he had gone, Mrs. Hanleigh broke the news to her daughter.

Jocelyn did not shriek. She did not faint. She did not laugh.

She sat, silent, relaxed, for many minutes, swallowing, thinking, clearing her throat.

"I'll do it, mother," she said, when she spoke.

"I knew you would, my darling," answered Mrs. Hanleigh, without an unbecoming or unHanleighish quaver in her articulation. "It is, after all, a dignified and entirely correct thing to do. The Dykes are very good, of course. And Courtenay says he rather adores you. Isn't it fortunate, just at this perplexing turn, too?"

"Very fortunate," said Jocelyn, dryly. "I have waited, I have dreamed, I have longed for the moment when I should say 'Yes' to a man. I dreamed it would be in a half-lighted room or in the moonlight with a breeze playing in my hair. His strong young arms would be about me and he would be quivering for his answer and I would be quivering with it.

"My very soul would be in the word as I gave it, for with it should go all that I am and ever will be, all that I think and ever will think, all that I have or ever will have, all that I want and ever will want, all that I can give and ever can give.

"And now I give my answer not to him, but to you. I send it to a middle-aged, dyspeptic, anaemic gentleman—that I will be his third wife.

"I do this of my own free-will, mother. Never feel that I made a sacrifice for you. I do it because I was born a Hanleigh, with all the rhinoceros-hide bonds of one.

"What you just imparted to me is a solution of our desperate situation—mine as much as yours; mine more than yours, since in the logical permutations of probabilities I have more years to waste and whittle away than you have.

"I shall marry Courtenay Dyke, and you will find me a smiling bride. All our friends will be delighted—as far as our friends can or may permit themselves such a human emotion as delight.

"They will sneer a little behind the palms, of course, for they will see the several incongruities of the alliance. But incongruities such as these are entirely proper—even smart. So they will O. K. the match—with the usual mental and verbal reservations.

"I shall be Mrs. Courtenay Berthel Dyke, as good as either of the former Mrs. Courtenay Berthel Dykes, and maybe a little better, for one of them was only a Wilson-Harwood—really a disgustingly rich climber—and the other was just a wee bit clouded, according to the very insistent whisperings, though a Carbury. I am young and a Hanleigh, but I am a pauper. So the score is about even all around."

"Why, my dear, do not be bitter. A young girl should not say such things. The Dykes are very good. Your father was older than I—and we ranked somewhat beyond the Hanleighs. But when he asked me to be his wife I never thought of hesitating. One does not give Hanleighs the mitten. Nor may Hanleighs refuse Dykes. They are very good. Very nearly ranking with the Hanleighs. This will be a very advantageous alliance for the Dykes. Yet it is quite dignified for the Hanleighs, I must confess."

"Quite. Dignified is the word. I am afraid I have never learned the full measure of appreciation for that word—it takes the place of so many confusing human impulses, so many quirks of undignified young minds and so many urges of undignified young bodies.

"I am certain that being poor is most undignified—it isn't even respectable. My job as a picture-chaser on the 'Eagle' surely hasn't conformed with Hanleigh dignity, and with that it still missed making the 'Eagle' efficiency.

"I guess I'm a strange cross. I've been nursing ideas of work and youth and independence somewhat as recklessly, I fancy, as poor slum girls sigh for Dykes and dignity.

"They say this is a country where you are what you make yourself.

"Very well, mother, dear, I shall make myself Mrs. Courtenay Berthel Dyke, the useless wife of a useless idler, just as Carrie Thompson, our other girl reporter, who dreamt of marrying a millionaire she once interviewed and who tried to kiss her, is going to marry Mike Crane, our associate sporting editor."

FRANCE HAS A SIMILAR MOVE

Effort Being Made to Induce People to Remain In Country.

PARIS, October 16 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). — The necessity of preventing rural population from leaving the country and flooding to the towns both in France and in Canada, was discussed at a luncheon organised in honour of the leaders of the Canadian Family and Rural Movement who are accompanying the Canadian exhibition train on its tour through France.

The luncheon was presided over by M. Couvreur, president of the Federation des Associations Familiales de France.

Other speakers were Georges J. Bouchard, M.P. for Kamouraska, and Alphonse Desilots, Director-General of the Ministry of Agriculture in the Province of Quebec, who described Government measures introduced to induce people to remain in the countryside.

been shown beyond a doubt that an extensive field exists in Ontario and Quebec for the introduction of by-product recovery coke ovens. These ovens, which it is stated have been immensely improved in the last few years, produce a coke much harder than the ordinary gas house coke and equivalent to anthracite in heating value. In the process, valuable by-products including gas, benzol, ammonia and tar oils, are saved. Under ordinary conditions the fuel can be marketed at a price considerably lower than that of anthracite.

An important advantage that by-product coke possesses over anthracite is that soft coal, the raw material from which it is made, is in plentiful supply. Not only are there large reserves of it in Nova Scotia, but the United States has a surplus production of from 300,000,000 to 450,000,000 tons yearly, from which Central Canada can draw. An anomaly which Mr. Landt points out is that soft coal entering Canada for use in domestic coke-making is charged a duty of 53 cents a ton, equal to 70 cents to 80 cents on each ton of coke produced, whereas United States' coke makers ship their coke into Canada duty free.

THREE BODIES FOUND IN THE BURNED AREA

GLENDALE, Calif., Oct. 16. — (Canadian Press) —Three additional bodies were found yesterday near Montrose in the burned area of the Saturday and Sunday fire which burned over fifteen square miles north and east of here. This makes five bodies thus far recovered.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Ministerial Association Transacts Business — Cheese Drops to 20½c— Reports by Radio.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ocober 16.—The first meeting of the Ministerial Association since adjournment in June for the summer vacation was held yesterday afternoon in the Public Library. Those in attendance were: Revs. D. A. Thomson and M. L. Hinton of Hastings, C. F. McIntosh, J. E. Glover, S. H. Bennett, and Wesley Elliott of Campbellford, J. J. Black of Burnbrae, J. McIlroy, E. D. Seymour, and T. H. Stanley of Havelock, E. W. Caffley of Norham, George S. Hammond of Warkworth, and W. H. Towle of Bonar Law.

The personnel of the Association has changed considerably since the June meeting, among those who Revs. C. S. Clarke and H. B. Kenny, both of whom are now located in Belleville. Two of the oldest in point of membership are Revs. M. L. Hinton and D. A. Thomson of Hastings.

The new members yesterday were Messrs. Towle, McIlroy, Elliott, and Hammond.

Rev. J. J. Black President.

The meeting was organised by the election of Mr. Hinton as chairman, after which the officers for the coming year were chosen. Mr. Black was unanimously elected president, Mr. Glover secretary-treasurer last year, was made vice-president, and Mr. Bennett was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

President Black, Secretary Glover, Mr. Thomson and Mr. Seymour were appointed a committee to draw up the programme for the year.

Gospel Ethics.

Rev. W. H. Towle, the Anglican clergyman at Bonar Law, read the paper of the day, a scholarly and interesting treatise on the subject of Gospel Ethics, in which he presented many views on theological problems.

Mr. Towle is a former newspaper worker, having been in the editorial staff of the Philadelphia Ledger during the war. He is now a contributor of editorials to the Montreal Gazette.

A long discussion followed the reading of the paper, which was commended highly by all those who heard it, although some of the members took issue with the speaker. Mr. Towle, however, defended his views vigorously. So favorably was his address received that he was invited, and consented, to read another paper during the winter.

The next meeting of the association will be held on November 19.

Cheese Drops to 20½c.

The price of cheese dropped to 20½c at the last meeting of the Board. There were 355 boxes offered for sale by the following factories: Brae, 75; Crow Bay, 30; I.X.L., 31; Kimberley, 50; New Model, 31; Trent Valley, 35; West Seymour, 35; Woodlands, 70. Cook and Ivey divided the Board, the former taking Brae, Crow Bay, I.X.L. and Kimberley, and Ivey the balance.

The next meeting will be held on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Church Workers to Meet.

There will be a gathering of church workers in the Methodist Church this afternoon and evening. At 2.30 the session will deal specially with Sunday School work, and in the evening there will be a rally of young people.

Personals.

Mrs. Taylor O'Brien, when in town last week attending the W.M.S. convention, held in the Parish Hall of Christ Church, visited her friend, Mrs. Alex. Abar.

Engineer W. H. Pretty, of Peterboro, was in town on business yesterday.

IN GOD'S NAME DEMAND PEACE

That Was Lloyd George's Plea to Americans at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 16. —(Canadian Press). — Minneapolis and the Northwest gave Lloyd-George the greatest reception ever accorded a visitor from abroad. Representatives of all creeds and races filled the hotel where Lloyd-George is resting.

The Jews paid him tribute for what they said he had done for restoration of Palestine. Swedish societies Norwegian Organizations and his own Welsh contingent in Minneapolis waited with a delegation of negroes. A band of American Indians acclaimed him as "Chief two Eagles" and adopted him into the Sioux Tribe.

World peace was the keynote of the day. Lloyd-George spoke but once. "I crossed the frontier last night," he said; the most remarkable frontier in the world, calm as the night and no soldiers and no barbed wire. Yours is a continent of peace, and in God's name insist on keeping that peace. Until the United States casts its influence into the scales for world peace," he declared, "he will despair of the future."

LINDSAY BANK ALSO HAD RUN

The Depositors Gathered Around Bank Until Closing Hours.

LINDSAY, Oct. 16.—Nothing appears to travel as fast as a rumor. The news that there was a run on the Dominion Bank at Toronto as the result of a false assumption on the part of a foreigner reached Lindsay on Monday at noon and created a situation similar to that witnessed when the Home Bank branch closed its doors. Depositors in the Dominion Bank lost no time in hurrying down street and the "run" kept up until the hour for closing. All afternoon excited groups gathered round the bank corner discussing the situation. When the announcement was made in the press that a foreigner had been responsible for the stampede and that the bank was absolutely sound, the group of depositors felt greatly relieved.

FIVE THOUSAND STORM BOURSE

Mobs in Berlin Dispersed By Police—Food Main Objective.

BERLIN, October 16. United Press. — Five thousand hungry unemployed stormed the main city hall near Alexander Platz to-day in one of the most menacing demonstrations since the food shortage became so acute.

At least ten are known to have been wounded in the rush when police cordons advanced on the mob and drove the most daring of them back five blocks from the building.

Still determined the crowd rushed to the Bourse where brokers were seen hurriedly leaving the building, and seeking refuge in less conspicuous places.

Wilhelm Stress was closed to-day as a precautionary measure.

Disturbances are reported is several suburbs of the capital, particularly in Neukoelln, where three were wounde in food riots.

DR. FREDERICK A. COOK WENT ON TRIAL TO-DAY

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Pleas of guilty to charges of using the United States mails to defraud in furtherance of oil schemes, were entered before Judge John M. Killets, of Toledo, Ohio, in Federal Court, by seven of those indicted with Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, who went on trial yesterday.

FIELDING ISSUES NEW STATEMENT

Dealing With The MacHaffie Letter On The Home Bank.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16. — (Canadian Press.)—Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, last night issued a statement in regard to the letter of W. N. MacHaffie, a former official of the Home Bank, published in a Toronto paper, and comment upon it by Sir Thomas White, former Minister of Finance.

Mr. Fielding said his attention had been called to the following statement from Sir Thomas White.

"While Sir Thomas admitted having received a letter from Mr. MacHaffie, the paper in question was informed at Ottawa that it was not now on the files of the Finance Department. Sir Thomas says when he left Ottawa in 1919 he left this and other correspondence with is secretary, so as to be available should further questions arise affecting the bank.

"The staement from Ottawa," continued Mr. Fielding, "that the MacHaffie letter was not on the files of the Department was correct. Sir Thomas White's private secretary was, and still is, an officer of the Finance Department. Any papers of a private character left by Sir Thomas White with his private secretary on his retirement from office, would be the private property of Sir Thomas. I, as one of his successors, have never had access to such papers, nor have I any right to see them."

dicted, and he asked the jurymen to cast aside any pre-conceived notions concerning the Melbourne affair and to judge the guilt or innocence of the accused in an unbiased, unprejudiced and dispassionate frame of mind.

Five Witnesses.

Five witnesses were heard before the court adjourned soon after six o'clock. They were H. C. McBride, London, architect, who had drawn up plans for the Home Bank at Melbourne and its vicinity; Dr. Roderick Dewar, who attended Campbell just after the shooting; Dr. Lloyd Friele, of Glencoe, who, with Dr. Dewar, assisted in conducting the post-mortem; Dr. Woods, Coroner of Mount Brydges, and Agnes Campbell, sister of the dead man. All their evidence was similar to that given at the inquest.

MANAGE SCHOOLS BY BUSINESS MEN

Not Merely Farmers, Politicians Or Preachers Says Inspector.

LINDSAY, Oct. 16.—Mr. G. E. Broderick, who resigned from the Public School Inspectorate of East Victoria, and a portion of Peterboro County, was presented on Friday with an illuminated address and a gold watch by the teachers of his inspectorate.

Mr. Broderick in his reply severely criticized the present form of management of the school affairs in the rural districts by the trustee boards. If the schools were managed by business men he said, not merely farmers, politicians or preachers, the results would be better.

Schools should be managed by men with educational ideas, Mr. Broderick claimed.

RECALLS STONING OF LLD. GEORGE

Statesman Chats With British Barber in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press)—David Lloyd George "had a regular English hair cut," in Minneapolis yesterday. It was the first hair cut Britain's war time Premier has had since his arrival from abroad, and incidentally it was given by a native of Britain, B. H. Thompson, manager of a shop here, was the barber, and he talked as he worked on Lloyd-George. "I am pleased to meet and see you again," he said to the famous statesman.

"And where did you see me last?" asked Lloyd-George. "It was during the Boer war riot at Birmingham," Thompson replied.

"Oh, is that so,' commented the little Welshman. "You were not one of those who threw stones at me?"

The statesman smiled as he directed questions at the barber, who appeared somewhat embarrassed.

"No, I did not throw stones," replied the Tonsorial artist. "I was in the crowd just trying to get out of it."

WINNIPEG VETERANS' CONTRIBUTED $1,000

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press)—To help the Dominion Command to carry on with its service work at Ottawa, the Winnipeg branch of the Great War Veterans' Association has contributed $1,000, it was announced yesterday. Several Manitoba branches also have sent donations to the "Carry On" fund.

PARENT COMPANY TO MEET LOSSES

Creditors of L. R. Steel Co. Meet in Toronto And Adjourn For a Month.

TORONTO, Oct .16.—A meeting of the creditors of the L. R. Steel Co, Limited, was held yesterday afternoon in the Foresters' Temple. Fred Clarkson presiding for the liquidator, G. T. Clarkson. The affairs of the company are in such condition that another adjournment of a month was asked for, and granted.

There are left in Buffalo a number of people who are negotiating with the American liquidator and matters are expected to take a turn for the betterment of the shareholders and creditors. The American liquidators believe in the bona fides of those who are now engaged in investigation of the Steel Company's affairs in the hope that they will be able to make a proposition which will pay the creditors in full and give to the shareholders a substantial holding of stock in the new company. These investigations are being continued and will open the way for a definite proposal to be made possible at the next meeting of the creditors to be held in November.

As evidence of the belief in the bona fides of the people who have the proposal in hand, the American receiver has sent work to G. T. Clarkson, the Canadian liquidator, that any further loss sustained by the chain of stores in Canada will be met by the parent cmopany with a further reduction in rent for the store premises that will wipe out the losses. This was the basis for the request for another adjournment.

A meeting of the shareholders committee was held Saturday. C. H. MacKenzie, secretary, states that $150,000 has been forwarded by Canadians towards the $500,000 necessary to finance any proposal on the part of the Canadian company to take over the stores from the parent company for the benefit of the Canadian shareholders and creditors.

GRAPHOPHONE CO. GOES TO RECEIVERS

Creditors Of Columbia Concern File Involuntary Petition in Bankruptcy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press).—The Columbia Graphophone Manufacturing Company, one of the pioneers in the talking machine trade was placed in the hands of receivers yesterday when an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal Court on behalf of several creditors. The action was a friendly one and plans for the corporation's reorganization under a new name will be made public tomorrow.

H. L. Willson, President and General Manager of the Company, and James R. Sheffield were appointed receivers by Federal Judge Learned Hand, and finished a joint bond of $100,000.

The application for receivership listed assets at $29,000,000 and liabilities at $21,000,000.

WAY OPEN FOR PEACE IN HARD COAL FIELDS

Secretary of Labor And Industry in Governor Pinchot's Cabinet Expresses Views—Present Dispute.

By S. P. Hollingsworth.

HARRISBURG, October 16. — United Press. — The solution of recurring anthracite coal disputes lies in the direction of better organization in the industry and not in public ownership of the mines or regulation by governmental agencies according to Dr. Royal Meeker, the former U. S. commissioner of labor statistics and research director of the international labor office of the League of Nations.

Dr. Meeker, who is at present secretary of labor and industry in the cabinet of Governor Gifford Pinchot expressed his views for the United Press concerning the possibility of stabilizing the coal industry to prevent industrial disputes of great magnitude.

It is the constant dread of another strike to tie up the coal production that is causing the public to lose patience with the anthracite industry, which is a virtual monopoly for Pennsylvania.

The economic loss from this condition is a matter of grave concern to the miners and the operators who submit to it and to the people of the region where the coal is mined, who are constantly subjected to the unfavorable circumstances attending every mine suspension.

Need Better Organization.

"The best hope at the present time for the solution of the recurring coal disputes lies in the directios of better organization in the industry, and the working out of an agreement between the coal operators and miners," Dr. Meeker declared.

"Public ownership or operation of the mines offers no hope of a solution in the near future because neither the public nor the mine owners are ready for this step," he said.

"The business of digging, transporting and marketing the coal is a very complicated business and it would require many years to educate the public, the mine owners and the mine workers for such an enterprise and to build up a public agency, which could conduct this business efficiently even if it were possible to divorce it from political appointments and political pressure.

"Eventually it is probable we will come to public ownership and operation but what is needed is stabilization of the coal industry during the period of education and training prerequisite to the successful operation of the coal industry by the public.

It is, perhaps, even more difficult to regulate private enterprises than it is to operate them outright, as public businesses like the post office. The slight succeses of the public utility commissions, the insurance and banking departments of government in controlling, stabilizing and regulating the industries included under their jurisdiction, indicates how tremendously difficult and unsatisfactory is the enterprise of regulating private enterprises by public agencies.

Public Regulation Fails

"Public regulation of private quasi-public enterprises has never helped to train the public to run these enterprises successfully. Such regulation has too often disappointed and exasperated the public.

"On the other hand, the successes achieved in many large and complicated industries in the way of organization, stabilization and regularization by means of the co-operative action on the part of employers and workers indicate that the same principles and methods may be applied in the coal industry with equal success."

Dr. Meeker called attention to the transformation of the clothing industry from the worst to the best class as an achievement due entirely to this spirit of co-operation within the industry.

"Collective agreements have been made which have set up permanent, continuous joint committees of workers and employers to deal with every possible cause of dispute, before the dispute could develop so far as to be uncontrollable," Meeker explained.

"The experience in the clothing industry and many other industries shows conclusively that the best time to stop a strike is before it begins. It may be objected that the coal industry has had just the same kind of collective agreements as exist in the clothing industry and that in coal mining collective bargaining has failed.

Need the Machinery.

"The principal differences between the collective agreements in the coal industry and in the clothing industry has been precisely in the machinery provided to deal with disputes.

An all-inclusive organization, including permanent joint committees ready to act instantly in cases of disputes which cannot be settled by the shop foreman, is the plan proposed by Dr. Meeker.

"Industrial sores should be dealt with promptly before they have time to develop into carbuncles or to infect the whole industry with poison. The trouble in the coal industry is that the machinery for dealing with industrial discontent is inadequate and slow. Nothing is done to allay discontent until it is too late to do anything.

"This fatal defect in the collective agreement in the coal industry could be remedied completely by setting up a sufficient number of joint committees to deal with complaints and disputed points promptly and authoritatively. Of course, there must be mutual confidence and good faith on both sides. If these do not exist, they must be created before any progress toward stabilization and a permanent settlement can be made.

"I have thus far spoken only of co-operation between employers and workers, of collective agreements and joint committees representing the two parties. Experience shows, I think, that mutual agreements on the part of employers and workers are the best, if not the only, plan for securing industrial peace.

Favors Mutual Agreement.

"Whenever the public enters as an impartial chairmanor arbitrator, the 'settlements' reached have generally been unsatisfactory to one side and many times to both. In the best organized industries the tendency is to get away from the 'impartial' representative of the public. Each side to a controversy expects the impartial arbitrator to decide in its favor. In last analysis, industrial peace can only be secured through mutual agreement."

"Mutual agreement can be obtained only throught mutual understanding arrived at through conference with the public represented as a factor," Dr. Meeker continued.

"The public can be of great assistance in bringing disputes together and persuading, even forcing them, to listen to each others side of the controversy. It is only in this capacity that the impartial chairman or arbitrator representing the public can function usefully in the furtherance of industrial peace."

MAY RETURN WAR PROFITS.

Ford Books Audited for this Purpose—May Reach $30,000,000.

DETROIT, Mich., October 15. — E. G. Liebold, secretary to Henry Ford, stated that the books of the Ford Motor Company are being audited in order that Mr. Ford may turn back to the Government the amount of war profits represented by his stock holdings solely.

Mr. Liebold's statement read:

"Following Mr. Ford's previous announcement that he would turn back to the government the amount of profits acruing from war work on his own stock holdings in the Ford enterprises, and audit was begun on his books. In fact there has been a more or less continual auditing of the books ever since the close of the war. If we ever get a final settlement on the war contracts, taxes and the like, then Ford will make immediate repayment of his profits."

Mr. Liebold would not say when the audit might end, or what the amount of the profits to be returned might be.

Mr. Liebold would not hazard a guess as to the amount that would be returned to the government. It has been estimated at between $20,000,000 to $30,000,000.

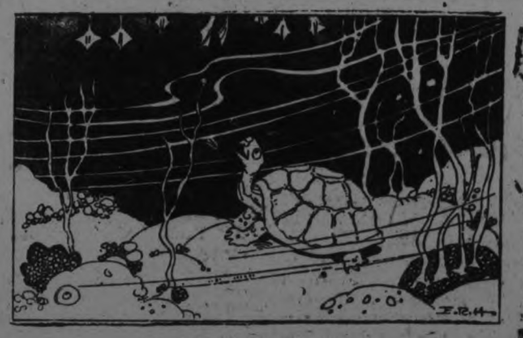
ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

NEVER MEDDLE WITH MOSEY MUD-TURTLE



"It's those ducks!" he declared.

Missez Duck and Mister Drake and all their fat children were swimming on the pond. It was a glorious day for ducks, raining like everything.

"My! My!" quacked Missez Duck. "I never felt so good in my life! Could anything be nicer?"

And she ducked her head under the water and kicked up her yellow heels, almost turning a complete somersault.

"Did you get anything?" asked her husband, swimming up close to see if he had missed something good to eat.

"Yes, some kind of a worm in the mud at the bottom," said Missez Duck loudly. At that all the chickens looked sadder than ever, for there weren't any bugs or worms where they were, and it was too wet for them to go out and scratch. Every inch of Squealy-Moo Land was flooded.

Now, there was one person who was as cross as a multiplication mark. He either liked to be awfully wet or awfully dry, and such things as rain storms he had no use for at all! When the sun was out nice and hot, he would sit on a log and roast himself and snap at flies and have a regular party all by himself.

It was old Mosey Mud-Turtle, and he was under the very spot where the duck family was showing off. He was trying to settle his nerves by taking a nap.

When Missez Duck dived she woke him up, for her bill wasn't two inches from the end of his nose.

"Well, of all cheeky things!" he snapped, sticking his head out of his shell and looking around.

"It's those ducks!" he declared. "If they come meddling around me again I'll have to teach them to hunt on their own premises and let other people's property alone."

At that very minute Mister Drake, not to be outdone by his wife, dived down with his long yellow bill.

And old Mosey Mud-Turtle made a grab and caught him by the neck.

"Help! Help! Help!" quacked Missez Duck in dismay. "Won't one of you chickens run and fetch somebody?"

"I'll get him," called the fairyman, "but next time you make fun of people, Missez Duck, don't ask them to do you a favor."

AMERICA'S SALESMEN AND FOREICN CUSTOMS

The president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Julius H. Barnes, points out in the October "Our World" how our commercial men are handicapped by obsolete and antique customs laws. In his article, "Taking the 'Cuss' Out of Customs," he welcomes the League of Nations Customs Administration Conference, this month, as an agency for doing away with the awkward delays which clog the channels of business. He writes:

"American business men have an interest in the customs administration of other countries, as well as our own. When we ship merchandise abroad, if we are to build up and maintain good will on the part of our foreign customers, that merchandise must come to market promptly, in good condition, and without the incumbrance of excessive penalties and other charges, and vexations documentary requirements, bonding requirements, etc. If we are sending a commercial traveler abroad, we want him to be able to travel about from place to place without delays, without having his sample cases held up unnecessarily at the frontiers, and without incurring penalties in connection with his samples that make his trip unprofitable.

"The converse of this situation is true. The English manufacturer or merchant, or the Italian manufacturer or merchant, or the Japanese manufacturer or merchant, is just exactly as interested in receiving prompt, friendly, business-like treatment at the hands of the customs officials of the United States.

"The October conference at Geneva is called to improve the existing situation in the custom houses of the world. In the phraseology of the League of Nations agreement, "equitable treatment for commerce," not hindered by excessive, unnecessary arbitrary customs or other similar formalities, is the thing aimed at. The various governments are called upon to take such legislative and administrative steps as to accomplish this end. The program calls for the governments officially participating to agree to report progress, definitely to the Secretary General of the League of Nations. The program carries for consideration a number of specific recommendations such as clearcut publication, in advance of application, of all customs laws and regulations; elimination of export and import prohibitions so far as possible, and simplification of the licensing systems where prohibitions are held to be necessary; the utmost simplification of technical verification and analysis of merchandise, and definite agreement to abstain from unjust discrimination between nations in this respect; efforts for international comity in requirements relating to purity, quality, sanitary conditions, district of production, etc.; simplification and uniformity in the requirements of certificates of origin; a simple system of temporary free admission of commercial samples, under bond. The whole field of customs administrative services will be under discussion."

ANNUAL SOCIAL AT 'MERRICANA'

Mr. and Mrs. T. Webster Entertained at Their Summer Home Above Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 15—Mr. and Mrs. T. Z. Webster entertained more than one hundred of their friends at their pretty summer home "Merricana" on Friday night last. The party, which is an annual event, is looked forward to from year to year and to paraphrase Coue's famous saying "every year in every way better and better." There was music in the air and the dancing never lagged from the early evening till the breaking up in the "wee sma' hours," dancing both round and square, was popular; card tables were provided for those who preferred less strenuous amusements and they provided lots of entertainment. The delightfully wild night was ideal for a jolly house party and though the fog was rather heavy, everyone reached home safely and without undue delay.

Supper was served about midnight and a corps of willing helpers assisted Mrs. Webster to dispense the feast of good things to which all did full justice. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Darling Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. W. Millar, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Slater, Mrs. I. Magee (of Peterboro), Misses Jean, Lizzie and Mollie Thomson, Effie Webster, Doidge, Clara Kidd, Hazel and Etta Bolton, Jean Ridpath, Helen Watson, Stella Lennox, Sylvia Holmes, Helen and Gwendoline Magee, (of Peterboro), Corrall Crapp, Myrtle Preston, A. Hunter, Ethel and Annie Millar, Verna Elliott, Lulu Darling, Ella Spencer, Myrtle Little, Lelia and Helen Burgess, Messrs. Ohlman, Jack and Clayton Ridpath, Dr. Renwick, Dr. Kennedy, Harry and Alan Gill, Russell Little, Richard Graham, J. Knox Herbert Tucker, and Walter Tucker, Arthur Barker, Selma Crapp, James Preston, Warren Northey, George Fairbairn, Archie Millar, T. Sullivan, George Hendren, Leo Spencer, Judson Hill, Langley Lawless, W. L. Webster, Fred Webster, O. H. Webster, Hilliard Payne, Chas. Hunter, Norman Preston and Wilfred Murduff and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster are famous hosts and the evening was a great success, adding yet another party to the long list of happy evenings spent at "Merricana."

Girls' Auxiliary Tea

The Girl's Auxiliary of St. John's Church held an afternoon tea and sale of home made cooking and candy in the school room of the church on Friday afternoon. The ideal weather conditions were a valuable aid to the success of the afternoon as many patrons (mostly of the fair sex) visited the function and went out laden with good things The financial returns were gratifying and exceeded the expectations of the girls. The room was decorated with fowers and autumn leaves and with the lights softened by Japanese shades, presented an unusually attractive appearance. Miss M. Hampton, the president, was assisted of Misses Lottie Smith, Amy Watson and Etta Ogilvie and a corps of younger girls who was assiduous in their devotion to business.

Miss A. Watson was the convenor of the tea committee and was assisted by Misses Beatrice Junkin, Gladys Manning, Goldie Wannamaker and Helen Watson.

Misses Grace and Dell Watson presided over the fish pond which was especially popular with the youngsters.

The candy table, with Misses Hazel Crawford and Mae Mahood as attentive salesladies did a thriving trade. Misses Heler Everett and Winifred Payne at the fancy goods' booth were competent helpers. Misses Ogilvie and Ione Sanderson had charge of the ever popular home cooking booth.

Entertained Choir

On Friday evening the members of the Methodist Choir were guests of the members of the X-Ray class and the Lakefield Brotherhood and Sisterhood. The evening was particularly pleasant and the presence of Hendren's orchestra added greatly to the evening's entertainment. the girls of the X-Ray class After a very pleasant social hour presented the choir with $20.00, while the Brotherhood and Sisterhood presented $45.00, obth gifts, which amount to a goodly sum, to be used toward the purpose of vestments for the choir. Needless to say the offering was welcome and the thanks of the choir were given to the donors. The Brotherhood and Sisterhood have been disbanded for some time and their cash balance of $45.00 was made up of member's fees, which had been held in case of a resuming of their organizations and had no connection with the money raised at the "Old Home Day" on July 1st., 1921, which was divided among the various town organizations.

Foggy Nights

The fog which prevailed on Thursday night in a manner which suggests tales of Old London to the Canadian Mind and in a rather lesser degree on Friday night, made travelling a rather tedious business. Navigation on the river was quite out of the question and by road it was neither pleasnt or speedy.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Oct. 16.—On Friday the case of Julia Duneen and her father, Almon B. Van Blaricom against the village of Colborne was heard in the County Court before Judge Ward. The plaintiff claimed damages for an accident that happened some time ago. In September, 1918, it is stated, they were driving on the main street of the village of Colborne. They drove up in front of the registry office with the intention of tying their horse. There was a ditch at the point, it is stated, covered with wooden plank, and the horse and vehicle went through a rotten plank throwing the occupants out. Mrs. Duncan, it is alleged, required medical attention for some time afterwards. A year after the accident a writ against the corporation is stated to have been served, and this was recently renewed upon application to Judge Ward. After a part of the evidence had been taken the action was settled between the two parties. The corporation of Colborne pays the plaintiffs $475 each party to pay their costs. Porter, Butlet and Payne for the plaintiffs, W. F. Kerr, K.C. and F. M. Field, K.C. for the defendants.

FIVE MEN ARE BURNED TO DEATH IN A FIRE

MARQUETTE, Mich., October 16 (Canadian Press). — Five men were burned to death yesterday in a forest fire near Birch, Mich., twenty miles from here.

The dead were employees of the Lake Independence Lumber Co., of Birch and were working on railroad construction.

Little news is obtainable owing to the telephone and telegraph wires being severed.

Crowds of men are being organised here to fight the fire.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Although oysters are high in price there is little waste. So for the money invested the amount of nourishment is great.

Care should be taken in cooking oysters that they are not overcooked. Nor should they be subjected to too high a temperature during cooking. Oysters are a protein food and their digestibility depends much on the care used in cooking them. If they are over-cooked or too quickly cooked they become tough, leathery and hard to digest.

Raw oysters may be served to invalids, and steamed or baked oysters and plain oyster stew are easily digested.

"Made" dishes of oysters are more difficult to digest because of the "makings," the oysters themselves being practically steamed or baked in the other ingredients.

Baked Oysters

If possible choose oysters in the shell. Wash shells and place in dripping pan. Bake in a hot oven until the shells part. Force open, sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve on shell.

If oysters in the shell are not procurable try the following:

One pint oysters, small ovals of toast a little larger than the oysters, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, paprika.

Clean and drain oysters. The bread should be toasted on one side only. Place bread in dripping pan, toasted side up. There should be a piece of toast for each oyster. Put oysters on toast, sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake until oysters are plump. The oven should be moderately hot. Cream butter, slowly beat in salt, nutmeg and lemon juice. Spread over oysters while hot and serve at once.

Oyster Stew

One pint oysters, 1 cup hot milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon salt.

Pour ½ cup water over oysters and drain in colander. Strain liquor through cheesecloth and bring to the boiling point. Look over oysters and add to hot liquor. Reduce heat and let stew stand at the boiling point until oysters plump and edges curl. Skim oysters into hot milk, add butter, salt and pepper. Let oyster liquor boil two minutes and strain into milk. Serve very hot.

Cream of Oyster Soup

One pint oysters, 2 cups water, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 2 blades of celery with leaves, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg, paprika, whipping cream.

Pour water over oysters. Add onion and celery to liquor and bring to the boiling point. Simmer for 15 minutes and strain through cheesecloth. Chop oysters very fine and add to broth. Simmer 20 minutes. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. When mixture reaches the boiling point add salt and nutmeg and stir into oyster broth. Bring to the boiling point and serve with whipped cream on top of each cup. Sprinkle with paprika.

This soup is richer than the stew and is of a creamy consistency.

SPEAK TO ME, LORD

Speak to me Lord, in the calm early morning,
As fresh from my slumbers Thy presence I seek.
Teach me to walk mid life's cares and temptations,
And pure and unspotted my spirit to keep.
Speak to me, Lord, in the glare of the noon-day,
When weary and fainting I stumble and fall;
Oy, speak to me then, lest in stress of temptation,
The world and its baubles my soul shall enthrall.
Speak to me, Lord, in the hush of the evening,
When the hills echo back the sweet Angelus chime,
And up from the vale in the paths homeward wending,
The sheep and the shepherd in quietness climb.
Speak to me, Lord, when the night shades have fallen,
And far overhead the stars twinkle and shine,
Speak pardon and peace ere I sink into slumber,
And light up my couch with Thy radiance divine.

DO YOU BELIEVE

If the business man could have the same ideals, the same lofty purpose in life that school teachers often express in the following well-known creed written by Edwin Osgoid Grover, how much better things would be:

I believe in boys and girls, the men and women of a great tomorrow; that whatsoever the boy soweth the man shall reap.

I believe in the curse of ignorance, in the efficacy of schools, in the dignity of teaching, and in the joy of serving others.

I believe in wisdom as revealed in human lives as well as in the pages of a printed book, in lessons taught not so much by precept as by example, in ability to work with the hands as well as to think with the head, in everything that makes life large and lovely.

I believe in beauty in the schoolroom, in the home, and in daily life and in out-of-doors.

I believe in laughter, in love, in faith, in all ideals and distant hopes that lure us on.

I believe that every hour of every day we receive a just reward for all we are and all we do.

I believe in the present and its opportunities, in the future and its promises, and in the divine joy of living.

In a Big Way

The future of Northern Ontario and Quebec in a mining way is developing much more rapidly than many good people realize. Funds for the development of promising properties are becoming available in a big way and the natural reflection of this is that the market in mining shares is beginning to do business in a big way.

The development of a broad market in mining shares holds attractive possibilities for trading and investing in these issues. We offer complete facilities to all who are engaged in transactions of this kind.

HIGH TRIBUTE FOR A LOCAL TEACHER

Presentations and Addresses to Mrs. H. M. Ashley On Eve. Of Her Marriage.

At a reception held in Mark street Methodist church recently in honor of Mrs. H. M. Ashley who was married on Monday to B. B. Anderson, of Chilliwack, B.C., the bride-to-be was presented with a very handsome umbrella and a white gold bar pin and hand bag. Mr. V. Boorman voiced the feeling of the choir and Sunday school showing the high esteem in which Mrs. Ashley was held in the church and Mr. J. Ellis with whom she has been associated in a business way for over ten years spoke of the happy relationships that had existed, paying high tribute to the splendid womanly qualities manifested by Mrs. Ashley now Mrs. Anderson.

The following addresses were read on behalf of the Sunday School of Mark street church and Mrs. Ashley's Sunday School class:

From the Staff

"Dear Mrs. Anderson:

"Hearing with regret that you are about to sever your connection with us, we cannot allow this opportunity to pass without asking you to accept this present, not because of it's great worth, butforthehig htestetem worth, but for the high esteem we have for you and the kindly manner in which you have worked with us in striving to extend our Master's Kingdom. Regard it ever as a momento of our affection, and may you live in the future as you have lived in the past, in the blessed enjoyment of Grace Divine.

"Signed on behalf of the staff of Mark Street Sunday School.

"Supt. A. W. Gamble,
"Treas. Marian Millage,
"Sec. K. Throop."

From Sunday School

"Dear Mrs. Anderson:

"We, your devoted Sunday School class wish at this time to tender to you our grateful thanks for all your kind interest and faithful instruction during the time you have been our teacher. It is with feelings of regret that we learn of your decision to leave us. We each one of us feel that we would like to give you something tangible as a remembrance of your kind interest and association with us.

"This small gift may not be of great monetary value but we ask you to place its worth more in the kindness of heart which impels this action on the part of your loving scholars. We trust in your absence wherever you may be, that God will guide and council you and still keep us linked in spirit and earnest endeavour. With love, we the undersigned bid you adieu, we hope only for a little while.

"From your Sunday School Class,
"Helen Throop
"May Grierson
"Fern Stenton
"Grace Agnew
"Dorothey Bamforth
"Hazel Hunter
"Jean McGregor
"Eliza Champion.

THE WEATHER.

The past summer was exceptionally dry in this section, and the usual "fall rains" have yet to put in an appearance. A narrow strip of territory stretching from the neighborhood of Lindsay easterly to Kingston, has been decidedly deficient in rainfall. Since the middle of last June the total has only been 44 per cent. of the usual amount. North of this dry belt, however, the rainfalls have been copious. To-day we have been favored with beautiful weather. Have you ever noticed when we do have a fine day in October and November it is usually of the superlative order? —W. P. (

COBOURG, Oct. 16.—Rev. Canon Broughall, Rector of St. George's Church, St. Catharines, preached yesterday at both services at St. Peter's Anglican Church of which Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers is Rector. Rev. Canon Broughall began his mission here today.

The Methodist Church

Rev. A. R. Wash, Roseneath, preached at both services in the Methodist Church on Sunday, and the pastor, Rev. R. F. Stillman, preached anniversary sermons at Fenella on the Roseneath circuit.

Other Churches

Rev. W. A. Bremner, pastor, occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at both services, preaching earnest, helpful sermons. Communion service was held in the morning.

Rev. James W. Pedly, Toronto, was the preacher at the Congregational Church and also at Coldsprings Congregational Church.

At the Cobourg Baptis: Church, Rev. J. N. Norton continued his helpful series of sermons on "The Christian," by taking for his subject, "Why Be a Christian," which he dealt with in a characteristically frank and earnest manner.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, will hold anniversary services next Sunday, when the preacher for the day will be Rev. D. A. Thompson, Hastings, Clerk of Peterborough Presbytery.

Baltimore Methodist Church

The anniversary services of Baltimore Methodist Church, of which Rev. T. G. McKee is pastor were held yesterday. The special preacher was a former pastor, Rev. G. C. R. McQuade, and his many friends in the congregation, were delighted to see and hear him again.

Grafton Churches

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Grafton, enjoyed a rare treat in the presence and address of Rev. John Griffith, of the Home Missions, who spoke in a very interesting way of present day conditions there and their relation to the work of the church in China. The service was under the direction of the Women's Missionary Society as was also the service in the Presbyterian Church at Vernonville, and both were well attended.

The Grafton Methodist Church had a special preacher the same day. Rev. Mr. Campbell of the Social Service Department. He gave a good address with special reference to the temperance situation in Ontario at the present time. The service was under the direction of the Women's Missionary Society.

Rev. Mr. Moyer, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Grafton, was in Toronto last week attending a Synod meeting of the Presbyterian Church.

In the Hastings County Judge's Court, judgment was given by His Honour Judge Deroche, ordering a Belleville young man to pay one hundred dollars and five dollars a week maintenance in a charge laid by Officer Ruston, under the Unmarried Parents Act.

Benefit For Shelter

The annual donation party for the benefit of the Northumberland and Durham Children's Aid Society was held at the Counties Shelter in Port Hope last Wednesday. This is always an event that is quite readily responded to by those inclined to benevolence in the different municipalities that assist in this good work.

Transferred to Corbyville

Mr. J. V. Lapam, excise clerk at the Port of Belleville, has been transferred to Corbyville as excise officer. Mr. Henry W. Dillemuth of Belleville, has been appointed by the Civil Service Commission as Customs Excise Examiner at the Port of Belleville.

Sold If Not Claimed

The motor car seized over a week ago near Deseronto with three hundred bottles of champagne and Scotch whiskey, bore a Michigan license, it is stated, and has not yet been claimed. It is expected that it will be sold if an owner does not come along.

Death of Mrs. Geo. Wright

The death occurred at the family residence on Friday, very suddenly, of Mrs. Wright, wife of Mr. George Wright, and before her marriage Matilda Clarke. Mrs. Wright was born in England, but had resided in this country for over thirty years. She had reached her sixty-first year. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, Bertram Wright. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon to Cobourg Union Cemetery.

Real Estate Transfers

Lillie M. Pepino has sold to R. A. Patterson a building lot on University Ave., Cobourg.

R. L. Rolls is stated to have sold to his son, Mr. Currie Rolls, merchant, a new house on Henry St., recently erected by the former.

Frank W. Menipi, administrator of the estate of the late George W. Menipi, has sold to Frank L. Eagleson, a part of lot 4, con. 6, Hamilton township, consisting of about fifty acres.

Kester—Hogan

The marriage took place recently in St. Mary's Church, Rochester, of Margaret Irene, only daughter of Mrs. Margaret Hogan, of that city, formerly of Cobourg, to Mr. Henry J. Kester, eldest son of Mr. August Kester of Bailey Road, West Henrietta, N.Y. The bride wore a becoming navy tailored suit with picture hat and fox furs, and corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Agnes Stuart, wearing navy tricotine with grey hat and fur. Mr. George Kester, brother of the groom, was best man. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. P. L. Hogan. The bride and groom left later for a trip to The Thousand Islands.

Known at Newcastle

Mr. Walter H. Saunders who met his death by accidental shooting at Rice Lake recently, spent his week-ends and holidays the past summer at Newcastle-on-the-Lake in company with his brother, Mr. William Saunders, whose wife and family occupied a cottage there. Consequently the news of his death was a source of deep grief to many Newcastle citizens.

Coldsprings School Fair

The North Hamilton Rural School Fair was bigger and better than ever before this year. Very many prizes were awarded to successful competitors. The prizes to schools were awarded as follows:

Strathcona exercises—1, S. S. No. 18, Miss D. Piggott, teacher; 2, No. 12, Miss A. Sweetman, teacher.

Singing—1, No. 18, Miss D. Piggott; 2, No. 12, Miss A. Swee man; 3, No 16, Mr. W. Davey.

Marching—1, No. 18, Miss D. Piggott; 2, Miss A. Sweetman; 3, No. 16, Mr. W. Davey.

Special feature—1, No. 18, Miss D. Piggott; 2, No. 18, Miss A. Sweetman; 3, No. 16, Mr. W Davey.

Total score—1, No. 18, Miss Piggott; 2, Miss A. W. Sweetman, No. 12; 3, No. 16, Mr. W. Davey.

I INVITE EVERY MAN AND WOMAN IN PETERBORO AND VICINITY

Every Person in This Section Who is Weak, Rundown, Sick or Nervous to Try This Great Medicine at my Expense—Free Bottle Will be Given to all Who Come Early.

ALL HAVE THE SAME CHANCE TO GET WELL AND STRONG

This is an invitation you can't afford to ignore. I'll tell you why. I am going to give you a free bottle of medicine that will tone you up and put an end to all chances of indigestion, rheumatism, constipation, catarrh, and kindred ills.

The medicine of which William Bronson said, "It is the only medicine that eased my stomach and stopped the gas, wiped away stomach troubles and put strength and vitality in my blood."

A highly efficient stomach medicine made from roots, herbs, barks, leaves, and a few other good things for the nerves, blood, stomach, kidneys and bowels.

You may be starving your blood in the midst of plenty. It isn't how much you eat that counts, but it's how you digest the food you eat.

You cannot get steam out of water without fire; you can't get brain power, nerve force, and red blood corpuscles out of food without digestion.

Thousands lack sufficient vital force and don't know why. They think they need a tonic, a vacation, or a change of scenery, but they don't. It's old digestion that's the matter with them, and six days of Dreco will prove it. They don't get the strength out of their food. It's like running corn through a mill with the rollers too wide apart, the corn gets through, but the mill doesn't grind.

DON'T THINK YOU MUST HAVE A PAIN TO HAVE INDIGESTION.

Lack of flesh, too much fat, pimples, blotches, sallow complexion, lack of nerve force, impoverished blood, sleeplessness, headaches, backaches, sideaches, weak brain power, dizzy spells, spots floating before the eyes, may all be due to faulty digestive process either in the stomach or the bowels.

Take Dreco with your other food for a week and find out how your digestive organs are working. If the Dreco helps you greatly, gives you more force, strength and brain power, dizzy spells, spots floating, your liver and bowels are not doing their duty.

Only yesterday your head may have felt dull and heavy, you had the "blues," were cross, nervous or irritable, everything seemed to go wrong and you couldn't tell why.

It's ten to one it was old dyspepsia slyly getting in his work, not enough to cause you pain, but just enough to dull your brain, rob you of your vitality, upset your lives, and deplete your nerve force. Maybe you don't think so, but try a bottle of Dreco and see if it doesn't change "blues" to a bright cherry red, make the old world laugh in a merry glee, and put new vigour and vim in your life again.

Lewis A. Todd, the travelling salesman, had stomach trouble so bad he practically had to live on liquid foods. He couldn't even eat vegetables without suffering terrible pain. He took two bottles of Dreco and can now eat anything he wants without any distress whatever—sounds like a miracle? Well, we have Mr. Todd's own signed statement to that effect.

C. L. Maltick, the B. and O. conductor, says he had rheumatism so bad he had to use a cane to get around at all. On his fourth bottle of Dreco he said: "I am now feeling fine — have thrown away my cane," These are only two of hundreds, yes, thousands.

TEST THIS MEDICINE FREE.

Mr. Sufferer, have you ever heard of the wonderful medicine that talks, that really tells you itself what it can do—that's Dreco. Five minutes after you take it the medicine begins to unfold its virtues, and it will by actual demonstration, unfold to you more in regard to its merits in ten minutes than I could probably make you believe if I wrote you ten books as large as the dictionary.

"Words cannot tell how glad we are for Dreco,' 'declares Mrs. Treasa Copley "The first bottle fixed me up," says Walter F Dixon. "Am a changed man now." states Rev. Joseph L. Butler.

You may know some of these people, or know somebody who knows them. I'll send you their full addresses if you want them so that you can find out about Dreco, and the wonders it has wrought.

Probably you are now thinking whether all this can be true; stop it. Come at once to Bond's Drug Store, Peterborough, and ask for the Dreco expert; he will give you, absolutely free, a good-sized bottle of Dreco. This offer is open to every man and woman in Peterborough and vicinity. There are no ifs, ands, or buts attached to it, except that you come early, before the generous supply of free bottles has been used. You don't have to buy anything if you don't want to All I ask is that you step in and test this wonderful medicine, and see for yourself what it can do for you. So please come as early as possible.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughn, the Dreco Expert. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

DR. TOLD NURSE TO TAKE DRECO

Crippled Up by Rheumatism so She Had to Hold on Banisters — Feet Swollen, Limbs, Ankles, Elbows Full of Pain.

"I am writing to say a few words in praise of your wonderful medicine, Dreco. I have often been asked to endorse this or that medicine, but always refused, but Dreco is different," said Mrs. D. S. Simpkins, of 1442 Law Avenue, Evansville, Indiana.

"I have suffered greatly from rheumatism and been treated by excellent physicians, finally tried a change of climate, but always my relief was temporary. While nursing I've had doctors pity me, saying I should be the one in bed with a nurse to attend me. My feet were so swollen and painful I could hardly keep my shoes on, my ankles and limbs were so sore and stiff I had to limp in my walk. I often had dark circles under my eyes, and that tired look in them.

"Constipation was a source of great annoyance and I couldn't secure relief from it. I was often nauseated and had a repulsion at the sight of food.

"To-day my feelings are entirely changed. I have taken two bottles of Dreco, and I am much better. The doctor told me to keep on taking it. Every ache and pain is gone, the constipation is completely relieved.. I am no longer nauseated, but eat and relish every meal. Instead of being a sore, crippled creature, limping around, I am happy and can nurse cases to-day which I would have been forced to refuse before. I give all the credit for my grand relief to Dreco, and unhesitatingly recommend it to every one who suffers as I did."

THINGS TO REMEMBER WHEN WASHING BLANKETS

Our grandmothers used to tackle the spring cleaning all at once, going painstakingly from the top to the bottom of the house and not leaving one single nook or cranny out of their reckoning. They would likewise pile all the winter blankets in the washtub and work until their backs and arms ache until the blankets were all folded away to await the coming of cold weather.

The modern housewife has learned the art of taking things much easier, not only because she does most of her housework electrically but because she divides her tasks rather than doing them all at once. With the old method all the blankets were done during one week. The modern home-maker, relying upon her electric washing machine, does her blankets in relays during the early summer, whenever the mood is upon her.

The housewife who washes her blankets electrically has learned several important facts which we pass on to our women readers.

1. Temperature of the water for both washing and rinsing should be kept medium hot (with wool blankets it is best to have the water just a little better than warm) and never above 110 Fahrenheit.

2. Fill the tub up to the water line and then put in two cupfuls of soap jelly or flakes which will mix quickly with the water.

3. Important! Let your machine run for two or three minutes to whip up good stiff soap suds.

4. Wash one blanket at a time, if double; two, if single. Allow about fifteen minutes for washing. If blankets are very soiled it may take longer.

5. Above all, blankets should never be twisted or wrung out hard. You should therefore always release the tension of the rolls before putting the blanket through the Wringer.

6. The rinsing water should always be as near the temperature of the washing water, as possible. It is undesirable to use clear water for rinsing. Rinsing water should have some soap in it. Soap serves to conserve the natural animal oil in your blankets without which they would be hard and lifeless. Each blanket should be rinsed two or three times with a diminishing amount of soap in each water. Blueing is unnecessary and undesirable.

If these suggestions are followed and a clear, breezy day is selected on which to do the job, it will turn out successfully. The best way to dry your blankets is to lay them flat on the lawn, over a protecting sheet. If space does not permit of this, hang over the line, pull the edges and corners straight and place equal weight at each end.

MET HIS DEATH WHEN CAUGHT IN SHAFTING

Victim's Nose Torn Off, Eye Gouged Out And Cheek Bones Broken.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press.)— Coroner Dr Boyce opened an inquest to-day, following the death in hospital here of James Lannigan, aged 60, who was whirled in the shafting yesterday at Lazier Paper Mills, just north of this city.

The jury was taken to the scene of the accident by the Coroner's orders.

Lannigan's nose was torn off, an eye gouged out and both cheek bones broken. He lived eight hours. A widow and family survive. The inquest was adjourned until Friday.

HEAVY GALES CARRY FIRES OUT OF CONTROL

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The heavy south-west gale that sprang up yesterday has carried scores of forest fires out of rangers' control, and swept them forward during this afternoon in parts of Northern Minnesota.

A bad situation exists along the Minneapolis, St. Paul and S. S. Marie tracks, between Duluth and Cass Lake, with six or eight uncontrolled fires. A bad fire is also causing trouble south-west of Boy River village.

Listen!

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence healing.

FREE TRIAL Cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps, 50c. box.

NEWS FLASHES

By using 20 000 000-candle power and 120 projectors for electric flood-lighting the new Wrigley building in Chicago is so illuminated that this 34-story structure is visible for 15 miles. In placing these flood-lighters they have been so arranged that the intensity of the light increases with the height of the building reaching the maximum brilliancy with the tower.

The new superdreadnought Colorado, just placed in commission at a Camden, N. J., shipyard is electrically driven as are a number of the newer battleships of the United States Navy. The four propellors, each driven by a 7 000 horsepower electric motor, are independently controlled so that should one become crippled the others will not be affected.

A school of electric cooking, attended by over 700 women was recently conducted in a vacant store at Pueblo, Colo., by Miss Eugenia Galvin, a specialist in this type of cookery. Among the prizes awarded in the contest that closed the sessions of the school was an electric range —the first prize for baking.

The Cora Williams Institute, Berkeley Calif., is now being heated electrically and a considerable saving of money is resulting. Fourteen heaters varying from two and one-half to six kilowatts each, constitute the electrical heating equipment. When coal was used for heating it cost on an average of $100 month throughout the year in addition to the wages of the furnace man. Electrical heating for December and January last, the coldest months of the year required an expenditure of only $106 and $110 respectively, while the heating current bills decreased materially as milder weather came along.

An electrical whipping machine, for cream, not children, has just been put on the market by a middle western appliance manufacturer. This piece of kitchen apparatus, operated from a convenience outlet holds one quart and in addition to whipping cream it will make mayonnaise dressing beat eggs stir light batters and do a number of other wrist-breaking kitchen operations.

Juneau the capital of Alaska may only be a city of 3 500 inhabitants but electrically it bulks quite large. Every house in the city is wired for electricity. There are over 300 electric ranges in use in the homes of Juneau in addition to hundreds of the smaller household electrical appliances. The central station maintains a completely furnished room adjoining its electric demonstration kitchen which is at the service of women of Juneau for club and church society meetings luncheons suppers bazaars and similar functions.

Did you ever realize that trolley car current has a fondness for flirting with the needle of a ship's compass? The British Admiralty has found that vamping of the helpless needle by the electric current which operates the "tram-car" lines of Greenwich so distracts the needle that it will point almost anywhere except to the exact magnetic North. As a result its compass-testing station has just been removed to an isolated spot in the Surrey hills miles removed from trolley car lines.

Nearly one thousand small electric home appliances, such as grills, toasters, chafing dishes, curling irons, and the like were placed back in service as the result of the free repair week recently conducted by the electrical dealers of the mainland of British Columbia. During this week the dealers carried newspaper advertisements stating that for the week they would repair small electrical household appliances without charge for labor involved and would only charge for needed new parts when the cost of these exceeded twenty-five cents each.

MYSTERY AND ROMANCE OF LONDON TAXI CABS

Amazing Revelations of Driver in World's Great Metropolis—Sinister Possibilities Connected With Modern Vehicle Which Plys The West End

TEN YEARS IN LONDON'S UNDERWORLD—THE AMAZING REVELATIONS OF A LONDON DRIVER.

The mystery and romance of the London hansom cab—associated for fifty years with Bohemian pleasure and elegant crime—has given place to the more varied, fascinating, and perhaps more sinister possibilities of the taxi-cab, particularly the London night vehicle that plys the West End in search of "fares."

Between dusk and dawn, the gliding nocturnal taxi is an important adjunct of the adventures, the pleasures, the mysteries, and sometimes the murders that flash upon the dark screen of the night's happenings. The taxi driver sees much that is hidden from those who sleep at night—much that is bizarre, astounding, baffling, and at times terrible.

In this remarkable series a taxi-driver abandons the reticence usually observed by the man at the steering wheel; he tells in simple but vivid language of the things he has seen in London's West End nocturnal life and in the labyrinth of the underworld where polished crooks regard the taxi-cab as the Chariot of Crime.

SPEEDING TO PLEASURE — AND CRIME!

When night falls then the nocturnal taxi glides through the streets of the West End. Before the dawn many strange places will have been visited and many queer folk encountered.

Ten years of taxi driving in the West End, mostly at night, has given me a stock of memories that touch the heights and depths of human experience. I have driven heedless Youth to Pleasure; old men to dubious joys; gay girls to scenes of secret revelry; mystery men and women to strange clubs, the very existence of which are unknown to the police; famous folk, relaxing for a little from the cares of state and public life, have hailed my cab and been whirled away to scenes far different from the sedate setting of their daylight life. Moreover I have unwillingly been brought into contact with dangerous criminals—the type of modern crook who regards the taxi as the useful adjunct to his nefarious schemes. Red murder itself has not spared the driver of these public vehicles, while victims of demented love have found death while speeding through the darkened streets of London's pleasure-land—the down-to-date equivalent of "The Mystery of Hansom Cab."

I recall that Hopwood, the middle-aged business man who gave up a well-ordered domestic life to pursue with vehement passion what he called "a love the like of which none have known before," came to a night in his disordered life when in a frenzy of jealousy and misery he whipped from his pocket a revolver and shot his "dearest darling angel" through the breast.

"A burst tyre" muttered the taxi-driver, as he pulled up in Agar street, close to the busy street, when the report struck upon his ears. But even as he alighted the door of the cab was wrenched open and a distracted figure alighted, crying:

"Oh, my God I have killed her—I have shot the woman I love best in the world"—and the driver knew that tragedy had suddenly invaded his routine work. This was the first murder done in a taxi-cab, but not the last. For the night came when Bernard Pomroy killed his beautiful companion while crossing Leicester Square in a taxi, and then calmly ordered the driver to drive to Vine street police station where he arrived with his first dying victim. But of this more later.

It must have struck the observant that the taxi increasingly figures in sensational murder cases. In December, 1922, a woman was murdered in a taxi while being driven down the Rue la Fayette; in Berlin the horrible Rohn crime startled the Under Linden—passersby being transfixed with horror at the spectacle of a man in evening dress in a brilliantly-lit taxi stabbing fiercely at a woman in full toilette de nuit. 21 the murder at No. 1 St. Enoch Square, Glasgow, a taxi glides into the picture of the crime, while after Ronald True crept furtively from the flat of his frail victim, he hailed a taxi and was driven hither and thither as he disposed of the dead girl's trinkets and purchased himself fresh articles of clothing to cover the horrible crime the wet blood of which still stained him.

In the tragic shooting of Sir Henry Wilson, the taxi played its part, for the great soldier had just driven up to his Belgravia mansion from unveiling a memorial tablet in Liverpool street station when the shots of the assassins rang out and he fell dying. Finally, the dastardly murder of my friend and road-chum, John Dickie, under circumstances of cold-blooded ferocity, seems to have been the climax of the association of the taxi-cab with supreme crime.

London's Hidden Life

I have cited these few instances by way of introduction. There are many, and I shall deal with them fully. I would almost venture to say that night taxi-drivers in London's West End know more of the hidden life of the Underworld and Bohemia than the police do. They see much that they do not comment upon; people trust themselves with child-like simplicity to the man at the steering wheel; he is often the guide, philosopher, and friend of the man with money to burn. Occasionally he is the unconscious helper of the criminal; rarely—but still sometimes—he is in league with the desperate characters who are at war with the police and who live by preying upon the rich.

If all the strange happenings they see could be recorded, the public would be startled. In reviewing some of my ten years of memories I myself feel the truth of the old saying, "Truth is stranger than fiction."

Poor John Dickie

He knew a good deal about life in London streets and could have told many an amazing story. I shall relate some of the most remarkable experiences which befell him and other taxi-drivers he and I knew.

It is a strange coincidence—and one that I do not care to think about—that Dickie once remarked to a friend of his, in my presence, how remarkable it was that few crooks had ever attempted to rob a taxi-driver.

Many stories have gone the rounds about the reason for Dickie's murder. I have heard it said that Dickie met his death through being too much mixed up with London's underworld and that this murder was an act of vengeance.

There never was a 'straigher' man than Dickie, and, needless to say, such stories have come from the lips of those who did not know him.

I am convinced that he fell a victim to robbery. Indeed, in my own experience I have known of attempts of this kind. Once I myself was set upon in a dark quarter of Limehouse, whither I had driven a fare, by two men, one of whom carred a revolver.

Roughly, I was ordered to 'shell out.' I was about to do so—for it is foolish to argue with a revolver—when happily held arrived and the would-be robbers took to their heels.

Helping The Police

The driver of a taxi is often in a peculiarly advantageous position when the police are seeking information. He can—if he is an honest man—assist the authorities in numberless ways. In the course of his work he cannot help discovering the whereabouts of gambling dens, opium 'hang outs' and those too-numerous resorts to which men go for immoral 'amusement.' I shall deal with many cases of this sort later, but it is sufficient here to state that more than once has an honest taxi driver rendered invaluable assistance to the police.

Often he is able to give information regarding the whereabouts of a man he has driven, who answers to a certain description.

"Good," a detective will reply, when he learns what the driver can tell him of his late fare, "we are after the man for murder."

The taxi-man is not surprised. He is too used to such happenings. There is also the possibility that one or other of the scores of fares that enter his cab in the course of a day may be a "wanted man" fleeing from the police.

I remember once reading of the disappearance of a pretty girl from her home in Kent, and reading too the newspaper description of her. Two nights later a young lady of the same description hailed me in Piccadilly.

The newspapers spoke of a slight sore on the girl's neck. Seeing that my fare had such a scar, I merely nodded when ordered to drive to a notorious west-end club and made, at a good pace, for a nearby police station.

My surmise was correct. The girl had been lured to London by an unscrupulous man with whom she had fallen madly in love. She was grateful for what I had done—afterwards. Had I taken her to her destination, she, like so many others, would have fallen in the toils of the web of white-slave traffickers. I was just in time, and the authorities were able to effect the arrest of the girl's unscrupulous 'lover' who had lured her from home to the city of a thousand mysteries.

Shady Owner-Drivers

Taxi-drivers must be divided into those who drive for companies and small owners; the man who has managed to purchase his own cab and takes a delight in keeping it spick and span—who has not noticed the difference between the vehicle all fresh and neat with flowers adorning the interior and a smart man at the wheel compared with the frowsy cab with the surly, dirty driver who is usually uncivil—and the vagrant owner of a cab who is not at all particular what he does so long as he makes money. These are the unscrupulous men who bring the taxi-driver into discredit—men who too often in league with criminals and those who are the high priests of the exploitation of London's Night Life.

Such drivers will take "fares" to a gambling hell for a substantial tip. If a man is seeking a 'female companion' they will cater for such a demand without the slightest hesitation, so long as a good 'persuasion' is pressed into their hands.

Why is it that so many of the gambling hells in London are never raided? Is it because the police are dishonest?

What I am going to say will amaze some people. The police are often unable to raid these places in time, even though they know of their existence.

The proprietor of a gambling house will often have two, or even three, alternative places where his clients can 'sport their money.' He has spies—often he pays taxi-drivers who are "in the know," and can get firsthand information about a pending raid—and often he pays men of other professions—who warn him when the police are expected. These spies tell him which of his three houses is under suspicion. Supposing that his clients have already met there, the proprietor will send a timely warning and the gamblers and attendants will move—often by secret ways provided by the proprietor—to one of his other two places where there will be 'safe' from the authorities for the night.

When the police raid the suspected place they find, perhaps, a few innocent-looking men and women having supper there. The real law-breakers whom they are after have vanished.

Then there are owner-drivers and other taxi-men who are paid liberally to bring clients to certain gambling hells. These payments are almost always on commission, and a taxi-man whose greed is greater than his honesty can often make a great deal of money in this way. Rich Americans are singled out as likely mugs.

Or even if a fare asks to be taken to a certain restaurant, the driver will take him to a notorious restaurant "on his books" and say he mistook the name. The unsuspecting fare will complain half-heartedly and enter the restaurant to which he or she has been brought. Inside the proprietor will take care of his new patron.

It is often, in this manner, that men and women fall into such traps and come away ruined—either financially or morally, or both, as the case may be.

Houses of Mystery

The ordinary public never sees into London's underworld as the taxi-driver does. He may be hailed by two or three men and told to drive to a certain house, east or west, and wait outside until they come out. He will wait—and the men will come out and he will drive them back again.

Often I have afterwards discovered I had been driving crooks to a meeting place.

One will sometimes see, too, a taxi driver pull up before a dark, silent house in the East end. He will knock at the door, enter and eventually come out and drive off. What is the explanation of such an apparently ordinary occurrence. What lies behind those mysterious visits to dark houses in unfrequented streets?

There are many explanations. I will deal with one or two.

The house may be a gambling hell or a secret headquarters of a criminal gang. The taxi-driver may have brought warning of an impending raid or of some danger from the police.

If a fare asks to be taken elsewhere the driver will say that such a place is being raided that night. Then he will suggest the place that pays him for suggesting it, and his fare often falls to the deception.

How does the dishonest taxi-driver know? It is remarkable how much he does know. He has friends in the very heart of Scotland Yard, one might say, and it is amazing how much those friends learn of police activities. It would take too long to go further into this matter, and even the honest taxi-driver often knows a great deal about his dishonest colleagues and their associates that he dare not speak of, but he must keep to himself if he has any regard for his own safety.

Dishonest taxi-drivers are always at the disposal of crooks. Sometimes they belong to a gang of criminals.

Often, when a burglary is planned and the crooks intend robbing a house, whose occupier is away, a taxi is used to take the crooks to and from the scene of their crime.

A taxi-driver, whose "bus" is regarded as a "straight-up taxi," is called in. He waits near the scene of the crime, keeping his cab just around a corner conveniently near, or even a little way along the road. When he sees a policeman approach he will blow his horn so that the crooks will hear.

Apparently he will be waiting for a fare, who have gone into one of the other houses.

The crooks come out—the taxi-driver will speedily convey them back to their lair, and his reward is no negligible one, either.

The "Opium Express."

How does the opium trader distribute his devilish wares in London? The public have heard of many ways, through the newspaper reports of police court cases, but there is another method, which I never recall reading about in cold print.

The medium is very often the taxi driver. Early in the evening he will call at a mysterious house for his supply. This he will offer to suitable fares. His keen eye can soon "size up" a likely purchaser. Perhaps it will be a woman, more drunk than sober, whose face tells its own tale of vice. Perhaps it will be to some frequenter of a night club, whom the taxi man knows resorts to drugs. There are hundreds of such types—and the dishonest taxi-driver knows them all. He will pay another visit to the mysterious house late that night, or early the next morning, and receive a liberal commission when he has "paid in" for what he has sold. Needless to say, he finds most patronage among the frequenters of night clubs.

I shall have more to say about the peddling of drugs—in which famous actresses were concerned—in my next article, but now I would like to refer to a case of a girl who disappeared and of whom I heard from a fellow-driver, when we were chatting together, while waiting for the crowds to come out of a London theatre.

It concerned a driver, who was hailed by a very pretty girl in the Marylebone road one evening. The girl told him to drive to a house in a well-known square some distance away. Whenc she got out she told him to wait for her.

He did. While he was waiting he noticed a taxi draw up behind, but no one got out.

The girl came from the house, got in and asked to be driven to a restaurant in Limehouse. On the way there, passing through a deserted quarter, the driver noticed that the taxi behind was still following. Gradually it drew level and two men leaned out—one from beside the driver, where he was standing, and another from the inside of the cab.

Each man held a revolver. The driver of the girl's cab was ordered to stop. He did so. While one of the men covered him the other forced the girl to get out. She tried to scream, but was thrown into the other cab.

The man who was covering the driver warned him to keep his mouth shut, or else he would suffer for it.

He was told to drive on, while the other taxi made off in the opposite direction.

A few days afterwards the driver was reading a newspaper and saw a photograph of a girl, who was to have given important evidence against a criminal charged with a serious crime. She didn't come to the court, and it appeared as if she had vanished. Nothing was ever heard of her again.

The driver knew a good deal about the underworld—as most taximen do—and for the sake of his wife and children he dared not speak of the incident. My friend, poor fellow, he went to France shortly afterwards and never returned, so that I did not meet him again—learned the facts from the driver after a serious street accident, in which the driver was fatally injured.

The Girl Who Vanished

Everybody has heard of the mysterious disappearance of Mamie Stuart—the lonely girl who vanished after a bigamous marriage with a young engineer, and who was last seen alive at a lonely house; close to the Mumbles, Swanea. The police dug up the garden to this house; examined the walls and flooring; and scoured the country; even Canada and America was combed for her. But no trace has ever been found of her.

I believe she lived for quite a time in London after she was seen at the lonely house. I know as a fact that she had a friend who had a flat in Maida, at Lauderdale Mansion, and at this time that she made the acquaintance of a smart young taxi-driver who drove his own cab. In fact, I always believe that they were married; certainly they were about a great deal, while Mamie, who had a great fondness for motors was taught to drive. On one occasion I was told by a pal that Mamie sported male attire and actually took the car out of the garage and drove one or two "fares." She had a curious weakness for driving about in taxicabs, even before she met this special friend, and would not walk the slightest distance or take a 'bus if she could raise the price of a taxi. I always keep my eyes open for her, for I cannot believe that she is dead. My own opinion is that she is living quietly in the great world of London and will reappear one of these days. I know several taxi-drivers who are convinced that at different times they have driven Mamie Stuart—or her double.

ADLER COLLECTION IS ONE OF LARGEST

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Adler collection of 40,000 Hebrew books and 4,000 Hebrew manuscripts, which has been added to the library of the Jewish Theological Seminary, will require the labors of scholars in about forty tongues and specialists in a hundred sciences, arts and trades, before its medieval learning can be added to the current stock of historical knowledge.

Jewish scholars came from many parts of the world to study the collection of 70,000 volumes at the seminary before the Adler library was added to it. It will be necessary now for students to make the pilgrimage to New York because of this hoard of unworked historical sources, which goes back to the seventh century, and which throws light on detail of the world's progress since the breakup of the Roman Empire down to modern times.

The Adler collection was put together by Elkan Nathan Adler, an international lawyer of London, in repeated tours of Europe and trips to Jewish centres in Asia, Africa and America. He bought many things in this country. Some of the books have been in the same families since medieval times. A set, acquired by the Jewish Theological Seminary, was continuously in the possession of one family in Spain from 1492 to 1910, and for three centuries at least the discovery that they possessed the books, which had been damned by the Inquisition, would have meant death to all members of the family. Other parts of the collection are in public archives scattered by war or theft. Many have royal signatures. One Spanish document is the sentence of an old Jew to be burned at the stake because his daughter was caught reading a religious book in Hebrew.

Jews Revived Learning

Some of the manuscripts were written by Jewish physicians and scholars in the courts of Byzantine emperors, of Mohammedan generals and caliphs and of European sovereigns. At various times in the Dark and Middle Ages the Jews were partly privileged and partly persecuted.

Moslems and Christians had a deadly hate for each other and a varying attitude toward the Jews. Charlemagne sent a Jew among his ambassadors to Haroun-al-Raschid and the Jew was the only one who came back alive. They travelled and traded and interpreted between Moslems and Christians and started the revival of learning, according to Prof. Alexander Marx, by translating Arabian literature and science into Latin. Science and philosophy came down from accident to modern times from the Greeks to the arabs, to the Jews and then to the budding universities of Europe.

Jewish scholars are intent on showing that Jewish translators of Greek philosophy and Jewish doctors of the Middle Ages played a considerable part in shaping the medieval theology and philosophy of the Catholic Church. Many famous European doctors and scholars of the Middle Ages who were formerly regarded as Christians have been found to be Jews, it is said, through the recent study of Hebrew literature of the Middle Ages.

About two hundred of the books are Persian manuscripts of the ninth, tenth and eleventh centuries which were bought by Adler on a book hunting tour through Persia. Before the war the Russian Government sought to obtain these Persian writings and English scholars were mortified when they were sold out of England to the Jewish Theological Seminary.

These works throw light on a Jewish period that was previously in almost total darkness. Some of the books are written in Hebrew characters adapted to the Persian language. Some are about particular arts.

Thousands of the other books are written with Hebrew characters adapted to various languages, and they treat every kind of topic of science, quackery, religion, law and domestic life, so that the work of innumerable specialists will be needed before all their historical value can be exhausted.

A Miamonides Letter

As the first bankers, and especially as the first world bankers, the Jews had had relations of all kinds with medieval sovereigns, and their letters, memoirs, and records may prove of great value in tracing definite facts of history from the time of Charlemagne onward.

Some of the interesting documents are safe conducts with royal signatures exempting favorite or highly useful Jews from the normal persecutions. Others are passes through different lands. One of the most interesting autographs is a letter by Miamonides, the greatest of Jewish medieval philosophers, who was the physician to Saladin and who refused an offer to enter the service of Richard Coeur de Lion. The miamonides letter was found in the famous cache at the Old Synagogue at Cairo, where Jews for about ten centuries deposited their letters, books and records. The story of how the collection was made is told briefly by Adler in his preface to the catalogue of manuscripts.

"The collection of over 4,200 Hebrew manuscripts, briefly described in the following pages, owes its origin to heredity, training, environment and travel. My father, himself a link in the previous chain of Hebrew literature, taught his sons to venerate its achievements. One or two of my MSS I inherited as a child from an uncle. Benjamin Adler, many from my father and from my brothers, Marcus and Hermann.

"Most were collected on travels, or from travellers, generally travelling booksellers, such as Jacob Lipschitz, Fischel Hirsch, David Frankel and Deinard, Egypt and Palestine were visited in 1888, 1895-1896, 1898, and 1901. On the first occasion mostly Karaite MSS. were obtained. On the second the Cairo Synagogue authorities accompanied me to the Genizia (the vault in which manuscripts had been deposited for ten centuries) and permitted me to take away the first sackful of fragments from that famous hoard.

"Neubauer rated me soundly for not carrying the whole lot away. Schecter (the late Solomon Schecter of New York) admired my continence, but was not foolish enough to follow my example. The third visit produced more Geniza fragments and important MSS. from Palestine and a Geniza in Alexandria. On the fourth visit a number of Hebrew and Greek manuscripts in Corfu, others in Damascus and Nabious and Jerusalem were acquired. In 1892, 1894 and 1900 visits to Morocco produced mainly liturgical results.

"Visits to Algiers in 1894-5, 1905 and 1912, to Tunis in 1894-5 and 1905, to Tripoli in 1905, brought additions to the collection, but nothing sensational. Those to Persia in 1896 and central Asia in the following year proved eminently successful and resulted in bringing back many specimens of Hebrew Persian literature, of which, when Neubauer published his catalogue ten years before, there was only a solitary specimen in England.

Date From Seventh Century

On a journey to Aleppo in 1898 some good manuscripts were found, especially a Divan of what may be called the Lay Poems of Bagdad, full of references to Geonim and to unknown contemporaries of Miamonides. Visits followed to Constantinople and the Balkans in 1888 and 1913; to Spain and Portugal in 1892, 1894, 1900 and 1903; to South America in 1902-3, and to North America five times during the present century; to Russia also six times, and to India and Aden in 1906. In the Spanish speaking countries no Hebrew was found, but sundry matters of Jewish interest, especially in connection with the Inquisition. Curiously enough important Hebrew manuscripts have been obtained where least expected—in Russia and the United States.

"To discriminate between the treasures is not easy; they comprise documents and letters of which the earliest dated are 640 and 832, and there are volumes of similar dates fragments for every century thereafter, the eleventh and twelfth being the most bulky."

They include poetry, astronomy, astrology, magical medicine and genuine medicine, mathematics, title deeds, marriage certificates, synagogue accounts, bills of divorcement. After reviewing a number of the rare books Prof. Alexander Marx, who is in charge of the collection, said:

"Similarly, our collection of the earliest books printed in Constantinople, Salonica and Venice are enormously enriched and many unique items added. To mention a few Constantinople books at random, we get an unknown treatise on the calendar of 1510; the alphabet of Ben Sira, 1519; Yodayah of Bezoirs, Sefer Hapardes ca. 1520; the printed fragment of the first edition of the Sifra with Abraham ben David's commentary ca. 1520; the edito princops of Kimki's Grammar, 1525, unicum; Abraham Ibn. Ezra, Yosod Morh, 1530; Joseph Kabez, Hasdo Hashom, 1532, from the library of the famous bibliographer, Manzoid, an unknown letter writer; Shobet Sofer, 1545; a fragment of the book Refuat Hatalmud, printed in Cairo, 1542, alleged to be by a member of the Soncino family, etc. We got a large number of the rarest Hebrew grammars of the first part of the sixteenth century, such as an unknown Aldino edition of Aldus's little Hebrew primer. Some new items are added to the Rouchlin-Pfefferkorn controversy, and so on.

Rare Early Bibles

"Our collection of vellum prints gets very remarkable additions, such as unusually fine copies of the Yalkut on Prophets and Hagiograph, Salonica, 1521; a volume of Babylonian Talmud, Baba-Batra, Venice, 1521; Maimonide's Code in four volumes, Venice, 1550; three book s of which no other copy is known; Mahzor Augsburg, 1534; the Roman Mahzor with commentary, Bologna, 1540, to mention just a few. Very curiously Adler had fols. 477-492 of the very race Bomberg Bible of 1521 on vellum, while we possess fols. 493-508, probably from the same copy. Altogether we will now have over forty books printed on vellum.

"The collection of early Bibles is very remarkable and includes the excessively rare Pontateuch of Constantinople, 1505, of which we get Conceis and Exodus printed on vellum and the Haftareth and Magilloth on paper; the two polyglots printed by the Soncinos in 1546-1547, the one Hebrew, Aramaic, Arabic and Persian, the other Hebrew, Aramaic, Greek and Spanish.

"We got an unusual collection of books printed in India in Hebrew, Marathi and English. Our Judeo-Spanish collection is enriched by many remarkable Stems, including several works by Manassoh ben Israel, such as his Piedro Gloricso, of which one copy has one of the original copper plates of Rembrandt, while another has the four plates imitating Rembrandt, which are ascribed to Leon Temple. We find here one of the Spanish prayer books printed in Ferrara, 1553; as well as that claiming to have been printed in Moguntia, 1534, which probably hails from Dodrecht. Of the Ferrara Bible of 1553 we got a Jewish and Christian copy. We got the treatise on the expulsion of the Jews from Oran, 1670; and the notice on the Jews of Cochin by Peroyra de Paiva, Amsterdam, 1687.

"Most striking is the collection on the Spanish Inquisition, which includes most important documents in prints and manuscripts and a wealth of books. One MS. which Mr. Adler picked up in Spain contained 104 leaves of original documents about the Marannos while the continuation of the same MS. is found in the Hispanic Museum of the city. We also find some original documents of Ferdinand and Isabella containing grants of properties confiscated from the Jews. Original documents from France and Germany also occur in the new collection as well as a holograph letter by Monasse ben Israel."

INFANTS DELIGHT TOILET SOAP

TO ALIGN WIRE WHEELS.

When truing wire wheels, always true the diameter first; this is controlled by the centre and back spokes; at the same time bring up the tension of the front spokes, or they will loosen up while working on the centre and back spokes. The front spokes control the side of the rim as well as the position of the hub shell from tie back of the rim, and can be used to bring the hub shell down to proper position. The front spokes should be as tight as the centre and the buck spokes. If they are tighter they will throw the wheel out and have a tendency to spring the shell out of true. Do not put too much tension on the spokes until the wheel is true. Should the spokes in a wheel to be trued up be badly rusted drop some kerosene oil or rust remover on each spoke by the nipple and also into the rim, and leave over night. In the morning adjust the wrench on the nipple, and while moving it tap the spoke; this will usually loosen the nipple. If too tight, cut out the old spoke and lace in a new spoke and nipple.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchang — and Curb Prices — —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, October 16. — Overnight news left the economic situation unchanged and stocks continued the technical rally to-day that was in progress most of the previous session.

New highs on the movement were reached by American Steel, American Woollen, and other industrial leaders, while the rails were generally higher.

Floor brokers reported that the demand for the leading stocks in the loan crowd was considerably reduced after Monday's close, indicating that a large part of the buying had come from the short interest which was putting the market up at its own expense.

With the more volatile section of the bear crowd eliminated the recovery showed signs of hesitation before the close of the first hour, but active stocks retained most of their gains.

Crucible reached new high ground on the movement at 60 3-4 in response to publication of the company's report for the year to Aug. 31st, while Crucible earned $6.46 a share on the common for the 12 months ended August 13th, the ratio was lower than reported by United States Steel Republic and several independent issues.

Crucible has five million common stock outstanding on which it pays $4 a share; considering the prosperity of the steel industry in the first three quarters of 1923 the margin over the regular dividend was comparatively small.

The report of Republic Iron and Steel for the third quarter will make its appearance to-morrow. It is predicted that earnings will not fall far short of what they were in the second quarter.

HOWLS NOT OWLS

An Englishwoman took a new maid into the country. The maid was a cockney, and determined to find the morning after her arrival she called her mistress, who asked her how h slept.

"Couldn't sleep a wink, mum; did n't you hear the howls?"

"Gracious me!" said the mistress, perturbed. "I hope nothing was wrong. I can't think who could have been howling outside our house in the middle of the night."

"No, mum; it wasn't anybody 'owling; it was the howls."

A THOUGHT

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—Sir Robert Perks, the most powerful Methodist layman in the world, has written to Canadian Methodism asking it if its idea in Union is to cut itself off from the 45 million Methodists of the world. This he begs Canadian Methodists not to do. A little union in Canada will mean a big disunion in the Methodist world. "What's the idea?" he asks. Then Principal Gandier, the head of Presbyterianism in Canada, has astonished friend and foe alike by coming out with a trumpet warning that Presbyterians must get back to Calvin or they are done. It looks as if the wreckers had got hold of the churches all right, doesn't it, Mr. Editor?

THE MOTOR CAR AND THE G.W.V.A.

As it is all important that the oil in the car should not run out or the spark go out, so it is with the spark of life or spirit of enthusiasm in regard to our comradeship. The members must never allow their enthusiasm to dwindle, but must keep the spark bright, and then they would keep going. For efficiency and smooth running ,all parts of the car must be kept bright and clean, and so it must be with the G.W.V.A. and the members of it. They must all work together for the ideals they believe in, and must work in conjunction and harmony after high ideals and noble aims. They must not be contented with remaining on the ground in so far as their aspirations are concerned, but keep on the mountain tops, where they would find invigoration. It was the inner things of the heart which mattered most, from whence emanated the motive power for good works and action.

The Beneficient Oil.

You mut not forget the oil. One might have a car of the finest manufacture and material, but it would not run without oil to make the surfaces of the different parts run smooth and to lubricate the parts. The mechanism of the car would be absolutely useless without the oil, and so it is with any organization. Oil plays a great part in making the rugged paths of life easier and smoother — the oil of comradeship brings kindliness, generosity, sympathy and cheerfulness. Everybody likes to see a smiling face—unconsciously it helps one along the path of life, and is so much more helpful than a grouching or pessimistic countenance. So we should all seek to get some of the oil I have referred to in the make-up; for it is such virtues which constitute life in its best and noblest sense. And not so much the hard material facts of life. The absolutely just man— the man who demanded justice and nothing more or less—is like a motor car without oil. It is kindiiness, mercy and consideration which are the oil of life which will help us all to a fuller and nobler life. And true comradeship would help the organization to achieve the objects and ideals it seeks to accomplish.

Yours sincerely,
J. A.

AN AMERICAN ENGINEER ON FRENCH OCCUPATION IN THE RUHR

Th effects o[illegible]n months of French occupation in the Ruhr are discussed in "Who is Winning in the Ruhr," by Captain Godfrey L. Carden, in the October issue of "Our World." Captain Carden, an American engineer, has been making a survey of the iron and coal regions of Germany which are held by the French, and he writes from the field of the military pressure on industry and the population. He says:

"All production is virtually at an end. Not only is there no raw material in sight, but all orders from the outside have ceased. The once enormous export trade of this region is completely stopped. It is as if a pall had descended on what was once the most intensive center of iron and steel production in all Europe.

"There is no question but that the French are making it difficult in the Ruhr. The occupation was undertaken to produce results, and the application of pressure is along legitimate military lines. The Germans may not travel freely. French vises are required for passing out of the occupied into the unoccupied regions and vice versa. No manufactured articles may be exported or even sent into the unoccupied territory without a French license. This license is a tax. The German Government has forbidden the people of the Ruhr and Rhineland to pay these taxes. The manufacturer must oppose the French or stand in contempt before his own Government. Railway employees who have refused to work with the French have been expelled, they and their families being sent out of the ter ritory, I learn, sometimes within twenty four hours. All of this, of course, is strictly within correct military procedure. The Ruhr occupation is war. The French are in possession, and have the power to enforce their orders. About 36,000 persons were expelled or arrested during the first five months.

"The German Government is at present meeting the pay rolls of the Ruhr workers. It is not possible to send in money, and so paper is issued by the combine of iron and steel works within the territory. This script the character of private firm notes. German Government funds are sent freely, however, to the British zone, and from thence find entrance into the French regions. But the French are making it increasingly difficult for outside aid to come in. Supplies have to be admitted to keep the people alive, but the quantity is small.

"At the Krupp works, where more than 100,000 men were at work at the beginning of the year, I found an almost complete shut down. Repair and overhauling jobs are about all that are in hand. The four Krupp directors, Krupp von Bohlen, Halbach, Dr. Bruhn, and Hartwig, are in prison in Dusseldorf. The population is in need. Potatoes, meat and fats are short. Shops are open only on occasional days. There is little to sell. I was able to get a cup of coffee in an Essen restaurant the morning I arrived, but no bread. Announcement is made in advance whenever a sale of meat or potatoes may be expected.

"All through the Rhineland and the Ruhr one is constantly coming upon French barriers across the railways with French sentinels on duty. All vehicles are stopped. If all is in order, the vehicles may go on. It is impossible today to conduct any transport service in the occupied region without the authority of the French.

"Custom points have been established by the French along the frontiers of the occupied territories and French bureaux set up. There is a positive prohibition against the exporting of iron, steel and coal, and this prohibition now extends even to transfers as between the works within the occupied region.

Practically all machinery and machine tools within the occupied zones are deemed in French possession on account of reparations. To dump much of this equipment on the market would seriously affect Belgium and French machine-tool business and for the present the French are withholding any shipments of machinery and tools in stock."

The Big English Comedy Hit, "Squibs Wins the Calcutta Sweep," Said to be Bigger than "Me and My Gal"

ROYAL THURSDAY

The famous English comedy "Squibs Wins the Calcutta Sweep" opens at the Royal Theatre on Thursday. This film from its record in the Old Country is said to be funnier than all it predecessors. The story is a sequel to that other notable comedy, "Me and My Gal," and takes up the thread of the adventures of Sam 'Opkins, the rummiest blighter in London; Squibs the lovable flower girl, and P. C. Charlie Lee, Copper from Piccadilly Circus.

In the cinema Squibs is represened as the winner of the famous £60,000 Calcutta Sweepstakes, and the way she comes into the ticket is funny to the exteme, Sam 'Opkins forgetting himself so as to buy the ticket from the pub-keeper for a couple of bob, and on returning with the ticket is set upon by Squibs and berated as the biggest bloomin' idiot that ever walked on Piccadilly Circus, and Sam gets almost to believe this himself. But oh what a shock when the results of the draw come out, and it is found that Sam drew the favorite, and from then on the fun that occurs is a thing that you dream about but very seldom see.

This picture opens at the Royal Theatre on Thursday and in view of the unprecedented success of this picture both in the Old Country and in the Canadian cities where it has already been shown, the public is advised to come early and be sure of obtaining seats.

STEPPING FAST WITH TOM MIX, LIVELY ACTION FILM

AT ROYAL

TOM MIX scores official qualification as a champion trick automobile racer in his latest William Fox offering, "Stepping Fast" which opened yesterday at the Royal Theatre for a three-day run.

In this highly charged melodrama of astounding thrills and sweet romance, Tom enlists the U.S.A. and China for his excitement locale. He and the lovely heroine escape from a dungeon in darkest China, when Tom lassoes, a mouse and ties a "help message" around its neck and puts it out of the window. Back across the Pacific they dash in a speedy yacht and race the blackguards to the hidden treasure.

Here it is that the versatile Tom qualifies as a champion trick racer The heavy, on horseback, attempts a get-away, but Tom, flinging himself into his prize racer corners him by an extraordinary skilful and scientific exhibition of driving. The day is saved, the heroine won, and Tom smiles broadly for the final happy closeup—the first he has found time for during the run of the picture.

The comedy "Winter Has Come" is a clever satire on the "Way Down East" type of drama and is filled with laughs. It's a good programme all through.

AT THE REGENT.

"SKID PROOF" PICTURES LIFE IN MOVIE STUDIO.

With its chief attributes of thrilling melodrama and vigorous acting, crowned by a brilliant background of an automobile race-track and movie studio, "Skid-Proof," Charles Jones' newest starring vehicle for William Fox, opened yesterday at the Regent Theatre for a 3-day engagement.

Aside from the clever performance by Charles Jones, and his female lead, Lura Anson, the picture is commendatory in points of scenic splendor. The reviewer was vastly impressed and entertained by the truthful atmosphere that pervaded all of the scenes related to the race-track. No less interesting were the sets representing a typical small-town auto tourney. The action centering around the Famo Motion Picture Corporation was enchanting by the sheer novelty of its exactitude.

The studio with its array of peculiar lighting apparatus, and revelations of the more intimate activities, struck home with tremendous force.

The hero's mishaps within the studio which he joins for the first time, sent the audience into rollicking fits. We thoroughly enjoyed this picture, and suggest that our readers put our judgment to the test by viewing it themselves.

AT THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol Theatre was filled last evening for the first evening presentation here of the screen dramatization of A. S. M. Hutchinson's novel, "If Winter Comes."

The picture is almost as difficult to describe adequately as the book, because the producers have kept entirely to the script. "If Winter Comes" is an outstanding example of the art of the screen in transferring to the silver sheet the hopes and fears, and, above all, the characterizations, which made the novel one of the most talked-of books of its time. Mark Sabre is there, irritating but loveable, with his inarticulate ways, his "puzzle-headedness," his boyishness and his lank frame. And there is Mabel too, the conventional wife, more life-like than in the book, if that were possible, annoyed by her husband's idealism, bound up in the narrow littleness of her daily round. There are High and Low Jinks, the meek servant maids, there is Effie with her ill-starred baby, adding to the twisted thread of Mark's life a tragic color, and there is Twyning, the jealous partner, working havoc in the court-room scene, where the hapless Sabre is baited and tortured by the mis-shapen little lawyer, ugly as a vicious small animal, with his prodding finger and fierce pounces on his sickening victim.

The characters are not overdrawn, but they suffer, as the book suffered, from long drawn-out treatment. There seems no end anywhere to the web in which the likeable Mark finds himself involved. His indecision and puzzle-headedness rule the picture, and the audience becomes wound, as it were, in the narrowness volver that will finish Twyning, does the tragedy of Effie, while Sabre worries over his troubles. Only when life has done its worst, when the limping figure goes down the road, stoned by the mob, warding off his friends with fierce vigor, as he treads his way alone, does the climax come. When Mark resolves on action at last, when he grips the revolver that will finish Tywning, does the atmosphere clear. And then again the man's goodness rules. Twyning, the man who has villified him, branded him as a murderer of the girl who betrayer was Twyning's own son, this Twyning is bowed with sorrow over his son's death at war, and Mark throws away his revolver and the incriminating letter left by Effie, the suicide, and pauses to comfort the broken man, his enemy and calumniator.

Like the book, the action is irritating at times and rather tragic always. A brooding fate seems to rest over the head of Mark at every turn of his indecisive way. But, like the book, it is a powerful delineation of character and interesting in the extreme. Until after eleven o'clock last night, the large audience sat in tense silence, watching the unfolding of the tale which has a romantic and happy ending, as in the book. Nona, Lady Tybar, is typically English and just a little colorless in the screen version, but she is not required to do much acting. The main figure is Mark, the "puzzlehead," with his bicycle and his worried brow, and his pipe, making his way through life with the aid of a big heart and an idealist's head. A picture out of the ordinary, faithful to the author's version, even to the point of manufacturing its sub-titles from the disjointed conversation carried on in the novel, it re-creates in action the story of "If Winter Comes." The many who enjoyed the book will enjoy all the more the picturization of Mark Sabre's story.

There is a Mack Sennett comedy on the programme, "To Change Their Luck," in which Brownie, the wonder dog of the movies, does some wonderful stunts when he undertakes to help his master get through a wonderfully crooked poker game.

of the ten returned and said there was no change to bring back.

"How can you expect to develop honest agreements between capital and labor, and between nation and nation, where the individual in the state is not drilled in honesty? We must drill ourselves in these honest, homely virtues which are so often homeless virtues, until we are skilled in their application to the daily needs of life."

"Magnanimity."

The third element in a proper education was magnanimity. "In education the boy's heart should grow apace with his head. I do not attempt to criticize the idea of vocational training, but I say it is a sad hour in our nation's life when a child is trained simply to handle tools as a means of life, and is not taught to see the goals of life as well, so that he will not be low-vaulted, but high-vaulted, in his ideas of existence. Besides justice and skill in the conduct of life, the child should have a character to match these attributes."

The magnanimous actions of General Grant to Robert E. Lee and the soldiers of the South at the time of the latter's surrender to the victorious Northern forces, was cited as an example of true magnanimity, its results stretching to the present time, when the Mason and Dixon line between north and south is forgotten, and the magnanimity manifested in the relations between the United States and Canada was also emblematic of the good to be derived from such procedure between nation and nation.

"The greatest single objective that we have to-day is to check war. Mr. Lloyd George has warned us that if the forces of Christianity allow another war like the last one to devastate the world again, civilization may as well close its doors. It is incumbent on us then to make clearings, as the forest rangers do, where good fellowship and community relations between nation and nation may be fostered, so that when the conflagration of murder that we call war threatens us once more, its fires may not leap across intervening spaces of friendship and peace."

Rev. Mr. Sockman's address, with its frequent humorous interpolations, was received with a degree of appreciative attention that brought an enthusiastic response to the motion of a vote of thanks from Mr. A. Mowat and Mrs. E. F. Mason.

Yankees Win Sixth Game and World's Championship---Sport

FIVE RUNS IN THE EIGHTH INNING TURNED A SEEMING DEFEAT INTO SPECTACULAR WIN FOR YANKEES

McGraw's Pitching Ace, Arthur Nehf, Weakened After Holding the American Leaguers to Two Hits --Ruth and Snyder Clouted Home Runs.

CROWD WAS SMALL.

NEW YORK, October 16 (Canadian Press). — Beaten, crushed after one of the most spectacular World's Series fights in history, the New York Giants yesterday surrendered to the Yankees the world's championship banner they have flown for the past two years.

And to-day, with this record-shattering million-dollar title battle at an end, the emblem of supremacy flutters atop the Yankee Stadium, the greatest and costliest monument of the diamond.

The Yanks won the sixth and final game yesterday afternoon at the Polo Grounds, lair of the Giants, by coming from behind and scoring five runs in a dramatic, pulse-gripping eighth innings, just when it seemed that the McGraw-men, fighting desperately with their backs to the wall, would tie the series and force a seventh contest to decide the struggle.

The final score was 6 to 4.

Thus the American League champions swept to their third successive triumph, completed the rout of the once-proud and mighty Giant machine, and, by the decisive margin of four games to two, gained their first world's title in more than two decades of embattled history.

Thus, too, was written into the annals of the national game, a struggle for the highest stakes it has ever known, gigantic spectacle eclipsing all previous records, that was witnessed by more than 300,000 fans who paid more than $1,063,000 in gate receipts.

The story of that eighth inning yesterday, coming when it appeared that the deadly southpaw arm of Arthur Nehf and the inspired play of Frank Frisch had checked the headlong rush of the Yanks, will go down as one of the most startling decisive championship turns of all times.

That brief thrilling, yet tragic span witnessed with amazing suddenness the ascendancy of the Yankees to the pinnacle of their career, and, simultaneously, the utter collapse of the Giants, the crushed hopes of John McGraw for three successive worlds titles—a debacle so stunning that to-day it seems to have marked the passing for all time from championship heights of the Giant machine as it emerged, broken, from the test.

It witnessed, too, the failure of the game's idol of idols to answer a call to fame that would have raised him to heights greater than any he has ever touched. For Babe Ruth, star of stars, the mightiest hitter of all time, while he had started the Yankees off in the first inning with his third home run of the series, fell down miserably in the eighth inning pinch, striking out with the bases full and the Yanks yet one run behind.

In his place a new hero was lifted up—Bob Meusel—who stepped into the breach that the Babe had left, and delivered the blow that resulted in three runs and clinched the Yankee triump.

Nehf's Magic Wand.

For seven innings Nehf, hero of the Giants' one to nothing victory in the third game, waved a magic wand over the Yankee bats, and it seemed that his port side slants would again restore Giant hopes and keep them in the fight. Backed by the spectacular defensive work of his team mates, particularly the dynamic Frisch, he allowed but one other hit outside of Ruth's circuit clout, while the Giants were hammering Herb Pennock, Huggin's southpaw ace, for nine hits and four runs.

But out of the clear sky of apparent Giant triumph came the collapse of Nehf, and with him the last break in the shattered chain of McGraw's pitching staff. From the highest peak of effectiveness, from brilliant control, Nehf went to pieces and "Rosy" Ryan who succeeded him, failed in a valiant effort to stem the tide.

Ward started the fatal eighth harmlessly enough by flying out to Kelly, but the first signal of Nehf's downfall came when Schang and Scott singled in quick succession. Sensing the break of the game, Miller Huggins, little pilot of the Yankees, duplicated the sort of strategy that earned one victory for his rival, McGraw, and threw in the full force of his reserves. Hofman, who took up the cudgels for Pennock, walked on four successive balls, Haines taking his place at first as the bases were filled.

Nehf in Tears.

Nehf tried gallantly to steady himself to save the situation, but facing a new pinch hitter, Joe Bush, batting for Whitey Witt, he failed. Bush walked on four successive balls, and Nehf, a slight, tragic figure, walked from the box, his head down and tears in his eyes. That pass forced in Schang and Ryan went into the box with the bases still full, and the Yankees still two runs behind.

Ryan, unsteadied by the tenseness of the fight, also was wild, and Scott was forced in with the second run, when he walked Dugan on four pitched balls, thus making the 12th successive ball that the Giant moundsmen had issued.

There was a mighty roar as into this dramatic spotlight stepped Ruth swinging his all powerful bludgeon. But instead of further unnerving Ryan, the sight of the master mauler seemed to steady him, for the Babe let the first pitch curve squarely over the plate, and fouled the second weakly. The next was a ball, but then Ryan, putting all he had into his delivery shot one squarely across and Ruth, swinging wickedly, missed, amid a thunderous outburst from the crowd.

But Ryan, safely past what seemed the hardest part of his task, faltered and Meusel caught his second pitch for a whistling single over second base. Haynes and Johnson, running for Bush, crossed the plate with what proved to be the tying and winning runs, while Dugan tallied with another for good measure when Cunningham threw wildly to Groh in an effort to catch "Jumping Joe" at third base. Pipp ended the rally by going out, Frisch to Kelly, but the damage had been done, and the Giant cause went down to defeat.

Sam Jones, Nehf's victim in the third game took Penock's place, and held the Giants in check in the last two innings, the nearest to a rally coming in the eighth when Young singled, only to be forced by "Irish" Meusel. Beaten and hopeless they went out in order in the ninth.

Frisch was Star.

Looming alongside the tragic figure of Nehf in the Giant disaster was that of Frisch, the "Fordham Flash," who stood out as the brightest all-round star of the game. It was Frisch whose remarkable fielding in the first seven innings cut off at least two Yankee hits, and seemed to put fresh hope into the breast of McGraw and his men. It was Frisch whose terrific hitting figured in three of the four Giant runs.

The Giant second sacker made one of the most brilliant defensive plays of the entire series in the fourth inning when he caught Dugans' looping fly in short right field over his shoulder and while running at top speed. He was close to the foul line when he made the catch.

Again, in the fifth, he raced toward second to make a marvelous stop of Schang's hot grounder and an equally brilliant throw that Kelly stabbed with one hand.

The advantage Ruth's homer into the upper right field stand had given the Yankees in the first innings was nullified by three successive hits by Groh, Frisch and Young in the Giants' half of the inning, the third sacker carrying the run across. A brilliant throw from centre by Whitey Witt, however, on Young's hit, cut down Frisch by a narrow margin at third base and possibly checked further scoring, though 'Irish' Meusel fanned to end the innings.

Frisch opened the fourth by beating out a pretty bunt down the first base line that caught the Yankee infield flat-footed. He advanced on Young's infield out, and scored on Cunningham's single to right.

Snyder Hit Homer.

Snyder's homer high into the upper left field stands gave the Giants their third run in the fifth innings and Frisch paved the way for the fourth tally in the sixth inning with a booming triple to left centre. Frisch crossed the plate on Meusel's single, but Cunningham and Kelly were easy victims for Pennock.

Altogether the Giants made ten hits, nine off Pennock and one off Jones, twice as many as Nehf and Ryan allowed. Pennock was far from the brilliance he showed in winning the second game, but he received credit for his second victory because the Giant twirlers could not weather the storm.

In the final analysis, it was the utter failure of the Giant pitchers that cost the world's champions their crown— that, plus the fact that the Yanks, on the other hand, supported steady and at times brilliant twirling with an indomitable, remorseless attack. Outside of Nehf, who alone of the Giant regulars was able to last a full game, McGraw had no sharp shotters upon whom to rely. And when Nehf went the way of the others at last, it marked a swift and convincing end.

Master Mind Defeated.

The Yankees, over the stretch of six games, outplayed their rivals in every department of the game, save possibly defence, and here there was little to choose with "Jumping Joe" Dugan of the new champions and Frisch of the Giants as the outstanding heroes. Speed, punch and pitching—the fundamentals—all were preponderantly on the side of the Yanks The Yankee speed was not alone of foot and hand, but of brain, and therein Huggins brought about the discomfiture of his rival, McGraw, the supposedly master tacitician—the "master mind"— whose battle with "brute force" seemed at the start to be the most dramatic feature of the series.

"Brute force," as typified by Ruth, was triumphant, but because it applied with that quality, the other winning requisites.

Casey Stengel, whose spectacular home runs gave the Giants the winning margin in their only triumphs, stands out as the hero of the fallen world's champions. Perhaps the score of the World's Series of 1923 might best be written:

YANKEES — Four victories; STENGEL—Two.

No Wonder Pal Quit The Game

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The solution of the mystery of the disappearance of Pal Moore, crack bantamweight battler, was found the other day when an old friend came across the punch artist in a broker's office, intently scanning the quotation board.

It develops that Moore has renounced the fight game for high finance and the report is the erstwhile battler is now wealthy.

Moore is said to hold 1200 shares of stock in a popular local taxicab enterprise. The present quotation on that stock is 268 a share. And this is said to represent but one of Moore's many investments.

CRAW SET NEW RECORD IN VAULT.

The senior pole vault was the third event in the P.C.I. annual sports programme to have a new record set up this year. On Friday afternoon the pole vault was held, and Boyd Craw set up the new record when he vaulted 8 feet 2 1-4 inches eclipsing by 1-4 of an inch the previous record made by W. Armstrong back in 1909. Last year Craw just equalled the record, and it was fully expected that this year he would beat his previous effort. However, the vaulters were working under the handicap of a poor takeoff and a rather strong landing, both tending to weaken their efforts, and thus lower their marks.

This year Craw also hung up a new record in the shot put, his other specialty, beating by a good margin the record held by Jack Green since 1915 of 42 feet 10 1-2 inches.

The results of the pole vault:

Senior—Craw, 8ft. 2 1-4in.; Young, 7ft. 1 3-4in.

7ft. 1 3-4in.; Sturgeon, 6ft. 9 3-4in.; Archibald, 6ft. 5 1-2in.

Junior—T. Chambers, 6ft. 5 1-2in.; H. Doughty, 5ft. 2 1-2in.; Frost, 5ft. 1-2in.

THREE LINDSAY SKIPS MAY QUIT

Little, Sisson and Williams Under Doctors' Orders to Stay Out of Curling.

LINDSAY, Oct. 16.—It is understood that there will be a number of changes in the lists of Skips, at the Curling Club meeting, to be held next Tuesday night. Several skips have dropped this year, including Geo. Little who has been one of the mainstays of the local club for years. Skip Little has been bothered for several seasons past with a foot, which gave him trouble, when on the ice, and he has been advised to rest up for a season. He will be greatly missed, as he was considered one of the best, if not the best curler in the Lindsay Club. His skill has been a tower of strength to the local club for many years, and the name of "Geordie" Little, is known all over the curling world. Devotees of the game in Lindsay regret to see him dropping ou this season, and hope to see him in line for some of the contests.

Mat. H. Sisson, also one of the leading skips in the club, has been forced to give up the sport this year, owing to his health. During the winter Skip Sisson, had a bad siege and was laid up for several weeks. He still feel the effect of the sickness, and at the doctor's orders will not be a participant in the games this season. He also will be very much missed, as he was one of the most genial of skips in the club.

Another first class player, and one of the most reliable of Skips, who has been advised to keep off the ice this season is Chas. E. Williams. Skip Williams, who was recently elected to be one of the District Cup Skips, was not aware of the fact that he would have to give the game up this season, until informed by his physician, following the annual meeting. Charlie is looked upon as a Skip capable of handling a Tankard rink.

HOME RUNS WERE FEATURE SOX WIN

Willie Kamm Made The Round Twice — Cubs Put Up Four Pitchers.

CHICAGO, October 16 (Canadian Press). — A five-run attack in the fourth inning put the White Sox out in front with a lead that never was threatened, and the Americans won the fifth game of the Chicago City Series from the National Leaguers, 7 to 4. The series now stands:

Cubs 2—Sox 3.

Home runs were the feature of the contest. Willie Kamm, $100,000 third baseman purchased by the Sox from San Francisco last spring, hit two four-baggers, while Ed. Collins hit one. Friberg and Vogel hit circuit drives for the Cubs.

Charley Robertson pitched for the Sox and always had a good lead.

Four pitchers toiled for the National Leaguers.

The score:

White Sox	0	00502000	—7 7 1

Attendance Record Broken This Year With Over 300,000

NEW YORK, October 16 (Canadian Press). — Three hundred and one thousand four hundred and thirty persons paid $1,063,815 to see the six games of the World's series of 1923.

These figures shatter all previous records, the old record having been established in 1921 when the Giants and Yankees, in an eight-game series, attracted 269,977 persons with receipts of $900,233.

Yesterday's Figures.

Attendance—34,137.
Receipts—$139,252.
Advisory Council's share — $20,887.80.
Each club's shore—$59,182.10.

Figures for Six Games.

Attendance—301,430.
Receipts—$1,063,815.
Advisory Council's share — $267,729.86.

The players' pool this year, $362,783.04, was more than $100,000 larger than ever before. Seventy-five per cent. of this amount is to be divided among the Yankees and Giants.

The Yankees, for their victory, will receive 60 per cent., and the Giants 40 per cent.

Figured on a basis of 25 eligible players, each Yankee will receive about $6,530, and each Giant about $4,363.

Each second place club will receive about $27,208, and each third place club about $18,139.

SOCCER NOTES

The League Championship game between G.W.V.A. and Thistle will be played at Oval on Saturday afternoon. In all probability Mr. Niven will referee. Kick-off at 3.30

Second round draw in Alex Kay Cup Trophy is Prince George versus Prince of Wales on Saturday afternoon at the Oval at 2 p.m. prompt before the big game.

Many friends of Billy Williams will regret to learn that he will be removed to Toronto on Wednesday to undergo a special treatment from a bone specialist. It is twenty weeks ago since he got his leg broken. All football fans wish him a satisfactory and quick recovery.

On Wedneday evening next, Central School will play Queen Alexander at Nicholls Oval. Kick off at 4.15 prompt. And at King Edward Park, King Edward will meet Sacred Heart in School Cup Competition. Mr. Stewart will referee at the Oval and Mr. Anderson at King Edward Park.

Queen Mary School has an excellent ground for soccer and they have been busy practicing all week but were disappointed last evening when notified that Saint Peters had not a team ready yet. They swing the ball from end to end and tackle quick.

Arrangements will be made for Queen Mary versus St. Peters on Thursday evening.

Some of the spectators of last Saturday's game had an enjoyable time rooting for their teams, and in this respect you could hear the typical Englisman, witty Irishman, canny Scot and "Atta Boy" Canadian all join in the dialogue. This entertainment was productive of good humor all the time.

There are in the Thistle team, three Englishman and rest Scots. In Vets team, all Englishman but Crowe, Canadian. Woollens, one Welshman, three Scotsmen and seven Englishmen. Quaker Oats, four Scotsmen two Canadians, (one a mute) and other nationalities. Packers had a cosmopolitan team. When going over the list you find all the teams are 100 per cent veterans of the World War.

Fred Sutcliffe had a busy afternoon refereeing the first School Cup tie game. At one period of the game score of the supporters of one of the teams questioned his decision and rooted hard for their favorites. The smallest boys on the field seem to have a better knowledge of the game than the big fellow, the miniature kid trapping, tackling and giving the big fellow the shoulder at the right time. Conception small boys are real live players.

All the local teams are requested to notify the Association before next Monday evening that they have a desire to compete in G.W.V.A. Charity Shield on behalf of injured players. A free entry. This includes the teams that have withdrew.

SISLER MAY NEVER PLAY

Will Quit If Winter's Rest Fails To Restore Sight

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—Despite optimistic statements to the contrary which recently found their way into print the indications are George Sisler will never play ball again.

To be cut down right in the prime of youth, before he really had reached his top form, was a bitter stroke for Sisler. And not only Sisler, the St. Louis Browns, the American League, but the fans as well.

Sisler, through his remarkable playing, had become the game's idol. He was Ty Cobb's successor, probably destined to become a bigger favorite than Tyrus, owing to his winning personality, and he was considered more value than Babe Ruth.

The latest report on Sisler is as much of a mystery as last winter when he was unable to respond to the call for spring training.

Sisler May Manage

With Lee Fohl ousted as manager of the St. Louis Browns recently, it has been taken for granted that Sisler will become the manager of the club in 1924 and occupy first base.

Perhaps the former, but the latter is not assured, although it has been eight months since he was strioken with influenza.

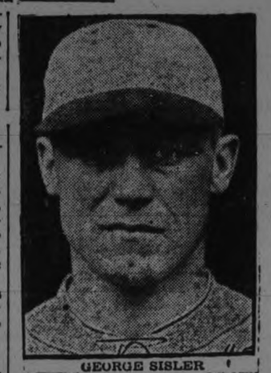
Sisler's present drawback is the sinus affection which interferes with the perfect sight of his right eye. It is a weak nerve which controls the focus of the optic and although it appears to be improving, Sisler today is far from being totally recovered.

"Time alone will determine my future as a ball player," said Sisler the other day in discussing the case.

"Last spring I had hopes of being in uniform on June 1. Later I postponed this desire until Aug. 1. Then I expected to be back in the game by Sept. 1 at the latest and now the season is closed.

Is Optimistic About Case.

"I will not make any foolish step. Of course, I'm optimistic and I feel that the winter's rest will cure me entirely. If it doesn't, however, then I will not think about getting in the uniform again. If nothing else, a ball player must have perfect vision."



GEORGE SISLER

The most cheerful news about Sisler is found in golf games he has played during the last four weeks. It takes a keen eye to pick that small ball out of the rough and Sisler has done it repeatedly with a mashie.

His approach shots to the green with a jigger have been excellent impersonations of Chick Evans. He has run down putts from the edge of the green, and like champion golfers, has missed them less than a foot.

Even if Sisler recovers sufficiently to reume play next year, it is doubtful if he will be able to show the form that caused him to be the most talked about player in the game Fautly eyesight is certain to destroy much of his confidence at the plate, and also handicap his fielding.

MIDIRON KILLS GOLF BEGINNER

Head Crushed By Backward Swing of Friend Teaching Him.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 16.—Clarence E. Reed, employed by the United States Trust Company, New York, who was learning golf Friday on the links of the Raritan Valley Country Club, was accidentally hit on the hit by a swinging midiron in the hands of a fellow-player which stretched him on the field unconscious and bleeding. Dr. Lancelot Ely was summoned and Reed was removed to the clubhouse for first aid, but a swift examination showed such dangerous symptoms that he was taken to the Somerville Hospital.

An operation performed soon after disclosed that Reed's head was crushed above the left ear. He died shortly before 10 o'clock tonight. Reed's wife, who lives at 273 George street, New Brunswick, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Reed, were at the hospital when he died.

Hit by Backward Swing.

Spectators of the accident said Reed was felled by a blow from Stahlin's iron as he closely followed the movements of the player without realization of any danger from this close proximity. Stahlin was driving the ball at the third green, which, starting for the right shoulder, ended over his left shoulder and crashed on Reed's left temple.

Stahlin said he had not known that Reed was behind him and did not know he had hit Reed. Stahlin went on with his play until he glanced back and saw Reed lying on the ground.

A member of the Raritan Valley Country Club who had examined into the accident, said last night that Reed and his companions were inexperienced players and that the accident was due to the fact that each of the players had acted as his own caddy.

Players Had No Caddies.

"If they had had caddies this injury, the first of its kind in golf that I have ever head of, could not have occurred," asserted the club representative. "Reed and Stahlin drove off on the third hole, with Reed's ball about six feet ahead of that of his companion. Reed made his play and then, instead of stepping aside for Stahlin to drive, he moved back and behind Stahlin to pick up his bag. As Reed straightened up with his bag he met the swinging iron, which hit him with terrific force about two inches above is helft ear."

Reed, who is about 40 years old, had not had a vacation for several years, and this was the first day of a two weeks' vacation he intended to put in at golf. He is a member of the Republican Club and the Elks of New Brunswick. When his wife and his parents reached his bed at the hospital late last night he had not regained consciousness.

The Mighty Babe Out At Home

This shows how Babe Ruth lo st a big chance to score what would have been a valuable run for the Yankees by failing to slide into the plate in the fifth After tripling he tried to score on Bob Meusel's fly, of which Frisch made an astounding catch in short centre. A great peg by Frisch to Snyder doubled Ruth. Billy Evans is the umpire.

UMPIRES ASK INCREASED PAY

Judge Landis Declares Umpire is Not as Important as Player.

NW YORK, October 16. — The umpires who worked in the world's series called on Judge Landis yesterday, and asked for an increase in pay in view of the big attendance. The now get $2000 each.

"Don't you think the umpires as important as the players?" one of the umpires asked.

The judge deliberated a minute. "No, I don't," he replied.

PITCHED BALLS FEW YESTERDAY

Once Again Giants Registered More Than Yankee Boxmen—Total 232.

NEW YORK Oct. 16.— The low mark in pitched balls for the 1923 World's Series was recorded in the sixth and last game yesterday, when but 232 deliveries were made by the opposing pitchers. Of that number, 81 were called balls; 60 called strikes 28 foul strikes; 6 fouls; 36 resulted in infield outs; 6 in outfield outs, and 15 were hit safely.

As in all other games of the series Giants pitchers registered a higher total than the Yankee boxmen, 117 pitched balls being the combined total of Nehf and Ryan and 115 for Pennock and Jones.

JUNIOR WORLD'S PLAY HELD UP BY WEATHER

KANSAS CITY Oct. 16.— With rain forecast for to-day, it seemed unlikely last night that the fourth game of the Junior Worlds Series between the Kansas City Club, of the American Association, and Baltimore, of the International League, would be played before Wednesday. It was announced that the concluding game of the Kansas City section of the series would be played before departure for Baltimore, no matter how long rain may delay it.

The condition of the playing field caused postponment of yesterday's game.

FIRST FISHERMEN'S RACE TO BE SAILED SATURDAY

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The first race for the International Fishermen's Trophy will be sailed off Halifax on Saturday, October 27.

This decision was arrived at a meeting of the Cup trustees here and meets the request of the American Race Committee made over the week end.

FOOTBALL GAME

LONDON, October 16. — Canadian Press Cable. — In a second division association football game played in the United Kingdom yesterday afternoon between Southampton and Stoke on the grounds of the former, Stoke were victorious by a score of one goal to nothing.

PRINCE OF WALES WON SOCCER GAME

Defeated Immaculate Conception 2 Goals to 1 in Cup-Tie.

In a School Cup Tie at King Edward Park last evening, the Prince of Wales School defeated the Immaculate Conception School two goals (penalties) to one in a good game.

The opening exchanges were fast and even. Prince of Wales forwards carried the play to Conception's goal but McMann in goal was right there to hold them out. Eventually Weir evaded Leahy and sent across to Griffen, O'Rouke tackled him but gave away a penalty inside the dreaded area, which was converted by Fred Griffin who was many a time held in check by the miniature full-backs of Conception School—Leahy and O'Dett. Both teams showed up well in tactics of the game and each boy did his utmost to force the issue.

The second half was resumed with the Conception boys holding the Prince of Wales boys to their own goal where Bill Hope punted clear when raids loked dangerous, till Danard gave away a free-kick for handling. O'Rouke drove the ball into goal where a scrimmage resulted and Leahy scored a beautiful goal. Play run from end to end until Eddie Bradshaw and Hope beat along the wing until close upon Conception goal. Bradshaw shot across to Weir who returned to Griffen. Conception boys held them out but Collins gave away a penalty, again Griffen putting his team ahead. Conception boys went right back at them and were all over the Prince of Wales boys but could not score. They were pressing when full time arrived. Prince of Wales 2 goals, Immaculate Conception 1 goal.

Goal scorers—Wales, Griffen, 2; Conception, Leahy.

Immaculate Conception—McMann, goal; Leahy and O'Dett, full-backs; Collins, Mongram, O'Rouke, half-backs; B. McMahon, Leahy, G. McMahon, Guerin and J. Collins, forwards.

Prince of Wales—C. Evans, goal; G. Danard and G. Neville, full-backs; E. Dulmage, Bill Hope and Gordon Cuthbertson, half-backs; E. Bradshaw, Jack Hope, F. Griffen, J. Murphy and George Weir, forwards.

Referee—Fred Sutcliffe.

GRANITES ARE NO MORE.

TORONTO, Oct. 16. —Granites will not operate a hockey team next winter. The team has been officially taken over by the Olympic committee and placed under the management of the O.H.A. Peter Campbell will assist Mr. Hewitt until the day of sailing, January 11th, when the same team will embark at St. John's, N.B., on the setamship Montcalm. The following players will be available for the Olympic trip—Cameron, Collett, Munro, Ramsay, Fox, Rutherford, Jeffrey, McCaffery, Smith, Romerill and Watson. Frank Rankin is the coach. Nine players will be taken and the above players are first choice, but the team will have to show form in the S.P.A. series or be replaced.

Soft Ball

Two Games Last Night Attracted a Fair Crowd Of Spectators

Last evening two soft ball games were played before a fair crowd of spectators. The first agrument between the Rangers and the K. of C. was billed for 7 oclock. The K of C. did not show up and the game was awarded to the Rangers, 9 to 0.

In the second game between the L.O.L. No. 50 and the Kiwanis, the former won by the score of 5 to 4, after seven fast innings.

The teams lined up as follows:

L.O.L. 50— Batten, 2b; K. Hardill ss; Dobson, c; J. Hardill 1b; McGee, 3b; Hall and Spencley, lf; Helson rf; Fitzgerald ss; Nicholls p.

Kiwanis —Gordon 2b; Green ss; Morphet 3b; Webber 1b; Brown c; McLean p; Cummer rf; Mackey ss; Byers lf.

Score:

Kiwanis .....1100200—4

L.O.L. 50 ....400100x—5

In the second game between the Dragoons and the Belmonts, the latter won by the score of 21 to 7. The Dragoons tried their best but could not overcome the lead. Both teams did a lot of heavy hitting and fast fielding.

The teams lined up as follows:

Dragoons—Sloane, c; Cooper, 3b; W Miller ss; Ecobischon 1b; Sheahy ss; Murray p; R Miller 2b; Malone and Hills lf; Bearne rf.

Belmonts— Batten ss; Lowe 1b; Stuart 2b; Heckman lf; Holyman p; Jobbitt 3b; Haskill c; Fanning rf; Thompson ss.

RUGBY

The following players were out at the Intermediate team practice last night: Stuart, Batten, Barber, Anderson, Sloan, Currie, Evans and others. The team held a snappy signal practice and a run around the park.

The Junior team also had a signal practice under the direction of Capt. Ernest Sheehy.

There is every possibiliyt of the Intermediates being called to play their first game in the O.R.F.U. on Saturday. The Parkdale Canoe Club will be their opponents.

There is no draw yet for the Juniors.

SEATTLE EXPECTS A GOOD HOCKEY SEASON

SEATTLE, Oct. 16. — (Canadian Press).—Three star hockey players, Frank Foyston, forward; Jack Walker, forward or defence, and "Red" McFarlane, defence, have signed contracts to play with the Seattle Club, of the Pacific Coast League, during the 1923-24 season.

Two more of the men figured for the Seattle team, Gordon Fraser, defence, and Harry Holmes, goaltender, are in Seattle and are expected to sign up this week.

ELEVATOR WILL BE A MODERN STRUCTURE

MONTREAL, October 16 (Canadian Press). — "We came back convinced that Elevator No. 3, now being erected in the harbour at Maisonneuve will be the last word in elevator construction; we did not see anything to justify us in any way altering the plans," declared Dr. Milton L. Hersey, Harbour Commissioner, yesterday when asked concerning his recent inspection trip to American and Canadian grain handling centres.

A BROCKVILLE TEAM MADE RECORD TALLY

BROCKVILLE, October 16 (Canate rugby football team established a record-breaking score for interschool rugby on Saturday against Prescott High School, when they ran up a total of 75 points to 0.

The local students scored 14 touchdowns, 6 of these being made by "Hon." Bob Rourke, Brockville member of Ontario's Junior Parliament.

DONIE BUSH WILL BE SUPPLANTED NEXT YEAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. Canadian Press. — Donie Bush will be supplanted as manager of the Washington American League Baseball Team next season, it was announced yesterday by President Griffith. No successor has been chosen, and no reason was given for the change.

HEARTY AT NINETY-EIGHT

SARNIA, Ont., Oct. 16.—The recent publication of a despatch from Gore Bay, Ont., telling of the death of Mrs. George Pearson, believed to be the only great-great-grandmother in Ontario, has brought forth a claimant for that honor from Lambton County.

Living in the village of Watford, about 25 miles east of this city, is Mrs. Jane Stableford, aged 98 years, who is still in good health and able to get around with a little assistance. Her descendants comprise nine children, seven still living, thirty-four grandchildren, sixty-one great-grandchildren, and thirteen great-great-grandchildren. The four members of the group which comprise five generations are Mrs. Sarah Wise, Port Huron, Mich., Mrs. George Wise, Sarnia, Mrs. Freda Dougherty, Sarnia, and her little son, Charles, aged 17 months.

Mrs. Stableford's maiden name was Land, and she was born in Hamilton in 1825. She continued to reside there until her marriage when, with her husband, she removed to Lambton county, where she has lived continuously with the exception of four years spent in Port Huron, Michigan.

SOFT WATER CISTERNS

Very Practical Instruction as to How To Build

Have the Cistern Large Enough —The Capacity Usually Required—How to Build—The Bottle Type Cistern Most Common in Ontario.

When you build a cistern make it large enough. Dry periods with the resulting water shortage must be guarded against, and the best insurance is a cistern of large capacity.

Capacity

A round cistern 10 feet deep and 8 feet in diameter will hold 119 barrels of water, or approximately 3,750 gallons.

For the ordinary household where soft water is to be used for all purposes other than cooking, it is well to figure on a daily water use per individual of not less than 12 gallons. To carry the household safely through the long winter period the cistern should have a storage capacity sufficient for the requirements of each individual to last at least 120 days. Each member of the family would, therefore, require for that period in a modern house 1,440 gallons of water. This figure includes the requirement for toilet, bath, laundry, and housecleaning.

How much rain will the roof of a farm house collect in a year? In Southern Ontario the quantity of water collected from the roof of a 30 x 40 house, if properly eave-troughed, will be not less than 22,000 gallons. In Northern Ontario, where a greater part of the precipitation is in the form of snow, the water collected may not be more than half the figure given for Southern Ontario. It is a large quantity anyway, and ample for the needs of a family of four people, if all were collected and saved.

Building the Cistern

The structure must be strong enough to stand the strain exerted by the pressure outward and downward of a large body of water. After determining the size required and the location, an excavation of the desired dimension is made and a foundation laid. Re-inforced concrete is the best foundation and floor material. The re-inforcing can be stiff hard wood, old piping, railroad iron, small I beams or angle iron imbedded in the cement and used in sufficient quantity to prevent any cracking through settlihg of the soil or weight of water above. The strongest type of wall for cistern is the monolithic or concrete re-inforced with metal, wire or rods. Strong walls can, however, be built of stone, tile, brick or cement blocks that will stand the heavy strain, providing such are re-inforced and well backed with firm soil. Re-inforcing metal should be used in all cistern walls no matter what material is used in the structure. Without re-inforcing cracks that are difficult to close may develop and open.

For cisterns over eight feet in diameter the re-inforcing should consist of vertical wrought iron rods, long enough to reach from the foundation to the top of the wall. With such spaced in the masonry at intervals of two feet and cross-tied with number three wire at eighteen inch intervals, the cistern wall will be strong enough to withstand any pressure likely to be put on it.

The Bottle Type Cistern

The bottle type cistern is generally used in Ontario. The advantage of the bottle type is in that the surface exposed area is reduced. An equally good cistern can be made with vertical walls all the way up. A flat concrete cover can be made for such by re-inforcing with I beams, or large iron piping. A man hole should be provided in the top to cover. An inflow pipe and an overflow pipe must be provided for at the intended high water level. A section of pipe of suitable size for a pump to water line should be built into the cistern wall at a height to suit the location when it is planned to install the pump. All pipe placed in cistern walls should be set in a mixture of one part fine sand and one part cement. Cement walls that are required to hold water should be carefully constructed of good clean material, well mixed and in proper proportions, one part cement, three parts clean sharp sand, four parts clean gravel, or small stone. In building, the green concrete should be well tamped and worked down against the sides of the forms in order to make a smooth wall. The horizontal re-inforcing iron can be put in as the wall goes up. With square tanks or cisterns the corners require special attention and must be strengthened by imbedding heavy iron. Iron bars one inch in cross section or inch pipe can be used for this purpose, after being bent to the desired shape. Scrap iron from old implements can be used to advantage in re-inforcing concrete, and there is generally a sufficiency of such old iron about the farm to answer the demand for re-inforcing any concrete work that may be undertaken. Where cement construction, the space within the tile are best filled with cement concrete; such will permit of better jointing and also strengthen the wall. A light iron rod, or two strands of number three wire, should be imbedded in the cement as each round of blocks is set. Ordinary building brick, set in cement mortar, make very good and durable cisterns. All masonry cisterns should be given a coat of cement plaster inside. If no re-inforcing iron is used then care should be taken to pack the soil on the outside of the cistern wall firmly to increase the walls resistance against pressure outward.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

UNARMED SOUTH AMERICA CANNOT DISARM

Augustin Edwards, of Chile, the chairman of the Fifth Pan-American Conference and former President of the League of Nations, points out in an article "Unarmed South America Cannot Disarm," in the October issue of "Our World," that South America cannot abolish arms which she does not possess. He writes:

"There are no armaments worth speaking of in the American Continent outside the United States, whose position as a World Power was not discussed at the conference. The information exchanged at the Conference confirmed the universal impression that all the American Republics represented might truly be said to be in a state of disarmament. The object pursued in including this topic in the programme of the discussions of the Fifth Pan-American Conference was in the nature of a preventive measure against competition in the acquisition of armaments. In other words, it was a prospective and not a retrospective or an actual limitation. It is my belief that the slight friction which this question provoked at the time between Argentina and Brazil, the countries engaged in the debate, will be dispelled sooner than people imagine. It has no material origin and the probabilities point to a complete and perfect agreement between all the countries which might conceivably find themselves in the undesirable position of having to compete in armaments.

"As regards naval armaments, which up to the present constitute the only direction, in which some measure of limitation has been possible, it cannot be too often repeated that there are South American Continent which have navies worth mentioning, and they are Argentina, Brazil and Chile. These three countries together can only boast five dreadnoughts, Argentina possessing two, Brazil two and Chile one, all pre-war types. It is hardly possible to figures.

"With respect to land armaments, none of the countries has them on a large scale, though it is well known that Brazil has the most powerful army. Brazil, of course, has territory greater than the United States, and she contends that both the vastness of that territory and the nature of her political organization require a greater number of troops for the maintenance of internal order than is the case with other American nations.

"No one can deny that it would have been an excellent thing if the Fifth Pan-American Conference had arrived at some cut-and-dried plan to put a stop to any numerical increase in both naval and land armaments."

WILLIAM SWIMMINGS BEFORE GRAND JURY

OTTAWA, Oct. 16. — (Canadian Press).—A true bill was brought in against William Swimmings, of this city, by the Grand Jury attending the Fall Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario, here yesterday. Swimmings faces a serious charge in connection with an attack on Miss Hazel Mockett, at Billing's Bridge, near here, on August 11 last.

WEDDING BELLS

ANDERSON—ASHLEY.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens, 364 Mark street, on Monday evening, October 15th, at eight o'clock, when Mrs. Henrietta McMillan Ashley became the bride of Baxter Bruce Anderson, of Chilliwack, B.C., in the presence of immediate friends of the bride Rev. R. Bamforth performed the ceremony. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left for a honeymoon in Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, after which they will reside in Chilliwack, B.C.

NELLIST—MILLAGE

A quiet wedding was solemnized at ten o'clock this morning at the parsonage of Mark Street Methodist church, by the pastor Rev. R. Bamforth, when Marian, youngest daughter of Mrs. John Millage was united in marriage to Harry Nellist, both of this city. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Millage.

The bride wore a gown of grey crepe de chine trimmed with beads, grey hat with ostrich plume, and wrap of navy fashona cloth with grey squirrel collar. She also wore the bridegroom's gift, a string of pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. Nellist left on the noon train for Detroit. They will reside in East City.

Question No 6 Continued

Life is restored to man for the purpose of man turning from sin to righteousness and obtaining eternal life. Ezekiel 18:32. Death does not change a man's character, as he dies so he will be in the resurrection. All will be treated justly, but not all alike. Matt. 11:24. The Bride (those chosen out of this present age) will be associated with Jesus in the judgment day. Dan. 7: 22; 1 Cor 6:2. "Both the spirit and the Bride say come" Rev. 22:17. There being no complete Bride in this age, the words must refer to the coming age. Again it is evident the Holy Spirit's work will be still going on in the coming age. Matt. 12:32. ANOTHER SHIPMENT OF GOOD HARDWOOD

You Can Buy Hardwood Almost at the Same Price as Soft or Mixed Wood.

This afternoon five carloads of hardwood arrived in the city and the contents can be inspected at the Peter Hamilton siding. It is all hardwood and if you take advantage of this opportunity to have it delivered direct from the car, instead of from the yard, you can obtain it at the following prices:

Lot number one, $13 a cord, cut in stove length.

Lot number two, $12 a cord, cut in stove length.

Lot number three, $11 a cord, cut in stove length.

The last named lot at $11 a cord is a good deal better buying than soft or mixed wood at $4.75 a load. For fifty cents more you can get half a cord of hardwood. Wood that is delivered from the yard costs more because of the extra handling. Buy this direct from the car and save money. Now is the time to burn wood. It is the most economical and best fuel to burn at this season of the year. Good hardwood like this will be very scarce before the winter is over.

If you must have soft or mixed wood we have a few cords in the ward that we will sell this week only at $4.50 load in order to make room. Order early.

What Can Chiropractic Do for Me?

THE answer is simple: If the CAUSE of your trouble is Nerve Pressure, and the chances are that it is, Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments, given by a competent Chiropractor with the bare hands alone, will relieve this pressure. The effect of this pressure is to impede the normal flow of Vital Force to all the organs of the body. This then gives rise to another effect, called disease. When the cause is removed the EFFECT disappears! for, without CAUSE there can be no EFFECT.

¶ If Chiropractic had not really afforded relief to hundreds of thousands of sick and suffering men and women during the last twenty-five years, the Searchlight would long ago have revealed that fact, and Chiropractic would have died by the wayside.

¶ On the contrary, Chiropractic is now STRONGER than it ever was. Publicity has strengthened it instead of weakening it, and above everything else, this wonderful Drugless Health Science is for YOU and YOUR family.

¶ Investigate at once. Do not delay. Every day you delay means that much longer for you to regain your health. Consultation Free.

LLOYD GEORGE MUST CURTAIL HIS SPEAKING

Veteran Statesman Must Stay in Bed and Rest Up for Tonight.

COLD AND FATIGUE

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. — (United Press). — Imperative orders have been issued by David Lloyd-George's personal physician for a rigid restriction of the famous Briton's social engagements for the remainder of his American tour, Sir William Southerland, private Secretary to Lloyd-George, announced to-day.

The announcement said that Lloyd George was suffering from a cold complicated by fatigue. For this reason when the physician found the former Premier had a temperature, he ordered him to stay in bed this afternoon and to curtail all social engagements.

Lloyd-George, however, will deliver his scheduled address here to-night.

He is somewhat better this morning but imperative orders have been given to restrict his public engagements. He hopes to keep a speaking engagement to-night at International Amphitheatre at the Stock Yards. Owing to continuance of slight temperature his doctors have ordered him to remain in bed and rest greater part of day.

To-day's rest was ordered, it was indicated, as much from a desire to give the distinguished visitor relaxation from the nervous strain he has been under, incident to his Canadian and United States tour, as from any other reason. Since arriving on this continent Mr. Lloyd George has made more than thirty speeches and has been constantly active. By the precaution of the day spent in seclusion it is hoped that he will recover sufficiently to make unnecessary any curtailment of his United States visit.

Remaining in bed this morning Mr. Lloyd George devoted his time to reading and writing.

BELLEVILLE PAPER CHANGED HANDS

The Intelligencer Disposed Of to Outside And Local Interests.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—It was announced today by Mrs. I. E. Bowell, daughter-in-law of the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell, that the Intelligencer daily newspaper, which for fifty years the former Premier of Canada had directed with great success, has been sold to interests represented by Mr. S. B. Dawson, formerly of Toronto and Stratford. Toronto capital, it was announced, and some Belleville capital had been represented in the transaction.

BUILD PERFECT BODY
Strengthen Muscles

A man is only as free as his muscles. The average man or woman is awkward, gawky and muscle bound.

The hips and shoulders are usually the chief weaknesses. The muscles between the chest and the shoulders are too short and are the cause of stoop shoulders.

The muscles of the back are too long and weak. The hips are usually stiff and the muscles reaching down the back of the left are stiff and too short.

Therefore the first step in building up a perfect body is to get rid of these faults; in other words, attain suppleness.

An exercise that is peculiarly adapted to attaining this is the one illustrated.

Sitting flat on the ground, the arms are placed straight above the head. Then a person standing just behind grasps the arms and rotates them in a complete circle, being careful at all times to hold the arms straight.

Anotner exercise is to place the right arm above the head, left hand under the armpit standing with both feet spread apart. Then bend rapidly and repeatedly to the left.

A third exercise is to stand with the feet spread apart both arms extended to the right. Then vigorously swing the body to the right with the arms following through to a position over the head.

Do this rapidly and vigorously a number of times.

CANADA'S POSITION ON IMPERIAL CABLE LINE CLEAR AT CONFERENCE

Hon. George P. Graham Points Out That Canadian Government Expects an Interchange of Traffic With Canadian National Lines, Which Are Operated as Business Proposition.

PRAISE FOR PREMIER

LONDON, Oct. 17. — (Canadian Press Cable, by George Hambleton, staff correspondent).—Canada has made her position on the Imperial cable question clear.

At yesterday's sitting of the Economic Conference, Sir Lamine Worthington Evans, British Postmaster-General, criticized some of the Canadian Government departments for not using the Imperial cable which is operated between London and Halifax by the British Government, its traffic being distributed in Canada over C.P.R. lines. In reply, Hon. George P. Graham pointed out that the Canadian Government was willing to do everything in its power to assist the Imperial cable, "but it must not be forgotten," he added, "that Canadian National Telegraphs are being operated as a business proposition.

"We are prepared," he said, "to have an interchange of traffic with the Imperial cable, but you cannot expect the Canadian National to hand their messages over the Imperial cable if the National gets no traffic in return."

Compliments Premier King.

The Manchester Guardian has made some complimentary references to the Canadian Premier. Its London correspondent says that Premier Mackenzie King has made no public statements beyond three or four speeches at public gatherings, and at these he made a favorable impression. "Mr. King evidently prepares even his briefest public speeches with considerable care," he says. "They have a certain flavor of literature, and are often garnished by apt allusion and opposite quotation. A good voice and confident delivery add to his equipment for public speaking."

Inherits Policies.

The correspondent adds that Hon. Mackenzie King has inherited from Sir Wilfred Laurier his Imperial policies, which preclude him from playing an aggressive role either in conference or before the public. "His position on the preference question is that this is a matter for the British electorate to determine, while on the question of defence and foreign policy he may be regarded as holding what seems to be recognized as the Canadian view." The correspondent continues "that neither the conference nor the British Government can formulate politics or enter into commitments that are binding on Canada until they are considered and formally approved by the Canadian Parliament."

TEN YEAR OLD BOY KILLED BY CAR

ST CATHARINES, Oct. 17. —(Canadian Press).—Harry the ten year old son of Henry Rapsey of Merriton, died at the General and Marine Hospital this morning from injuries received yesterday afternoon, near home when he was struck by motor car driven by Mike Bordnruke of St. Catharines. The boy was walking in front of the car after the horn was blown. The base of his skull was fractured.

POLICE FIRE ON GERMAN RIOTERS

Berlin Officials Ordered To Use Drastic Measures if More Demonstrations are Attempted

MANNHEIM, Germany, October 17. (United Press.) — One man was killed and several injured in severe rioting between the police and demonstrators last night.

The police fired on the demonstrators when they refused to obey an order to disperse.

Patrols passed through the streets to-day forbidding all gatherings.

The Berlin officials were ordered to-day to use sharper measures against the rioters if any repetitions of yesterday's demonstrations are attempted, in defiance of the provisions of a limited state of siege.

Arrests of some of the ring leaders in yesterday's demonstrations are proceeding, and the authorities ordered the police to-day to arrest women and girls if they lead the way in the riots.

The city authorities must preserve order, it was directed, by force, if they are unable to prevent disturbances by providing bread.

CERTIFICATES AWARDED TO SUCCESSFUL PUPILS

A very happy evening was held last Friday at the King Edward School, under the auspices of the Ladies' Home and School Association. The meeting was opened by singing "Lord of the Land." Principal R. J.Bolton, chairman of the Association, expressed pleasure in seeing so many of the parents present. A short entertainment was staged by the pupils, including a piano duet by Reginald Howden and George Allen, readings by Miss Addie and Florence Batten, and a piano solo by Miss Josephine Arthur.

Cetificates were also presented to the thirtysix successful entrance pupils by D. F. C. Neal, who congratulated them on their success and hoped that the pupils would all look upon their teachers as their friends.

F. G. Mattice also gave short address, congratulating the little folk and wishing them success in the higher forms.

Refreshments were served by the ladies, and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

COFFEE.

Sweden and Cuba still are the leading coffee-drinking nations. But we're catching up with them rapidly. Coffee drunk in our country is 12 pounds a year for every man, woman and child. Twice as much as 25 years ago.

Considering the large amount of caffeine, the alkaloid stimulant in coffee—estimated as high as two grains a cup—it's a wonder the prohibitionists haven't turned their attention to it. Black coffee, in sufficient quantities, will sober an alcoholic jag. P.S. Pass us another cup, please.

TIME COMING FOR CHANGES IN BRITISH CONSTITUTION

So Long as Great Britain and The Dominions Work Together They Will Hold Together Said Viscount Haldane

LONDON, October 17. Canadian Press. Canadian Press Cable. —Speaking at Edinburgh University last night, Viscount Haldane said that the time was coming when changes would have to be made in the British constitution. Great Britain had overcome the majority of her difficulties with regard to the Dominions; she had made the Privy Council imperial, and had an imperial general Staff at the War Office. He said that he would like to see the navy and civil service united in the same way.

When a stability of relations was secured it did not come from rigid bonds but from common ends and purposes, and common appreciation of each others' aims and interests.

So long as Great Britain and the Dominions worked together so long would they likely hold together. The moment they tried to tie up the empire in some imperial federatoin the symptoms of peril would appear.

GRIND OF WHEELS ON RAILS DROWNS WHISPER OF DEATH

Canadian Nationals Never So Busy in Peterboro As These Days—Heavier Locomotives Being Pressed Into Use For Western Grain

The grind of wheels on the steel tracks of the Canadian National Railway through Peterboro has quite drowned the whisper of death. "The Canadian National was never so busy as at present in Peterboro," A. MacNab, station agent, declared to-day.

Heavier engines are being pressed into use to haul the 500,000,000 bushels of western grain which are now making their way eastward. Larger grain cars are also being built, with a greater capacity than any now on the road. Next month will see the installation of one thousand of these big new cars.

In anticipation of the huge traffic now passing through the city passing tracks from Belleville to Midland have been enlarged, several of them in the vicinity of Peterboro, and new steel bridges were erected at Birdsalls and Drummond's.

With all these preparations for increased traffic, so fast are the trains passing through Peterboro that congestion has been unavoidable.

It is also announced that Mikado locomotives, bigger than any now in use on this road, will come into use through Peterboro this month.

A PASTOR SEES RUIN OF YOUTH IN HUG OR KISS

Warns Congregation that Even Innocent Caresses Are Chief Cause Today Of Moral Destruction.

PARENTS TOO LAX

DETROIT, Oct. 17. — Declaring that what often seems first to be only an innocent hug or kiss is really a chief cause to-day of moral destruction in young people, the Rev. Howard A. Field issued a warning against the promiscuous caress in his sermon at the Wesley M. E. Church.

Blame is not altogether on the young people, Dr. Field asserted. "Parents have been altogether too lax in teaching children what they should know about themselves and those of opposite sex," he said. "Once children were kept in perfect ignorance until they learned from lips other than of the parent. Now the pendulum is swinging to the other extreme. Certain newspapers, a common type of literature and the motion picture has over-emphasized the sex question, and our children are reaping the results of all this abnormality.

Spooned in Early Days.

"Spooning is not a new term, nor is it a new experience for young or old. I suspect that so long as men and women have loved, or thought they loved, there has been more or less spooning. I suspect that so long as the world stands and human love continues, there will be found some people who will spoon. There has never been a time in the knowledge of any person now here, when spooning was so common or promiscuous as now.

"Petting and kissing parties are far more common than ever before. Roadside parking and roadside hugging is a familiar sight to every night traveller on our less frequented streets and country roads.

"I am not an alarmist or a crepe-hanger. I do not believe the young people of to-day, on the whole, are any worse than the young people of yesterday or the day before. Their grandmothers and grandfathers were not saints. I do not believe that our young people to-day are in the whole less moral or less religious than the young people of yesterday. But I do believe that they have gone much farther in the matter of petting and hugging and kissing than is good for them.

"But I want to say, not because I am a minister of the Gospel, but because I have lived long enough and close enough to young life to discover that one of the chief causes to-day of moral failure on the part of our boys and girls is indulgence in what seems at first to be only innocent hugging and kissing.

"If you were to talk with the social workers in this city, whose business it is to help care for the girls who have drifted away from the path of moral rectitude, and who hear from the lips of the girls themselves their pathetic and heart-breaking stories, you would realize that it is no little danger that lurks in this act of spooning. In almost every case the girls say they began their downward course when they permitted, as a mere act of appreciation, some man to fondle and caress them.

Auto Ride, Then Parties.

"Perhaps it was an automobile ride far into the country. Perhaps it was after a late party as they sat on the front porch, late in the evening, when all the members of the family, including mother and father, were fast asleep. The first steps were taken then. At first it was perfectly harmless. But after the first steps, it was the easiest thing in the world to go farther. And one day, in an unguarded moment, they went plunging over the precipice of moral failure.

"Young women, you can not afford to permit yourself to indulge in this sort of thing. Young men, innocent as you may be, you are playing with a most dangerous fire."

FRANK HODGES IN FIGHTING SPEECH

Says Lloyd George is Hostile to British Labor Movement.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 17.—(United Press.)—Speaking to a large gathering of anthracite miners here last night, Frank Hodges, secretary of Miners' Federation of Great Britain ,attacked Lloyd George and declared that he is opposed to British labor movements.

Hodges said that the former Prime Minister had no right to talk for the British people and that he had been removed for all time from the political, social and economic life of the nation. Hodges denounced the little Welsh statesman, claiming he had tried to disrupt the British labor unions. Hodges spoke as the guest of the United Mines Workers of America. He is on his way home after having attended the American Federation of Labor convention in Portland, Oregon.

SIMON PERDUE IN A RUNAWAY

A Grey Mare Broke Away From Her Fastening Near C.P.R. Tracks.

When Simon Perdue hitched his horse to a stout chain at the Peterboro Cereal Co. plant this morning he thought it was there to stay until he started homeward. A C. P. R. engine upset his theory and the horse's nerves. The grey mare, unaccustomed to city experiences, broke her halter and bolted in the direction of George Street. Falling at the Water Street intersection, she was quickly up and away again, dragging the buggy. Midway between Water and George she struck an express wagon driven by Robert McIlwain, knocking down McIlwain's brown horse. Both animals were extricated from the melee without serious damage. Perdue lives at 605 Stewart Street, but was this morning on a trip from his son's farm in Ennismore. He sustained a nasty cut on his hand, and the harness was badly broken.

FEARS A SET-BACK FOR CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

TONONTO, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Important subjects including inland water navigation, inland freight rates act and the Chicago drainage canal will be dealt with today by the executive of the Dominion Marine Association in session here.

In connection with the latter it is expected that some decision will be made to oppose present proposals of the Chicago Sanitary Commission. Discussing inland water freights act, Francis King, K.C., Counsel for the Association said, "While it is to be hoped that Canada will not be faced with the calamity of a grain blockade this fall, present conditions do not facilitate the best movements, and unless some radical changes are made it is considered that there might be some set back to the Canadian Northwest.

THIS SQUIRREL CACHED NUMBER OF GOLF BALLS

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press). — Noticing a squirrel scampering off to the woods with a golf ball Mrs. Archie McLean, Lachine, who was playing in a foursome at the Senneville Golf Course yesterday, chased the little chap to his nest. Looking into a hole in a tree she found that it was filled with golf balls, and on counting them found they numbered 68. The squirrel who climbed into the branches chattered angrily while they were being removed. However, he doesn't lose anything materially by this discovery because Mrs. McLean bought a bag of nuts and emptied them into the cache.

Experiments seem to prove that spiders can call to one another.

SENT TO REFORMATARY FOR SERIOUS OFFENCE AGAINST A YOUNG GIRL

Also Gets Indeterminate Sentence of Two Years Less One Day—Assailant a Young Chap Of Average Intelligence, Victim Under Fourteen

DUMMER RESIDENT

Lewis Drain, of Dummer, charged before E. C. S. Huycke with an offence under section 301 of the criminal code against a girl under 14 years of age, was this morning sentenced to serve 4 months in the Ontario reformatory, with an indeterminate sentence of two years less one day.

Following the summing up of the evidence by His Honor Judge Huycke, J. F. Strickland, representing the accused, made an appeal for clemency, and Wilfrid Huycke, acting for the Crown, moved for the maximum sentence. Mr. Strickland reminded His Honor that many cases of a similar nature have come before the Peterborough court, and almost invariably they are from this part of the country. "Apparently," he said, "there is a community of people who live their own way and do not consider questions of this nature in the same way as the man in the street." He asked the court to keep in mind this fact, and also the fact that the accused is the support of a large family. Outside of the episode complained of the accused was considered a good husband. He went overseas with the 18th Battalion after enlisting in the 93rd and served there two years.

Had Caused Anxiety.

In delivering sentence, Judge Huycke told the prisoner his case had been given careful thought. "You have caused me a great deal of anxiety and indignation and have roused sympathy also," he said. "Anxiety to do the right thing, and indignation for the acts of which I have been compelled to find you guilty and the course of conduct you seem to have pursued regarding this girl. You have also roused my sympathy. You are a young man, decent looking, a chap of average intelligence and average capacity for patriotism. I regret exceedingly to see a boy wearing the badge of honour and nobility in such a position as you are. It is beyond my apprehension how you, who have so distinguished yourself to protect other girls should have fallen into this case."

His Honor remarked that the charge is one of the most serious in the Criminal Code. "I wish I could let you off, but I can't. It is out of the question. I can only express the hope that you will reconsider your ways and live a respectable life."

BIG MONEY FROM BETS AT THE RACING TRACKS

TORONTO, October 17. — During the spring and fall meetings in Ontario of the past racing season, patrons of the various race tracks wagered the sum of $35,890,134 through the pari-mutuels, according to the report of J. T. White, K. C., solicitor to the Ontario Treasury, which was made public this morning by Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer.

The governmental revenue from the tracks during the season decreased $522,713.40 when compared with the previous season. The government received a total revenue of $2,459,506.70, as against the sum of $2,982,216 for 1922.

Commenting on the decrease in revenue Mr. White points out that Windsor Jockey Club held no meetings during the year because of heavy taxation. In connection with five per cent impost levelled by the government on winning tickets, Mr. White says: "The tax appears to have had some effect in discouraging heavy betters or causing them to make their bets away from tracks.

"Generally speaking", continues solicitor, "the betting was lighter at all tracks, than last year."

CITY LOSES ON QUINN ACTION

Peterboro Must Pay $500 Damages and Costs for Accident on Hunter St. Walk.

TORONTO, October 17. (Special to the Examiner. — The First Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario, at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, awarded to Miss Minnie Quinn, a dressmaker in the City of Peterboro, $500 damages, and costs of Appeal and of trial.

Miss Quinn claimed that she was walking on Hunter street in front of Low's Apartments, near Millard's store, when she slipped on a slide, children had made, last spring, and broke her wrist; and as a result, she was unable to carry on her business as a dressmaker for over two months.

The case was appealed from the County Court, and yesterday the First Appellate Division unanimously gave judgment in favor of Miss Quinn for the full amount of damages claimed against the Cit yof Peterboro.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., appeared for Miss Quinn, and Mr. C. C Widdifield appeared for the City of Peterboro.

ITALY SHUT OUT TANGIER PARLEY

France Will Not Consent That Italians Participate in Conference.

PARIS, Oct. 17. — (Special.) — France will not consent to Italian participation in the Tangier Conference, it was learned here to-day.

France is willing to communicate to Italy details of whatever agreement the conference may reach, but maintains the question is purely local. Hence Italy has no right to participate.

Italy, it is understood, feels considerably rebuffed at the failure of her efforts to obtain an invitation to the meeting ,at which representatives of France, Spain and Great Britain will attempt to reach an agreement for development of Tangier and settlement of their respective rights in the district.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES CROWLEY.

There passed away on Tuesday, October 16, after a lingering illness, borne with fortitude, an old and respected resident of Asphodel, Ellen English, widow of James Crowley. The late Mrs. Crowley, who was in her 84th year, lived in Asphodel until four years ago, when she came to reside with her daughter, Mrs. E. Sheehan, 503 Murray Street, City. Deceased leaves, besides her sorrowing family, a large circle of friends, who will long remember her many acts of kindness.

Interment will take place on Friday at 8.30 a.m., from her former home in Asphodel to Old Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Hastings, where a requiem mass will be sung at 9 a.m.

Bureau of Engraving and Printing recently printed 315,265,000 postage stamps in one day.

PRISONERS' HUNGER STRIKE MAY SPREAD TO THOUSANDS

Approximately 100,000 Irish Republican Soldiers in Jails Likely to Follow Example of Comrades In Mountjoy Prison

BELFAST, Ireland, October 17. — Canadian Press. — Tragic results, or else "a notable victory," may be the outgrowth of the hunger strike begun by soldier prisoners in Mount Joy jail in Dublin four days ago, according to a Republican manifesto put into circulation from the Free State capital.

There are approximately 100,000 prisoners in jail, says the manifesto, which continues: "When the hunger strike spreads to other camps and prisons, people may be prepared to be shaken from their apathy by a tragedy or victory unparalleled in the history of the nation.

The manifesto says that all Mount Joy prisoners have taken an oath to refuse food or drink until they are unconditionally released.

PISTOL DUEL BY LAW OFFICIALS IN MAIN STREET

Texas State Sheriff And County Constable Settle Their Differences by Slaying Each Other.

THEY DREW ON SIGHT

MARSHALL, Texas, Oct. 17. — (Canadian Press). — Sheriff B. B. Rodgers, of Marion County, and Constable W. B. Proctor, of Jefferson, met on the main street there last night and shot each other to death without a word being spoken.

The constable shoved the sheriff against a water hydrant, but while the sheriff momentarily lost control of his legs, his hand gripped his pistol, and he whipped out his weapon and fired. He hit Proctor once in the hip and again in the heart.

The Shots Crossed.

Shots from the constable's pistol crossed those of Rodgers. The constable shot the sheriff through the head while the former was stumbling and slipping to the ground. Another bullet from the constable's weapon went wild.

According to the police, the trouble arose possibly through court papers given the constable not being served, and in a fine being imposed on the sheriff subsequently.

SYDNEY MURRELL CASE STILL ON

A Number of Witnesses For the Crown Remain To be Heard.

LONDON, Oct. 17.— (Canadian Press.) — Under cross-examination this morning in the trial of Sydney Murrell and Slim Williams for the murder of Russell Campbell, at Melbourne, in April 1921, Burley Robinson, a Crown witness, admitted that he had made a bet of "two to one that Murrell hangs," with a fellow workman in a local manufacturing plant.

"That's all," commented the defence counsel, Donohue, on the admission. "I don't think the jury wants to hear any more."

All the Crown evidence in the case is not expected to be in to-night and it will be Thursday night at least before the case goes to the jury.

Robert E. Campbell declared that when accused of killing Russell Campbell by the victim's brother, Stuart, Murrell answered.

"I'm not denying it. I fired the first shots." Other witnesses corroborated this evidence. Campbell provided the climax of the morning's testimony when he positively stated that Sydney Murrell had admitted the killing to his brother William while the two were captives at Melbourne on the day of the robbery.

"Did you do the shooting," William Murrell was said to have asked. Sydney, witness declared, nodded affirmatively.

"You fool," his brother is reported to have remarked. Then Campbell testified, and prisoners whispered to each other.

Murrell appears to be bearing up well under the strain of evidence being given against him but Williams bears traces of deep concern. Great crowds still clamor around the court doors, while all available seats and vantage points inside the building are occupied. Murrell's father and mother are attending the trial and are almost broken hearted.

A stone age village has recently been unearthed in Surrey, England.

ONTARIO'S BONDS HISTORY MAKING

Province Offering Securities From the Maritime Districts to British Columbia.

TORONTO, Ont., October 16. — The Dominion wide offering of Province of Ontario bonds is an epoch-marking event in Canadian financial history. Never before has a province conducted a National campaign for the disposal of its securities — in fact the bulk of offerings have passed into the hands of comparatively few investors in Eastern Canada and the United States.

The Province of Ontario has been enabled to make history through her withdrawal of a bond issue a fortnight ago in order that a clear field might be left for the Dominion Refunding Loan. At that time the Province was about to float $15,000,000 of bonds in New York and a like amount in Ontario. The tremendous success of the Dominion loan however proved that Canada wanted to handle her own finances hereafter, and the Ontario government decided that every province should have the opportunity of participating in her offering.

Foresight Justified.

Provincial foresight in making the offer a Dominion wide one, payable from Halifax and St. John, clear through to Vancouver and Victoria, was immediately justified, for when the offering syndicate notified bond dealers throughout the country of their decision orders were received from dealers in every province within 24 hours for far more than the total $40,000,000 offering, and the bonds had in consequence to be rationed.

Public offering of the bonds is now being made, and through the system of allotment residents of every Province have an equal opportunity to invest, and a certain percentage of the total has been allocated to dealers in each Province. The syndicate which made the original offering comprises the following firms, all prominent in the recent Dominion loan: Wood, Gundy & C. A. E. Ames & Co., Aemilius Jarvis & Co., Dominion Securities Corporation, Hanson Bros., National City Co., Matthews & Co., Mc Leod, Young & Weir, R. A. Daly & Co., Harris, Forbes & Co. and Gairdner Clarke & Co.

Exceptional Security

The national distribution of these bonds will make the important financial position of Ontario better known throughout Canada. Including the present loan, the Province has a gross funded debt of $278,146,692, of which, however no less than $179,795,214 is revenue-producing, leaving a net funded debt of only $98,351,478. The Province has assets including cash, sinking funds, Government buildings, Crown lands, timber and water powers, of over three-quarters of a billion dollars Ontario's approximate assessed value of property is $2,410,723,054 and its annual production almost two and a half billion dollars.

The present issue of bonds at 98 and interest is backed by the entire resources of the Province, portions of which are outlined above, so that their absolute security can be seen at a glance. The present offering consists of $40,000,000 of 25-year 5 per cent. bonds, and therefore presents the opportunity to secure one of longest absolutely secure bonds which have been offered for some time, and at a yield which compares very favorably with the recent Dominion Refunding Loan.

WEATHER REPORT

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 17.—A table of meteorological observations, taken at the Central Experimental Farm during the year has just been issued by W. T. Ellis, observer, which shows that rain or snow fell on 168 days during the twelve months. The heaviest snowfall in one day was eight inches. The highest temperature during the year was 94 degrees, while the lowest was 33 degrees below zero.

There was sunshine on every day during the months of August and September, 1922, but July took premier place as the month with the largest total of sunshine, its record being 325 hours, or an average of 10.48 hours a day.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S. HOLD A MEETING

Mrs. MacKinnon of Knox Church Gave Interesting Talk.

The thank-offering meeting of the St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held yesterday afternoon in the church. Sixty-three officers and members gathered to offer thanks for the many, many privileges that they have enjoyed during the past year. Mrs. John, President, presided. After the singing of hymns 109 and 141, Miss Craw took the Scripture reading. Miss Craw also spoke briefly, mentioning the increasingly large numbers of young people who are turning to Christ. At a recent meeting of the Toronto-Kingston Synod a hundred and twenty young men and women had dedicated their lives to the Master. This report was very encouraging.

Mrs. B. L. Barns gave an interesting and accurate review of the sectional meeting recently held at Millbrook.

Miss Engel rendered a solo. Her magnificent voice was heard to advantage in the singing of "Beyond the Dawn." This was a very pleasing feature.

A short talk on "Why We Should Be Thankful" was given by Mrs. MacKinnon of Knox Church, her clear, distinct voice and charming personality making the talk very interesting, pointing out woman's wonderful advantages in Christian countries and comparing our lives with those of the women of non-Christian countries; asking us to pass on some of our blessings to our more unfortunate sisters; and saying, very truthfully, that our intentions are usually of the best in this regard, but we let other things crowd in and we forget. Mrs. MacKinnon closed her remarks with the following short poem:

"The restless millions wait the light
Whose dawning maketh all things new.
Christ also waits, but men are slow and late.
Have we done all we could?
Have I? Have you?

The meeting closed by repeating the Lord's Prayer

"It's Confidence That Counts."

BERLIN CROWDS RIOT WHEN PRICE OF BREAD SOARS BEYOND DOLES

Town Hall Beseiged by Mob Demanding Money, Fuel and Food — Dispersed By Police.

MANY INJURED.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—The food riots which have been going on in the outer Berlin for the past ten days culminated this morning and this afternoon in serious outbreaks in the heart of the city. Mobs estimated to aggregate 12,000 unemployed, accompanied by women and youths, besieged the Town Hall, in the heart of the eastern section of the capital, and the rioting which followed continued intermittently for four hours, and was quelled only after police reinforcements used their bayonets and fired volleys to awe the crowds.

Abolish Bread Cards.

The immediate provocation for today's outbreak was the abolition of the official bread card. This resulted in a sudden rise in the price of the four and a half pound loaf to 480,000,000 marks or about 12 cents, as compared with Monday's price of 36,000,000 marks, which was effective while the bread cards still were valid.

The police report that five demonstrators were seriously and a score slightly wounded during the disorders. One of the wounded in the rioting near the Town Hall died this afternoon. Some reports estimate that twenty persons were wounded when the police fired into the crowds.

A Blow to the Poor.

A bonus of ten billion marks for each of the unemployed, free fuel and free food were among the demands made by the demonstrators. The disproportional rise in the price of bread, as compared with the figure obtaining two days ago, proved a sudden blow to the poorer classes, as well as to the unemployed, whose doles did not suffice to meet the bankers' schedule, and this siutation was promptly seized upon by Communistic agitators, who late last night and early today sent out motor cycle scouts to the outlying centres with the purpose of mobilizing the unemployed for a march on the Town Hall.

Placards, mysteriously posted throughout the workers' quarters, also summoned demonstrators to various gathering points, from which they were instructed to proceed to the vicinity of the Town Hall.

Relief Measures.

The Food Ministry is hurriedly putting various measures into effect to counteract the prevailing unrest. It is authorizing the lowering of prices of frozen meats, hurrying emergency shipments of potatoes to Berlin, and getting public feeding stations started. The unemployed in Greater Berlin now exceed 174,000.

Deputation Heard.

LONDON, Oct. 16.— Describing today's unemployed demonstrations in Berlin, particularly that at the town hall, a Reuter despatch says the deputation of the unemployed eventually was admitted to the town hall. It was received by the Chief Burgomaster.

The deputation demanded an immediate grant of ten billion marks per head, two loaves of bread and 500 pounds of coal per head, and free distribution of meats. The Burgomaster promised that the municipality would make an examination into the demands.

Wilhelmstrasse, where the residences of the President and the Chancellor and the Chief Government buildings are situated, was closed to traffic during the day in fear of an attack by the mob.

Montreal Exports of Grain Show Decline.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—It is now certain that there will be a considerable falling off of the total exports of grain from this port this season. To October 15 the port handled 92,029,893 bushels of grain against 118,668,869 buhsels during the same period last year.

Preparing Now For Wheat Pool in 1924.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16. — Organization of a wheat pool to handle the 1924 crop of this province was approved at a joint meting of the United Farmers of Manitoba and the United Farm Women of Manitoba here to-day. The contract drawn up by the special pool committee was endorsed and plans for a campaign to obtain signatures also adopted.

The resignation of W. R. Wood as secretary of the United Farmers of Manitoba, was accepted. Mr. Wood has accepted the secretaryship of a new temperance organization in the province.

ADJOURN CASE FOR EVIDENCE

Mr. Justice Orde Grants Remand of Prisoner in Ottawa Trial.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—"If we are able to substantiate what our client has told us, we will be able to change the whole course and aspect of this case."

Such was the unexpected statement made this afternoon by Vivian McClenaghan counsel for William Swimmings, charged with a serious offence against Hazel Mockett, when he asked that the trial of his client be postponed until to-morrow. After consultation with counsel in the case Judge Orde announced that the representations which had been made to him were of so serious a nature that he would in fairness to the prisoner, have to grant the request for the remand.

It is stated that in a document which Swimmings tendered to the court on Monday afternoon he admits that he was the man who attacked Miss Hazel Mockett of Billings Bridge on August 11, with a criminal intent in view, but he denies that he actually committed the act with which he is charged and on which the members of the Grand Jury have already returned a true bill, placing Swimmings on trial.

It was stated following the adjournment that a plea of temporary mental derangement might be advanced on behalf of Swimmings. Vivian McClenaghan and his partner Austin O'Connor were named by the Crown as counsel for Swimmings this morning.

QUEBEC LEASES WATER POWERS

Three Groups of Rapids Auctioned By the Provincial Government.

QUEBEC, Oct. 16. — In accordance with its policy of allowing waterpowers to be developed whenever possible the government this morning offered on lease by auction three groups of rapids situated on the Megiscane River in the County of Temiskamingue.

The sale, which was a successful one was presided over by Hon. Honore Mercier, Minister of Lansd and Forests, and among the other officials present were Arthur Amos, of the Running Streams Commission, and other officials of the Department.

The upset price had been set at $4000 annual rental to be paid by the successful bidder, and L. N. Huard of Levis was the only one to bid, obtaining the lease on the first bid of $5 over the upset price.

The waterfalls leased are located at a short distance from the Transcontinental Lines near immense timber limits, and the minimum development possible reaches 17,000 horsepower.

The deed of lease, which will be signed next week between Mr. Huard and the Minister, provides that within a certain period a mill must be erected where the production must reach a large scale. Work must be started at the falls immediately.

In accordance with the conditions governing such leasing and exploitation of waterfalls, the government in addition to the rental of $4005 per year will also collect 50c per horse power developed and an additioanl 50c on any horsepower exported to Ontario or the United States.

Those Who Boosted Fair at Roseneath.

Officials and directors of the annual Exhibition of the Roseneath Agricultural Society, held at Roseneath this year, who did much to make the Fair a general success were: President, Geo. A. Dawe; Vice-President, Chas. Brown; 2nd Vice-President, Geo. Clark; Treasurer, Chas. Grigg; Secretary, C. W. Varcoe; Auditors, J. G. Drope and D. J. Varcoe; Directors, Messrs. E. Brisbin, M. Davey, F. Harper, W. A. Macklin, A. J. Campbell, W. Mason, F. J. Slade, C. D. Harper, W. Waldie, A. Lean, W. J. Jibb, W. Arnold, C. Down, Dr. A. G. Armstrong, A. Brown, M. McMillan, P. Brahany, H. Mouncey, W. Pacey, H. Coyle, B. Spiers, L. Isaac and F. Brisbin.

Saw No Girl Smoker Here

REGINA, October 17 (Canadian Press). — "In all my wanderings about this country, I have never seen a girl with a cigarette in her mouth," stated Mrs. W. Bigelow, Dominion organiser of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, speaking yesterday at the conference on anti-narcotics, held here in connection with the tenth annual provincial convention.

The convention discussed ways and means of restricting the tobacco traffic, especially as regards young people.

"If any woman could succeed in driving tobacco out of Saskatchewan, she would deserve to be canonised," said Mrs. Bigelow.

DEATH WHISPER HIGH TREASON

President of the Massey-Harris Company Urges More Intensive National Spirit.

REGINA, Oct. 16.— Describing "the Whisper of Death," as "high treason" and suggesting the application of the principle of the subsidy in aid of marketing Alberta coal in the industrial centres of Eastern Canada, Vincent Massey, President of the Massey-Harris Co. addressed a meeting of the Regina Canadian Club to-day.

He declared the fostering of a more intensive national spirit was the great problem before the Canadian people. In that spirit he saw the only outcome of the present unsatisfactory condition— a condition intensified by the "fever in Europe which must run its course."

He referred to the physical gap between the east and the west. "There is no correspondence school of national spirit," he said. "That spirit must be intensified by personal interviews between individuals and the exchange of a great many personal opinions."

Mr. Massey spoke of sentiment. He would make the first day of July a greater day on the Canadian calendar than it ever had been before July 1, 1867 was dying from the memory of living "but had not yet become a legend. There was no blood shed on that day but there had been plenty of romance."

STOLE SUGAR AND CORN FOR WHISKEY

Kinmount Man Intended to Set Himself Up in the Hootch Business.

LINDSAY, Oct. 17.—License Inspector Thornbury was in Coboconk on Monday, where he arrested a resident of Kinmount on the charge of theft. The prisoner, it appears, had ambitions to become a proprietor of an industry for the manufacture of "mountain dew" in the north country, and he forthwith proceeded to purloin a quantity of corn and sugar from Kinmount merchants. He carried off 200 or 300 pounds of each when he was caught with the goods. He admitted to the officer that he had experimented in the manufacture of liquor, but had not been very successful. On being brought to Lindsay he pleaded guilty to the charge of theft and was remanded for a week.

Ontario 50,000 Tons Ahead of Best Former Year.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—That there is very slight prospect of a coal famine in Ontario this winter was the statetment of Hon. Chas. McCrea, Minister of Mines, yesterday. He said that up to the end of September Ontario had imported 50,000 tons of American anthracite in excess of the best previous "normal" years. Distribution to householders throughout the province has been reported by dealers to have been prompt.

Fall on Icy Sidewalk in Orillia Broke Woman's Health.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.— The Second Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall has dismissed the appeal of the town of Orillia from the judgment of Judge Vance awarding Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Pilkey $2,500 damages against the town for injuries sustained by her in a fall on an icy sidewalk, on Mississauga street. She broke her thigh bone and the trial judge found that the plaintiff, a lady of 58 years, who had been healthy and able to look after her household duties, had become a broken-down woman as a result of the accident.

MORE TANGIBLE PROPOSALS MAY BE SUBMITTED

Conference of German Representative With Premier Poincare Has Created Interest.

FRENCH GLOOMY.

PARIS, Oct. 16.— The German Charge D'Affaires, Herr von Hoesch, will have a conference at his own request to-morrow with Premier Poincare. The prospective visit is creating great interest in French official circles, but opinions are divided on the importance of the results which may be expected from it.

There is a feeling in some quarters that owing to the German Chancellor's greater freedom of action, he may decide to present proposals of a more sweeping character, more definite and more tangible than heretofore, which may meet M. Poincare's demands. The German Charge's first visit to the French Premier, on October 10 thus has had no effect in bringing the two countries into closer relations, although on that occasion Herr Hoesch informed M Poincare that he was instructed to open direct negotiations between the Berlin and Paris Governments and to offer Germany's cooperation toward the resumption of the normal economic life of the Ruhr. This offer, however, was taken under consideration by the Ruhr Government.

The more optimistic are of the opinion that the Charge's visit to the Premier means that some important step will be taken with respect to the reparations problem— that either Von Hoesch will present entirely new proposals emanating from Berlin on the question as a whole, or express the Reich Government's willingness to accept the Belgian plan as a basis for discussion. It is pointed out that in favor of the latter policy, Baron Maltzen, in charge of political affairs at the Foreign Office in Berlin, Count De La Faille, the Belgian Minister, ten days ago, said to him:

"The Belgian plan shows deep knowledge of the situation in Germany; there is much in it with which we agree."

The Temps strikes a pessimistic note, saying:

"Stresemann's policy is still open to suspicion. Since proclaiming the cessation of passive resistance he has suspended the granting of export licenses and the payment of the coal tax ,and has declared that Germany is not willing to pay for deliveries in kind.

"The only difference between passive resistance and the present tactics seems to be that, instead of an open struggle subsidized by the Reich, there may be disguised resistance at the expense of the Rhineland and Westphalian populations."

AGNES M'PHAIL IS SUPPORTING HEAPS

Winnipeg Campaign Is Warming Up With Many Speakers.

WINNIPEG, Oct .16.—With prominent speakers from Eastern Canada and even as far as the British Isles enlisted, the campaign of Liberal and Labor candidates in the North Winnipeg by-election is now assuming a fighting formation and sevgral meetings are scheduled for this week and early next week. Polling will take place on October 24.

Concentrating its platform into one mammoth meeting the Liberal party will hold a rally on Monday, Oct .22. Hon. E. J. McMurray, M. P., Solicitor General for the Dominion, whose elevation to the cabinet necessitated the election, will be supported by Hon. Dr. H. S. Beland, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment at Ottawa, and Robert Jacob, member for Winnipeg in the Provincial Legislature, who will occupy the chair.

W. C. Robinson, Labor representative for Blackpool in the British House of Commons is aiding Alderman A A. Heaps, nominated by the Independent Labor Party in his campaign, while Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., for North Grey, and J. F. Callin, M.L.A., for Fort Frances, also are supporting him. The big meeting of the campaign will be held on Wednesday night when all three speakers will place Labor's platform before the electors.

Mr. McMurray also is opposed by J. A. Martin, running as a Labor candidate on an Independent ticket, and Paul Oigoejezuk, independent.

Fifty Delegates at Insurance Convention.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16. — With fifty delegates present from eastern and western Canada superintendents of insurance for the provinces of Canada opened a four-day convention here this morning.

Hon. F. M. Black, Provincial Treasurer and Minister in charge of Insurance Departments of the Provincial Government welcomed the delegates to Winnipeg. In his address Mr. Black advocated the adoption of uniform life and fire insurance policies.

Big Demand From Miners

KATTOWITZ, Poland, October 17 (Canadian Press). — The Upper Silesian miners have refused the Government's offer of a 130 per cent. increase in wages, and are demanding an advance of 200 per cent.

The movement is under the control of the Communists.

A general strike has been declared.

Miners leaving the shafts and entering Kattowitz, accompanied by their wives and children, made a noisy demonstration. They surrounded the Government office, and when the police were ordered to dispersem them and threatened to charge, the strikers placed the women and children in front of them, thus preventing the police from using guns or their clubs.

NO COMMISSION IN BANK PROBE

Fielding Hopes Trial of Officials Will Elicit the Information Desired.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16—Referring to the numerous questions in the press and elsewhere concerning the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate Home Bank affairs, Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance and Acting Prime Minister said to-night that there had been no decision to appoint such a commission and he hoped that such appointment would not be found necessary.

Mr. Fielding said that the Finance Department had from the beginning been carrying on investigations through its officials. A few days after the bank suspended, he said, and while the institution was in the hands of the Curator, a skilled accountant representing the Finance Department was sent into the bank to make such enquiry as at that moment seemed to be necessary. Information obtained by the Finance Department from such enquiry was the basis on which proceedings were taken at Toronto against the bank's officials.

The Curator's duties have now ceased, added the Minister, and the affairs of the bank are in the hands of the liquidator appointed by the court. The investigations of the Finance Department, however, are still being carried on. Mr. Fielding said he thought that the information that was being obtained in this way and that would be obtained from the trial of the officials in Toronto would elicit all knowledge of the bank's affairs that would serve in any useful purpose.

TRIAL BEFORE CHURCH COURT

Principal of the Wesley College, Winnipeg, Facing Serious Charges.

WINNIPEG, October 16—Charges of misrepresentation, offences against the law of God and the discipline of the Methodist church, laid against Principal J. H. Riddell of Wesley College, Winnipeg, by Rev. Dr. W. G. Smith, former vice-principal of the institution, are being heard to-day by a court of discipline of the Methodist Church. Rev. Samuel Wilkinson, president of the Manitoba Conference, is presiding, and it is thought that the proceedings will last for several days. The hearings are being conducted in camera and no statements for publication will be given out, it was annnouced, until the conclusion of the trial.

The investigation is an aftermath of the dismissal of Prof Smith for alleged insubordination and his subsequent action (which failed in the court of King's bench) against Wesley College for breach of contract.

Acquitted of Murder in Unwritten Law Case.

EDMONTON, Oct. 16.—August Hagen, Danish farmer, was to-day found not guilty by a jury of the murder of a neighbor, John Zackie, at Park Court Alberta on September 16. The Unwritten Law was introduced into the case by counsel for the accused, who alleged there had been improper relations between his wife and Zackie.

LEAVING HERE TO-DAY

MOOSE JAW, Oct. 16.— Hon. W. R. Motherwell Minister of Agriculture left here to-day for southern points where he intends to get all the facts possible from farmers as to the conditions which they operate under and the distances which they have to haul grain because of lack of railway facilities. He stated that he intends to get facts and figures to present to the House of Commons when the railway branch lines question comes up.

LAY OUT LARGE SUM FOR RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYED

Expenditures Undertaken in Britain to Stimulate Work—1,251,600 Unemployed.

Constructive Policy.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Government's proposal for the alleviation of the present unemployment were outlined by Sir Montague Barlow the Minister of Labor, at a luncheon in Stationers' Hall to-day. He said the number of wholly unemployed last week was 1,251,600 and that the Government was looking to the Imperial Conference for much help and success, not only in the redistribution of man power, but in strength ening and organizing its markets.

Sir Montague announced that the new expenditure undertaken or initiated by the Government for the unemployed included road and bridge building to the extent of £14,000,000 authorized assistance to local authorities £10,000,000; trade facilities £12,000,000; railway companies, £10,000,000.

"That is some indication of the Government's program," added the minister, "and the Goverment is also in daily contemplation of additional effort."

With the exception of a small proportion of expenditure for non-revenue producing work the entire amount, Sir Montague added, would go for production and the stimulation of trade along normal lines. The policy to be followed would be that of encouraging the manufacture of ordinary products in the ordinary way and at ordinary rates of pay. He believed that policy would do much more to alleviate the situation than relief work of the old-fashioned kind could possibly be expected to do.

Only Half Million Bushels Forwarded.

FOR WILLIAM, Oct. 16. — Only a million and a half bushels went forward by the lake to-day, of which 1,308,000 bushels were wheat.

Five boats are reported to be under the spouts to-day, and one small vessel, the Lisken, of the Norwegian fleet, is here waiting orders.

Chairman L. H. Boyd and Commissioner James Robinson of the Board of Grain Commissioners, left unexpectedly for Winnipeg by the early morning train to-day and will return in time to meet the Minister of Trade and Commerce, when he reaches Fort William later in the week.

GRAIN LOADING RECORD.

MONTREAL, Oct .16.—Loading 275,000 bushels of Manitoba wheat in 11 working hours the S. S. Ethelfreda established a new grain loading record here when she sailed for Plymouth this afternoon. The former record was made by the S. S. Clearpool which loaded 240,000 bushels in 10 1-2 working hours last year.

THREE GUARDIANS OF DEMOCRACY, BRITAIN FRANCE AND AMERICA

Lloyd George Tells Chicago Audience Wave of Autocracy Has Been Sweeping the World Since the War.

A GREAT RECEPTION.

CHICAGO, October 17 (Canadian Press). — Five years after the Great War democracy which in 1918 won a victory over autocracy, is in peril, David Lloyd-George, the wartime Premier of Great Britain, declared in a luncheon address here yesterday. A wave of autocracy seems to be sweeping over the world, he declared, but against it, Great Britain, the United States, and France will stand together.

"Russia overthrew democracy a few months after starting the experiment," the former Premier asserted. "Italy, Spain, Bulgaria, and now Germany is talking about a dictatorship. Democracy is in peril, in peril five years after the greatest triumph democracy has ever had.

"Why is democracy more sure, safe? It is slower to begin, it does not bring its forces into action in the way perhaps an autocracy does, but in a struggle, it is the heart that tells, and democracy sustains the heart, and what happens is that democratic institutions alone can produce and train men that are able to appeal to nations, to rise to those heights of sacrifice which are the last citadels of freedom in all lands.

Democratic Trinity.

"Now, when democracy is in danger, when I can see the throne of democracy stumbling in one land after another, here you have a land of democracy. Britain is the land of democracy, and France, I believe, will stand by democracy, and whatever happens these three great lands together will stand against this wave of autocracy which seems to be sweeping over the world."

The arrival of the distinguished visitor was marked by a great demonstration. Met at the station by a reception committee, headed by Mayor Dever, Mr. Lloyd-George was taken upon a drive through the Loop section, preceded by a band from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and an escort of cavalry and flanked and followed by mounted police and official cars.

Crowds packed the sidewalks while others hung from windows and other places of vantage high up on the buildings.

Confetti and streamers filled the air, while there was a continuous roar of welcome as the automobile bearing the former Premier with bared head passed through the streets.

Arriving at the La Salle Hotel, Mr. Lloyd-George went immediately to the luncheon, which was tendered him by the Chicago Association of Commerce, where several hundred more applauded his appearance. It was in response to official speeches of welcome by Mayor Dever and Association officials that he delivered his address of the day.

Public Address.

Later, Mr. Lloyd-George went to his headquarters at Drake Hotel to remain quietly until evening, when he was the guest at a private dinner given by Brigadier-General Charles J. Dawes, former Director of the Federal Budget.

The distinguished visitor planned to spend to-day quietly, but this evening will deliver a formal public address at a mass meeting. He will leave for Springfield on Thursday.

Mentioning in his luncheon address a visit in the late spring of 1918 to the front behind Amiens just after the great German onslaught had been definitely checked and the enemy rolled back, Mr. Lloyd-George told how he had met the troops who had broken the spearhead of the German attack.

"I ventured to tell them then," he said, "that Germany might have peace that day, that hour, if she accepted the conditions laid down by the President of the United States of America. They didn't.

ADVERTISING ONTARIO.

The Executive Council of the local Chamber of Commerce is asking the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and the Chambers of Commerce to pass a resolution calling upon the Ontario Government to establish a permanent publicity bureau in order to bring the advantages of Ontario as a tourists' paradise before the people of the Continent.

The suggestion is in line with the general awakening throughout the Province as to the necessity of keeping Ontario in the forefront in regard to the tourist traffic.

As the Examiner pointed out the other evening, Quebec is making a big bid to attract visitors on a much larger scale than ever and a newly formed Tourist Association is expected to function successfully.

Advertising is one of the essentials of any plan to bring in more tourists, and a Provincial publicity bureau could look after that end of the campaign much more efficiently, economically and persistently than any other agency, working spasmodically and intermittently.

No one desires to add to the army of officials in the employ of the Government, but a publicity bureau need not necessarily be a large affair or add much to the Government's overhead—at least the expense would be lost sight of in the results that could be secured by wise direction and good business methods.

FAST DRIVING.

In an address in Toronto the other night Hon. George S. Henry, the Provincial Minister of Public Highways, declared that motorists must observe the laws in regard to reckless driving on the highways, pointing out that on the first of next year a new law became effective by which anyone convicted of reckless driving would be subject to imprisonment.

Warnings of this kind have been frequently given in the past, but with little effect.

There have been regulations enough to make the highways fairly safe if they had been enforced properly.

But as a rule speeders have escaped lightly or have not been interfered with at all, and as a result the fast pace on Ontario's roads has not been noticeably checked.

The new law will not improve the situation unless it be rigidly enforced and impartially administered in all sections of the Province.

Public safety as well as the public pocket-book demand that there should be less speeding.

Fast driving is not only dangerous, but it is expensive. It wears out the surface of those very costly roads we have been building in Ontario much more quickly than there is any need for them to be worn out.

The roads were built primarily for the use of motorists; the latter therefore should be able to see that they are hurting their own best interests by wild driving.

Motor clubs can do much to check the evil by emphasizing that fact to their members.

THE DOMINION BANK.

The action of the Ontario Government in making a deposit yesterday of a million and a half dollars in the Dominion Bank should set at rest any lingering trace of doubt that may have existed in the minds of some people as to the soundness of the bank's position.

A run on a bank is a nasty affair inasmuch as it is caused by a panic, and panics are always awkward things with which to deal.

The trouble is that no one stops to reason—if everybody did, of course, there would be no run.

It's just like an alarm of fire in a crowded building; no person as a rule questions the genuineness of the alarm and the crowd rush to the exists with the result that a panic ensues.

So with a bank. Someone starts a rumour that it is unsound, two or three people hurry to withdraw their deposits, communicate their fears to others, and in a short time there is a long line of panic-stricken people frantically demanding their money.

There never was the slightest justification for the recent run on the Dominion Bank.

A statement issued by the President, Sir Edmund Osler, the General Manager, Mr. Bogert, and Mr. G. T. Clarkson, the bank's Auditor, declares that the Dominion Bank is in a stronger position than at any other time in its history.

It has been shown that the cash in its vaults at the end of July amounted to $11,172,691, and other banks owed it in cheques and deposits $7,330,389. Dominion and Provincial securities held by the bank were valued at $96,856,444, and municipal and other first-class securities amounted to $6,008,807, while behind all this were loans payable on demand and fully protected totalling $10,023,782.

Monday's run was a panic caused by some wild rumour, and there was no real basis for the slightest uneasiness as to the position of the bank.

WHERE DISCIPLINE COUNTED.

The value of the training given in such organizations as the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides was demonstrated most convincingly the other day by the story of the escape of a party of seventeen Ottawa Girl Guides caught in the middle of a railway bridge by the unexpected approach of an engine.

The party of young girls had no chance to reach the shore before the locomotive was upon them, and there was only one way to avoid an accident—that was to lie prostrate on the outside edge of the bridge beside the rails.

The troop leader realized the situation at a glance and gave her orders coolly to the girls under her command.

Accustomed to obeying orders without question, the Guides quickly carried out the instructions and the whole troop escaped unscratched.

Had the same situation arisen with an unorganized party of young girls it is difficult to see how a terrible accident could have been avoided.

The on-rushing engine would have caused a panic, some of the girls would have tried to run to shore, others in all probability may have jumped from the bridge into the shallow water of the river thirty-four feet below.

But the training and discipline of the Guides organization met the acid test and emerged triumphant.

The leader kept her head, the troop obeyed orders and the situation was saved.

It is in control and steadiness that are imparted to those who come under their jurisdiction that the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements are proving themselves of inestimable value.

There should be more of such training in Peterborough.

JOHN BULL IS ALL RIGHT.

The Overseas delegates are—some of them—telling the British Ministers that they should stop looking to Continental Europe for markets and make a statesmanlike effort to encourage the growth of better markets throughout the British Empire. The voice that carries this advice is a divided voice. Some of the delegates say one thing, and some say another. But it may be that the good old British trader has his own opinions on the subject, and that he will eventually find the right road.

History shows that he is a fairly good judge of trade opportunities and how to foster them. Critics who study conditions through a telescope have often wondered why he did not make a tariff "preserve" of the rich market of India. He had the power to do so, and the example before him of practically every other colonising nation with overseas trade to be preserved. But he took a different course. He asked no favors in Indian trade and yet he kept it. Possibly he knew that he did not need favors.

We may be very sure that, while the politicians are vaporing, the quiet and supremely well-informed merchants of London are sitting down in their counting-houses with columns of figures before them, and calmly working out just how much there is to be made in each line of trade suggested by the theorists. When they have finished figuring, they will let the proper men know the result; and British policy will be based—not on superlatives or soaring sentiments—but on actual facts and businesslike deductions.

The British trader is not forgetting that a partially recovered Germany will be a competitor as well as a customer. He is not forgetting that Europe's absorption in her domestic troubles is a very effective way of keeping her from fighting for Asiatic and African markets. He is not forgetting that Asiatic trade, for example, is and long has been much more profitable than the closely-shaved European trade—that, in the familiar Asiatic phrase, "Asia pays the bills of Europe." A year ago this man Stinnes was setting up serious competition with established British steamship lines for the carrying trade of the Orient. It would be interesting to know how far the paralysing grip of France upon the Ruhr has stunted or possibly stopped that competition.

John Bull may be disinclined to big armaments; but when it comes to competition in trade, his most solicitous friends need not worry about him.—Montreal Star.

WHAT OF BANK SUPERVISION?

Facts which are coming to light rather show that the defunct Home Bank was more of a private business than a bank within the accepted meaning of the word, says the Ottawa Journal.

The Barnard loan is more or less typical of half-a-dozen, which in the end were responsible for the collapse of the institution. Mr. C. A. Barnard, K.C., was President of the Davie Shipbuilding Company, which started by obtaining a credit of $100,000. It was engaged in building ships for the French Government; and in one year the overdraft of the company at the Home Bank reached $3,500,000. Two ships were built, and, when they were refused by the French Government, they were thrown back on the hands of the bank. The bank was anxious to make something out of them, and proceeded to operate them through a holding company. The ships got into the rum-running business on a large scale, yet with the final result of a heavy loss.

The essence of all that happened of an adverse nature to the Home Bank is wrapped up in the words just used—"Through a holding company." What could not be done legally under the Bank Act was carried on by means of holding companies, of which a considerable number were formed as the bank went from one disastrous venture to another. The money on which these holding companies operated was every penny of it the bank's money; so that the whole process had for its purpose the evasion of the law. Yet to say that the money belonged to the Home Bank is scarcely in accordance with the facts. It really consisted in large part of money deposited in the bank by the public—trust money—and in the end the depositors may be the chief losers. This puts an ugly face on the whole matter.

From several important points of view it may not be either desirable or necessary that all the operations of a chartered bank should be exposed to outside inspection. Yet it is now obvious that the supervisory powers vested in the Department of Finance are inadequate for the purpose of checking such methods as were adopted by the Home Bank.

Is any other bank engaged in the same sort of operations as the Home Bank was? The question is a fair one in view of what has happened in the case of the Home Bank under the conditions of the Bank Act which even as recently revised carries no principle of public safeguard.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

LINDSAY, Oct. 17—A young farm hand from Mariposa, Jackman by name, was arrested by the police on Monday on the charge of forgery. The accused is said to have uttered a cheque for $15.75, purporting to be signed by John Davidson in favor of John Thompson. It was presented to the firm of Pulver Jackson, Lindsay, in payment of goods. He was remanded until October 24.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 17. — Trading in cattle on Monday, evidenced by the total sales, was quite active. In all 4,224 cattle were disposed of, and this left nearly 2,400 unsold.

Yesterday's early receipts were 449 cattle, 77 calves, 921 hogs, and 873 sheep and lambs. The exporters found a lot of available cattle this week, and took 625 heavy steers on Monday. Rice & Whaley had three loads of heavies yesterday morning, and these were also taken for export.

Prices paid this week are practically steady. Some rough steers sold at $6.60 a cwt., but others with through Montreal billing, which means about 20 cents a cwt., brought $7.35 a cwt., and this accordingly would mean $7.45.

Business was naturally slow yesterday morning. Except for the fresh receipts the offering had been reviewed on Monday, and there were few of the wanted butchers in the lot. These unfinished butchers will require considerable peddling the rest of the week, but one thing to their advantage is the absence of competition from Western cattle. Quite a number of loads of stockers and feeders were sent out yesterday, but the demand yesterday morning was quiet, as there were few farmers on the market.

The fairly heavy run of lambs was well taken on Monday, and only a few odd bunches were carried over. Ottawa Valley lambs of nice weights made the top of 12 cents, and others sold at $11.65 and $11.75 a cwt. The prices were steady yesterday morning, but the quotations are half a dollar below last week's best.

Shields & Co. sold a bunch of ewes and wethers from S. A. Devitt, of Blackstock, at 12 cents.

The packers have not been able to compel the second drop of 50 cents a cwt. on hogs, and most of Monday's supply went at last week's figure of $8.25 a cwt. f.o.b. One buyer said he was informed of purchases made in the country at that price. The packers' quotation remains, however, at $7.75 f.o.b.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.— (Canadian Press.) — Some Ontario country shippers report difficulty in making sales of fresh at cost. This situation resulted from owners of storage stock pushing the sale of their storage eggs which they claim consumers prefer to the ordinary run of fresh eggs now arriving as fresh specials and extras are not as plentiful as they were and are becoming more scarce daily. For these grades there is always a good sale. The movement of Canadian storage eggs is reported satisfactory and what weakness there is in the United States, where stocks are heavy and demand none too good considering the heavy holdings.

Toronto unchanged. A sale of a car of storage firsts reported at 33 f.o.b. western Ontario cases returned.

Chicago spot unchanged refrigerators Decembers 37 1-4.

New York extra firsts 40 to 45, firsts 38 to 39, nearby hennery 78 to 82.

United States bureau of markets Washington reports holdings of frozen poultry October 1, 33,100,000 pounds. These stocks are 7,223,000 pounds in excess of last year.

British cable (prices shillings per ten dozens).

London, Oct 15.—Market steady at advance English 20 to 26, Irish 20 to 24, Danish 18 to 23, Dutch 18 to 24, Styrian 13 to 14, Canadian 16 to 17, American 15 Chinese 11 to 12 1-2. Poultry unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct 16.—Wheat scored a material advance in price today on receipt of news that President Coolidge had suggested a reduction of railroad freight charges on export shipments of wheat. The upturn of the market however, brought about heavy selling, and the gains were nearly wiped out. Closing quotations were unsettled, a shade to 3-8c. net higher, with December $1.08 1-8 and 1-4 to $1.08 1-4 and May 1 12 3-4 to $1.12 7-8. Corn finished 3-8 and 1-2 to 3-4c. up; oats varying from 1-8c. decline to a like advance, and provisions 2c. to 15c. down.

Until President Coolidge's action was announced, the wheat market was confined to narrow limits both as to price changes and volume of business. Only a little selling was induced by an official estimate that the new Argetnine crop would total more than 250,000,000 bushels as against 195,000,000 bushels last year. Although the forecast, if realized, would mean a record-breaking yield, the market here failed to make much response, and traders for the most part seemed to be determined to await domestic developments, especially those called with the Government's plans for agricultural relief.

About a cent bushel was added to wheat values during the demand which followed talk of a possible break in railroad rates on export wheat. The selling that took place subsequently was largely of a profit-taking character, but was too much of a load to be sustained at the time, even with the help of notable strength which had become evident in the corn market.

Wet weather and floods delaying field work and threatening to curtail yields led to general buying of corn and lifted December delivery to a new high price record for the season. Oats were upheld by corn.

Provisions declined with hogs.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.— Cattle, receipts 12,000; fed steers and yearlings strong to higher; top matured steers, 12.80; best yearlings 12.50; numerous fed steers and yearlings 10.00 and 11.25; heavy bolognas 4.25 and 4.50; a few up to 4.60; vealers closing steady; bulk to packers 11.25 and 11.75; stockers and feeders steady to strong; bulk 5.50 and 7.00.

Hogs, receipts 33,000; fairly active; weighty butchers 10 to 15c. lower; bulk good and choice 240 to 280 pound butchers 8.10 and 8.15; top 8.20; better grades 180 to 230 pound average 7.75 and 8.05; packing sows 7.00 and 7.15; good and choice weighty slaughter pigs 6.50 and 7.25; estimated holdover 16,000.

Sheep, receipts 28,000; killing classes lower; feeders and breeders steady; fat lambs 25c. to 50c. lower; mostly 50c. lower; yearlings 50c. lower; cull lambs 25c. to 50c lower; sheep 25c. to 50c. lower; feeding lambs steady; natives 12.00 and 12.50; best culls 9.50; feeding lambs 12.50 and 13.25.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16 — Receipts 2,200 cattle and calves, 200 hogs and six sheep.

The better classes of killing cattle were in good demand this morning at firm prices but trading in the stocker and feeder division was draggy. Most of the offerings were of the plain variety and were not wanted.

On the hog market packers were bidding $8.50 for thick smooths.

Trading was inactive on the sheep and lamb market.

DAIRY PRODUCTS SOLD.

ST. PASCAL, Que, Oct. 16.— At the meeting of the board there were 30 packages of butter and 150 boxes cheese offered. The butter sold at 35 1-2 cents per pound and the cheese at 19 cents per pound.

CHEESE BID REFUSED.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 16. — There were 980 boxes of cheese offered on the board for which 20 1-4 cents per pound was bid and refused.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16. — There was a slight improvement in the demand for cash grain in the local market to-day. A fair trade is reported in flour. There was no change in the millfeed situation and the trade in rolled oats was fairly active. The baled hay market is rather quiet. There were no new developments in the egg market. The tone of the potato market rules about steady. The butter market is firmer and the cheese market is more active.

WOODSTOCK CHEESE UNSOLD.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press)—At the semi-monthly meeting of the cheese board today six factories boarded 960 boxes of cheese. On the first bid the price offered was 20c and one the second call the buyers made an advance of 20½ with no sales recorded on the board or curb.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press)—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday:

Demand 4.5938.

Cables 4.5993.

BUYING RUSSIAN GRAIN.

MOSCOW, Oct. 17.—(Associated Press)—The rye surplus is selling faster than the wheat surplus. Several big parcels of rye have been shipped, one of them going to Holland, the price being 82 to 91 guldens a ton.

DEANERY MEETING HELD IN LINDSAY

Doctrinal Subjects Discussed By Catholic Clergy of the District.

LINDSAY, Oct. 17.—The Deanery Conference of Peterboro and Victoria counties met today in the parish hall. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien of Peterboro and practically all the clergy of the Conference attended. Morning and afternoon sessions were held, and four subjects on doctorinal matters were discussed. Very Rev. Dean Whibbs presided.

Plowing Match and Tractor Demonstration.

The annual fall plowing match and tractor demonstration will be held on Tuesday, October 23, on the farm of R. T. Lillico, North Monaghan Township, three miles west of Peterborough on the Provincial Highway. Over $400.00 in prize money will be offered. The officers expect that a large crowd from the country will be present, and they hope to stage the best plowing match ever held in the Peterborough County.

Postpone Montreal-Vancouver Service.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.— Withdrawal of the Montreal-to-Vancouver sailing of the S. S. Argalia, advertised for November 1, was announced by the Robert Reford Co to-day following the receipt of cable advice from the Donaldson line's office in Glasgow.

It was stated heer that this does not mean the cancellation of the new Montreal-Vancouver regular service recently announced by the Robert Reford Co., but merely its postponement until next spring. The only reason for the withdrawal was the development of "unforseen circumstances"

There are so many ways to serve Kellogg's Bran—the one great aid to humanity!

You will enjoy eating Kellogg's Bran because its nut-like flavor appeals to the taste. And, think what each mouthful is doing to drive constipation out of your system and to re-establish health! That's because it is ALL BRAN. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically made to relieve suffering humanity—IT WILL DO THAT AS NO OTHER FOOD CAN!

Physicians recommend the regular use of Kellogg's Bran for mild or chronic cases and as a preventive. Bran, eaten each day and in proper quantity, sweeps, cleanses and purifies the alimentary tract.

Get away from pills and cathartics—Kellogg's Bran will give you permanent relief from constipation.

Do not confuse Kellogg's Bran with common bran. Kellogg's is cooked, krumbled and ready to serve. It can be used in the most delightful baking products without in any way reducing its regulatory value. Try raisin bread or muffins or griddle-cakes made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

Kellogg's Bran is nationally eaten for health's sake as a cereal—in winter time with hot milk. Others prefer it sprinkled over hot or cold cereals. Another way is to mix it with hot cereals just before serving. It can also be cooked with cereal. In each case add two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran for each person; in chronic cases as much with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is sold by all grocers and is supplied in individual packages at first-class hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant!

LAKEFIELD VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

Tag Day Netted $62 — Eloquent Sermons in St. John's—News Nuggets.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 17.—The annual tag day for the Children's Aid Society was held on Saturday last and resulted in the sum of $62 being realized for the good cause. Mrs. S. S. Spence was the chairman of the committee with Mrs. F. J. Burgess, as secretary. Misses Roleen Darcy and Margaret Bissonette were the winning team having collected $24.25 which was more than one third of the entire amount. These young ladies have had the distinction of being winners at the last three tag days and are receiving congratulations on their success. The remaining assistants were Miss Helen Burgess, Jean Ridpath, Yvonne Stuart, Loretta Gibson, Margaret Young, Hazel Crawford, Helen Watson, Hannah Webster and Zetta Nixon.

Eloquent Sermons.

Rev. Walter Cox of Toronto was in charge of the services in St. John's church on Sunday and preached two very eloquent sermons, the one in the morning being on "The Mission of Jesus" and in the evening on "The Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man." Mr. Cox made an appeal for the co-operation of the people in the coming mission which will be held in the parish next month. He assured the people that without their earnest prayers and help the mission could not succeed.

Church News.

Rev. Father Garvey of Peterboro was in charge of the Sunday services in St. Paul's church and St. Mary's church, Young's Point.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson of Warsaw took service in the Presbyterian church on Sunday, Rev. P. L. Jull taking the anniversary services at Warsaw.

Rev. F. W. Anderson of Port Hope will be the special preacher on Sunday next in the Presbyterian church when the anniversary services will be held. A musical entertainment will be given in the church on Monday evening, October 22 when the new Estey organ will be used.

Evening service was held in the Selwyn Baptist church on Sunday instead of the regular afternoon service.

Filling Their Silos.

The trail of the corn cutter is seen on the roads and the farmers are working hard to get their silos filled before the weather breaks. The corn crop was very good.

Personal Mention.

Dr. F .H. Lingwood of Toronto was in the village on Saturday.

Donald Fitzgerald has returned from Toronto.

G. W. H. Pattrick of Bowmanville is the guest of Mr and Mrs. B. Q. Dench.

Rev. W .P Meagher left on Saturday for New York, where he will spend several months.

PLANS MADE TO COMBAT SKYSCRAPER BURGLARIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(Associated Press).—The gentlemen burglar who operates only in offices located in skyscrapers will have a much harder row to hoe in the future as the result of a real two-fisted plan just inaugurated by the National Association of Building Owners and Managers.

Photographs, descriptions of dress, peculiarities and, in the case of known burglars, measurements, of these men who are known or suspected of belonging to the gang of skyscraper burglars will be sent to every elevator starter and every doorman of every large building in the United States whenever an epidemic of such burglaries presents itself, according to the announcement made at the headquarters of the association today.

The officials of the association are confident that an organized gang of highly talented crooks operate in skyscrapers. They give as the reason for this belief that the skyscraper burglaries come in epidemic form, the latest being prevalent in San Francisco. The system used in the Golden Gate city is precisely the same used in the east, south and middle western cities at various times during the past two years.

The method used, the officers say, is for some well dressed and well educated member of the gang to work his way into the good graces of some high social set. He gains the confidence of numerous men of affairs and learns the probable location of money or securities in these men's offices. He then learns the time when the securities will probably be in the office, and the job is put through in accordance with this information.

LOCATING FARMS FOR ESTHONIANS

One Hundred Families Ready to Migrate at Once.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.— (Canadian Press.)—Sir John Pitka, K.C.M.G., Rear Admiral (retired) in the Esthonian navy, formerly in the Imperial Russian navy, is visiting Canada in connection with the migration of a number of Esthonian farmers. To-day he called at the Department of Immigration and Colonization to discuss the coming as soon as possible of 100 farmers who have capital with their families from Esthonia. The principal purpose of Sir John's visit is to get information on what part of the Dominion he considers it would be best for these families to settle in. If they are satisfied with conditions in this country it will mean that many more families will follow.

Esthonia, which is one of the new Baltic states formed during the war out of part of the old Russian Empire, is chiefly an agricultural country. It has an area of about 32,000 square miles with a population of 1,750,000, so that as Sir John pointed out, its population is rather congested and there is a desire on the part of many of the people to emigrate .Conditions, he says, since the war are not very good and as the Esthonians were on the side of the Allies throughout the war, they prefer to migrate to Canada, where geographical and climatic conditions are more nearly like their own country than in any part of the British Empire.

Sir John Pitka has a farm near Reval, the capital of Esthonia, which is a city of about 160,000. He left Ottawa to-night for western Canada, where he intends to spend six weeks looking over settlement prospects.

SEARCHING FOR THE LOST LIBERTY BELL

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(United Press).—Patriotic societies of the United States are searching for the lost Liberty Bell of the World's Fair. This bell, said to weigh more than a ton, has disappeared. It was cast in 1893 of precious metals and priceless relics of the Revolutionary and other wars and was meant to be a duplicate and companion piece of the original Liberty Bell of Independence Hall.

The bell was wanted for the commemorative exposition of the thirtieth anniversary of the World's Fair, Oct. 1 to 6, directed by the Chicago Historical Society. A place of honor was reserved for it among the works of art and relics of the World's Fair. But when the Historical Society turned to look for the bell it could not be found.

More than 250,000 persons contributed Revolutionary sword hilts, pistols, belt buckles, jewelery and other price less relics to the casting of the bell, in addition to thousands of coins, war relics of 1912 and the Civil War. The bell was meant to tour the world after the Fair, ringing a message of peace and goodwill to all nations.

The Historical Society tried in vain to find a trace of the "Liberty Bell."

SURGEONS WILL HOLD CONGRESS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(Associated Press)—Surgeon scientists in large numbers from all parts of the United States, Canada and South America are expected to attend the thirteenth annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, which opens here October 22 and will continue for four days.

Chief interest in the event will center about a series of clinics during the congress, according to Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director general of the organization. Visits will be made to various parts of the city to view clinical demonstrations embracing all phases of surgery.

An all day conference on the conduct and management of hospitals with discussions by surgeons, nurses and supervisors will occupy the opening day. Monday night, J. Ochsner of Chicago, incoming president, will be inducted into office. He succeeds Dr. Harvey Cushing of Boston.

The succeeding three evenings will be given over to scientific meetings with addresses by numerous American and Canadian surgeons. Papers presented at these sessions have become accepted as representing the highest authority on the topics discussed, according to Dr. Martin.

Conferring of fellowships in the college on a group of several hundred candidates will take place at the convocation session Friday night Honorary fellowships will also be presented to foreign guests at this final meeting.

DR. YOUNIE GOING TO ST. CATHARINES

Omemee Veterinary Surgeon Moving With His Family in Near Future.

OMEMEE, Oct. 17.—Many citizens of Omemee and the surrounding district will regret to hear that Dr. A. R .Younie, veterinary surgeon is about to move with his wife and daughter to St. .Catharines. Dr. Younie has practiced in this vicinity since returning from overseas at the close of the war, and has made many warm friends, who regret his departure, in the very near future.

The many friends of Mr. T. A. MacPherson will be pleased to hear he is doing as well as can be expected since his operation in the Nichols Hospital on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Earle entertained a number of their friends on Friday evening.

SAUSAGE SUPPER IN PARISH HALL

Twenty-one New A.Y.P.A. Members Enrolled at Apsley Meeting.

APSLEY, Oct. 17.—The A.Y.P.A. held their opening night on Saturday with a sausage supper in the parish room which proved quite a drawing card, no less than forty sitting down to a hot supper of sausages and potatoes and pies of great variety. So many sausages have never been consumed at one sitting in the village but so far no ill effects have been reported. After the supper twenty-one members joined the association, a result that was very gratifying to the officers.

Boy's Leg Broken.

Tommy Whitmore, a lad of about eighteen and son of Joe Whitmore had the misfortune to sustain a fractured leg last week. While driving a team and wagon, he fell and the wheel passed over his leg with the above result. Dr. Shepherd set the broken limb, and the patient is progressing favorably.

Serenaded Newly-Married.

Another of the old time charivaris was staged on Monday evening, when a motor truck full of masqueraders serenaded in front of the Methodist parsonage, the demonstration it was reported, being in honor of a local bride and bridegroom.

All the teachers in the vicinity took in the convention of teachers at Peterboro last week.

Threshing Finished.

Threshing is about over in this district. Oats have threshed out fairly well, in fact better than was expected, comparing favorably with last year. Potatoes are being dug, and some good yields have been reported. Dill McCauley is turning up taters of a colossal size.

OMEMEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEET

Address on Medical Inspection in Schools By Mrs. Widdis.

OMEMEE, Oct. 17.—The monthly meeting of the Omemee branch, of the East Victoria Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Germyn Palmer on Thursday afternoon. There was about twenty members and visiting ladies present and a very profitable hour was enjoyed

The President, Mrs T. E. MacPherson occupied the chair and conducted the meeting in her usual able manner. After the opening exercises and the roll call which was well responded to a most interesting reading on "Medical School Inspection" was given by Mrs. Widdis. This is a subject which has been long discussed in the Institute and as yet the department have not been able to carry out the idea. Miss Mary Faulkner then favored the gathering with a helpful reading. A pretty little solo was then rendered by Miss Lila Parsons, entitled "Two Little Sailor Boys," followed by a short extract by Jean Stratton Porter on "Getting fun out of your money," ably given by Mrs. Palmer. The president then read a short story entitled, "Seeing the Teacher; Regularity", by Pansy Atkins which proved very interesting and also caused many a smile.

Miss Norman Cameron then rendered a splendid recitation "Up there in Canada" in good style after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Cornwall and Mrs Widdis.

ANNUAL MEETING OF YOUNG FOLKS' LEAGUE

Campbellford District Convention Very Largely Attended — An Informative and Entertaining Programme.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 17. — The Campbellford District Sunday School and Young People's League held their annual convention at the Methodist church on Tuesday afternoon and evening .The meeting was very largely attended, delegates coming from all the adjoining towns and districts. Rev. J .E. Glover, B. A., was chairman of the afternoon session . The programme follows: Devotional exercises, Rev. S. A. Kemp; greetings, Rev. Wesley Elliott; roll call of delegates and appointment of committees; survey of our religious work in the district; the Home Department, by Mrs. Alex .Winters; music; work with 'teen age boys by Rev. W. B. Rogers, of Norwood; modern evangelism by Rev. Wesley Elliott; music and offertory; round table conference, Rev. A. McLaughlin, of Keene.

At the eevning session the church was crowded to the doors. Mr. H. E. Hulin occupied the chair and opened with a song service. This was followed by an address on Devotional Exercises by the Rev. F. J. Joblin; report of Nominating committee; installation of new officers and words of counsel by Rev. C. W. Barnett; address on missionary work by Rev. W. R. McWilliams, B.A., B. D.; music by Campbellford choir; address on the League by the Rev. Frank Langford, B.A., M.R.E. This number brought the most successful convention to a close. The conference of Young Peoples' convention will be held at Belleville Oct. 31, Nov .1 and 2 and the Winter School at Cobourg, 2nd week in January. The Rev .C. W. Bartlett is chairman of the district.

St. Andrew's Concert.

It was "standing room only" at St. Andrew's concert on Tuesday evening, when the large audience had the pleasure of enjoying a wonderful musical treat given by the following artists: Songs of remembrance, (a) One in Twenty, Frazer, (b) Three Score and Ten, Trenlea, Mr. W. S. Hamilton, tenor of Toronto; pianoforte solo, Mr. F .Wigglesworth; reading, Mrs. Marion Wood Alyea ,Toronto; two little Irish songs, Mr. Hamilton; pianoforte solo, Mr. Wigglesworth; reading, Mrs. Alyea; Romany ballads, Mr. Hamilton; song, Muldoon's Ball, Mr. Wigglesworth; reading, Mrs. Alyea; Scotch airs, Mr. Hamilton; song, 'Sairey Green,' Mr. Wigglesworth.

The managing committee are to be congratulated upon the success of their musical evening.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S.

The meeting of St. Andrew's Y.P.S. on Monday night was well attended, the feature of the evening being an address given by Dr. H. B. Longmore, who has recently returned from England and the continent. The doctor who does not pretend to be a public speaker, delighted his audience with the subject of "Conditions as he saw them in Europe," outlining the wonderful work, and modern methods in connection with the Hospitals in the old land—which was most interesting and instructive. He finished his address by graphically describing the marvelous beauties of the Italian cities.

Mr. A. M. Rollo sang a solo "An old fashioned town,'" which was much appreciated.

Hon. Pres.—C. F. McIntosh.
Pres.—Mr. A. F. Rollo.
Secretary—Miss Cora Barnum.
Treasurer—Mr. Wm. Anderson.
Pianist —Miss Edna Connor.
Press Secretary—Miss Hazel Atkinson.
Vice Presidents — Devotional — Miss 'E. Meiklejohn Missionary — Miss D. Milne; Educational — Mr. E. Greig B.A., Social — Miss K. Connor.

Mr. Roy Connor was elected Sec. Treas. of the Peterborough District Young People's Presbyterian Union.

Among the friends and relatives from out of town who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Noel Gill of Port Hope, Messrs. W. Arnott, Geo. Benor, Dickson Davidson, Dickson Hall and M. W. Lyle of Peterborough.

The pall bearers were Messrs: F. C. Bonnycastle Charles Benor, D. W. Douglas, Geo. Kingston, Robert Lowery and James A. Stewart.

NEWCOMERS SEEK TO ENTER STATES

Shipload Deported To England Will Have Return Trip.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—When the Berengaria sailed yesterday she carried back to England the largest number of emigrants ever deported under the three per cent. quota law. There were 566 Russians and British who arrived here on the Berengaria and Caronia after the October quotas for their respective countries had been exhausted.

By an arrangement between the immigration officials and the Cunard Line the immigrants will be transferred immediately to the Carmania when the Berengaria reaches England, and taken back to this country in the hope of entering them under the November quota.

If they fail to arrive in time they will have to wait until next July. The situation is one of the most extraordinary which has ever arisen under the present immigration laws. It was brought about by an accident.

The immigrants left England on the Scythia. On her way to New York the Scythia came into collision with the Cedric. The passengers were then transferred to the Berengaria, which arrived here Friday, and the Caronia, which arrived on Sunday, both vessels being too late for the October quota.

The heavy increase of immigration into Canada is due to the desire on the part of the immigrants to use that country as a means of entering the United States, judging from inquiries at the United States Consulate in Toronto, says a report received by the Department of Commence from Consul Chester. It is also stated that a large number who asked to remain in Canada find that conditions there are not as expected and are anxious to enter the United States.

THEY RECEIVED LEGACIES OF HOME BANK STOCK

May Be Asked For Double Liability—Seminary One of Legatees.

KINGSTON, Oct. 17.—One odd twist to the Home Bank collapse is that in several cases shareholders hold their stock by reason of its being bequeathed to them.

It is likely to prove a costly legacy when the double liability is collected.

W. T. J. Lee, Toronto lawyer and chairman of the depositors' committee, is the holder of 30 shares.

"They were left to me by my brother," he explained. "I never bought any bank stock and I wouldn't buy any."

St. Augustine's Seminary, at Scarboro, is the owner of 50 shares which came to that institution as a bequest. It is thus liable for $5,000 at the par value.

This bequest came from a priest, Rev. Father Gibney, of Alliston, Ont., where considerable Home Bank stock was sold.

2,000 HOMELESS AS RESULT OF FLOOD

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—With from 1,000 to 2,000 of its people homeless and damage done to the extent of millions of dollars, Oklahoma City was last night slowly getting back to normal, after the most terrifying flood in its history.

The great inundation which followed the breaking of the reservoir walls in the Northern Canadian River early yesterday morning swept over large sections, reaching to within less than three blocks of the heart of the city. That the death toll was not greater was due to the fore thought of the city authorities in warning the people of what was coming and the work of the police.

Up to the present only two persons, Mrs. Robert H. Loose and her eight-year-old daughter Clara, are known to have perished.

TO EXCHANGE SUBJECTS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Turkey and Greece yesterday began the exchange of six hundred thousand of their peoples, it was announced in a cable to the headquarters of the New East Relief here.

"MODERN NELSON" TO BOOST NAVAL BASE AT SINGAPORE

Beatty, Supporting Amery To Address Premiers on Defence—Smuts Sponsors League of Nations Aid for Germany.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Imperial conference plunges today into the vexed and troublesome question of the naval defense of the empire with particular reference to the Singapore base and defense squadrons in the Pacific. Colonel Amery, first lord of the admiralty, backed by Earl Beatty, will make the chief speech in defense of his pet scheme which will be strongly opposed by both Liberal and Labor groups as well as by some progressive Conservatives. Speaking at the Royal Colonial Institute last night, Admiral Sir Percy Scott roundly condemned the proposed scheme of elaborate docks at Singapore.

"To me the plan appears positively wicked," he said. "In view of the present state of unemployment in England to divert twenty million pounds from the native labor market to Singapore. Anyone overseas who contributes to the cost of docks ought to be shot, for the construction is a wicked, wilful and wanton waste of the taxpayers' money. The dominions should not contribute one penny to such a scheme."

The imperialists who aim at centralization of empire defense are concentrating all their energies on persuading Canada to accept this scheme of naval construction with payments spread over a term of years.

Smuts in Spotlight

Despite all indications to the contrary the protectionists in Britain have not given up all hopes of the extension of British perference proposals. Premier Bruce of Australia seems convinced that he will be able to convert the British public to his views and after the conference he will make an extended speaking tour of the great industrial centres addressing meetings and advocating his proposals, therein following the example of his predecessor former Premier Hughes during war times. The reparations plan put forward by Premier Smuts, of South Africa, is causing some dissension in the British cabinet, the "die-harda" believing that its adoption would mean a definite split with France.

It is understood that the scheme contains many of the features of the plan which Premier Baldwin sponsored as explained in Lord Curzon's note of August 11, and it also suggests the prime necessity of putting German finance in order along the same lines as were adopted by the League of Nations in the case of Austria. This would entail a moratorium for Germany and the issue of a foreign loan for stabilization purposes.

GUNMEN TO KILL SURPLUS BUFFALO

Must be Slaughtered At First Shot to Maintain Quality of Meat.

EDMONTON, Oct. 17.—The two thousand buffalo ordered slaughtered in Wainwright Park by the Federal Government, will be downed by rifle bullets, shot by expert gunmen, according to A. S. Duclos, of Edmonton, who has the contract for the slaughtering.

Mr. Duclos denied that Indians are to shoot the buffalo with bow and arrow, while a moving picture machine "shoots" the scene. At the most, the number of buffalo that will be killed in producing the film will run about ten head, and this will be done by expert and experienced gunmen.

It is very important that these animals are killed by the first shot, Mr. Duclos said, so as to keep the animal in a cool condition to get the quality of the meat. The process is carried out exactly in the same manner as in the large packing plants with the Government inspection of the meats.

After giving his assurance that the moving picture corporation would have nothing to do with the actual killing, and stating that the Government was the first to see that no cruelty was allowed, Mr. Duclos said: "If these people who have been making so much fuss about the humane side of it, would not believe false rumors and realize that others besides themselves have just as much, if not more humane spirit, I feel no cause for alarm."

MAN-HUNT IS ON NEAR PORT HOPE WITHOUT SUCCESS

Police Seeking Robert Mitchell, Journeyman Painter, Who Staged a Holdup.

FIRED AT TOWN CHIEF

PORT HOPE, October 17. — In a thorough search of the wooded and rolling country about Port Hope which continued yesterday from 3.30 p.m. until darkness fell, Provincial Officers Sergt. T. Atkins and Constable N. Maker of Belleville with Constable H. E. Thompson of Napanee, left no stone unturned in the search for Robert Mitchell, the man who held up the proprietor of the Ontario House at Port Hope at 9.30 a.m. on Monday, and escaped with $10.00.

Local Provincial officers returned at midnight, but were unsuccessful in locating Mitchell. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning Provincial Constable Cousins and Night Constable Bill Harvey of Port Hope left for the woods some seven miles northeast of Port Hope, where Mitchell is thought to be hiding. They will search for him throughout the day.

Mitchell, aged 55, a North of Ireland six-footer, weighing 200 pounds, who has been living in Port Hope for four months, lived at the Ontario House. On Monday morning, about 9.30, he walked up to the proprietor of the Ontario House, and, pointing a revolver at him, demanded the cash.

Boshoff, the proprietor, complied with the request by handing over $10.00.

Boshoff states that Mitchell pulled the trigger while the gun was pointed at him, as he heard the "click," but it was a mis-fire. Mitchell calmly left the hotel, leaving the proprietor bewildered and highly excited.

Tramp Painter

Mitchell, who is a tramp painter and decorator of marked ability, came to Port Hope from Chicago, Illinois, four months ago, and has given great satisfaction with his work there. Dr. Dickenson of Port Hope, who had been speaking with Mitchell about having painting and decorating done at his home, met Mitchell after the hold-up. Not knowing of the hold-up, Dr. Dickenson asked Mitchell if he would do the work that day. Mitchell asked him to drive him to the farmhouse of William Howard, about seven miles northeast of Port Hope, where he had a painting job to finish. "When I finish the work there, I'll do your work,' he told the physician, who then drove him to the farm. The Howard farm, which is a fine country residence is about three miles northeast of Dale.

Fires on Chief

Immediately after the hold-up Chief of Police Brown of Port Hope rushed out to the Howard home. Entering the house Chief Brown chased Mitchel into a small pantry. When the Chief attempted to open the pantry door, Mitchel fired a shot through the door, and Chief Brown fired back but did not open the door. Chief Brown then left the house and returned to Port Hope, he called the Provincial Police at Belleville.

Immediately the Belleville officers rushed to Port Hope, making the journey of 57 miles in record time. On arrival at the farm house they searched every shed, barn and building on the farm, every room in the house, and the surrounding farms and woodlands. They also notified all the farmers of the surrounding district to immediately notify the police if they saw a man answering to the description of Mitchel, the description being given them. Until darkness fell the search continued.

Examination of papers belonging to Mitchell indicate that Mitchell has lived in almost every city and town in this country and the States, and one letter was found which told of negotiations between Mitchell and C. B. Scantlebury, this city, Mitchell enquiring for work with the C. B. Scantlebury, Painters and Decorators. Mitchell who is reported to be a heavy drinker, is believed to be crazed by liquor.

WILL TAKE HOLIDAY.

ST. JOHN. N.B., Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press.)— Babe Ruth, king of "swat," accompanied by Herb Pennock, "Irish" Meusel, Aaron Ward and Hughie Jennings will rest after their world's series games, at the home of Dr. F. W. Macdonald, at Blissfield, on the Miramchi river in New Brunswick.

Wholesale Arrests of Suspects in Poland—Talk Of Foreign Conspiracy.

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press.) — One hundred and fifty persons have been taken into custody and other arrests are expected, in connection with the blowing up last week of one of the turret forts of the citadel in which explosives were kept.

The police are convinced that the explosion was due to conspiracy hatched in a foreign country. The number of persons killed in the expected, in connection with the blow children who lived near the fort. Nearly a thousand persons were injured.

LEGISLATURE MAY OPEN ABOUT END OF JANUARY

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press.)— Although the Provincial government has not yet given any serious thought to Legislature's opening, it is at least thought in official minds that an opening about the end of January would best serve all interests concerned. That is the offhand opinion expressed by Premier Ferguson. Even this contemplated late opening would leave the session only thirteen or fourteen weeks distant.

Last year's house opened in mid-January.

CONNAUGHT PARK CLUB RE-ELECTED OFFICERS

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—All the officers of the Connaught Park Jockey Club were unanimously re-elected at the annual meeting of the shareholders went on record as endorsing the work done by the officers in the past year, and while the financial statement showed a deficit, gratitude was expressed to the provincial government for the relief already granted, coupled with the hope that the cabin et would see its way clear to grant further assistance so that the jockey club could resume operation next year.

MONUMENT FOR LINCOLN'S FIRST SCHOOL TEACHER

HUNTSVILLE, Ill., Oct. 17.—(United Press)—Villagers here are planning to erect a memorial monument over the grave of Abraham Lincoln's first-school teacher, Azel W. Dorsey.

Under a small, moss-covered marker, the body of the former insructor lies. All of Lincoln's formal schooling was received under the supervision of Azel Dorsey, who taught him for three months.

WM. FAUX'S DEATH LOSS TO TOWNSHIP

Prominent Progressive Farmer of East Peterborough Passed Away At Birdsall.

HASTINGS, Oct. 17. — William Faux died at his home in Birdsall on Tuesday morning, Oct. 16, in his 40th years. He had been ailing for a long time with heart trouble. He was one of East Peterboro's most valued farmers, having during his life been prominently identified with every good work which had for its aim the upbuilding of the township and district. The son of Mr. Charles Faux, deceased was born and spent his whole life practically in the same spot where he died, his love of agriculture and all things pertaining to rural life leaving him contented with his standing as a progressive farmer.

He leaves to mourn his loss his widow and five children, who have the sincere sympathy of the community in their affliction.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Thursday morning at 7.45 to the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery for interment.

MICHIGAN GAINS IN PURE CATTLE

1923 Tuberculosis Tests Reveal Fewest Reactions in Last Five Years.

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 17.—A substantial decrease in the percentage of cattle infected with tuberculosis is shown in a report covering tubercular inspections for the fiscal year of 1923, completed today by the State Department of Agriculture.

Of 274,014 cattle tested, 6,090 reacted to the tubercular test, for a percentage of 2.22 per cent. In 1922 the percentage of infected cattle was 3.56; in 1921, 2.48 per cent; in 1920, 3.03 per cent, and in 1919, 3.46 per cent. The cattle tested last year represented 16.5 per cent of the total number in the state.

According to the report there are 464 herds of pure-bred cattle in the state, absolutely free from tuberculosis, and 27,954 herds of other cattle, containing 205,200 cattle, that have successfully passed the test.

Four counties, Hillsdale, Emmet, Antrim and Charlevoix, were placed on the official accredited list, with less than one-half of one per cent infection. Inspection work is in progress in 15 counties, and 21 are on the waiting list. It is estimated that 40,188 herds, containing 426.214 cattle, are waiting for inspection. Leelanau and Grand Traverse counties, as the result of recent inspections, will probably soon go on the accredited list.

Despite the controversies in which the tubercular inspection work has been involved in the past year, in the state Administrative Board and the legislature, the report shows that the state, during the year, paid out $316,160 in indemnities as compared with $186,000 the preceding year.

GERMANY NOW MUST PAY UP OR BREAK UP, SAYS MASON

French Grip May Continue Until Germany Becomes The Balkans of Central Europe.

By J. W. T. MASON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (United Press). —An entirely new reparations proposal by Germany will have to be made, greatly increasing the tentative German figures of $7,500,000,000, before there can be any fundamental change in Franco-German relations. If the Germans do not make a new proposal, there is every reason to believe the French grip will continue until Germany falls to pieces and becomes the Balkans of Central Europe.

There is much private discussion among Germans concerning the real amount of indemnity the country can pay. It is certain that many Germans have placed the sum of $70,000,000,000 and in some cases higher. But the past German governments, since the ending of the war, have refused to put forth their best offer, trusting to allied dissensions to save them.

Germany's Move, Now

Now that France has won her victory in the Ruhr and Premier Baldwin of Great Britain has failed to follow up his threats against the French, Germany cannot hope to benefit by waiting for something to turn up. For this reason, if the Berlin authorities are guided by common sense, a fresh German move to take up the reparations matter anew will be made.

The Germans, naturally enough, considering their situation, have not shown any sincerity over the indemnity question. The time has now come, however, when lack of sincerity has proven to be a disastrous policy. It was deliberately adopted as a gambler's device—the frequent method of diplomacy.

But the diplomat who takes chances and realizes he has lost, is not thereby debarred from changing his tactics. It is the usual thing to do in the chancellories of Europe, where consistency is not a jewel and where expediency is paramount. Therefore, though the Germans have failed dismally in their diplomatic encounter with the French, there is no reason to expect from that fact alone they will sit down and continue to insist that they cannot pay a higher indemnity than they have already stated.

Bavaria's Policy

The only obstacle to a new policy of sincerity on the part of the Berlin government is the movement against Berlin, directed from Bavaria. The Bavarians and the Prussians are now at dagger's point. The Bavarians wish to dominate Germany and are declaring Prussian methods of handling the indemnity question have placed Germany in her present sorry plight.

The Prussians, for their part, are charging the Bavarians with entire lack of diplomatic ability and with being willing to jeopardize the fatherland. The Prussians have invented a saying: "The Bavarians are the connecting link between human beings and the Tyrolese," the latter being Austrian peasant mountaineers, of reputed stupidity in Germany.

This clash between Bavaria and Prussia is now the most serious menace in the European situation. If it can be overcome, Germany and France stand a fair chance of getting together. If it isn't overcome, the chances favor Germany breaking up.

CANDLE AT WOMAN'S BIER CAUSE DEATH

The Body of the Deceased Was Cremated—House Is Destroyed.

CHICOUTIMI, October 17.— As a result of a fire which originated in a death chamber, Felix Trottier, a young man residing in Normandin, was burned to death yesterday morning and the body of Mrs. Onesime Lapointe, mother of the owner of the house, was cremated.

The tragedy happened at Laperriere a few miles from here and is believed to have occurred through one of the candles in the death chamber igniting the window curtains or falling on the floor and setting fire to some inflammable material in the room.

The flames spread rapidly. In a very short time the house was doomed. All the inmates made their escape with the exception of Trottier twenty-two years of age, who had come to attend the funeral.

He occupied the room directly above the one containing the remains of the dead woman. From all accounts he must have been asleep when the fire started, and was probably overcome by the fumes.

Despite efforts to awaken Trottier he never responded to the calls of his name, and as the dwelling quickly became a perfect cauldron, it was impossible to go in after him.

The fire raged pitilessly while members of the family and others, quickly attracted to the scene, wrung their hands in agony and impotence. Valiant but vain efforts were made by volunteer firemen to check the flames so as to enable attempts at rescue. Later the charred remains of both bodies were discovered in the debris.

120,000 REFRIGERATOR CARS USE FORTUNE IN ICE.

Los Angeles, October 17. — When the 120,000 refrigerated cars of produce now in process of being moved eastward from Southern California, will have reached their destination, their consumption of ice to keep their perishable contents fresh, will total 3,000,000,000 pounds, according to a semi-official survey.

For every car of fruit and vegetables that leaves this section, eight tons of ice are required for the initial icing. Between Los Angeles and Chicago another seven tons are used. If a car goes farther, to New York, or some other Atlantic seaboard point, four more tons must be added.

An unusual type of shipment being handled in completely iced cars is bees. In orders to move a carload of the honey-makers eastward it is necessary to lower the temperature of the car to offset the body heat generated by the millions of busy insects, and thus sustain life by bringing about what might be termed artificial hibernation.

MODEL TOWN IN MICHIGAN SOLD TO HENRY FORD

There Are 105 Cottages For Workmen, 2 Churches, All Modern Conveniences and Amusement Hall.

L'ANSE, Mich., Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—Pequaming, nine miles to the north of L'Anse, is Henry Ford's town. The highest rent there is $1 a month, electric light and water are furnished at cost, the doctor's bill is never more than $1.50 p month, and fuel famines are unknown.

The Detroit automobile manufacturer acquired possession of Pequaming recently from Charles Hebard and Sons, Inc., pioneer lumbermen of the Peninsula.

When the town was built in 1877 the owners set about to make it something different from other lumber towns. They wanted a community of comfortable homes and happy, contented workmen. They seemed to think more of the welfare of their employes than they did of the profits of their enterprise.

There are 105 cottages for the workmen, two churches—one Protestant and one Catholic—an amusement hall, a school, a clubhouse, a waterworks and electric lighting plant, a telephone system, a general store where all residents shop, and a public playground and park.

Each workman pays the same rent—$1 a month. He need never worry about coal, for he burns none. Instead he stuffs his big stove with hardwood from the company's forests, paying $1.75 for a large wagonload—barely the cost of cutting and delivering. A doctor administers to the ills of the community at a charge of $1.50 a month.

The beauty of Pequaming has won frequent comment from tourists. The streets are well shaded, the houses are of varying types, and there is a garden with every house. Purchase of the town gives Mr. Ford ownership of Pequaming's only industry, the sawmill property of the Hebard corporation. This includes a large saw mill, lath and shingle mills, and 40,000 acres of land containing 400,000,000 feet of standing timber.

The saw mill is the third purchased by Ford since his invasion of the Upper Peninsula two years ago. The first was at Iron Mountain, now fast becoming an industrial center of the upper Peninsula, and the second was at L'Anse.

The Pequaming purchase makes the Detroit manufacturer the largest single tax payer in Baraga. He will pay about three-fourths of the taxes of the entire county.

Mr. Ford has not announced what policy he will follow at Pequaming, or whether he will continue the Hebard program that has made Pequaming a model town.

Collie Dog a Life Convict

GLEN, CANINE "LIFE CONVICT," AND WARDEN PATCHELL.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Oct. 17.—Glen, a brown and white collie dog, is waiting for death to free him from his life sentence in the Provincial Penitentiary here.

For 10 long years, the cold grey walls flanking the prison confine have marked his playground.

Companionship of other dogs is unknown to him. Men in stripes—prisoners like himself—have been Glen's only friends.

Originally sentenced to death at a regular trial in a court of law, the world's sole canine convict escaped this punishment upon plea of one of the penitentiary guards. The sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Though doomed to a life of constant confinement inside the forbidding piles of stone which frown with sinister look upon the town, Glen has made the best of things.

In reconciled dog fortitude he has cached the little green runway with choice bones retrieved from the prison kitchen.

Even in his old age with sunken, almost toothless gums, they fear to escape while Glen maintains strict watch at night.

He will permit no convict to leave the prison after hours, unless the removal is effected in most formal manner ,with a guard marching on either side of the man. Once he even refused to let Warden Patchell remove a prisoner at night.

Nor did it make any difference to Glen that the Warden happened to be the guard who years before had saved him from execution.

Rank, nor friendship, meant nothing when duty called.

Glen's predicament was brought about because he listened to the voice of his dog's sense of justice.

When scarcely more than a pup, some small boys bombarded the garden in which he was kept with stones.

They did it constantly and so outraged him that one day he pursued them and nipped one of his tormentors.

The lad was not seriously hurt for Glen's teeth were then too small to do much harm.

But when the matter was taken to court he lost. And now nothing can get him from the penitentiary—not even the Warden, who, when he retired the other day, tried to take Glen with him.

The judge had said for life. Only death can revoke the sentence.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

MISTER DODGER FINDS SOMETHING

So off they all started.

The days got colder and colder in Squealy-Moo Land. Jack Frost and all his fairy helpers went through the corn-field, sweetening up the yellow pumpkins that grew there, and through grape arbors, coloring the grapes a rich purple and making them sweet, too—and through the apple orchards, putting spice into each winter apple, so it would taste extra fine.

And as for the woods—they got such a painting as never was before, with reds and russets and yellows and browns.

But Farmer Brown looked thoughtful.

Winter was coming and he was trying to decide which ones of the Squealy-Moo folk to sell and which ones to keep over the cold weather.

Now Mister Dodger knew what was going on in Farmer Brown's mind, and he was worried.

He said so to Nancy and Nick, and they talked it over and tried to think of something to do to help Farmer Brown out of his troubles, and the barnyard folk as well.

"Let's take a walk, and perhaps we can think better," suggested Mister Dodger, lighting his corn-silk pipe and putting on his corn-husk hat.

They walked through the corn-field and up the lane past the winter wheat field that Charlie and Bob, the big brown farm horses, had hoed to plow. Then they went through the pasture where the cows were, and pretty soon they came to the creek.

And who should be there but Missez Duck and Mister Drake and all their fat children taking a bath.

"My, my! But we were dirty!" called Missez Duck. "We got into some black dirt down there in the hollow and we looked like chimney sweeps."

"Black dirt!" exclaimed Mister Dodger. "Show us exactly where it is, please!"

"Follow that little path," said Missez Duck, pointing with her bill. "And you'll come to it."

Away went the three of them, and pretty soon they came to the place. It wasn't a pretty place and nothing much grew there except weeds.

Mister Dodger got down on his knees and picked up some things that looked like black stones. "It's coal!" he cried. "We must let Farmer Brown know at once. Then he can sell it and get enough money to buy food for the Squealy-Moo handers all winter."

Every word that Mister Dodger said came true. Farmer Brown kept every creature he had in ease and comfort for months to come.

FATHER IS GOING TO TRY NEW WAY

Will take a quart of milk a day and lettuce leaves.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 17.—Father is going to brush his teeth up and down as well as across.

He is going to take his quart of milk and his lettuce leaves and carrots daily, and he is going to do his "one-two-three" exercises before an open window whenever he finds his waistline getting beyond the 32-inch limit.

Mrs. Ettella L. Kelly, educational director of the Kansas City Tuberculosis Society, has inaugurated a plan whereby dad will have to perk up in looks and fitness if he is to keep pace with mother and junior.

The tired business man, by means of Mrs. Kelly's plan, gets a four-minute dose of health instruction weekly. It is fed him in such a sugar-coated pill that he doesn't realize what has happened until he begins, unconsciously, to quit slumping in the shoulders, to salt his tooth brushes and to think of getting a yearly examination of his arteries.

Short Doses

Mrs. Kelly has worked out a program whereby leading physicians and health authorities of the city appear weekly before the men's civic and professional clubs for four-minute health talks at the clubs' weekly luncheons.

This health instruction program continues for a year.

At one meeting the club member gets a tabloid lecture on dental hygiene and finds out how to avoid having store teeth by the time he is 50.

The next week, perhaps, he learns how much more beneficial it is to decrease his beefsteak bill and leave an increased order with the dairyman.

Later, he learns the necessity of the yearly medical examination and he gets first-hand information concerning methods of warding off old age. Dieticians reveal the surest and quickest routes to vitamines.

Child Welfare, Too

The talks aren's all concerned with dadIs own welfare. Indifferent fathers learn how difficult it is to take the baby through the first summer.

"Health and fitness have been considered too much from the 'women and children only' standpoint," says Mrs. Kelly. "We hear a great deal about women 'keeping themselves up.' A woman has less incentive to do this if her husband goes slumping around, sallow, grouchy and anaemic or pudgy and puffing, thinking those things don't matter because he is a man.

"Then, too, the improvement of public health should be a man's job as much as a woman's. It should not be a pink tea affair, confined to women's clubs and ladies' aids. And, most important of all, men, to be good fathers, should concern themselves with the physical needs of their children as much as with the cost of shoes and grocery bills."

FAMILY INVOLVED HOPELESS TANGLE

Infant's Grandmother is her Sister-in-Law.

Cologne, October 17, — The little village of Hohenberg, near here, is now more interested in domestic complications than it is in international ones. The town is absorbed in working out the complexities of two matrimonial adventures beside which the table of affinity appears ridiculously simple.

The puzzle started two years ago, when a 68-year-old widower wooed and married the village belle, a maid of 22, who thus became the stepmother of her husband's 40-year-old son. Emboldened by his father's example the son married the mother of his stepmother, by which his own father became his son-in-law.

Then the 22-year-old wife presented her husband with a daughter and the elder bride did the same thing, and so the first baby's grandmother is also her sister-in-law.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl, known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll, but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness, Miles did her in her childhood, Terry has made him her Dream Prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he does not recognize in her whom he knows as Juliet Divine, the little girl he befriended so long ago.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife is in love with

Paul di Salvano, a han dsome Italian fortune-hunter, who has deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, now travelling in Europe with her father.

Miss Caroline Sheridan, Miles' aunt, also writes to Betty about Terry's beauty and charm.

Betty has just learned of Paul's desertion, and she is opening a letter from Nazlo.

Betty goes to Europe, to find Paul and possibly retrieve her husband.

CHAPTER LXVIII.

The Incredible Happens

Captain Yale's telegram from Algiers to Miles at Boussada said: Mrs. Sheridan just arrived unexpectedly from New York. Has come on board and occupies her old cabin. Asked for your address, but having instructions from you not to give it to anyone, did not make exception even in her case."

The incredible thing had happened.

Aunt Caroline had been a true prophet. Betty had come —if the message told the truth.

Miles couldn't understand. He had laughed at his aunt, saying he'd believe in Betty's coming when he saw her on the yacht. But now he was forced to believe—unless the telegram was a forgery.

Even that seemed more likely than that Betty should be on board "Silverwood" at Algiers, for if she were there, it could mean only one thing that she had changed her mind and did not want the divorce.

As he gave himself this ultimatum, a physical pang stabbed Sheridan to the heart. Salvano and that girl on the terrace of the St. George —Had the man thrown Betty over for someone richer and younger, and did Betty mean to snatch her husband back?

It would be like her

The thought of his wife's hidebound selfishness shook Miles with a spasm of repulsion. She had always sacrificed everyone who came near, for herself. Even to satisfy some whim of an hour she would steal the life's happiness of a friend But she should'nt steal his he resolved fiercely.

It mattered before, how much he gave up for Betty's sake, since there was nothing he greatly cared for. But now there was Juliet. She was his, and he wouldn't give her up—to gratify that woman's jealous spite against her lover.

"If she won't divorce me, I'll divorce her " he said hotly. And then as before, came the still, small voice of the dead woman who had loved him as her own son: "Remember your promise."

* * *

The struggle in Sheridan's mind did not end when day came. It merely paused.

During the night he had dragged himself back a hundred times from the gulf of his promise to Mrs. Parmalee, and he had grasped at the hope that it wasn't Yale who had sent the telegram. There was just one thing of which he was certain: nothing would make him give up Juliet Divine.

He made sure very early as possible that his wire to Yale had gone, and that it should be delivered within two hours. Then there was no more to be done, except to decide that he would keep the news—the canard perhaps —of Betty's arrival to himself. No use worrying Juliet, nor letting her guess that he was worried.

Terry had had coffee and petits pains in her room, and was out on the balcony soon after eight, There Sheridan found the girl and made her realize that last night had been no dream. It was some words of hers which induced him to mention the telegram.

"I wish we needn't go back to Algiers for days and days " she said. "Must we? This place seems—just to belong to happiness—and us "

Then after a second's hesitation, Miles said: "That's the way I feel. But—there's always a 'but', worse luck —I got a wire last night—too late to tell you—and I may have to run back to Algiers on important business. I hope not. It will be beastly to leave you. But if I must go, I don't see that I need be kept more than a few hours, so it will be best for you to stay here and wait. What's the good of two long journeys for nothing That is—well, we do want more of Bousaada, don't we? If we both went to Algiers, something would prevent us from coming back, And anyhow, it wouldn't be the same a second time. If I must go, I want you waiting for me."

The roses of joy faded a little in Terry's cheeks. She couldn't bear to have him leave her. In the night she had waked from a dream, sobbing because it seemed that she had to say goodbye to Miles. She loved Bousaada.

"I'll count the hours while you're gone," she said.

"And I'll drive all night to come home to you quickly," Miles answered. "But I still hope I won't have to go."

* * *

They had dejeuner together at half past twelve and no reply had come to Sheridan's telegram. As there were no private sitting rooms in the hotel, they ate in the salle a manger, alone save for one discouraged looking French Commercial traveller who "did" the desert town, and four bachelor officers in the small garrison, for whom the hotel was a kind of club.

Life at Bousaada was not very lively, for it was bad form to interest themselves in the girls of the Ouled Nails; and from the table where the quartette sat they stared curiously at "la belle Americane," as they had stared at dinner last night. In fact, they stared even more, for one of their number, Captain Guilbert, had been in New York on a military mission in 1917, and he was sure he had seen the girl there, on the stage. It was in a revue.

Her part had not been important, but she was prettier than the others and of a better figure. Guilbert had asked questions of the man who took him, and had learned that the girl was well known. She was called by a droll nickname—a nom de guerre: "La Poupee des Million Dollars," or something like that. This Monsieur must be a millionaire to have enticed cette jolie poupee out of the shop window, to take this voyage. Some men, n'est pas, have all the luck

Terry was interested in French officers, and glanced over now and then with a little-girl look in her eyes at the smartly uniformed young men. "That," murmured Guilbert to his comrades, who envied him his travels and knowledge of English, "that is what in les Etats Unis they call the stare of the 'baby vamp.' If that fellow who gives himself such airs of her owner, should go sick or have an accident, we should see something "

While the four lingered over their dates and withered almonds, sipping bitter black coffee or smoking cheap cigarettes, a telegram was handed to l'Americaine on a tray. He bore the folded and gummed blue paper apart and read the message hastily. The French man saw his darkly tanned face grow red.

QUIZ CORNER

THE CANADIAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Q—What is the Canadian Chamber of Commerce?

A—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London was formed in June, 1921 "for the encouragement and promotion of Anglo-Canadian trade and commerce, the development of Canadian industries by British capital and generally the furtherance of Canadian interests in the United Kingdom."

WHEAT EXPORTS.

Q—What country leads in wheat exports?

A—Canada led the world in 1923 in wheat exports, viz: 40 per cent of the whole; United States 26 per cent, South America 34 per cent.

CANADA'S FOREST WEALTH.

Q.—What is Canada's present estimated forest wealth?

A.—Of the total area of forests in the British Empire, Canada holds over 50 per cent., In Canada more than 85 per cent. of the forest area is publicly owned. Canada gains from forest possession a revenue of $500,000,000, representing the production of all branches of their forest industries. More than 100,000 men are engaged in Canada converting forest products into wealth in some form or other. Nearly 400,000 other people depend on this "forest army" for their food and shelter. In the pulp and paper mills are 33,000 men drawing $40,000,000 a year in wages. The lumber industry pays 55,000 men $60,000,000 in wages annually.

CANADA'S COMPARATIVE

Q.—What are Canada's comparative latitudes?

A.—As to Canada's comparative latitudes, the most northerly portion of the mainland is in the same latitude as Northern Norway, and the most southerly is that of Northern Spain and Italy.

COPPING VS. MILLER CASE IS ADJOURNED

Trial of Local Interest Will be Held in Cobourg November 25th.

TORONTO, October 17. — The Master in Chambers at Osgoode Hall yesterday, adjourned the trial of the action brought by Mrs. Hattie Iona Copping against Norman S. Miller to obtain from him four thousand dollars, being the amount of a mortgage she placed on her home, and claims to have paid to Mr. Miller, from the Peterborough Assizes to the Cobourg Assizes, to be held in November.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., appeared for Mrs. Copping, and Mr. F. E. Brown appeared for Mr. Miller.

FIND SEPTEMBER MORN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—(Associated Press)—A life-size figure of a nude woman, carved in stone, has been found in the heart of an Oregon forest by surveyors of the Southern Pacific railroad, according to the company's officials. The work of art was found by a surveying crew about four miles west of Crater Lake, Oregon.

The figure is pitted and weather beaten and shows the mark of time and exposure. Art students declare that if carved by an artist, it would have required from four to five months of constant work.

The figure is an integral part of a huge rock, and the woman is sitting at the base of the rock with her head resting on her arms.

WOMEN SHOULD ACT QUICKLY

When a woman finds herself afflicted with backache, headaches, nervousness, dragging-down pains, pain in her side irregularities and irritability, dark circles appear under the eyes and her complexion gets sallow she may be sure the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to her sex. Such women should act quickly and take the great American remedy for such conditions, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and they may be saved years of suffering. For generations this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring ailing women to health, and it may be relied upon with perfect confidence.

SETS COURSE IN EMPLOYMENT.

NEW YORK, (United Press).—New York University has this year installed a new course on labor and employment. J. D. Hackett says that education of the employer is the only insurance against continued labor disturbances.

In a Big Way

The future of Northern Ontario and Quebec in a mining way is developing much more rapidly than many good people realize. Funds for the development of promising properties are becoming available in a big way and the natural reflection of this is that the market in mining shares is beginning to do business in a big way.

The development of a broad market in mining shares holds attractive possibilities for trading and investing in these issues. We offer complete facilities to all who are engaged in transactions of this kind.

MOTOR LEAGUE IMPORTANT ORGANIZATION IN EMPIRE

Membership Now Exceeds Combined Membership of Leagues of All Other Provinces — A Brief Review of Motor League's Activities and What It Is.

"What is the Motor League, and what has it ever done?" The enquiry would have been a rather surprising one, in view of the size, age, importance and influence and manifold activities of the Motor League, if it had been made at Pumpkin Corners, Ontario; it was an amazing one to be made by a motorist applying for a 1923 license at the League's headquarters in the Lumsden Building, Toronto. Few motorists in the province do not know, in a general way, what the Ontario Motor League is and what it has done, is doing, and plans to do. None but has benefited by reason of the League's activities, in more ways than one. But probably very few know that it is one of the largest, strongest, and most influential organizations of motorists in the world; that its membership exceeds the combined membership of the other provincial motor leagues—and every province has a motor league or association—or that it is the biggest association of motorists in the Empire, outside of England.

The Ontario Motor League is composed of affiliated automobile clubs having their headquarters in the leading cities and towns of the province, and of direct active members.

The League has been incorporated under the laws of the province, and its affairs are administered by a Board of Directors representing all parts of the province, elected at the Annual General Meeting.

The annual membership fee, with a year's subscription to the League's official publication, is fixed at five dollars.

The Badge

Each member is supplied with an ornamental badge for display on his car. This badge is invaluable in that it identifies the owner of the car carrying it, wherever he may go, as a member of the representative motorists' organization of the Province of Ontario.

Magazine

The League's monthly magazine, "Canadian Motorist," has a circulation thousands greater than the combined circulations of all other Canadian magazines pertaining to motoring. All articles carried by "Canadian Motorist" are of great interest to automobile owners, and readers are kept informed of important developments in the motor World.

Legal Advice

Free legal advice is one of the special inducements to membership which the League offers.

If a member meets with an accident and is sued for damages, or thinks of entering suit, he may consult the O. M. L. solicitor, who will carefully study all the features of his case and give an opinion as to the member's legal procedure, without charge.

If a member believes he has been summoned unjustly for a breach of the traffic regulations or that he has been overcharged by a garage, he is entitled to consult the O. M. L. solicitor, and if the case is one involving an important principle affecting the interest of motorists in general, it will be conducted by the League without expense to the member. Many such cases have been taken up by the League, with success in almost every instance.

Touring

The League will map out, free of charge to members, any intended motor trip, advising of roads, hotels, campsites, garages, and general touring conditions anywhere in Canada or the United States.

Standard road guides and maps may be purchased by members at special rates. The League gives material assistance to its members in passing their cars through the customs at the border.

Presentation of the O. M. L. membership card at the headquarters of any motor club in Canada or United States will assure to the members the courtesies of the club visited. Motorists who may not make a great deal of use of their club facilities at home find such services of the greatest value when on tours.

Good Roads

Foremost among the activities of the Ontario Motor League is its campaign for good roads. Educational work, carried on extensively by the League throughout the province led up to the appointment by the Government of the Highways' Commission, and the subsequent adoption of a definite plan of highway improvement under the direction of a Minister of Highways, with government grants for road maintenance, as well as construction.

The League advocated and secured the passage of a bill through the Legislature in May, 1922, providing for the setting aside of $2,000,000 a year for twenty years from motor vehicle license fees to provide through a bond issue the sum of $25,000,000 to complete the building of the 1,800 miles of Provincial Highways within three years. The alternative of this plan was a substantial increase in motor license fees.

Road Signs

Motorists everywhere in Ontario are familiar with the arrow form direction and danger signs erected by the League. Thousands of these black and yellow signs serve today as guides to touring motorists. In addition many special signs have been erected by the League at important points on many highways.

The Ontario Motor League is the only organization erecting signs throughout the province and deserves the support of every motorist in this indispensable work.

gns which have been put up by the League must be maintained and thousands of new signs will have to be erected before the roads of the province may be regarded as adequately signboarded. This work is carried on steadily throughout the year by the League with the co-operation of its affiliated clubs, which by reason of their special knowledge of local road conditions are able to place the signs to best advantage.

Legislation

Automobile License Exchange between Ontario and most of the States in the American Union, whereby international touring has been greatly facilitated, was the direct result of the persistent campaign carried on for years by the Ontario Motor League.

This work of the League is saving you the dollars you would otherwise pay to secure an automobile license for the State in which you desired to travel.

The 30-day touring permit now given by the U. S. Customs is also due to the efforts of the League.

The League, through representation to the Dominion Government, was instrumental in obtaining the provision of severe penalties (a minimum of one year's imprisonment) in cases of automobile stealing.

The shelving of the proposal to place a provincial Travel Tax on gasoline is a recent example of the League's influence in safeguarding legislation. You may figure for yourself the amount that is being saved by you as a result of the League's efforts toward having this tax shelved.

A few years back, every city, town and village wanted a different speed limit, some six miles per hour, some eight miles perh our, and so on. This would have resulted in many motorists, strangers to, and therefore unfamiliar with the speed limits of the municipalities through which they were travelling, being fined for speeding. To correct this condition the Ontario Motor League requested the Government to pass a law that would make the speed limit standard in every city, town and village of the province. The League was successful in having this law passed and in every municipality of the province the speed limit is standardized at 20 miles per hour with a limit of 25 miles in the country.

The League is constantly on guard to protect the rights of motorists by securing the enactment of reasonable legislation governing the operation of motor vehicles and defeating schemes brought forward from time to time which are prejudicial to the interests of automobile owners.

General Activities

Service to its members is afforded by the League in numerous ways in addition to those described in the foregoing. A Chauffeurs' Employment Department is maintained to provide members with capable and reliable drivers. A Motor Truck Section has been established to foster the development of road transport and protect the interests of owners and users of commercial vehicles. Complaints of reckless driving are investigated and letters written to the owners of cars concerned. Assistance is given members in recovering stolen cars. Members are encouraged to seek advice and information from the League on any subject relating to the use of motor vehicles.

Among the important reforms which the League is now advocating are, the carrying of lights at night by all classes of vehicles, the abolition of the fee system of paying constables and magistrates in automobile cases, the regulation of pedestrian traffic in cities and improvement of hotel accommodation.

Book Reviews

When the late Mr. Pickwick of revered memory went to spend a night at the Peacock Inn, the hostel where he came in contact, it will be recollected, with the loquacious chair, he encountered in the "commercial room" of the establishment, a gentleman of bland voice and placid countenance, who always made it a point to agree with everybody. An argument was progressing:

"Show me the man who says anything against women, as women, and I boldly declare he is not a man," said Mr. Snodgrass took his cigar from his mouth, and struck the table violently with his clenched fist.

"That's good argument," said the placid man.

"Containing a position which I deny," interrupted he of the dirty countenance.

"And there's certainly a very great deal of truth in what you observe, too, sir," said the placid gentleman.

When Gordon Hill Grahame wrote "The Bond Triumphant," and captured a $2,500 prize for the best Canadian novel, popular enthusiasm ran high. When the first instalments of the novel appeared in serial form in MacLean's Magazine, a strong protest went up from the Catholic-reading public, who protested at the "insult to every Catholic" offered by the work. The publishers of MacLean's immediately destroyed 40,000 copies of their magazine, containing further offending instalments, and ordered the later serial chapters suppressed altogether. Then Mr. Grahame came forward with an explanation in which he declared that no insult had been intended to the Catholic faith, and that, on the contrary, he entertained very strong feelings of liking and respect for that church, chiefly on account of the friendship of his family for one of the Catholic bishops of the United States.

All of which resulted in a mass of public speculation with regard to the volume, and in an imprint in the book itself of three editions already issued, two in August of this year and one in September, which probably would justify the general public in agreeing with the gentleman who edits "Wise and Otherwise," in a skit which declared that "anybody can write a naughty book, but it isn't everybody that has the good fortune to have it denounced by the uplifters."

The book itself is entertaining. It has two strong currents: one the love theme, the other Jesuitism. They are conflicting currents, something like oil and wine, and they don't mix sufficiently well to afford a really smooth beverage. The reader who likes romance will probably wish that the love tale might have been permitted to flow on more smoothly without the constant incursion of scathing reference to the unfortunate priests who happened to get in the way of love's young dream, and, on the other hand, the sentiments of Bishop Laval himself, if it were possible to enquire of that ascetic-visaged cleric, whose pictured countenance in histories seems to bear the imprint of that zealous fire that led the steps of those first missionaries away from princely homes in Old France to the savage depths of Canadian forests, might be interesting. One can imagine that the inclusion of himself as one of the principal characters in the luscious romance of the love-sick Etienne St. Denis, seigneur of Crevecoeur, and the yielding Jacqueline de Montmorenci, golden-haired and blue-eyed, might be a reward for his labors that would be far and away beyond the fondest hopes of the stern Bishop.

Mr. Grahame has done something in this book that few authors do, and he deserves a great deal of credit for it. He has consistently managed to "hew to the line." It is "The Bond Triumphant" that he writes of, and, for the sake of enlarging upon his theme, he does many things. It is a love story, and the hero might be regarded as one of those old cavaliers who said with rapturous and "gooey" ecstasy, "I live for love, I fight for love, for love, for love, I die." Etienne was the seigneur of Crevecoeur, of the Broken Heart, and his heart was the main thing about him. When the lovely Jacqueline (one should say 'dainty' rather, because 'dainty' is the favorite adjective applied to the young lady by all her admirers) smiled on him, he fell madly in love, and the volume throughout is a chronicle of his love-stricken adventures. Looking at it in this light one can readily see that the young man would doubtless regard with strong disfavor anyone or anything that came between him and his heart's desire. Cursed as he was with the lineage of the broken heart, no one could expect him to act rationally at such a period.

There are numerous little episodes that cause one to view the Seigneur with some criticism. As a really vital lover, one would have liked him to have displayed more energy when the fair Jacqueline languished in the home of her shrewish protector dame in Quebec, while her sad-eyed lover strove to "attend to his farms" throughout a long year in order to soothe his lacerated feelings. There might; too, be a desire in the mind of a casual reader to have the lovers, as they had tarried so long apart, wait just a little while longer, or make a little more effort to hunt up the amiable father Jolicoeur to perform the marriage ceremony. However, with the highly emotional feeling that is so much lauded on paper, but doesn't seem to be quite so well regarded in small communities, the young people lived together, "unchurched," and would have been quite happy had it not been for the mean conduct of their neighbors, who persisted in making them feel uncomfortable. What could be more romantic than the words of the chivalrous Seigneur, when he addressed Jacqueline in a real Dora Thornish manner.

"My loved one," crooned Etienne tenderly, his cheek against hers. "It is no sin to live as we are living. God is just, and, in His sight, we are innocent of sin. Some day, God willing, we will have our union blessed."

However, the union is not always a "free love" affair. Just in the nick of time, the ceremony is performed, and all ends happily, with the formidable Laval, the heroine's uncle, flushing with pride at the thought that the child of the Broken Hearts will some day look like him. That, of course, is a long step from the time when he forbade the union, and the young man regarded him as a tyrannical bigot. Just as soon as Etienne had his Jacqueline safe, then, and then only, the author commences to 'lay off' the harassed Bishop. Before that, he was "anathema maranatha" and there was no good in him. When he attempted by stern measures to put down the liquor traffic with the Indians, he was a monster of tyranny, and there is a suggestion of the small boy attitude toward a disliked person in the author's reference to his supposedly filthy abode, his reported habit of eating wormy meat, and the many fleas that occupied his bed.

But Mr. Grahame wasn't a bit nice to Etienne's real friend, the fat Pere Jolicoeur. There might have been some justification for villifying Laval. He did act scandalously in coming between the hero and his lady love, and refusing to give his consent to their marriage, but as for Father Jolicoeur, what had he done to deserve the strong language that branded him as a glutton and a vendor of "coarse witticisms?" When we first meet him, he is "licking his lips and panting like a big, fat spaniel", for "the Jesuit's belly craved refreshment," and he is pictured as constantly sweating profusely. In fact, Canadian weather at that time (1661) must have been warmer than now, or things were made warmer for the clergy in those days, because all the priests mentioned are described as wiping the perspiration from their foreheads with praiseworthy persistency.

However, although he had a "fat paunch," he had evidently something more than the "pretty heart" his name implies, and he stood by Etienne with great patience. As a carrier to and fro of a certain handkerchief that concealed within its romantic hem passionate messages from the Romeo to his Juliet, he was indefatigable. However, the time evidently came when he had to be about his business of Christianizing the Indians.

The hero comes upon him during a little orgy of the redskins when they have the fat priest staked out in the snow, slowly freezing to death, after torturing him in such a manner that his back is covered with open sores. Etienne, still with his romance strong upon him, contrives to escape with the priest from the Indians but his companion is carried away down the stream and the tearful hero is left to wend his way alone through a forest, trailed by a party of wolves who have in mind his adaptability as a dinner tidbit.

Now this is where Etienne falls down altogether, and we can't like him any more. Instead of being sorry for his old friend he is only sorry for himself and his lady waiting at Heartbreak House for the priest who will marry them before matters come to a more scandalous pass. With tears in his eyes, he stumbles on, bemoaning his fate, while the fat priest manages to scramble from the icy water unaided and beats him to the house with the aid of a passing team, to wait for the hero on his belated arrival; downhearted and sad.

This, of course, is where Mr. Grahame's partisanship comes in. And he is a very strong partisan. The only reason for treating the good Jolicoeur in such a manner was the fact that he was a Jesuit, a "blackrobe," as the Indians among whom these priests worked and lived and died, called them. And the Jesuits get a good deal of attention in Mr. Grahame's book. The hateful Father Chauvain is a Jesuit, he who holds scandal-mongering meetings in the church itself, who engages in a little private bootlegging on the side, and who finally is defrocked by Bishop Laval. Then Jolicoeur is a Jesuit and various characters in the book express surprise at his general amiability, considering his unfortunate training in Jesuitical principles. Laval is also a Jesuit, according to the author. According to history, he was not a Jesuit, but merely a secular priest raised to the episcopate of Canada at the time. He received much of his training at the hands of the Jesuits, but never joined the Order of Loyola. Mr. Grahame also oversteps matters a little when he refers to the Quebec cathedral when there was yet no cathedral in the infant settlement; of the teeming population of the city at a time when Quebec had only 500 inhabitants and all Canada some 2,000; and of the Recollets, who were not in Canada in 1661, having been recalled to France sometime about 1630, and returning only in 1678. Also, in Catholic circles, certain things recorded are "not done," such as speaking of lay sisters as "nuns" and "brides of Christ" and addressing a bishop as "Father."

However, Mr. Grahame appears to suffer from a peculiar fashion which contrives to present all his characters in their worst light. Etienne does not seem to be a virile hero, by any manner of means. On the contrary, he is a somewhat spineless specimen of manhood, constantly bewailing his bad luck and blaming the Jesuits for everything that happens to him. Jacqueline is a rather vapid blonde, whose conversation consists of passionate utterances to her lover. Even while engaged in the commendable work of administering to the small-pox-stricken patients in the hospital, she is flirting with the handsome seigneur. And Hortense is a wanton, who goes from bad to worse with easy rapidity.

For all the rough handling that he endures at the hands of his romantic chronicler, it loosk very much as if, after all, Bishop Laval is the strong man of the book. He lives in poverty, giving all his substance to the masses, "who adore him," he strives against an easy-going governor to put down the traffic with liquor among the Indians, and when he departs to France, the inhabitants fall into lax ways that bring to them the scourge of God in an earthquake. He treats with a firm hand the assistant who plays false to him, in fact, he seems to have a pretty hard time of it throughout, what with the Indians torturing his priests and his niece bent on running off with the man who fulfills all the Bishop's bad opinion of him by living with the young lady, unmarried, as soon as her guardian departs for France.

Without the copious injection of diatribe against the "scheming Jesuits," and with the addition of a little more 'gimp' and a little less self-pity in the character of the hero, this would be a pretty and appealing romance, atmosphered by the spell of olden days, in the time when Canada was young.

Without the romantic element, it could hardly be taken for anything less than a somewhat biased descriptive narrative of the lesser activities of men who, with all their human faults, yet remain unforgettably etched on the life of a young nation, men who in the annals of their much-discussed Society of Jesus include the names of the martyr priests of a new and savage world; Daniel, Brebeuf, Lalement, Garnier, Gaireaux, Buteaux, Chabanet, Jogues, of whom it was said that "the gloomy Canadian forests of the seventeenth century echoed with the prayers of wandering priests and often blazed with the martyr fires of their execution by the merciless Iroquois or the vacillating Huron." Francis Parkman, writing of the "Jesuits in North America," speaking of them at a time when things were at a stern pass, says: "A deep dejection sank on the white and red man alike; but the Jesuits would not despair. "Do not imagine," writes the Father Superior, "that the rage of the Iroquois and the loss of many Christians and many catechumens can bring to naught the message of the cross of Jesus Christ and the efficacy of His blood. We shall die; we shall be captured, bound, butchered; be it so. Those who die in their beds do not always die the best death. I see none of our company cast down. On the contrary, they ask leave to go up to the Hurons, and some of them protest that the fires of the Iroquois are one of their motives for the journey."

Anyone can see quite plainly, then, that a gentleman like Bishop Laval, bent on the somewhat sombre mission of turning the early redskins from various unlikeable ways, might not harmonize very readily with the romantic nature of a real appealing love story. The training that brought the Jesuits to a new land probably forebore to include in their education a proper appreciation of the nuances of high romance, so that the lovelorn seigneur was up against a pretty hard proposition when he fell a victim to the beauty of the Bishop's niece. However, we leave Laval at a tender moment, fondling the small finger of the baby Crevecoeur, a finale that is much more satisfactory than his introduction, with 'bulbous' nose twitching with fury.

In his intriguing romance, which moves on with a pleasant tempo, logically and swiftly, without too much tiresome moralizing or descriptive platitudes, Mr. Grahame uses some new words that are a distinct relief from the usual run of adjectives, and are calculated to enrich the circumscribed vocabulary of the casual reader. In his thirteen-chaptered novel, there are stars shining "corusantly," "deciduous" trees, a "tenebrous" sky, the droning "fritinancy" of the cicada, wet clothes that cling "amorphously" to their owner, and something or other that "crepitates," whatever that may be.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but is beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

RUHR OCCUPATION WORKING HARDSHIP TO SWEDISH MINES

France's Action and the Resultant Collapse of the Swedish Iron Ore Trade With Germany Is Disastrous.

KIRUNA, North of Arctic Circle, Sweden, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—France's occupation of the Ruhr, and the resultant collapse of the Swedish iron ore trade with Germany, have brought hardship to Sweden's great northern ironfields and aroused enmity to France in the large Arctic areas of north Sweden and Norway which depend upon the pay-rolls of the iron districts for their existence.

In 1922 the Kiruna field used to send three shiploads of ore daily to the Norwegian port of Narvig. At the present time there is scarcely a shipload a week. Germany formerly took the greater part of this ore. She has the furnaces to handle it, but her purchases have ceased since the flurry in the Ruhr.

England and France have no furnaces suitable to the reduction of the Swedish ore. The Bethlehem Steel Company has furnaces which are capable of using this ore, and some of it goes to America. Sweden exported nearly 3,500,000 metric tons of iron ore in 1922, and over 80 percent of this went to Germany. As early as 1913 Germany bought over 3,000,000 tons of Swedish iron ore for the Ruhr furnaces.

The railway which runs from Lulea on the Gulf of Bothnia, to Harvig, north of the Arctic Circle in Norway, lives on the ore traffic. It hauls export ore from Kiruna to Narvig, and from Gellivare and other mines further south to Lulea. But the latter port freezes, and in midwinter the export ore reaches tidewater entirely through the Norwegian port, Narvik.

Ore and wood products are practically the only freight which this great section of Lapland affords its single railway, which is entirely electrified and is the most northern electric railway in the world. Cities of 10,000 people have sprung up here in the heart of Lapland at Kiruna and Gellivare, where mountains of iron ore are being demolished by gigantic electric shovels and rushed to tidewater in steel dumpcars. These load directly into steamers at Lulea and Harvig, after the manner that the Mesaba Range pours its ore into steamers at Superior, Wisconsin, for the use of furnaces in Indiana or Pennsylvania.

The crews at these great ore centers now have only three or four days of work a week, and are feeling the pinch which threatens to become worse unless France and Germany reach some agreement on the Ruhr situation.

Great Britain has about 1,000,000 tons of iron ore stored at Narvig. In addition there are about 1,000,000 tons more which belong to various commercial organizations. This accumulated before the armistice. Great Britain bought her part to keep it from going to Germany, but the British furnaces cannot use it, and apparently it has been impossible to find markets elsewhere.

Spain and Morocco yield an abundance of ore which is adapted to British and French furnaces as they are now equipped. If German furnaces do not speedily come into the market again for the Swedish ores, and if Great Britain does not alter its steel industry to handle Swedish ore, the outlook for the Swedish iron mines is far from promising.

Sweden, furthermore, is facing competition from Chile. Strangely enough, Swedish builders are constructing some gigantic ore ships for the Bethlehem Steel Co. which are to be used in carrying Chilean ore to the United States. These vessels have several times the capacity of the average ore ship which has been operating from Narvig and Lulea, and can handle the product more cheaply.

RUBENSTEIN'S RECORD

The mind of the virtuoso is not unlike that of the safe-deposit vault of the modern bank. It usually goes on acquiring deposits until great treasures are acquired. A little look into the repertoire of Rubinstein gives an idea of what is thus accumulated.

When Rubinstein was at the head of the Petrograd Conservatory he played from memory for the students every Wednesday and Saturday night, from 1883 to 1888. During that time he rendered astonishing programs, including 1,302 pieces from 72 composers. He played 10 pieces from the old English composers, Bird, John Bull, Gibbons, Purcell and Arne; 43 pieces from the old French composers, Dumont, Louis and Thomas Couperin, Rameau and Lully; 56 from the old Italians, among them Frescobaldi, both the Scarlatti, Durante, Porpora Sacchini, Sarti, Galuppi, Martini and Clementi; 1,193 from German composers, among whom were represented J. S. Bach, in 180 numbers; Handel, 112; Mozart, 16; Schubert, 37; Weber, 11; Moscheles, 21; Mendelssohn, 60; Schumann, 155, and Beethoven, with all his sonatas for the piano alone, his variations and bagatelles. Further, Rubinstein played 18 pieces from Feld, 158 from Chopin and 63 from Liszt; also from all his contemporaries in Germany, France and Russia, and from a few older, well-known German composers like Frohberger, Muffat, Tomaschek and Lachner. He won high praise from all this and retained his place as Director of the Institute. He declined a tour of fifty concerts, for which an American manager offered him half a million francs.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

Nothing gives more real pain to the square inch than a severe burn from any source or a scald from hot water, steam or any boiling liquid.

In severe cases of burns, the physician should be called at once. The pain may not be as great, but the nerves are sometimes burned out or destroyed and treatment must be immediate to save life. The injury of the tissues is practically the same in both burns and scalds. In most cases the burning from hot liquids is not as deep as from the dry burn, although it may be just as painful.

In the surface or superficial burns, the skin is reddened, inflamed or blistered. In the more severe or deeper burns the skin is a sort of pale yellowish-white and in some cases almost black.

In the first treatment of an ordinary or rather severe burn the lessening or neutralizing of the shock is of the most importance. Many persons imagine that they have been injured much more severely than is usually the case.

A hot bath is good for this condition. A temperature of 100 degrees Fahrenheit being about right. If a bath is not possible or practical hot blankets or hot water bottles may afford the desired relief. Administer some mild stimulant or warm drink and try and induce quietness and normal heart action.

Be careful that no clothing touches the burn. Cover the parts burned with sof linen, using boric acid ointment or soft bandages saturated with boric acid lotion or picric acid. Lastly wrap in paraffine paper or raw cotton to exclude the air.

If the burn is a slight one and no blisters have formed, dust with flour or baking soda and wrap loosely to exclude all air. If blisters have formed pierce at the edge with a sterilized needle, holding it a moment in a flame for the purpose.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

GLUE ON FURNITURE.

Vinegar will remove the bits of old glue that sometimes adhere to furniture.

PAINTING WICKER.

When painting wicker furniture, remember that it is much easier if you use a thin paint.

SCRATCHES ON FURNITURE.

Scratches on mahogany may be retouched with a little permanganate of potash.

WINDOW SHADES.

A white window shade of good quality may be cleansed by applying a very thick soapsuds with a sponge. Use white soap and warm water to make the suds. The sponge should be wrung almost dry so as not to watersoak the shade. Best results will be obtained by spreading the curtain on a flat surface.

CARVED BUTTONS.

Buttons of carved wood or ivory are used as trimming on some of the smart new frocks.

LACE BRAIDS.

Lace braids are used effectively this season, particularly on dark gowns.

EMBROIDERED GLOVES

Gauntlet gloves are quite apt to have embroidery of a contrasting color on the inside of the cuff which turns back to reveal it.

ONE COLORFUL RING.

There is a fad now to wear but one ring, but this must be a huge cabochon sapphire or other colorful stone.

COLORS ON LINGERIE.

Much colored embroidery is featured on the new lingerie of white crepe de chine. And colored bindings and inserts are also noticed.

ORNAMENTED TURBANS.

Jade ornaments as well as large scarabs are used to ornament the new winter turbans, which keep very close to the outline of the head.

FUR BELTS.

Fur bands are a most popular style of belt this season. They are seen on straight-line evening frocks that avoid any other type of adornment.

A NEW OCCUPATION

BERLIN (By mail to the United Press).—Charwomen are no longer to be had in Berlin. The scarcity of butter has given them a new occupation. Instead of scrubbing floors, they sell their services at so much per hour to wait in the butter-queues. Since it takes anywhere from three to six hours to get a half-pound of butter, the charwomen make a good day's wage, if they have two households for which to work.

QUEEN MARY DANCED WITH HER SERVANTS

At Annual Ball Given Their Majesty's by the Employees at Balmoral

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Oct. 17. — Queen Mary danced with six of her servants recently at the annual ball given by their majesties to the employees of the Royal Estate at Balmoral. The programme, arranged by the Queen, did not contain a single fox-trot or one-step, and only two waltzes. The dances were Highland reels, eightsome reels, the reel of Tulloch, the flirtation polka the Spanish gavotte and other dances of pre-jazz era.

For the opening reel the Queen's partner was Arthur Grant the veteran head-keeper at Balmoral. Her later partners were gillies on the royal estates.

The King and Prince Henry were there, but they did not dance. The Princess Royal, Princess Maud, Princess Alice and other royal ladies in the queens party followed the example of her majesty.

FIELD DAY AT GROVE SCHOOL

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 17.—The annual field day at "The Grove" was the outstanding event of Saturday afternoon, and was attended by a number of visitors, parents and friends of the boys. The sports field, with its ideal situation, was never more attractive than on Saturday and the programme was run off in a way which kept the interest up from the beginning to the end. There was no lack of "pep" in the boys and each event was well contested. An outstanding event was the pole-vaulting in which Rainnie distinguished himself and won well merited applause.

His record of 8 feet ½ inch was probably at least as good as any previous record if not better.

The most amusing race was probably the sack race and roars of laughter greeted the efforts of the boys to maintain a good amount of speed. No one enjoyed the race more than the contestants. The crab race was very funny, the small boy becoming so enamored that he kept going after the race was over. Messrs. T. B. Marling and A. O. Lampman were in charge of the programme.

Donald Fitzgerald has added yet another trophy to his collection by winning the Howden Cup for the Senior Championship of Peterboro. Mr. Fitzgerald is a well know athlete and is well known, not only in this district but also in Toronto, where he was prominent in sports especially in water-polo, playing for four years with Varsity in their games against McGill.
